SILENT PIANO

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's science and technology board reports a nursery school superintendent has invented a silent piano. Mrs. Toyo Wada developed one that uses tuning forks instead of wires and the player has to listen through earphones.

Nikita's Visit Having Great Effect on Russian People

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The danger in Khrushchev's visit to the United States—already from any fear that he may be in personal danger during his jaunt—is its effect on the Russian people.

Reports from Moscow indicate that hopes are higher there than in most other places that the premier's trip and Eisenhower's return visit will lead to greater peace and friendship.

Even the most pessimistic appraisers in the West feel that Khrushchev will have to do something to keep those hopes alive.

The best way he could do this would be to begin reducing the amount of money and effort that goes into the staggering Soviet defence budget. It has been estimated that as much as 40 per cent of the national production is for arms and military equipment.

PRODUCTION RACE

Khrushchev boasts that Russia will overtake the United States in the production of many industrial and consumer items. Many doubt this can be done. Few think it possible where so much energy is used to build military strength.

But here is this question: If world tensions are relaxed by a cut in arms output, if Russians can get more of the good life, how well will communism survive the change?

Khrushchev says he wants to show the world—and by that he probably means mainly Asia, Africa and Latin America, to which the balance of world power is shifting—that communism can provide a more abundant and pleasant life than capitalism.

Ever since the Bolshevik revolution, the Russian masses have lived regimented lives in frequently inadequate houses, with drab clothing, and always enough food and the fear of an encounter with the secret police if they questioned the wisdom of their political system.

These conditions have changed vastly in recent years and observers in Russia say the regime now is faced with increasing demands for more change, more freedom, more of the things that make life easier.

Khrushchev has promised some of these things. Unless a new round of repression is in store, he will be under strong pressure to produce.

The trouble is that a slackening in the arms race would seem to hinge on a solution to the German and Berlin issues, in particular. Neither side has given any sign of being at all willing to change its attitude on either.

45 SCOTS TRAPPED IN COAL MINE FIRE

HOW THE SIGNS BROKE OUT — These were among the signs displayed along New York's 42nd Street yesterday near the Commodore hotel where Soviet Premier Khrushchev was having lunch. (AP Wirephoto).

'I'm an Old Sparrow, You Can't Muddle Me' Says Mr. K., Rebuking Financiers for Groans

NEW YORK (CP) — Nikita Khrushchev, a cocky old sparrow if ever there was one, set out to make a long-heralded speech before the United Nations General Assembly this afternoon.

In his historic UN appearance the Soviet premier is expected to disclose new disarmament proposals, but he probably won't raise such a ruckus as he did Thursday night in tangling with New York businessmen.

"Gentlemen, I'm an old sparrow, so to say, and you can't muddle me," he told an audience of some 2,000 at a dinner in his honor given by the Economic Club of New York.

The 65-year-old visiting Communist — whose pithy humor during a question-and-answer period in which his listeners reacted with loud groans and mocking laughter to the way he replied to a query about censorship.

DISPLAY OF TEMPER

"You might not listen to me if you don't want to, but surely you must show enough hospitality not to interrupt," said Khrushchev, his temper rising. "If there is no desire to listen to what I have to say, I will go.

The audience settled down and Khrushchev — whose pithy humor is almost as famed as his temper — replied to a question referring to the conclusion of his remarks to seek a job as a capitalist. It will be considered the system was superior to communism.

Earlier he had offered his listeners a map of them from the Wall Street financial district he has so often derided—jobs "building, socialism" if they wanted to go to Moscow.

Perhaps the biggest item on Khrushchev's agenda today was his visit to the UN, awaited with renewed interest because he said in Washington Thursday he would be back shortly for at least a week.

Police Given Fresh Lead in Hunt for Men

CHESTERVILLE, Ont. (CP)— An overnight housebreaking near this Eastern Ontario village gave police a fresh lead today in their prolonged search for two armed kidnapping suspects.

Police said a quantity of food was taken during the night from a farmhouse a few miles from Chesterville, 40 miles southeast of Ottawa.

While provincial police sought one clue to tie the breaks to the kidnap suspects, uniformed searchers who had been combing a six-by-10 mile block of farmland northwest of here converged on the area.

They are continuing a search that began Sept. 6 at Niagara-on-the-Lake when two armed men abducted Mr. and Mrs. George Boonzy, drove them 300 miles to Trenton and then released them. Since then police and other persons have been held as hostages or kidnapped on a trail that wound up between here and Casselman, about 18 miles northeast.

Provincial police, who are operating in 12-hour, 70 - man shifts say they are seeking Frank Madison, 17, and Wilbert Durning, 32, in connection with the offences.

The searchers planned to continue their sweep of farmland today. The animal privately owned by Ottawa RCMP member, joined the search Thursday. For a time the police led police on what they hoped was a hot trail but it petered out.

Through the night the police continued to search farms and woodlands and man roadblocks in the open and level country which contains a number of abandoned farms.

Early Thursday, two men tried to steal a truck from the farm of Percy Erlingson, 30, near St. Albert, about 15 miles northeast of here.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Tropical-extensive high-pressure area which has dominated the weather picture over Central Canada and the northern states, continues to drift slowly eastward and is weakening. Milder air has moved into Northern Ontario and is now spreading over Southern Ontario. Considerable cloudiness helped keep the temperature up during the night. All danger of frost has passed for the time being and the weather is now in the seasonable temperatures and generally fair weather.

Anthony Eden Suffering From Severe Fever

PEWSEY, England (AP)—Sir Anthony Eden's secretary said today he is suffering from a "severe attack" of fever.

A similar attack in 1957 preceded an operation on the former prime minister to correct a bile duct condition.

Last April 12 Eden, 62, was ill with what a doctor described as "severe fever." That was his second attack in a month.

Auto Theft Ring Is Uncovered

OTTAWA (CP)—An auto theft ring operating on a large scale from headquarters in nearby Ashton, Ont., has been smashed, Ottawa police reported Thursday. A man is being held for questioning and warrants for the arrest of several others have been issued, police said.

Ottawa and Metarel city police, Ontario and Quebec provincial police co-operated in the investigation.

First hint of the existence of the ring came last Friday when city constable Robert Woods stopped a truck here because it seemed to be travelling indicating overloading.

A nearby dismantled late-model car was in the truck. The driver was detained. Ownership of the car was traced to Ashton, where police found a car dismantling operation in a garage.

Enough Hunters to Keep Maverick Buffalo Band on Hop for Month

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — There are enough would-be big game hunters with bulging wallets to keep a maverick band of buffalo in the Northwest Territories dodging bullets for at least a month.

That's the word from a Banff outfitter who has signed up 15 sportsmen, mostly Americans, for Buffalo hunts in the bush and muskeg near Great Slave Lake, 350 miles north of Edmonton.

The hunters would be among But-falo to go around. The hunters' quarry is about 2,000 animals which have overflowed from Wood Buffalo Park, a 17,000-square - mile game sanctuary straddling the Alberta-Northwest Territories border.

For the first time since 1893 federal authorities are allowing hunters to shoot the animals. Except for organized kills by park rangers, Buffalo hunting has been banned to prevent the animal from becoming extinct.

Guide Bud Brewster says his father, outfitter Claude Brewster, headed into the wilds recently with five hunters. The season opened Sept. 15 and closes Nov. 30.

Another 15 have purchased licences and fee for Canadians, $200 for Americans — and agreed to pay the outfitter $100 a day for guide and transport fees.

When Canadian authorities banned Buffalo hunting it was almost too late, for only a few of the animals remained of herds that had once blackened the prairies. Commercial hunters had slaughtered indiscriminately for hides and the choice cuts of meat, leaving carcasses to rot and bones to bleach.

Now the herd in Wood Buffalo Park has grown to nearly 15,000. The buffalo that spilled out of the park have reverted to a wild state. Some of the animals weigh 3,000 pounds.

Last Vanguard Rocket Lifts Satellite in Orbit 40 Years

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)— A Vanguard rocket rammed a 100 - pound satellite into orbit around the earth early today.

The satellite, shaped like an ice cream cone, was the last in the American Vanguard series. Only two of the previous 10 Vanguards had succeeded in putting satellites into orbit.

United States space officials said Vanguard III, now orbiting as far out as 2,300 miles and as close to the earth as 335 miles, will continue to whirl through space for an estimated 20 to 40 years. They said its radio equipment should operate for about three months.

Its main purpose is to measure the earth's magnetic field and locate pockets of dangerous radiation. The findings could help in planning the safest path for future spacemen to follow.

The Vanguard rocket quickly lost itself among the stars after it was fired at 1:30 a.m. EST. Then a successful orbit was announced 2 hours and 30 minutes later by National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials in Washington.

The satellite, of magnesium and fibreglass, consists of a 20-inch sphere with six antennae extending from it. The tube is tapered from six to 15 inches in diameter.

The [illegible] followed two straight American space flops. Just 14 hours earlier a Thor-Able rocket had failed to put a weather and frogs on a space flight exploded 1,000 feet above its launching pad.

The flops came while Premier Khrushchev was visiting the U.S., basking in the limelight of Soviet's successful Russian moon strike.

Today's satellite included the 50-pound payload and the 50-pound third-stage rocket, which remained attached.

Right Wing Asks Army to Fight Algerian Plan

ALGIERS (AP) — Right-wing French settlers today made a bid for army support to block Gen. de Gaulle's plan to put Algeria's future up to a vote that could bring independence from France.

But the appeal fell far short of rousing the enthusiasm of last year's May 13 revolt which brought down the Fourth French Republic and paved the way for de Gaulle's return to power.

De Gaulle as president of France has offered Algeria [illegible] three choices once the five-year rebellion is smashed — independence, full integration with France, or internal autonomy.

But he warns that independence would lead to a throat-cutting civil war in Algeria and eventual communist dictatorship.

ALLIES PRAISE SCHEME

De Gaulle's proposal brought a favorable response in allied capitals where the Algerian rebellion has been an undermine the North Atlantic alliance.

In Washington President Eisenhower called the plan a statesmanlike move. Britain promised it as "a statement of policy of the highest importance."

The right-wing settlers sought to calm the army's ear with this tune: "Why fight if sooner or later your victory is to be wasted by popular suffrage?"

While the appeal found some sympathy, there is every likelihood that de Gaulle carefully weighed the army's position in his decision to put the Algerian battlefront to sound out commanders before crafting his program.

LENINGRAD—

Behind The Iron Curtain

Pianist Glenn Gould Rated High in Russia

By Raymond Canon

(ARTICLE SIX)

Moscow is now behind us, and our trip is coming to an end, but our interest still remains high, although we are rather sick of seeing the usual monuments.

Our departure from Moscow was delayed due to the fact that the Russian airline, Aeroflot, slipped up again in our visas. We were supposed to leave via Leningrad and the Finnish border. However, our point of exit was changed to Helsinki, by the Polish border. Until we got that minute piece of paper we could have been impossible for us to leave by any other way. Actually it was a big help for getting out, and saved us from becoming involved in more confusion and red tape.

Our first stop after leaving the big game last Friday was the city constable Robert Woods stopped a truck here because it seemed to be travelling indicating overloading.

A nearby dismantled late-model car was in the truck. The driver was detained. Ownership of the car was traced to Ashton, where police found a car dismantling operation in a garage.

The conductor of the orchestra was none other than Nicolai Anosov Beaudry the Canadian conductor who was invited to Russia, last year, and achieved such success that he has been invited back a second time — an almost unheard of honor in Russia — to conduct several orchestras. So Canadian talent is not unrecognized in Russia. While on this subject, I might add that Glenn Gould, another Canadian sidekick by the Russians to be one of the leading pianists of the younger generation in Russia.

TATOO POISON

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—Health authorities say that a tattoo "stroke evidence" that three youths contracted serum hepatitis from being tattooed in a New York City's Coney Island. One is in serious condition. Serum hepatitis, an infection transmitted through the bloodstream, usually kills one in 10 victims. The New York City health department said the youths will try to locate the tattoo parlor.

United Kingdom's 41st Parliament Now Dissolved

LONDON (CP) — The 41st Parliament of the United Kingdom reached its end today, marking the formal opening of the campaign for the Oct. 8 election. The dissolution of the House of Commons by Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace in London was followed by the formal dissolution.

The last business before the session was an all - party tribute to Speaker W. S. Morrison of the 25 members who will not stand for re-election. He has been in office since 1951.

EDEN LED IN 1955

Sir Anthony Eden, led his Conservative government to victory in May, 1955. Successive crises in domestic and international affairs dramatically changed his fortunes and ill health forced his resignation in January, 1957, only three months after his armed intervention at Suez had divided the country in a controversy that could carry undertones in the present campaign.

Taking over from Eden as prime minister, Harold Macmillan succeeded in restoring party unity and confidence in the precarious economy to the point where the Conservatives now are generally favored to win a third successive term.

WORKERS DEMONSTRATE

BOMBAY (Reuters) — More than 2,000 dock and transport workers demonstrated in front of the Chinese Communist consulate here Thursday night to protest Red China's incursion into Indian territory. The demonstrators gave police, who stopped them a few yards short of the consulate, a memorandum for the consul-general.

NEW BRITISH DISARMAMENT PLAN OUTLINED

Drops Conditions Advocated in Past

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Britain's new disarmament plan was interpreted today as dropping some of the conditions that have hampered East-West agreement in the past.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd presented it to the United Nations General Assembly Thursday, thus getting in ahead of Premier Khrushchev, who promised to present a Soviet plan during his appearance before the assembly this afternoon.

Lloyd, who spoke early in the assembly's general policy debate, was the first big-power leader to speak since the UN discussion in new disarmament talks to start in an evenly balanced East-West committee in Geneva next year.

He proposed disarmament in three stages—first, agreement to stop nuclear tests and hold a technical study conference on other particular problems; second, a reduction of the major powers' armaments and manpower and a cutting off of production of fissionable material for weapons; third, "comprehensive disarmament by the powers . . . under effective international control."

VERY POINTS

Observers of years of fruitless disarmament negotiations saw these new elements in Lloyd's plan:

1. He did not say the second stage should be carried out only if there has been progress toward the solution of political issues.

2. He did not say the nuclear powers would be free to resume testing after the three-year moratorium there had not been satisfactory progress toward setting up an inspection system to police an end to production.

Such provisions were laid down in the last official Western disarmament plan, but before the five-power UN disarmament subcommittee in London Aug. 27, 1957.

REJECTED BY SOVIETS

That plan came from Britain, Canada, France and the United States. The Soviet Union, fifth member of the subcommittee, rejected it, and on Sept. 6 the talks broke down.

The big four now have agreed to resume them in an evenly divided 10-power group in Geneva.

In the interim, both the western powers and the Soviet Union have made their positions known publicly.

The West, which once insisted that all disarmament measures must be treated together as a package, has taken separation of nuclear tests and prevention of surprise attack as the first package for separate discussion.

The Soviets, which set suspension, the Soviet Union has shown some inclination to accept the idea of a limited system that will satisfy the West.

Rescue Workers Have Scant Hope Of Saving Them

Recent Strike Credited With Keeping Toll Down

KIRKINTILLOCH, Scotland (CP) — Forty-five coal miners were trapped by fire in a little down a shaft here today with little hope of getting out alive.

Rescue crewmen battled flames deep in the mine in an attempt to reach the trapped men but mine officials said "a heavy loss of life must be expected."

Six men were rescued alive from the underground inferno and one body was brought out of the blaze but mine officials said 45 men still were unaccounted for.

Scores of sobbing women—mostly wives, daughters and sisters of the apparently doomed men — crowded near the mine opening.

RESCUERS BEATEN BACK

Time and again they saw firemen and rescue teams beaten back by the heat and the acrid fumes.

"It will be a miracle if they are alive," a grim-faced rescue volunteer said. "The fumes are terrible."

The mine, one of Britain's nationalized collieries, is located 10 miles north of Glasgow.

Trouble started this morning when a huge underground coal fan burst into flame, spreading fire to the timbered props and girders.

As the flames ate through, the [illegible] collapsed, causing cascades of stone and earth.

These falls partly blocked the passage.

STRIKE KEPT AWAY

More men would have been in the mine had it not been for a strike which ended Thursday. The majority of the 900 men employed in the mine stayed away despite the settlement. They planned to return to work Friday.

An official of the national coal board said the situation remained "very grave," but the rescue of nine survivors gave hope that more would be found alive.

Earlier two Roman Catholic priests who were taking turns [illegible] at the rescue squads said there did not seem to be any hope.

"PURE HELL"

At one time smoke was so thick from the fire that rescuers were driven back. They were ordered to the surface. One rescuer said: "It is pure hell down there. Nothing can live in the [illegible] dead."

The miners were trapped on their way to work, riding in coal trucks. On a steep gradient one of them spotted smoke and gave his headlamp. He leaped off the fastmoving train and began to crawl to the surface to give the alarm.

The mine usually employs about 900 men underground.

The Kirkintilloch coal was "blazing like a furnace." At the pithead three priests comforted the wives of the trapped men.

"The smoke must be pouring in on the trapped men," one rescuer said.

Another rescue worker, James Brannan, 31, said that rock falls were hampering rescue teams. Wood between girders supporting the roof of the tunnel caught fire and collapsed, he said.

Britain's worst coal mine disaster in recent years was at Senghenydd, Glamorgan, where 439 men died in an explosion in October, 1913. The most serious post-war accidents were at Creswell, Derbyshire, and Maltshanhaim in 1950 when 80 men died in a fire and at Easington Colliery, County Durham, in 1951 when an explosion killed 81.

Queen's Frosh Fly Tormentor To Deseronto

KINGSTON (CP)—Medical freshmen at Queen's University have given one of their tormentors a long ride.

Victim of the retaliatory blow Thursday was Lloyd Weinstein of Winnipeg, chief vigilante of the sophomore medical year in charge of initiating newcomers.

Freshmen seized Weinstein in front of the new men's residence, tied him up and drove him to Deseronto Airport. He was bundled into a light plane flown out by Malcolm McPhee of Kingston, one of the pilot - engineers and a licensed pilot.

Weinstein was set down at a deserted airstrip near Deseronto, 30 air miles west of here, and shoved out of the plane. He walked a couple of miles to the nearest highway and hitchhiked back to Kingston.

London Daily Mail Says Khrushchev Welcome Is 'Wretched, Insulting'

MOSCOW (CP)—The Russian people learned today for the first time that Premier Khrushchev intends to visit Red China after his American tour.

The disclosure came in Pravda and Izvestia accounts of the Soviet leader's press conference at the National Press Club in Washington Wednesday.

Khrushchev, in answer to a question, referred to his impending trip to Peking for the 10th anniversary of the Chinese Communist revolution.

Moscow's Soviet press nor Moscow radio had mentioned the trip before, though it was no secret in the West.

The premier's American tour is still the big news in Russia.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda says in an editorial that the "overriding majority of Americans are peace-loving and have given the head of the Soviet government a warm and cordial welcome."

Two news agency reports from New York, however, that "some hostile radio and newspaper reports have displayed certain irritation and contain calls to the population to show coldness."

In Britain, the London Daily Mail reports that Khrushchev received a wretched and insulting welcome" on arrival in New York.

A story from Don Iddon, the Conservative newspaper's American correspondent, says that at the "squalid scene" of the premier's welcome at Pennsylvania Station baggage room where the visitor and his wife assembled "there was nothing but a lack of courtesy" by police.

The Daily Telegraph, another Conservative London paper reports from New York that the city's official welcome was intended in a "grimy, antiquated and unsuitable place."

The story added Khrushchev "seemed to have entered this cheerless of what he likes to call the 'kingdom of the dollar' by the tradesmen's entrance."

Other London papers say Khrushchev got a cool or silent welcome from New York crowds. Two report his reception was "even cooler" than in Washington.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

SOME DAMAGE IN BEDROOM FIRE

City firemen on Thursday were called out to two alarms, one a bedroom fire at Doctor's Hotel, and the other a grass fire across the bay.

A bedroom table, window curtains and floor rug were damaged at Doctor's Hotel as result of a blaze presumably started by a careless smoker.

The grass blaze was on the Wallbridge property on the Massassaga road. The blaze was confined to a small area, the firemen said.

2-Party Fight In Byelection Now Envisaged

The October 8th Federal byelection in the riding of Hastings-Frontenac is apparently to remain a two-party fight between the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals.

Several weeks ago Mr. G. W. Morley, K.C., former Owen Sound County judge now living in Toronto, took out candidate's application papers indicating that he would contest the riding as an Independent. This week, however, Mr. Morley informed riding returning officer L. B. Colburn of Enterprise that he would not contest the election.

With the October 8th election date now little more than two weeks away, the two old line party candidates are stepping up their campaigns with appearances at public rallies.

Norwood Reeve Rod Webb is the Progressive Conservative candidate, while Marmora Reeve William Shannon is again contesting the riding for the Liberals.

PIONEER FORT

The original Fort Edmonton, where the capital city of Alberta now stands, was a Hudson's Bay Company post built in 1795.

Tenders Will Be Called Within Next 3 Weeks

Tenders for the construction of the proposed new administration building for the Bay of Quinte District High School Board will be called within the next three weeks, members of the board learned of their first meeting of the fall season held this week.

The new administration building will be built on property between the Quinte Secondary School and King George Public School on the south side of College Street.

And also dealing with new buildings, a committee of J. B. Durrant, Miss Josephine Tickell, and W. Bell, was named to work with Principal James Musgrove in making plans for an official opening at the new Moira Secondary School. The school is still not completed and the official opening is not likely to be held before mid-fall or during the winter.

The school cafeteria is not completed and will not be opened until some time in October. In connection with the cafeteria reports it was said by Mrs. Bernard Hollinger of Foxboro that a part-time head in the cafeteria at BCI. Assisting at Moira Secondary will be Mrs. Norman Jamieson while Mrs. Harry W. Bonisteel of Belleville has been named to assist in the cafeteria at BCI.

Their building superintendent at Moira School is Milton Robertson, while Mrs. Bonisteel and Sherman Parks, and Francis Trumble as assistants.

Mrs. Bonisteel has been engaged to assist in the Principal's office at Moira School.

At this week's board meeting the engagement of Mrs. Ralph Hall as secretary-treasurer at B.C.I. was approved. Mrs. Ellis will replace Mr. Norman Hall who has been granted leave of absence because of illness.

No action was taken on board membership in the Ontario Educational Council.

A further $3,600 will be spent on repairs at BCI. The roof of the building, now 30 years old, is beginning to leak and the tender representative of the Barrett Company Ltd. was given the contract for roof treatment carrying an eight-year guarantee. The roof repairs will put the building "in good shape," board members feel.

Baby Strangled While Sleeping In Carriage

Four weeks old David Turner Wilkinson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilkinson, 33 Frank Street, died early yesterday afternoon when he strangled on food which had been brought up in the night in his carriage.

Firemen were called and unsuccessful in revive the baby with the use of the resuscitator and later took the baby to Belleville General Hospital, but without success.

Dr. A. E. Miles said the baby had been sleeping on its side when it regurgitated some of its food and strangled before it was noticed. The baby had been sleeping in its carriage.

Besides the parents the infant is survived by two brothers.

'Y' Fall, Winter Program For All Groups in Full Swing

This week the YMCA's Fall and Winter program got underway. Many activities are planned the membership of the Belleville Y of this community. A highlight of the program will be the open house on Thursday evening to provide the opportunity for local youths to participate in the fashion-wide. Gymnastics Achievement tests. These tests include exercises on the parallel bars, the trampoline, the ringside horse, the horizontal bar and in tumbling. The exercises or manoeuvres are graded in a scale of increasing difficulty and as a competitor progresses through these tests he is given certificates, cards, and badges. Several of the local YMCA members are working well on their way to achieving this goal.

The program is the Belleville "Y's" part in overcoming the deficiency which, Canadians are noted for when it comes to gymnastic ability, and during the same time making the youth of this city aware of both the physical and mental benefits of apparatus training. These classes are conducted under the supervision of the "Y's" new physical director, Ted Taylor.

Also for the boys there are basketball, judo, swimming and diving already underway. Starting this week will be volleyball and basketball league, handball, life saving, scuba diving, (with instructions during the due time) skiing. The Hi-Y Club, Intermediate Leaders-Corps and the Tri-Hi-Boys classes will also be active shortly. The Tri-Hi-Boys are for the boys in the high school who might wish to drop into the "Y" for a game of ping pong or relax by the lobby fire. There is a little basketball, weightlifting, swimming, and judo in these classes.

Every Friday noon-hours to get in a little basketball, weightlifting or swimming. It is especially designed for the out-of-town students at the local high school.

The girls and ladies' program will be under the direction of Miss Kay Homan. A special program will be the Ladies' Night Out on every Tuesday. Mothers may leave their pre-school children with the nursery-sitters at the "Y" whilst they take a slimming session in the gym followed by a swim in the pool.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS

After lunch, there will be special guest speakers and demonstrators to give the ladies beauty hints on hairdressing tips. On the girls' agenda are gym classes, instructional and recreational swim periods, life saving classes, craft classes, Junior and Intermediate Leaders' Corps and the Ski Club.

Another feature of the coming season's "Y" program will be the Family Swim Night on Friday evenings. It is for members of the YMCA and their immediate family and pre-school children will be supervised by a competent person. Lessons will be given on an hour or day basis, taking part must be accompanied by at least one of his parents. One member of the family at least must be a regular "Y" member.

Thus the physical side of the "Y" program for kids year in and year out, provides a spot for everyone. There are also businessmen's classes and club functions, social and club functions which form another phase of the YMCA and function in serving the members of the community. Young people in this city, perhaps it is something for everybody at the local "Y".

Mr., Mrs. Harold Thrasher Mark Silver Wedding Anniversary

Wedding bells rang again on Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. (c) Harold Thrasher, 28 Bongard Crescent, in honor of their silver wedding anniversary when they were "at home" to their many relatives and friends.

Mrs. Thrasher, the former Avys Boulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Boulton, Bongard Crescent, R.R. 3, now of this city, and Harold Thrasher, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Thrasher, were married 25 years ago in Bayside United Church parsonage by the Reverend James A. Plant, B.A. They were attended by Miss Wesley Gray, nee Reda Hunt daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Hunt, of Belleville, R.R. 3, and Mr. Harry Morrow, of Stirling, both of whom were present for the recent "at home."

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a honey moon trip through Quebec, returning to the bridegroom's farm on the 3rd of Sidney, where they resided for seven years. During the Second World War they lived in Peterborough, later returned to Belleville, where Mr. Thrasher began operating the feed mill on Coleman Street known as Thrasher's Feed Service which is still operates with the help of his son, Donald.

The bride now daughter, Miss Barbara Thrasher, who is attending the Peterborough Teachers' College, and one grandchild, two-months-old, Debbie Lynn Thrasher, who resides at 44 Gordon Street, Belleville, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thrasher, nee Norma Wessels.

Miss Barbara Thrasher received the guests at the door, while the receiving line included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Boulton, Mrs. Wesley Gray and Mr. Harry Morrow.

Mrs. Donald Thrasher had charge of the guest book, while (c) Mrs. Donald (Dorothy) Sills, sister of the hostess, showed the anniversary gifts.

The tea table was prettily appointed with an ecru lace clothbound at the time of the milahap.

"Vote '16' the party for local Vote right; vote Suburbanites"

These conflicting campaign slogans are being echoed, in song and in the halls of Quinte's as another school year opens with the elected officers of the Student Parliament.

Gord Smith, the "16" candidate for Premier, Wednesday presented 14 positive points in his platform and in the evening delivered his opponents of being "old fires."

With a cry of a "really big shows" campaign manager, Al Richards of the Suburbanites told the students to vote "16."

But he reminded us that if we wanted serious government in the students of Quinte should "vote right and vote Suburbanite."

With elections next Friday the campaign was still waging hot and heavy which demonstrates the tremendous school spirit felt by all here at Quinte.

Next Friday will tell the tale. It the spicy tang of a political campaign materials as you pass through out congested corridors, think nothing of it. The odor is drifting gently from the direction of the boys' lockers rooms where the males are preparing for another ordeal, on the playing field, under the glaring eyes of coaches Sisson, Mintie and Gaffney. Many padded sleeves feel that they have just about pushed their last pound, and still Simon Sisson and Lefaive Mutter crack their whips.

Quinte's boys are quite strong this year said the BCI and BCC teams will be up against tough competition.

Preparations for our Stratford Safari are in full swing with a total of four buses filled with enthusiastic rooters.

A presentation of "As You Like It", as seen by our Queen Elizabeth will be given and our eager students are undergoing the long bus trip in an attempt to lift a few culture by involving Shakespeare from their minds.

The students are tremendously enthusiastic about this trip for, apart from obtaining culture, their studies will not be forced to sitting school all day Friday.

Obituaries

MRS. WALTER GARFIELD CARSON

Stricken with a heart attack, Mrs. Walter Garfield Carson, 13 Brown Street, died suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday afternoon. She was born at Shannonville 63 years ago, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Reid and had resided in this city practically all her life. Mrs. Carson was well known and highly regarded in this city and district where a host of friends, who will sincerely regret her sudden death, extend their sympathy. She was a firm friend and took an active interest in her community affairs.

She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where she was active in church work when health permitted. Surviving are her husband, Walter Carson, two sons, William John (Lum) Carson and Walter Clifford Carson, and one daughter, Miss Kathleen Eleanor Carson, at home; one brother, Thomas Reid of Shannonville and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Smith of Shannonville, Mrs. Irene Wooden and Mrs. Elizabeth Butt, both of Belleville and two surviving are three grandchildren.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Ave. The funeral announcement appeared elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. ELIZA PEARL EMPEY

The funeral of Mrs. Eliza Pearl Empey was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon. A large number of friends with relatives from out of town were present to pay their last respects. The floral tributes were many and varied, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Rev. Dr. MacLeod, of St. Andrew's Church, conducted the service in the home and the committal rites at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were: Arthur Buck, Jack Clarke, Mel Empey, Jerry Mahoney, Reginald Kinnett and Edward Huddleston.

W. DAN BENNETT
Trenton

TRENTON — W. Dan Bennett, resident of Trenton for the past 40 years, died Tuesday in the Trenton Memorial Hospital after been in failing health for the past two and a half years.

Mr. Bennett was a retired employee of Central Bridge Company and was well known in district lodge circles, having been an active member of L.O.L. No. 206, Trenton, and Black Preceptory Lodge, No. 878.

Born in Sidney township 68 years ago Mr. Bennett was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Jr. Bennett. He was married to the former Eleanor Gordon, who survives him. Also left to mourn his loss are two sons, Donald and Ross of Trenton, and two daughters, Dora (Mrs. Roger Powers) of Whitehorse, Yukon, and Mrs. Irene Hay Smalley) of France. There are also ten grandchildren. One brother, Alfred Bennett, resides in Oshawa and a sister, Mrs. William Powell, lives in San Diego, Calif.

The late Mr. Bennett rested at the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, where service was held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. G. A. Puttenham of Grace United Church, officiating. Interment was in White's cemetery.

A special lodge service under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 206, was held Thursday evening at 7.30 p.m.

Bearers were: Russell McFarland, Ross Ostrum, Ray Reeves, Cliff Reid, Mel Mountenay and Jim Thompson.

LARRY SWEIGARD

TRENTON — Larry Sweigard, well known Trenton resident and sportsman, was killed instantly at 4 o'clock on Canadian Legion service at Whitby cemetery.

"He was a definite asset to our branch and we are going to miss him," stated Mr. Sweigard's friend years that he ahead." was the solemn tribute from Branch 110 President William T. Lawson, who headed the Legion party at the funeral.

Mr. Sweigard, who was only 43 years of age, was killed in a fatal accident here last weekend. He disappeared on Sunday when his body was found. He was riding capsized in the Trent River near the entrance to the Bay of Quinte. His body was not recovered until Tuesday morning.

Funeral rites were conducted by Rev. George A. Puttenham, minister of Grace United Church, at the Weaver Funeral Home at 3.30 Thursday afternoon.

The funeral was largely attended by fellow members of Canadian Legion Branch 110. They had come to pay a fitting tribute to a fine friend and colleague and fellow veteran of World War II.

Larry Sweigard was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sweigard of Trenton Memorial Park. Prior to coming to Trenton where he was employed at the Ontario Steel, Mr. Sweigard was a resident of Belleville.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, and five children, Larry, Caroline, Lorraine, Janey and Karen.

ALEXANDER WALLACE FULTON

In ill health for some time, Alexander Wallace Fulton, 3 West Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Friday morning. He was born in Scotland being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Fulton but had resided in this city for many years and was well known and highly regarded.

Mr. Fulton is survived by his wife, the former Violet McElrath and three sons, R. C. Fulton of Long Branch, A. M. Fulton and William Fulton of Toronto. Also surviving are five grandchildren.

Resting at the Thomas C. Campbell Funeral Home, 257 Dundas East Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. WILLIAM BOYD

Following an illness of two years Mrs. Phoebe Boyd, wife of Carleton Boyd, died at her home on Thursday afternoon. She was born at Ameliasburg 83 years ago, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ashley and resided in this city for nearly half a century. She was well known and highly regarded and enjoyed a wide circle of friends in the community.

A member of Tabernacle United Church, she was an active member of the congregation when health permitted, being particularly interested in the work of the Women's Auxiliary and the Missionary Society.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Hazel Faulkner at home; one son, Chief Addison Boyd of Lindsay, and one granddaughter, Miss Barbara Boyd, also at home.

Her husband, William Boyd, died some years ago. She was the last of her family.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

REDS RESCUE JAPS

TOKYO (Reuters) — A Soviet warship and a Japanese fishing boat collided Thursday night 18 miles north of Moshkotu, Japan's northernmost island, the Japanese Maritime Safety Board reported. The Japanese boat, identified as the Showa Maru, sank, but the Soviet vessel was not rescued by the unidentified Soviet vessel, which sailed away to the northeast.

No Remedy, This

The recent meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Vancouver heard an address by Judge Roger A. Pfaff of the Los Angeles conciliation board. This court attempts to save wobbly marriages. In Los Angeles there is no lack of material for such. A court has this background, Judge Pfaff must be accepted as an expert. When he says that in 45 per cent of the cases that come before his court the married couples have known each other for less than a year, and when he cites this short acquaintance as one of the reasons for the prevalence of divorce we should accept his analysis. Indeed, our common sense tells us that couples who meet, woo, wed, quarrel and sue all within a space of less than twelve months are conducting their love affairs with indecent haste.

Harold Weir, Vancouver Sun columnist, commenting on Judge Pfaff's observations, declares that "it must be devastatingly clear to anyone who considers it to any extent that the pertinent marital problem in North America is not whether or not divorce should be made easier, but the undoubted fact that marriage should be made a damned sight harder."

Mr. Weir has a point, but he overplays his hand. He goes so far as to praise a tradition which, he maintains, existed "long, long ago, say in the horse and buggy age" when "if a man landed a girl, or vice versa, within five years of first 'walking out' it was considered pretty fast work." Now we suspect that this tradition exists mainly in Mr. Weir's mind. We should hate to believe that, until recent years, nobody ever wed without five years of courtship, because it would mean that nobody ever married who was in love at first and that would be a very sorry state of affairs, indeed.

There may be some married couples who courted at a leisurely pace who will indignantly declare that they loved each other very much when they walked to the altar at the end of their lengthy wooing. Though they are the exception, we do not doubt their claims for a moment. But there is a difference between being in love and loving one another. The former condition precedes the latter, and while the latter is the meat and potatoes of the meal of life the former is the predinner cocktail, the wine sauce on the main dish and the concluding chocolate cake and icing all rolled into one. Like cocktails and wine sauces and chocolate cake, it is an impossible diet over a lengthy period. But it's grand while is lasts. If a man and woman are going to fall in love, they will do so long before they have "kept company" for five years. Nor will this feverish condition last while spring, summer, fall and winter succeed each other four or five times. It will either deepen into love, in much more substantial and sustaining regard, or it will vanish leaving nothing more than a faint twinge of regret as a hangover from its heady intoxication. But to suggest that couples should court for five years is to require that they should all wait until they are sober and in their right mind, which might reduce the incidence of divorce but would also result in a considerable curtailment in the number of marriages.

It would not only deprive the world of that happy sight of people in love in ardent possession of each other, but would also sharply reduce the number of people who eventually arrive at that stabler but deeper state of loving each other, for it is from the great assets of marriage that when people live together they are much more apt to grow to truly love each other than they are if they share only part of their lives with each other.

People should marry while they are still in love but not until there are some signs that this infatuation may, if properly nurtured, produce something more permanent. That is the basis—to catch the tide at the flood, not to wait until it has ebbed to discover what it has left stranded on the beach. There is nothing sadder in this world than a couple once in love walking to the altar as a sort of sacrifice to emotions which have died for want of nourishment, as a symbol to the forces of habit and the strength and determination of decent people to "do the right thing" by each other.

If these views be foolish romanticism, makes the most of it.

Better thousands of divorces than no wedded lovers.

THE LESSON OF A FLOOD

By EDGAR A. GUEST

If there be any lesson in a flood
'Tis that the work of man is not supreme;
That insecure are human flesh and blood
However strong our man-built walls may seem.
We boast our dams and dams will stand for aye,
We trust our skill into the hands of men;
Yet, in a twinkling they are washed away
And we are helpless mortals once again.

Men cannot shut out death.
Men cannot raise,
With all their boasting, walls that are so strong
To guard against them unnumbered days.
Who cries, "I'm safe!" is foolish, proud and wrong,

For God has but to swell one tiny stream,
To lift one river overflow its banks
And all our boasted strength becomes a dream.
The greatest of us drops into the ranks.

No man on earth to live can be prepared.
The summons comes, we know not when or why;
By taught we build can any soul be spared;
All we can do is be prepared to die.

Man's refuge then must be a life well spent;
It cannot be a thing of steel and stone.
He must go forward when the call is sent,
He cannot claim tomorrow for his own.

Civil Service Is Defended

Ottawa Journal

A report (it turned out to be inaccurate) that a Royal Commission would be set up to investigate the civil service brings screeching headlines in newspapers across the country.

What does this mean? It means that the simple truth that outside of Parliament, civil service is not popular, that there exists about it all sorts of harmful misconceptions.

It must be beyond Ottawa, go to any part of Canada, and people will be met to tell you that the Ottawa civil service is overstaffed, under-worked, over-petted; that government departments are crammed with clock-watchers; that thousands of people could be rooted out without making a whit of difference to the work of the government. The list of charges could be largely increased.

It is nonsense, of course, a legacy of the days when the civil service was, to a measurable degree, the party rate, a creature of patronage.

Business leaders who came to Ottawa during the war, the "dollar-a-year men," returned with that impression; they knew, or so they said, that the civil service was inefficient, that it was stuffed to the neck, and they were going to deal with it — show it what could be done with efficient business ways.

They went, speedily disillusioned; found that in many respects the civil service was just as efficient as enterprises of similar size and that in many cases more so; that it contained people who worked just as hard as the employed of any business; that parliamentary government for such things as civil service balances the things which they had scoffed at as "red tape."

The net result was that these business men, returning home, were unable to convey to more of the public outside Ottawa the things they discovered. Perhaps there were not enough of them.

But the misconceptions continue; the false belief that government departments here loom with people who do little work and are too well paid for do-nothing. The repeat, is a pity; a pity that such misconceptions should exist. In order to serve the public badly, that there should exist among so many Canadians this feeling of resentment, of suspicion, against the civil service of their country.

But we think we should add that this antagonism is not directed at the civil service as a civil service organizations engage in relations with it, but about the relations of civil servants with the government and parliament. It is a feeling of hostility which is all too reminiscent of the often intemperate words of professional reformers against the leaders of industry. Many civil servants, we believe, are embarrassed by such language. And understandably.

As The Journal's view, there are levels of the civil service where men and women are underpaid. And in The Journal's view also it might be that there are levels established examination of general civil service administration, where men are paid — in good for the civil services as well as for Canada.

But that is all we will come.

For one thing, it might end the nonsense of the false popular belief that the civil service is crammed with deadwood — and perhaps end the public outcropping of intemperate statements which, however well they may be meant, bring no good for civil servants.

Population of Canada as of December 31, 1938 was estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at 11,185,000, an increase of 89,000 compared with 1937. There was an increase in population in every province of Canada.

During last week's hail and cyclonic storm that swept through Eastern Ontario considerable property damage resulted, while more recently it was learned that the storm had wrought havoc among the wild ducks feeding in Prince Mary. Game Warden Herb McCabe stated today after investigating reports received regarding the matter, that over fifty per cent of the ducks found in that area had been killed.

A survey of vacant city property which could be utilized for the growing of food, is to be made by Council and it is expected that next season a concentrated effort will be made to secure the full crop out of food by providing free plots and seeds to needy householders displaying a willingness to grow their own produce.

On Sunday it at the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, the Reverend John Bates McLarish B.A., D.D., General Secretary of the Can. Baptist Foreign Mission Board will be the guest of the day and will preach at both services.

Within the next few months a census of Canada's womenpower are available for national service will be completed, was the statement issued by the National Chairman of Publicity for the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

The second annual banquet arranged by the members of the Bunnion Men's Class in connection, with Bridge Street Methodist Church, and was a highly successful affair. Some of the members were accompanied by their wives, sons, daughters, and other friends for which the class is noted. The class is under the direction of Judge Deroche, commenced to meet last fall some ago with only a few members, and now the membership is over forty. Mr. Jeffers Diamond occupied the chair in a capable manner and the tables dresses were made by Mr. C. E. Smith, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Deroche, Mr. William Johnson, the Rev. Dr. Bishop and Mr. J. Wallace. Prof. Reed Sprague rendered a vocal solo and the class quartette composed of Messrs. Smith, Jeffers Diamond, W. Patterson, F. Y. Brenton and Reed Sprague gave several enjoyable selections. Mr. James Wallace was the caterer and he did his part well.

Railway Cars 'Abducted'

By W. L. Clark in the Windsor Star

A railroad freight car costs from $3,500 to $20,000, depending on the type of equipment.

But, if a Canadian freight car goes to the United States with a load of Canadian goods it can't keep the car and pay $2.75 per day for its use.

The same applies to a freight car of any line being operated on Canadian lines.

Lines that have been building freight cars claim that some users of the other companies get their hands on a car, they won't send it back. Instead, they prefer to pay the $2.75 daily charge and use the car.

There is often argument about the cars between Canadian Pacific and Canadian National freight cars being used in the United States and there are now some 50,000 cars between the two railroads.

Some day when you are blocked at a crossing by a freight train, you may be amused by counting the cars and separating those that belong to the line from those that are from some other railroad.

Lawnmowers Lay Eggs Too

Hamilton Spectator

We want no part of discouraging next season's gasoline-powered lawn mower trade, but a classified advertisement in the Times of London last week made us wonder if North Americans won't go too industrial.

The ad read: "Chinese Geese—Let these very attractive birds save your surplus grass and provide you with eggs and meat. The largest breeding farm in Britain, the only one with the superior American Utility Strain . . ." and so on. Address, Sunnyside, Somerset, is given as the site of this gigantic project.

What more could one ask of a goose, especially when further research reveals that the Chinese breed is small and graceful, that the adults weight twelve to fourteen pounds and that they are the most prolific layers of all domesticated geese, laying from 40 to age of fifty to sixty eggs each annually?

An egg-laying lawn mower which can be cooked and eaten when the grass is long and the season is a development the most resourceful inventor would never have dared to hope for. Just another example of Nature's superior efficiency.

A disturbing thought is that the British Chinese goose breeder may quit his present job and go in some way to secure that superior American strain. But we doubt the practicability of the infiltration of these feathered limb movers. They'll be too busy laying a well-known fact that geese supply their own grease.

What's Inside Still Same

New York Herald Tribune

The army's soldier of tomorrow is not a man we can picture at present on the battlefield — if that really is a man beneath the manly layers of protective garb.

He seems more like some giant insect, like the spooky figure who has just been revealed to the world in a photograph with mask and bugging infra-red goggles and antenna for receiving radio instructions in his helmet, not to mention his "image metascope," which enables him to "see in a dense fog" and his "jump belt," which gives him enough rocket power to leap over 30-foot streams.

In such a carapace he looks formidable enough, and nothing like the plain old G.I. that we all know and love and used to be. In our day, streams were for walking through, foxholes were for jumping.

But our day is as remote as Napoleon's, at least in military terms (in other terms we are much younger.) For the inherent principle needs every possible shield against nuclear attack. The anti-tank gun of the army has tried to forget nothing, from special gloves to the bazooka's barrel.

Thus encased, he looks, ironically, like a warrior of the future than of the chivalrous past. Nothing is left of the days of mail, his face but dimly seen through a thing like a fish bowl.

Perhaps there is some reason in the similarity, for no amount of armament can prevent bravery in individual soldier, or probably ever will. The Iliad describes individuals from the Arthurian knight to Willie and Joe of World War II in the same terminology as his Buck Rogers mask and metascope and infra-red goggles. Whatever he wears, he is the eternal man who goes into battle alone.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT AVERAGE LAYMAN

Did you ever hear of a Biblical character named Gaius? Even Bible students have some difficulty in recalling him. He does not appear to have had a particularly interesting importance in the early Christian church, yet we have a very good picture of him.

Gaius was an average Christian layman. The apostle John addresses his third epistle to Gaius. He speaks of him as being sound in the faith, of being diligent and putting into practice the faith he professes. He was hospitable. Christian believers found through their town or city before they left it, and others made their home in his house. Evidently Gaius was a man of standing in the community and influence. Gaius was particularly cordial in his welcome to itinerant believers.

There cannot be much doubt as to Gaius' character. One of the man's character is set forth in the New Testament. Christian character, garden variety, of the common, average sort, is the real body and soul of the modern Christian church. It is not brilliant nor spectacular. It is not always what he believes, he practices what he professes, he treats his fellow men with an abundant kindness.

Gaius, the average layman — 2000 years ago and now.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SURGERY DOES WONDERS FOR HARELIP BABIES

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have noticed several articles in your health column about harelip and cleft palate. Considering that one out of every 700 babies is born with such deformities, they are a matter of concern to parents.

"Last year our baby was born with them (we have two other normal children). As we had never heard of such a case before, mother would have, I was broken hearted and bewildered, along with my husband.

"We were immediately directed to a fine surgeon, and he assured us the baby could be made to look like a normal human being. I couldn't visualize this because of the horrible gaping hole in his face, extending through to the back of the throat.

"That was a year ago. Today he looks beautifully transformed. Now he is going into the hospital to have the palate repaired.

"There must be other mothers who are grief-stricken and heart-broken as I was. If you know any way to help them my baby is a perfect example of what modern surgery can do. — Mrs. R. L. B."

I can't think of a thing to say on this subject that you have not said better. Thank you for your letter.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read your article on heart murmurs. I have a heart murmur. I don't know which I sleep i- quently, always with my left s- ways with my feet. I t- — this position gives my l- relief from the pressure of the blood on my head. I obtain considerable relaxation. Sometimes I feel it is almost beneficial than sleeping in a horizontal position. Is there any reason it is bad for me. Will you express your opinion?—A. C. F."

There is no reason at all — just as good as beds, or lying on the ground. I have been told that it is bad for you. (And I hope they ignore you when you tell them.) The heart is in a regular function of your heart is to pump blood to all of you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am an alcoholic. I stopped drinking just over three months ago, and I feel it is time for me to start. I hope to stay off it. One drink is all I need to start all over again. But now I drink an awful lot of coffee (no cream or sugar, as I am trying to lose weight — I've gained 30 pounds). How much damage is there to 18 to 20 cups of coffee per day? And what should I do to cut down on my coffee? — R. J."

You're a good man. You've learned the big lesson — It's the first drink that does the damage. If you don't take that one, you've won.

That's a lot of coffee. Without a doubt, sugar, it won't have any effect on your reducing diet. But the caffein will. Moderate doses of caffein may owe-stimulate you and make you more alert. Large doses include: Drinking some of the caffein-removed substitutes; drinking some of the sugar-less not drinks; to keep your reducing diet hard; substituting a glass of water for every other cup (which means you cut the caffein in half). If that amount of coffee doesn't keep you awake, it won't hurt you. Maybe your solution will be just to haven't so go other ways, to learn, gradually, to get along with half that amount of coffee — and then cut it in half again.

Mr. K. L.: A "coin" which affects only one side of the nose probably isn't basically a cold at all. It indicates something in that side (polyps, ulcer, narrowed area, or some such situation) which makes it unduly sensitive to any very minor infection that comes along. My best advice is to have a specialist (ear-nose-throat) find out what the condition is. Once that is found, the chances of controlling it are very good. Meanwhile, that, I would suggest, stinting. Nose drops, in such a case, aren't likely to help, and might do some harm.

30-Year-Old Car Rolls On

Kingston Whig-Standard

It heightened our day a little to hear from Bedford Mills of the old-time automobile which after being walled up for thirty years was taken back to operation once more. When this monarch of the automobile industry was built cars cost its owner. the Baron Raben-Levetzau, about $5,000.

After running it for 18 years the Baron, who owned the farces of a newer model and tried to sell the Rolls but could find no purchaser at the price he asked. In a pique, he walled up the automobile in the barn.

And there it stayed until his son was told that somewhere in his father there was a Rolls-Royce. He ordered a search, and the car was found, although a set of tires and a new battery, the car was put back in service a few days later.

All of which brings to mind the long hours of thinkering and the next-probibilitive repair bill we encountered last spring after the old bugar's engine blew up.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On s' recent panel discussion by a group of experts on traffic and jis hazards and problems, the remedies suggested repeatedly used the words "observe the law." We are tired to face the word obey. They didn't even use synonym or copy. It seems to us that this subtle phrase "observe the law" on the lips of responsible experts is the root of reveals one of the cardinal factors in the entire problem of safety and horrendously increasing traffic. We are not tough enough on law violators. We are afraid to face the fact that a driver guilty of careless driving which causes the death or injury of innocent persons is, in fact, a criminal. A class in signals was on last night's training program for the Sea Cadets of the "Quinte." Above S/Lt. Douglas Bailey (right) instructs a cadet and three "new entrants" on the meaning of a flag signal. Learning this part of communications are: (left to right): Ordinary Cadet Gene Brant, Glen Camelford, Doug Reid and Tony Potts. Later these cadets will also learn the use of a signal lamp, Morse code, and semaphore signals. Other courses which are covered include: swimming, sailing, seamanship, current affairs, naval history, gunnery and navigation.

Examining the training syllabus for the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" during the current training season are (left to right): Lt. A. C[illegible]e, executive officer of the "Quinte"; Lt. J. Donovan, commanding officer of the "Quinte"; Lt.-Commander J. Jeffries, RCN (SB), Area Officer for the Province of Ontario, and Lt. M. Davidson, RCN, Assistant Area Officer. The new training program started at last night's parade and new cadets are welcome to join the corps at this time of the year.

'News Argus' Scribe Given 1883 Edition

RAWDON — Mr. Allan Donnell of Almonte, Ont., a former editor of the Stirling newspaper, has sent an historical copy of The Stirling News Argus to Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon. This copy was given to Mr. Donnell early in 1926 when the late Mr. John H. Thompson visited Stirling.

The four-page sheet is dated June 29th, 1883, and is in good, readable condition. On June 14, 1883, Stirling had a disastrous fire which started Thursday evening and continued into Friday morning. Eighteen buildings were burnt in three hours and 16 places of business were destroyed, including the News Argus office which was a heap of ruins in which over $1,000 worth of type, presses and other equipment was destroyed. The total loss to Stirling residents amounted to $100,000.

At first Mr. Thompson thought it could not carry on, but finally he decided to rebuild.

MINIATURE EDITION

He says in part: "This miniature edition is the largest which the one press saved from the fire would print, and we could only print one page at a time. It is issued for the purpose of giving a full and correct report of the fire of June 14th. Readers are asked to excuse further appearance of the paper until our new press, type, etc, purchased personally in Toronto last week, are in position to carry on as usual.

The edition is a four-page sheet measuring 9 by 6 inches. The paper has a list of all those who lost property in the fire, the nature of the loss, amount of insurance carried, and in what company, as well as full details of the conflagration.

The Stirling News-Argus was established in 1870 by the late John H. Thompson and practically all his equipment was lost in the fire. Mr. Thompson carried on until late in 1884 when he sold the business to the late James Currie of Cannington. In 1934 Allan Donnell took over the ownership, and in 1936 he sold the business to A. E. Dobbie.

NEW OWNER

In 1934 Mr. H. B. Tompkins of Kemptville took over as owner. In 1937 the newspaper was moved to its new home and enjoys a wide circulation.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, began writing the "Mount Pleasant Column" in January 1912, while she was attending the Williams Public School, and she has missed very few issues in the almost 48 years of reporting that column. She began her duties with the late James Currie.

The reporting of Mount Pleasant news has been a family tradition since the business was established in 1879.

At that time the late Philo White wrote "Scobble Hill News" and notes of settlers in Sidney and Rawdon township. Ten years later his daughter, Mrs. Allan Wescott took up the work and it was called Mount Pleasant, as the Methodist Church had been renamed. Later Mrs. Wescott's granddaughter was asked by Mr. Currie to carry on the Mount Pleasant column.

Area Officer of Sea Cadets Pays Corps Surprise Visit

"We don't consider you to be one of the crowd or the bunch. We consider you to be something extra." With these words Lt.-Commander J. Jeffries, RCN (SB), Area Officer for the province of Ontario, addressed the members of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" yesterday evening on a surprise visit to the Corps.

"We won't take any-boy who comes across the quarterdeck and say 'you're in'," continued the Lt.-Commander in his remarks to the cadets following his inspection of the corps. He urged the cadets to help increase the number in the corps by getting their friends to join, but cautioned them to choose those whom they felt would make good as cadets.

He also advised them to keep their uniforms clean for parades and to keep their own appearance at all times clean and neat in a seamanlike manner. "Anyone who doesn't is letting the Queen's uniform down, as well as himself and his corps," stated the Area Officer.

Accompanying Lt.-Commander Jeffries was Lt. M. Davidson, RCN, the assistant area officer. An inspection of the "Quinte's" stores was made and instructions were given to replace much of the equipment with new material. The training syllabus for the year was also scrutinized by the two officers, who are responsible for the Sea Cadet program in Ontario.

During the evening the cadets were given training in fire drill since this was their first evening in the new training season aboard the "Quinte" on South Front Street. Following the refreshment break chases were given in naval times by Lt. Wm. McConnell and in signalling by S-Lt. Douglas Bailey. Several new entries were on hand to put in their applications for the Corps.

Following the evening's parade the two officers from area office held a consultation with the officers of the "Quinte" in the wardroom. Upon being informed that the corps was intending to form a band this year Lt.-Commander Jeffries advised that there was the possibility of a special school of music being held during the cadet camp at HMCS Acadia next summer.

This school would give instruction in band music and drill for the bands of any units which could attend the camp under their corps summer camp allotment.

The area officer also stated that it was the policy of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets to up the members from the many attendant corps into different divisions to give the cadets an experience in citizenship by living with others outside of their own corps and province.

In summing up the position of the corps, Lt.-Commander Jeffries felt that although the dress of several cadets had been poor, this would be improved and that the corps should have a good year.

Behind Iron Curtain

his more famous American counterpart Ven Cliburn.

Our next stop was in Kalinin where we stayed at a rather simple hotel. My first job was to get my car looked after. Gas with the proper octane rating they had, but the woman, and most of the gas station operators have been female, didn't know where to put it in. She almost put it in my radiator. When it came to oil, they only had a doubtful-looking variety, so I decided to postpone it until we got into Finnland. As far as a grease job was concerned, they didn't seem to know as much about the car, so that too got postponed.

When we got down to supper that night, a pleasant surprise awaited us. There sat a small Canadian flag on our table. We felt quite honored by this and thanked our guide for this bit of thoughtfulness. The waitress here was extremely friendly and was so surprised to find out that I spoke Russian that she spent most of her time standing beside our table talking to us, so much time in fact, that the head waitress had to come and haul her away. But I can report that we did get quick service, a pleasant relief after the debacle in Moscow.

Our next stop was in Novgorod, which we found one of the most interesting cities which we have seen so far. It has a history stretching back over one thousand years, a kremlin of it own, and numerous churches. Added to that we had one of the best guides yet for he seemed to take more of a interest in his work than most of them have so far — and we were able to see the interior of a most fascinating orthodox church inside the kremlin. It was here that we had our first swim in Russia — in one of the tributaries of the Volga. The water felt wonderful after the hot drive, but it was so dirty one couldn't see anything.

ONE RADIO STATION

In our hotel, as in all the hotels, there is a radio — a little different from our radios in that all you get is one station. You either listen to that or nothing at all. Sometimes you get some excellent music, other times plays and conversations extolling the Russian way of life and now and again some slanted news of those horrible capitalists in the west. After listening to some of it, it is my conviction that for some of the people who listen up the news stories about us, it is so long since they have heard any amount of truth, they wouldn't know it even if they saw it.

Which brings me around to a little story which is told by the Russians themselves. The two largest newspapers here are Pravada and IzVestia — which mean "truth" and "news" respectively — The Russians jokingly say that in their "Truth" there is no news, and in the news there is no truth.

LOG HOUSES

The houses along the road between Moscow and Leningrad are considerably more sturdy than those we saw before Moscow, but they still do not approach our farm houses. They are built of logs, very quaint and solid-looking, and most of them have a row of windows in front. Each village has a row of them on either side and I must say they all look rather neat and tidy. Some paint would make most of them look much fresher though.

Have you ever tried to go to sleep in the day time. If so, most of you will admit it is a little harder than at night. You will then understand what we have been up against. This part of Russia is much farther north than Bellefonte. In fact we are only about 300 miles south of the Arctic Circle. At night it never gets really dark. In fact we are up between 3-4 a.m. to find it quite bright outside quite disconcerting to say the least. My friend is a very light sleeper, and is finding it considerably harder than I am to get to sleep in the first place. Most of the noises we hear overhead do not help any. The Russian air force must be carrying on night exercises just for our benefit.

HARD WORKING WOMEN

The other evening we were out for a walk after supper when we came across a group of women gathering water at a well. We were interested in the type of mechanism they used to carry it in — a contraption like a heavy pail slung at each end. Quite a load for anybody to carry. But women do a lot of heavy work in Russia, things not Canadian women would ever think of doing such as digging ditches for example, or laying street-car tracks. We asked if we could take a picture of them carrying the water. One little girl said "yes", so I got my picture. But you can well imagine what sized crowd had gathered in the meantime and bits of course, led to a full-fledged conversation, a companion between our two countries. I told them some things about Canada that they had never heard of before. In fact any previous conceptions they had of our country was pretty hazy.

In return they told me how hard it had been for them during the war, since the Germans had occupied the city for many months. They also informed me that life had improved somewhat since then, which was something. They all emerged they thought happy as we went through the other war again, they hated the thought of it. I, in turn, was able to assure them that we hated it just as much as they did, and that they could rest assured we would never be the first to start one. They said they were very glad to hear that, and with that we returned to the hotel.

WCC Outlines Program for 1959-60 Season

With the coming of fall, the Women's Canadian Club of the city and district is planning an interesting program for the 1959-60 season. The club has a history of 45 years service to the community, during which time it has contributed materially to a wider understanding of Canada, by bringing a great number of outstanding speakers to its meetings.

Membership in the club involves no commitments; members are welcome and there is a minimum of eight speakers during the year, without doing any service work. The meetings are open to members only upon showing membership cards. Of course out-of-town guests and husbands are always welcome and pay only a small fee.

Owing to the restrictions caused by the use of the meeting places, the club membership has to be limited to 400.

The program for the season, announced recently by the president, Mrs. R. S. Tanner, begins with the distinguished actor, playwright and producer, Mavor Moore, Arnold Edinburgh, editor of Saturday Night, as luncheon speaker at the Comi-, Censorship and Obscene Literature". The annual dinner meeting speaker is His Excellency, Maurice Lacoste, French Ambassador to Canada, who will speak about, "The French Voice in North Africa". Later speakers include, Major General MacKinlay, Dr. Norman L. Nicholson; Brigadier Stephen Longridg, and Madame Solange C. Belland, French Canadian author and journalist.

Anyone desirous of joining the Canadian Club should contact Mrs. J. Forrester, 45 Bridge St. East, or Mrs. A. J. Clare, Trent Road

Ladies' Aux. Plans for Fall Bazaar

Last Saturday the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion went on a tour to Watertown, N.Y. where they were the guests of the American Legion Post 61 in their new home.

The Ladies' Auxiliary served a buffet supper and in the evening were entertained at a dance which was enjoyed by all.

A vote of thanks was given to the Ladies' Auxiliary and to Gordon Green, Commander of Post 61, for the most welcome invitation to their club. The Ladies' Auxiliary returned home tired, but happy in the welcome given them by the Watertown Legion.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held its regular monthly meeting on September 15th with Comrade Mary Bailey in the chair.

Reports of committees were read and accepted. Three guests were present from the Deseronto Auxiliary at this meeting.

During recess, a raffle was held which was won by Peggy Ruelfaema.

Plans are nearly finished for the annual bazaar which is to be held th October in the Legion Hall, on Pinnacle Street. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

HILL — SLACK

On September 4th, at 3.30 o'clock Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a charming late summer wedding when Rosemary Ann Slack, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Slack, Belleville, was united in marriage to Richard Wayne Hill, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hill of Seven Islands, Quebec. Rev. Robert F. Sherwin, of Bridge Street Church, performed the double ring ceremony and served communion. The chancel was lovely in soft candlelight with tall standards of gladioli and green foliage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a full-length gown of frost white silk organza over taffeta. The full hooped skirt with a slight train, was appliqued in Alencon lace to match the applique on the Sweetheart neckline of the dress. The tight fitting bodice was accented in the back by a large butterfly bow. The bride's tiara of small seed pearls and sequins, was worn with the chapel-length veil of pure silk illusion. The only jewellery worn by the bride was a small goldstone heart necklace, a keepsake of four generations. Her bridal bouquet of red Sweetheart roses, lily-of-the-valley, and satin streamers knotted with rosebuds, was arranged on a white Bible which had been presented to the bride's parents on their wedding day.

There were three attendants, Misses Barbara Voakes of Windsor, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, while Peggy Hill, sister of the bridegroom, and Donna Lee Griffith, of Belleville, served as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in ballerina-length dresses of pale turquoise flower-embossed organza over taffeta, featuring a crossed bodice of taffeta terminating in heart-length sashes. Their matching half hats were of shirred velvet With shoulder length veils of net and sprays of the same color completed the ensemble. Each attendant carried a corsage of pink and white Shasta 'mums centred with pink roses, and wore the gift of the bride, a sterling silver heart locket.

The demure little flower girl, Lisa Darroch, of Ottawa, cousin of the bride, looked sweet in her floor-length dress of petal pink organza over taffeta with a large bow on the back. Her headdress was a band of pink and blue rosebuds and she carried a basket of springtime blue Pinocchio 'mums. Her miniature heart locket of sterling silver was the gift of the bride.

The small ring bearers, Master Billy Slack, of Seven Islands, a cousin of the bride, were a smart white suit of gabardine. He carried a white satin heart-shaped cushion on which the rings were fastened with sprays of lily-of-the-valley and satin ribbon.

The best man was the bride's only brother, Mr. Edward Slack, of Seven Islands, and the ushers were Mr. Fred Ayotte of Mac Tier and Mr. Gordon Campbell of Belleville.

Belleville's well known tenor soloist, Mr. James D. Bankier, sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and the song of Ruth, "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," during the signing of the register. He was accompanied on the organ by Mr. S. Alec Gordon.

At the reception held in the church parlor, the bride's mother received, in an antique sheath dress of Chantilly lace over taffeta with pleated silk organza front panel. She wore a matching hat with other accessories in navy blue. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in a gown of brown and blue peau de soie with beige accessories. Each wore a corsage of cream roses and fern.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature silver vase of white Pinocchio 'mums and misted at the base with white tulle interspersed with small pink rosebuds. During the luncheon, as a special request of the bride and bridegroom, Mr. Bankier sang, "This Is Our Day," in honor of the bride's parents, who were celebrating their wedding anniversary.

For travelling to the Muskoka and Georgian Bay districts, the bride chose a jacket dress of light beige, honan shantung with autumn green accessories. She wore a corsage of miniature Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Port Hurron, Windsor, Clinton, Toronto, Mac Tier, Bracebridge, Hillsdale, Peterborough, Ottawa, and Seven Islands.

Tabernacle WMS to Study 'Africa'

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.M.S. was held in the church parlor on the afternoon of September 8.

The president, Mrs. Ray Lockhart, opened the meeting by reading Psalm 100 "In Common Worship God speaks to us and we respond in prayer and praise".

A letter was read from W.C.T.U. stating representatives from W.M.S. to attend W.C.T.U. meeting. The members of W.C.T.U. would like more women to attend W.C.T.U. meetings

Miss Johns was appointed as delegate from Tabernacle W.M.S. to attend rally in Carmel, October 21.

Committee in charge of Missionary Tea for September 30 reported arrangements for tea had been made. Tickets for sale were given to members.

Mrs. Eastcott spoke about the study book for this year. This year the WMS is studying "Africa". Africa has been called the dark Continent. Africa is realizing the power of small countries owned or protected by outside nations.

The study book is entitled "Africa Disturbed". The Africans are beginning to question why they are servants of their own country.

BOOKLETS

Mrs. Eastcott mentioned a number of books bought for the bookstall. Some of these books are most interesting reading namely "Africa Man Power", "Africa Ahead", "This Is Africa", "Christianity & Politics", "Introducing Animism on a belief in spirits, "Inside Angola" and "The Way To Abundance".

The Rev. Anson Moorhouse and his helpers were to be thanked for brought in a good picture to show at the different groups in United Church. The name of the picture is "I'll Sing and Not Cry". This picture is to be shown in the church in January. Africa in their troubles sing rather than cry.

Mrs. Eastcott spoke of a wonderful Christian convention which was held in Nigeria, Africa this past year. There were 96 thousand at the convention. She reported a wonderful spiritual uplift from the convention.

SHERMAN—MORRIS

Baskets of white gladioli and mums, interspersed by ferns, formed a lovely September wedding background in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, September 5th, at 3.30 p.m., when the Reverend Robert Sherwin, assistant pastor of the church, united in marriage Margaret Olwen Morris, registered nurse, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, to James Garry Sherman, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Sherman, White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, presided at the console, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Margaret Hillis, of Belleville, who sang before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her Elizabethan bridal gown of parchment white peau de soie, fashioned in sereno simplicity with accents of cutwork lovers' lovenuts at the neckline. The full skirt, with matching crinoline, cascaded into a chapel train, and the molded, sheath-like sleeves ended over the wrists in V-points. Her fingertip tulle illusion veil accented by embossed rosebuds, fell from a crown encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white roses entwined with ivory 'mums.

Miss Helen Kuzlin, of Belleville, also a registered nurse, was maid of honor, and Miss Nancy Sherman, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, were her only attendants. Both wore identical rooms in strict-length, of heirloom brocaded taffeta with matching coronets, gloves and shoes, and carried bouquets of flame-colored daffodil.

Mr. Bowen Chamberlain, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Mr. David Morris, of Hilton, Ontario, brother of the bride, and Mr. Lorne Corbyn, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in the church parlor, where the bride's mother, wearing teal-blue faille with matching accessories, and corsage of white gardenias, received the guests. Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother, attired in sapphire blue silk with navy accessories, color and corsage of white gladioli and red rosebuds.

For travelling to the bride's western United States, and Western Ontario, the bride chose a two-piece tailored linen dress with feather hat, brown accessories and corsage of bronze-tone mums. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will reside at 122 Dundas Street East, Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Hilton, Toronto, Napanee, Corbyville, Brighton, Stirling and Foxboro.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. Allson Kuglin, of Foxboro, with Mrs Helen Kuglin as co-hostess, when the bride's classmates, graduates of Belleville General Hospital, 1957, showered her with many lovely gifts.

The happy couple was also presented with a floor lamp by their Hilton friends at Hilton Hall, and by the So-Ed group of the Belleville YMCA with a living-room mirror, at a surprise party. The Purbeck Motorcycle Club," of Belleville, presented them with a lovely floor lamp.

Elim Baptist Church Outgrows Present Site, Moves to Parkdale

The Congregation of the Elim Baptist Church, which has been meeting at 260 Coleman Street for the past four years, has purchased a site for a new church building on Sidney Street, just opposite Auburn Street, in the Parkdale district of Belleville. The new site comprises 20,000 square feet, which will provide ample size for future expansion and development.

Since the church has decided to relocate in the Parkdale area held its first meeting in that section the congregation would move services immediately to the Parkdale Community Centre and that the name of the church should be changed to Parkdale Baptist Church. The move will take place at the end of September, Sunday September 27th being the last services at the Coleman Street premises which was being offered for sale, and October 4th being the first Sunday with services in the Parkdale Community Centre.

DOUBLED MEMBERSHIP

Under the leadership of the Rev. Robert F. Snyder, who celebrates his second anniversary with the church on Sunday, The Elim Baptist Church has doubled its membership and more than tripled its Sunday School average attendance. The present quarters have been overtaxed for Sunday School, and the regular morning service has been necessitating two sittings. The Parkdale Community Centre will provide more room for class space and for the church services as well.

While the Parkdale Baptist Church will continue to serve Evangelical Baptists from all over the city, it will be the only church in the Parkdale area. The building committee responsible for selecting a suitable plan for the new church will be announced in a few weeks.

FAMOUS TOWER

The great Gothic Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa rises 293 feet.

Physiotherapist Welcomed by C.A.R.S. Aux.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Quinte Branch, held its first meeting of the fall season at the home of Mrs. Wesley MacDonald, 2244, Main Street, with a splendid attendance. The president, Mrs. Enos David, opened the meeting.

Miss Bessie V. D. Rose, the new physiotherapist for this district, was cordially welcomed. Miss Rose comes from Derbyshire, England, and has been on the staff of Whittington Hospital, London, England, before coming to Canada. A special guest was Miss Eileen Visconti, a native of London, England, and now resident in Belleville.

DONATIONS

Madame president advised that a slide-projector had been purchased from the donation made by the Deseronto Auxiliary at the proceeds from the loan cupboard.

It was announced that the Auxiliary would have a display at the Picton Fair on September 25th and 26th and members of the Auxiliary would be present to answer questions and explain the photographs and posters to be exhibited.

RUMMAGE SALE

Space has been donated by the Ontario Hydro, through the kindness of Mr. D. A. Burnett, for the storing of furniture and clothing in the old Hydro building on Pinnacle Street, the collection for the Auxiliary rummage sale to be held in the fall of the spring. Members were requested to keep this in mind and to ask their friends to make donations to this project.

A film is to be shown at Stirling United Church W.A. at its meeting on October 6.

Mrs. J. Legros reported progress made on the revision of the constitution for this Auxiliary Branch.

The annual dinner meeting of the Society will take place at Hotel Quinte on October 7, with a guest speaker and program.

A social period followed with refreshments served by Mrs. David, Mrs. Morrell and Miss Rita MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ketcheson, Trenton, who are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary Saturday seen with history of the Ketcheson family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson Happily Wed for 60 Years

The 1918 fire and explosion at the district and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Ketcheson. Mrs. Ketcheson is the former Permilla Reid and was born in Huntingdon township.

The couple was married at the bride's mother's home and later left by team and buggy for Bloomfield for a brief honeymoon.

WORKED AS CARPENTER

After their marriage the Ketchesons lived only a short time at Moira. They moved to Frankford, Belleville and Trenton before going to Trenton where they have lived for about 48 years ago.

Retired for the past 15 years, Mr. Ketcheson worked as carpenter in the CNR shops and while working on a bridge project had his left smashed in an accident. The mishap laid him up for several years.

He said he had used the railway for damages and had received judgment. "But,I didn't work for the railway any more," he observed with a slight twinkle in his eye.

During recent weeks Mr. Ketcheson has been in ill health, but his bride of 60 years is exceptionally active for her years. "I do all my own housework except the washing," she said.

Mr. Ketcheson is 81 and Mrs. Ketcheson 85. They attend United Church.

3 YEARS IN SAME HOUSE

They have lived in the same duplex house in Trenton for the past 40 years. They formerly owned the house but sold it a few years ago, taking a lifetime lease on the side they occupied.

They have four daughters, 18 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren, most of whom will be present at the anniversary party to be held Saturday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Maurice Mallory, 4th concession of Sidney township.

We are not supposed to know anything about it. It was to be a surprise," they said.

Other members of their family are Mrs. Nostrand Sprague of Trenton; Mrs. William Christian of Toronto, and Mrs. Stanley Jackson of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Mr. Ketcheson has two sisters, Mrs. Blanche Yawin, of Calgary, who is 91, and Mrs. R. L. Edwards, of Cobourg. Mrs. Ketcheson has a sister, Mrs. M. B. Spencer, of Rochester, N.Y., and a brother, Andrew Reid, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Expert Notice: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychologist, a clergyman, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual open history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by correspondents and counsellors.

Tequia B. — He wants me to be a maid.

Bert B. — I'm willing to do my share.

Paula R. — What can I do about a husband who requires pampering like a little boy? If he doesn't get it he goes into the sulks.

Bert and I are in our mid-40's and have been married less than a year. I am working and I can't be expected to do things the way a woman who stays home all day does them. Bert expects me to take care of the house and all his things like a maid. He doesn't think he's supposed to lift a finger.

On top of that, he resents my visiting my family. My father has been ill for the past year and I try to spend as much time as possible with him. Bert doesn't want to come with me, but he doesn't like being left alone either.

Bert B. — I don't think asking a woman to cook a decent dinner and to keep the place in good shape is asking for maid service. I am willing to do my share. For any time I ask Paula to do something she reminds me that she works just as hard as I do.

As for being pampered, I have never had that happen to me in my life. My mother was widowed when I was 9 and she went to work. I'm used to shifting for myself.

But I thought married life would be different. It's no fun always waking into a messy house and hustling for your dinner. I'm willing to clean up afterwards. I provide for Paula, come home few nights a week. Every night seems to be Daddy's night late!

The Council: We don't get the impression that Bert is looking for maid service or pampering — only some signs that his wife cares for him and is happy to be with him.

One of the ways wives continually lose their satisfaction with marriage is by taking an interest in their homes. This is sometimes difficult for a working woman, but it isn't impossible. With a hand from hubby, countless working women manage to maintain beautiful homes.

When lack of interest about the household is coupled with so-said lack of interest in Daddy that Bert is left alone nearly every night, there is good reason for him to wonder where he fits into the picture. The fact that Paula has an independent income is no help to Bert in his desire to be of importance in his married life.

We get the impression that Paula is running away from both responsibilities and the rewards of marriage. She cannot possibly enjoy being a wife when she resilises that her husband isn't happy and that he expects more of her than she is willing to give.

A women working to make her home attractive and her husband comfortable can be a drudge and a servant or a queen in possession of her own domain — which ever way she chooses to look at it. It is Paula's misfortune that she has chosen the role of drudge.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE DUTIES OF THE MATRON OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I, My sister-in-law (my husband's sister) has asked me to be matron of honor at her wedding, to take place next month. I am very happy with the invitation, and so very happy to accept. Now I would like to know what are the specific obligations (financial and others) concerning this occasion, as I want to have everything as fair as I can concerned me smoothly and happily as possible.

2. I would also like to have you tell me if it would be proper for me to give a bridal shower for her. If so, how far ahead of the wedding date? And (also, if so) should I invite the groom's relatives as well as the bride's relatives? — A.

1. In general your duties as honor attendant are: (a) always to be gracious (and judging by the few letter, graciousness is charmingly characteristic of you!); (b) always to be co-operative, doing not only the things you are asked to do, but also the many things you sense would be particularly helpful. Specifically you pay for every detail of your costume, which the bride-to-be chooses for you, and promptly attend fittings. (The bride or her family supply your flowers.)

A matron of honor with good and legible handwriting often is asked to help in the addressing of invitations and announcements, also with any last-minute details of the wedding or reception. Since the bride is your husband's sister, you would undoubtedly have opportunities to be particularly and "knowingly" helpful. You attend all pre-wedding festivities. You attend the wedding rehearsal.

In the Processional you precede the bride and her father up the aisle, first having arranged the bride's veil and train; during part of the ceremony you hold the bride's bouquet; and when she turns for the Recessional you return the bouquet to her and adjust her veil and train. (If there is to be a double-ring ceremony, you will probably be asked to take charge of the groom's ring, just as the best man takes charge of the bride's ring.) You sign your name to the marriage license as a witness.

You stand in the receiving-line, and graciously introduce the guests to the person next to you in the line. If there is a bridal table, you sit at the left of the bridegroom (the bride sits at his right). If there is dancing, you of course dance with the groom, the best man, the ushers, then with another guest.

When the bride leaves the reception, you go with her to help her to change to her going-away costume, and to perform any other service. And of course you and your husband give the couple a wedding present.

2. It is a delightful plan for the bridal attendants to give a shower or some other kind of entertainment before the wedding. In your case, since the bride is your sister-in-law, it would be in bad taste, I suggest, for you to give the shower in conjunction with the bridesmaids. If it is to be a "general" shower, the groom's relatives and the bride's relatives should be invited. Although there is no rule as to when a shower should be given, it is, because of the many other pre-wedding festivities, wise to give it at least three weeks before the wedding date, perhaps even a month before.

Spongy cotton in a terry weave adds up to a good fabric choice for a leisure robe. This one comes in bright yellow or brilliant plaid, striking for nice interior decoration. It can be belted all around or slipped through at the waist. The slit pockets are slashed into side seams and the robe is softened with self fringe. A comfy robe for either a lady or her, if is a good choice for the campus wardrobe.

QUESTION:

Do you have a Honey Cake recipe that is baked in paper cups? If I knew there is spent lemon goo in it and which baked is rather dark. Thank you. A Brompton reader. Perhaps that the butter is supposed to be beaten in the remainder for an hour? I had these cookies at a wedding reception. They were perfectly delicious and tasting sugar and when bitten into were almost like a sweet made with whites of egg. If I remember rightly this cookie was made by a Greek or Armenian person anyway more eastern country than not . . . Alice K.

ANSWER:

I have the Honey Sponge Cake for you but would like to know the native name of the cookie you describe as having "butter beaten for 1 hour". I'm sure many of our readers know of a recipe for a cookie such as Alice K. requests I would be pleased to receive it.

HONEY SPONGE CAKE:

1 1-4 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoons honey, 9 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 4 1-2 tablespoons water.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and soda and sift together 3 times. Add sugar gradually to beaten egg yolks, beating with rotary egg beater after each addition until thick and light. Add honey. Fold in flour, a small amount at a time, and blend. Add juices and water gradually, mixing only enough to blend. Bake in ungreased tube pan at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Remove from oven and invert until cold.

Alice, you asked for the names of Hungarian cookbooks. I have two to suggest. "Art of Hungarian Cooking," illus., pub-lished by Doubleday and Company, costs about $4.50; "Hungarian - American Cookbook," published by Company of Today, about $4.00. You could order either of these through your bookstore.

ANSWER:

The type of tomatoes your friend grows is important. Tell her to write for "The Alberta Horticultural Guide" Publication 23, to Agricultural Extension Service, Alberta Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton. It lists various vegetables including tomatoes and where they are best grown in certain zones.

CANNED TOMATOES:

Blanch in boiling water, cold dip, remove stem and core, peel, Quarter or leave whole. Heat to simmering. Pack hot in sterilized jars, leaving 1-2" headspace. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt for each pint. Seal. Process in boiling water bath 15 minutes for both quarts and pints. Tighten lids.

NEW TECHNIQUE — London-born artist Robert Hurley, 65, displays a painting he created using a new technique he calls monoprint. He uses such materials as leaves, rags, linoleum and bits of string which he pastes on cardboard, touches up with paint then presses against his canvas. He has had great popular success with more conventional, though stark, interpretations of prairie scenery but prefers to work in his new medium. The Queen has five of his paintings and four more have been ordered for Buckingham Palace. He receives an annual retainer of $2,000 from the Saskatchewan government allowing him to paint full time. He lives at Sutherland, Saskatchewan. (CP PHOTO).

Saskatoon Artist Trying New Technique Called Monoprint

SASKATOON (CP) — Robert Hurley, Saskatoon artist noted for his paintings of Prairie scenery, is trying a new technique that he calls monoprint.

"I really don't know how to describe it," he said in an interview recently.

"Each painting is as individual as if it were done by a brush.

"But look — I use all these things as my tools."

The things included leaves, rags and little bits of string.

The leaves, pasted on cardboard and touched with paint, make an interesting design when pressed against paper. String pasted on cardboard, then painted and pressed, is used to create simple bold designs.

MANY POSSIBILITIES

"I know that people consider this a trick in art but the fact is, I find this kind of thing the most creative work I've ever done," Mr. Hurley said. "The possibilities of this type of art are endless."

Born in London, England, Mr. Hurley came to the West when he was 30. He worked at lumbering and on the railroad, but did not begin to paint until the depression of the 1930s.

He has had great success. Queen Elizabeth II has five of his paintings and four more were ordered for Buckingham Palace during the recent Royal Tour.

Says a Saskatoon art critic: "If Hurley painted every day, all day and all night, he could never keep up with the demand for his paintings of the Prairies. These are the paintings the public loves and demands."

At 65, the tall artist — whose first works sold for $3 — is looking for new outlets.

"After painting so many prairie scenes you can't imagine what it does for me to get into a new field. I feel it releases some creative urge. I paint this way to please myself."

Hurley said he will continue to paint scenes of wind-swept emptiness — telephone poles stretching into the horizon, elevators standing high above surrounding fields, the other symbols of the Canadian plains — but his new method is his true love.

Four of his paintings were presented to the Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, by the Saskatchewan government when she visited the province in 1951. They depicted the four seasons. He was swamped with orders following the presentation.

Last year the government paid him a retainer of $2,000 to allow him to leave his job and devote all his time to painting, with an agreement that he present at least 10 works a year to the government.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The biggest open-air gambling game of the year was held in Toronto this week. Cops and Pinkerton men strolled through the crowd, but only to keep order as the gamblers, many of them dealing strictly in thousand-dollar bills wagered $171,000 in four hours.

The cops, jovial and beaming, were there at the invitation of the house. Their job was to make sure everyone was seated, otherwise the chap running the game might miss a nod of the head or a flick of the hand that could mean an extra $100, $500 or $1,000.

The occasion was the 161h annual yearling sale at the Old Woodbine paddock sponsored by the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society. Fifty - six one-year-old Canadian-breds went on the block and the gamblers, spending money at a scandalous pace, depended on nothing but good horse sense, looks and breeding.

The horsemen from Quebec, Ontario, Western Canada and the eastern United States realized that they were taking one of the biggest gambles in people at least, as long as a six - horse parlay ending up on a 50-to-1 shot.

They have no farm to go on. The frisky fillies and colts were just off the farm. Some undoubtedly will spend the rest of their lives eating their owners broke or running as slow - runs when they reach the racetrack.

As a group, the buyers take all the worst of it from the law of averages. But they've all got a gleam in their eyes and silently hope that the filly or colt bought this September evening will be saddled up and ready to go on a June afternoon in 1961 when the $50,000-added Queen's Plate is run.

Virtually all of the 56 sold this week are eligible for the Plate stakes in two years. But if the form on yearling sales in general stands up, many of them will never see the inside of a racetrack again, much less race for the Queen's 50 guineas.

Of course, there are a few winners. Examples: Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe of Toronto, who appear to have the magic touch.

Two years ago they bought a filly at the yearling sale for $1,300. Right now, that filly—named Wonder Where—is the country's leading three-year-old filly with a haul of nearly $65,000 in purses and with the potential of increasing this to $100,000 or so.

They got it from managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens, who, besides turning out Stanley Cup champions, owns a breeding farm at Rigaud, Que. Selke put six more on the block this week and the Maloney-Smythe combination picked up two of them for a total of $37,000.

They paid a record $22,000 for Dejanira, a bay filly by Chop Chop-On The Fly. It may have been the "steal" of the night because Chop Chop, leading sire in Canada in two seasons, has sired two Queen's Plate winners—Canadiana in 1953 and Lyford Cay in 1957.

Selke may have been lucky getting the yearlings to the sale. Paddy Conklin of Brantford, Ont. consigned a bay colt but it never did reach Toronto—it died on the farm a few days before.

Around Training Camps

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Pat Hanagan, burly right winger from Schumacher, clubbed two of the three goals scored in Thursday's Toronto Maple Leaf workout.

Pat scored the only goals when Johnny Bower's team blanked Jim Pendwick's side 1-0 in the morning drill and fired the scrimmage when the teams were tied 1-1 in the afternoon session.

Hanagan spent last season with the Kitchener of the Western Eastern Professional Hockey League — will have in his lineup several players who were with Rochester when the American League last season.

One of them is Bill Hicke, rookie of the year and scoring champion in the AHL last season.

All of last year's Americans' players are set to the Rochester camp next week except those Blake decides deserve another look as potential Canadians for this season.

PLAN FEW CHANGES

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— With two exhibition games between New York Rangers of the National Hockey League plan few changes in the club's lineup this season contest here today against Cleveland Barons.

Defeating Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 in Peterborough, Rangers won at the Queen Victoria Springfield Indians 5-2 on the following night. Both early casualties are left winger Ed Shack, who suffered a 15-stitch gash in his forehead, and Lou Gaddby, who suffered bruised ribs. Both were hurt in the game against Toronto.

Gaddby and Shack may see limited action against Cleveland.

Saturday Rangers travel to the Thomas and Mac Arena for exhibition engagement, then head for Kitchener-Waterloo, where they will play in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

DOUBTFUL STARTER

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Glenn Hall, veteran Chicago Black Hawk goaltender, will be the only doubtful starter when the Hawks meet Toronto Maple Leafs in an exhibition game at Peterborough tonight.

Hall pulled a muscle just below his right knee in Wednesday's practice and had to rest Thursday because of what he termed "mild pain".

"It's not serious," said trainer Mick Garen.

Coach Rudy Pilous would not say whether Hall will play against Leafs. If Hall doesn't play, Claude Pronovost and Roy Edwards will divide the goaltending duties.

BROTHER LINE

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Toe Blake announced Thursday the three Richard brothers will play as a forward-line unit for the first time in public when Montreal Canadiens and Montreal Royals, a farm club, meet September 24.

Working together for the Stanley Cup champions in the exhibition season, Maurice (Rocket) Richard (Rocket), Henri (Pocket Rocket) and Claude (Rocket) Richard will be the Vest pocket Rocket.

No far Claude has never attempted the prowess of his more illustrious brothers.

Dalton Floyd Curry of the Royals—an entry this season in the new Eastern Professional Hockey League—will have in his lineup several players who were with Rochester when the American League last season.

One of them is Bill Hicke, rookie of the year and scoring champion in the AHL last season.

All of last year's Americans' players are set to the Rochester camp next week except those Blake decides deserve another look as potential Canadians for this season.

PLAN FEW CHANGES

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— With two exhibition games between New York Rangers of the National Hockey League plan few changes in the club's lineup this season contest here today against Cleveland Barons.

Defeating Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 in Peterborough, Rangers won at the Queen Victoria Springfield Indians 5-2 on the following night. Both early casualties are left winger Ed Shack, who suffered a 15-stitch gash in his forehead, and Lou Gaddby, who suffered bruised ribs. Both were hurt in the game against Toronto.

Gaddby and Shack may see limited action against Cleveland.

Saturday Rangers travel to the Thomas and Mac Arena for exhibition engagement, then head for Kitchener-Waterloo, where they will play in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Will Rest Up

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies announced Thursday that first baseman Eddie Bouchee, top hitting regular on the last-place National League club, will miss today's game in Chicago.

Bouchee, previously hitting .288 with 72 runs batted in and 15 home runs, is suffering a cold in his head.

General manager John Quinn said he hopes Bouchee will be in shape by Saturday.

Title Defence For Fullmer In Offmg

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Three promoters met with manager Marv Jensen Wednesday to discuss a middleweight title defence for NBA champion Gene Fullmer.

"I am not at liberty to mention any names regarding a title defence," Jenson said. But he said he was pleased with the discussions.

The promoters were Norm Rothschild of Toronto, Ont., and Harry Markson and Teddy Brenner, who represent Madison Square Garden.

Wants Marciano For Third Man In Return Bout

LONDON (AP)—Ex-U. S. marine Terry Downes, who lost the British middleweight crown Tuesday to John (Cowboy) McCormack, said Thursday he wants Rocky Marciano to refere the return bout.

Downes lost to McCormack by disqualification for a low punch after having floored his foe nine times.

The return was set for Nov. 3 against a background of bitter controversy over rules.

Downes claims the low punch was an accident and at first declared angrily he would not fight for the title again until the rules are changed. In the United States a foul punch would have cost him only the round, not the fight.

FIND SON DEAD

WELCONA, Colo. (AP)—Eddie Lisle, 21, waved goodbye to his parents at their farm Thursday and set out in his car for an evening in town. A few minutes later, the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lisle, left for attend classes a services here and came upon the wreckage of a car, skewered on a bridge railing. Inside was the body of their son.

London Driver Seeking New Speed Records

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (CP) — Racing driver Ed Leavens of London, Ont., who last week was Canada its first world automobile speed record, faces his biggest test of driving skill here this weekend.

Saturday or Sunday, weather permitting, he will pilot the EX-219 Austin Healey Sprite in an attempt to put Canada four more international land speed records.

He will drive the streamliner down the 15-mile straightaway of these famous flats at speeds of over 150 miles an hour in attempts to capture the United States, flying mile record, the international flying five kilometer; the international flying five miles, the international flying 10 kilometers and the international flying 10 miles.

On Sept. 9 Leavens shared in the successful attack of the British Motor Corporation on the international 12 - hour endurance record, a constant average speed of 140 miles an hour to help capture nine international and 46 American national records.

Rademacher Scores TKO Over Schneider

GREENVILLE, S.C. (CP) — Pete Rademacher scored a fourth-round technical knockout over poorly - conditioned Ralph Schneider Thursday night in a heavyweight boxing match scheduled for 10 rounds.

Schneider showed his right hand in the third round and couldn't continue in the fourth.

The former Olympic champion from Columbus, Ga., made pounding leg of Schneider, 27-pounder From Miami, Fla.

Schneider, fat and slow, didn't land a punch until the third, a right to Rademacher's shoulder, probably the punch that caused the injury.

Rademacher weighed 199.

SON DROWNS IN TUB

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Patrick Cullo left her nine-month-old son and his three-year-old brother alone for "about 20 minutes" Thursday while she hung up a washing in the basement. When Mrs. Cullo returned upstairs she found the baby floating dead in the bathtub. The brother, she told police, he was giving the baby a bath.

Canada Will Defend Trophy At Picton

TORONTO (CP) — Canada will make its first defence of the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of unofficial speedboat racing supremacy, Aug. 19, 20 and 22 next year on a Lake Ontario course off Picton.

The dates were announced Thursday night following a conference between Commodore Hollywood, Canadian Boating Federation commodore, and Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton.

Mr. McFarland, head of a large construction firm and sponsor of the world amateur hockey champion Belleville McFarlands, has pledged full support for the three-heat international classic. He was largely responsible in having the long reach course in the Bay of Quinte chosen for the defence.

The trophy was brought to Canada for the first time last month when Gar Wood, who owned and designed by Jim Thompson of London, Ont., won several records in upsetting the United States defender, Maverick, in three heats on the Detroit River.

No 1959 challenge has been received yet by the Canadian organization, but the deadline isn't until the end of the year. There may also be a challenge from Britain.

Two Officials Are Expelled

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The Danish Bicycle Union Thursday expelled two officials in a spectacular stimulation case that has rocked sports circles here.

Union executives expelled coach Arne Roosen for having given one racer an "injection with stimulus." They did not elaborate.

The union announced Thursday night following a conference between Commodore Hollywood, Canadian Boating Federation commodore, and Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton.

Ground Broken For New Stadium At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long flight Over Chavez Ravine as the site of Los Angeles Dodgers' ball park passed another point Thursday when ground was broken for the proposed baseball plant.

More than 5,000 people turned out to watch. Highway patrol officers in a helicopter circling the area estimated 2,000 cars have driven into the place and hundreds failed to arrive on time because of the traffic jam.

An impromptu diamond was laid out and members of the crowd took their usual positions. The stunt didn't get very far because the players were swamped by autograph seekers.

The stadium is to be ready in 1960.

Tony Anthony Meets Johnson In TV Bout

BALTIMORE (AP) — Picture puncher Tony Anthony will be battling two opponents when he steps into the ring tonight: A Pennsylvania slugger named Alonzo Johnson, and sagging pressbox.

Anthony, a light heavyweight who has been mixing with heavies such as Johnson to test his set, must score a knockout or go the best big prospect to come along in some time.

But he didn't win fights against the top contenders by way the experts thought he should—or he didn't get very far.

His record of 30 wins in 47 fights—29 by knockouts—is good, but not nearly as impressive as it was a year ago.

Anthony originally was booked to meet Willie Pastrano here. But Willie hurt a leg training.

Johnson, 26, from Braddock Pa., established himself by whipping Nino Valdez last May and Bob Satterfield in a return match Pastrano in Louisville. He has won 16 of his 19 pro fights.

The fight will be televised by NBC and CBC.

Savings Bond Interest Rate Figures Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's 1959 series of Canada Savings Bonds will go on sale Oct. 1 with a record average interest yield of 4.86 a year for the nine-year maturities.

Finance Minister Fleming in Ottawa announced the details of the new series 14, which will be dated Nov. 1, 1959, and mature Nov. 1, 1968 at the rate of 103 per cent of par value.

The bonds will be in nine coupons, one a year, the first paying four per cent interest, the second 4¼ per cent, the third 4½ per cent and the remaining six five per cent.

This works out to an average interest of 4.86 per cent, to maturity, compared with an average of 4.19 per cent on the 1958 series and the previous record yield of 4.50 in 1957.

The minister told a meeting of campaign organizers that the limit on deposits in any one name has been doubled to $20,000. As in the past they will be offered in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000.

For the first time, they may be registered in the name of the estate of a deceased person, or legally constituted executor or trustee or administrator of an estate.

Mr. Fleming said the 1959 series' record interest yield in the 14-year history of savings bonds is the "very attractive" result in market issues of a comparable maturity, having regard for the privilege of redemption at par.

Last year, more than 1,150,000 Canadians purchased $921,000,000 of Canada Savings Bonds. Series 13. Of this amount some $50,000 was bought $207,000,000 worth through the payroll savings plan.

The new series will be offered for sale at 100 per cent up to Nov. 14.

The bonds will be redeemable at any bank at face value, plus earned interest, at any time after purchase.

Inuvik Given Bill of Health By Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — The planned western Arctic town of Inuvik, with a $24,000,000 cost c u m e under sharp attack from Progressive Conservative members of Parliament earlier this year, was given a clean bill of health Wednesday by Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton.

"If my friends here are going to educate the children of the north they must be educated — they now are being educated — then Inuvik is money well spent," Mr. Hamilton said on his return from a northern tour.

He said more money perhaps could have been spent on some things. "They may have been a little lavish."

CAN MATCH RUSSIA

He said in respect, started under the previous Liberal administration, is a demonstration that Canada can match, at least as well as the Russians under the Soviet system.

Last June some government supporters questioned the Arctic administrative headquarters from Ottawa, and the whole question of government waste. Mr. Hamilton reserved judgment.

H. H. McGregor, Progressive Conservative member for Moose East, had urged an inquiry into the Liberal - planned snow-out community to be "just another anokhoe" for federal funds — a suggestion to which that the transfer was prompted by permafrost buckling under Aklavik's sinking foundations.

Inuvik is about 30 miles by air from Aklavik and 80 by river in the eastern arm of the Mackenzie River in the delta.

Cost $24,000,000

The $24,000,000 bill for Inuvik, still unfinished, includes $7,800,000 for the "utilidor" heating and sewage system, planned as an insulated tunnel for the pipes.

The utilidor draws water from a nearby lake and heats it for use. It also heats each building and pumps sewage into another lake.

It had been suggested that masonry panelling in the school principal's office was extravagance. In fact, Mr. Hamilton said the mahogany from the Philippines proved cheaper than British Columbia fir used also.

It had also been charged that two big playrooms in each of the Roman Catholic and Anglican school hostels had wasted $150,000, because a school gymnasium was nearby. In fact, Mr. Hamilton said, they are essential for children in a country where they may be confined indoors for days at a time. The gymnasium-auditorium was for the whole community.

Student Chokes On Raw Liver In Hazing Ritual

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A University of Southern California student choked to death on a piece of raw meat during a pro-fraternity hazing, police reported.

Dr. Melvin Golby, summoned to the Kappa Sigma fraternity house, said he had to extract a thick piece of liver from the gullet of Richard Swanson, 21, Swanson, son of a Los Angeles physician, was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

Dr. Golby said the piece was nearly four inches long and nearly an inch thick.

Police said the youth was being initiated along with 19 other pledges (prospective members).

Nathan Ruben, ambulance attendant, said he found the youth, dressed in a burlap sack, lying on his stomach in the rear of the fraternity house.

He asked the onlookers if Swanson had eaten anything, but they remained silent.

"Had I known (about the liver)," Ruben added, "I might have performed a tracheotomy (an emergency throat— slitting operation) and we might have saved him."

Ruben said the youths crowded around Swanson told him the student was suffering a nervous, spasmodic attack.

No charges have been filed against any of the fraternity members. An investigation has been started.

U.S. Commander Backs Guards In Iceland Case

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) — The commander of the United States air force base where two Icelandic officials were said to have been forced at gunpoint to lie in puddles of water said Thursday that the officials had carried a restricted area with the intention of breaking security rules.

The Icelandic ambassador in Washington last week protested to the state department that American guards had forced the officials to lie in the puddles for 10 minutes and threatened to shoot them if they opened their mouths. The ambassador said the state department had accepted the Icelandic version of the incident.)

In an interview with the Reykjavik newspaper Morgun Bladid, Gen. Gilbert Pritchard, commander of U. S. defence forces at Kleflavik airport, where the incident occurred, said there were seven clearly-marked security zones where people needed passes.

"Security zones are security zones and that will not be changed because Icelandic officials will lost wait five minutes for guards," the general was quoted as saying.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER, 18, 1959

CANADA'S POPULATION GROWTH

HOW CANADA GREW — Canada during the last year has passed the 18 million mark, 45 people every hour. Assuming that nothing happens to this rate—and lots could—resident number 18,000,000 will arrive about Oct. 18, 1960.

At the prediction is true, it will have taken two years and seven months to add 1,000,000 to the population. The record for such a jump is two years flat—from 16,000,000 in mid-April, 1956, to 17,000,000 in April of last year.

Figures on chart show that Canada, with a population of 6,000,000 in 1905, grew to 8,000,000 in 1923, to 12,000,000 by 1944 and to 15,000,000 by 1953. (CP Newsmap.)

Average Rate of Canadian Growth Said 1,089 Per Day Expect 18 Million by 1960

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population grew by 1,089 people per day. It probably will increase by the same number today, tomorrow and the next day.

That's the average rate of Canadian growth for the year, calculated by adding births and immigration and then subtracting deaths and emigration. It works out to a little over 45 people every hour.

Assuming that nothing happens to change this rate—a risky assumption, because of bad luck—a new baby or a new immigrant arriving somewhere during the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1960, will be Canadian resident No. 18,000,000.

STRICTLY FOR KICKS

Such pinpoint prediction is strictly statistics for kicks. It disregards too many variables—a change in the birth rate, a shift in the immigration - emigration balance, and so on. But the statisticians at the Bureau of Statistics made the forecast anyway. Present indications are that they may not be far out. There is no sign of any immediate change in current immigration restrictions. And while nobody here is brash enough to forecast birth rates, no big changes are expected.

If the forecasters do come close —give them a week or two each way—it will have taken Canada two years and seven months to add 1,000,000 to its population. The record is two years flat, from 16,000,000 in mid-April, 1956, to 17,000,000 in April of last year.

Incidentally, if the growth rate at present is carried a step further—to a silly extreme, perhaps—then the Canadian census-takers in June, 1961, would count around 18,845,000 heads.

That would make for a population increase between censuses of more than one per cent from 14,009,000 in 1951. Percentagewise, the next rate of growth in Canada's history was 21 per cent, from 5,371,000 in 1901 to 7,206,000 in 1911.

The difference in immigration—1,000,000 more in addition Canada now is working on will be made up, in twelve years, by the net migration-minus-emigration, plus 625,000 in a natural increase—births minus deaths.

The 1901-1911 stretch provided a far different story. The West was filling up, and a westerner was leading the march—Sir Wilfrid Hon. Clifford Sifton, minister of the interior in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government, His view at the time:

"One of the principal ideas of western men have is that it is right to take the people who have provided nobody else is ahead of them. As a rule, it is sound policy for the government to act on that idea and encourage the people to go ahead."

Behind that attitude was a two-fold aim: to lure settlers from British and Continental Europe, and to bring back some of the thousands of Canadians who had emigrated to the United States during the previous 50 years. They drawn by the U.S. land and railroad booms and the New England textile mills.

It worked. In the period between 1897, a year after Sifton took office, and 1912, a total of 1,748,000 persons entered Canada from the United States, and in the same length of time 961,000 came from Britain and 594,000 from the Continent.

Canada's population, which had reached 5,000,000 in the early 1890s, climbed to 8,000,000 by 1905. Then, in a little over five years, it went up to 7,000,000 in June, 1910.

In 1913, immigration reached its peak, with 400,870 arrivals during the year—a total never since equalled. Then the First World War intervened, and immigration dropped sharply, falling to 33,914 in 1915.

During the same period, emigration was heavy, U.S. wartime conscription quotas did the same to Canada, and the flow across the border was stepped up as American industry actively recruited skilled and professional men in Canada.

In these circumstances, it took Canada six years to reach the 8,000,000 mark in May, 1916. Of this block of 1,000,000, an estimated 700,000 were natural domestic increase. Heavy immigration in the years after the war led to a net 300,000 by U.S. inroads.

Then came seven years—until May, 1923—to reach the next 1,000,000 plateau. Net immigration for those years totalled only 150,000 people, and natural increase was down to 350,000. After nearly six more years, the population became 10,000,000 in mid-1929.

In that year, the Canadian birth rate was 29 per 1,000 for each 1,000 of population. The following year, 1930, it began falling and reached a depression-era low of 20 in 1937. At the same time, immigration was sharply curtailed.

Under these conditions, Canada's growth was stunted. It took seven years and eight months to reach the 11,000,000 mark in December, 1936. Then came the record slow growth—seven years, 11 months, to climb to 12,000,000 in mid-November, 1944.

With the end of the Second World War came economic recovery, and the birth rate began climbing again, reaching 29.7 in 1947. Canada had 13,000,000 people by December, 1946—in three years and 10 months.

A year later, Newfoundland's entry into Confederation boosted Canada's population by 345,000. With immigration cancelled by equal emigration, natural increase in the other nine provinces accounted for the 655,000 increase as the over-all population hit 14,000,000 in May, 1951. It took two years, eight months.

The three months were cut from the time it took the country to gain the next 1,000,000 to 25,000,000 by October, 1953. With immigration rising and the birth rate at 28.5 in 1954, it took an even 2½ years to reach 16,000,000 in April, 1956.

Horse's Stamp In Living Room Drowned TV

LEAMINGTON SPA, England (Reuters) — Health authorities here ruled Wednesday that keeping a horse in a house is a "statutory nuisance."

Police was served on Mrs. Bridie O'Hare, 39, ordering her to remove her black gelding, Smoker, from her house here. She did so, deciding to sell her.

Then she was told to clean the tiny back living room of the house.

Neighbors claimed Smokey was kept there and said the clop-clop of the horse drowned out their television.

Nina Khrushchev Sees Show, Steals Spotlight, Converts Press Meeting Into Chaos

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Nina Khrushchev was the show on Broadway Thursday night.

"She killed my good laugh," try walking out two minutes before the finale, but I guess interest in the wengil has sagething against Mrs. Khrushchev," said Robert Preston of The Music Man declared.

"A once-in-a-lifetime thing," is the way Preston described Mrs. Khrushchev's appearance in the audience.

But it's not new in a lifetime. It happened again tonight at My Fair Lady, as Mrs. Khrushchev combined her second night of row out on her own—with husband Nikita off on political business elsewhere.

With the word getting around, the crowd should be even larger than some 500 that stood around for hours Thursday night at the Majestic Theatre to see the grey-haired, pleasantly smiling Mrs. Khrushchev.

Seated in the seventh row of the orchestra in a plum colored second from the aisle, she may not have understood the plot of the drama-with mustard, "but she was laughing right along," Preston said.

A stage manager, watching it happening here ruled Wednesday that keeping a horse in a house is a "statutory nuisance."

Police was served on Mrs. Bridie O'Hare, 39, ordering her to remove her black gelding, Smoker, from her house here. She did so, deciding to sell her.

At the intermission the spotlight turned from the stage to Mrs. Khrushchev and her two stepdaughters.

The Khrushchevs remained in their seats as the theater emptied break, surrounded by security guards.

Few in the audience went into the lobby, preferring to get a glimpse of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's wife.

Mine-Mill Meeting Refuses To Bar Reds From Office, Alienating Sudbury Local

TORONTO (CP) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Mine-Mill) alienated its largest local Thursday by refusing to repudiate communism in its constitution or remove it from union leadership.

The 14,000 - member Sudbury Local 598 gained absolutely no support for two resolutions calling for the union to amend Mine-Mill's constitution to bar Communists from office and require officers to take an oath.

Debate on the resolutions came to a head at the annual convention when Sudbury delegate T. J. O'Brien moved that Communist Party candidate William Kennedy, Minister of Mines in the Manitoba government, had admitted to being Communist party organizers.

Kennedy, Manitoba Mines Minister, had admitted to being Communist party organizers.

There was applause as the ex-Red walked at the convention floor.

Then he was applauded by the delegates, the daughters of Premier Khrushchev, and cut for an hour-long (lightening tour Thursday afternoon that included riding in sections of downtown Manhattan, passing a five-and-ten-cent store, the Empire Brewery, the main post office building and taking a look at the forest of ships in the harbor along the west side waterfront.

Julia, the older daughter, wife of a Rice University professor, is what apparently is the feeling of the Khrushchev family that she is the one who was asked by Mrs. Christian A. Herter, wife of the U.S. secretary of state, whether she planned to buy anything here.

"I'll look," she said, "we might try to if we could keep the store to one item—reporters would tear the place down."

In fact photographers, mostly male, got into something of a battle of the sexes over the Khrushchevs and the two girls earlier in the day when an attempt was made to get a family picture-taking session for the cameramen followed by an impromptu news conference, mostly women.

The effort turned into a mob scene when about 100 people tried to get close and the session had to be cancelled.

The appearance of the three women brought down the musical show The Music Man, attracted additional in the downtown theatre district.

The theatre press agent said performances had a full house —about 1,400 seats—and he considered Mrs. Khrushchev "sold out the theatre."

Mine-Mill Backs Request for CLC Membership

TORONTO (CP)—The annual convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) Thurs. upheld a membership referendum asking for affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mine-Mill had already applied to join the CLC but a resolution before the convention from Local 598 in Trail, B.C., demanded that the application be withdrawn.

It prompted a heated debate during Wednesday's session. One result was that a strongly-worded telegram was drafted to be sent to CLC president Claude Jodoin protesting the treatment of Mine-Mill's application.

The Trail resolution gained supporting support and the CLC was soundly flailed by many delegates, even though the Mine-Mill membership had voted 6-to-1 in favor of asking to join the congress.

The telegram to Mr. Jodoin protested the CLC's refusal to "the dignity" of the union in announcing to the press a decision on Mine-Mill's membership would be delayed until CLC officers had met with executive bodies in an annual convention.

ADOPT BOARD REPORT

After debate that tossed out the Trail resolution, they adopted a portion of the executive board report on the "labor unity." The report backs CLC membership because "we want to strengthen the Canadian Labor Congress" and "we want labor unity."

Astrong opposition to the Trail motion came Wednesday from Local 598, a Mine-Mill local director of CLC affiliation.

The Mine - Mill membership referendum was held July 21 but only 25 per cent of the 34,000 members cast ballots.

Plan to Study All Aspects of Nursing Problem

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Dymond of Ontario announced Thursday that he will convene a conference here next month to study all aspects of nurse training, recruitment and working conditions.

He indicated more emphasis should be placed on recruitment, including more publicity, and higher salaries and working conditions on nurses are in dire need of assistance.

A plan being studied by the health and welfare branch of department officials is believed to include higher pay for the first year nurse and a new approach to nurse training.

There is thinking that the present is too long, now", Dr. Dymond said. "A doctor receives 42 months training and a nurse now requires 33 months. It doesn't seem right."

"There is a strong feeling that the courses should be changed, just compressed.

"General conditions for nurses in hospitals must be improved. The conference, we hope, will provide us with the answers."

Khrushchev Sure of Ultimate Truimph of World Marxism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev is putting on one of the great shows of the century. But how it looks depends on whether you're sitting in the Soviet Union or elsewhere.

There's never been anything like this in our time.

Here is a one-time miner who struggled up the ladder politically and got to become the boss of one of the most powerful nations in history.

Despite his fear hostility to communism and the billions it has poured into defense against the Soviet Union, the U.S. is acting as host for the top man in world communism.

No matter how distasteful he may be to many of the tens of millions of Americans, he presidentially compelled Washington to invite him in the hope that this may be the way to find a peaceful solution to the Berlin problem.

Whether Americans like it or not, the invitation to Khrushchev is frank recognition that Russia, long despised by some as primitive, is equal to the U.S. in power.

His whole performance has been the kind of a man who knows he has the western world puzzled and guessing.

The Communist goal which he has been anxious to project is the American people—and to all the world—since his words and pictures are being sent everywhere by a man of a mass of goodwill.

But he has also been projecting another picture of himself, which the Americans can like or leave, but which most probably looks good to the whole Communist world and perhaps even to the neutral part of the people of the world. This is it:

He's been friendly, but tough and confident. Communism's about it. He's not letting anyone get the best of him. He's been mellowed softened by the attention given him as the representative of communism.

At a luncheon Thursday, he put himself in this context:

"Who am I, then? Is that a man who when I represent Communism? I speak Communists, when I am among American capitalists I applaud them? People might think this is no politician, this is a weather vane."

And he has made it clear to everywhere that he is calmly sure of himself and the ultimate triumph of world communism.

Proposal to Take Part of B.C., Alberta and N.W.T. to Form New Province Well Received

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — Two rather startling proposals have been advanced in recent weeks:

1. That British Columbia take over that area of the Northwest Territories lying north of the province and in exchange assume maintenance of the Pigeon section of the Alaska Highway.

2. That this Peace River district—including cuts out of Northern Alberta and British Columbia—amalgamate with a part of the Northwest Territories to form a new province.

RESIDENTS' REACTION

A sample survey of views of people in northwest Canada showed that many considered the first idea to be ridiculous.

They took the second more seriously.

The first suggestion was made by Premier Bennett of B.C. in an informal talk with Defence Minister Pearkes (Maj. Gen. retired). Territories Council, meeting here, Dec. 2, 1958, unanimously turned thumbs down.

Premier Bennett has since been busy withdrawn the suggestion of B.C. annexing the area.

Mr. Pearkes (Maj. Gen. Murrey) much-quoted editor of the Fort St. John Alaska Highway News, said he "doesn't know if he thinks we'll go for that."

Mayor Roger Forsyth of Dawson Creek said B.C. couldn't afford to maintain the Alaska Highway—$17,000,000 a year and Rolf Hougen, president of the Whitehorse Board of Trade, termed the idea "absurd."

UNNAMED BACKERS

No one seemed to know who was behind the second suggestion. Stories quoting various officials as being solidly behind it appeared in the Dawson Creek Daily News and newspapers in southern Alberta and B.C.

The mystery was cleared up by Val Wake, editor of The Star,

PLAN FOR A PROVINCE — An idea so old that no one really knows how it started has been received in British Columbia. It's a proposal that the Peace River district—including cuts out of Northern Alberta and B.C.—amalgamate with a part of the Northwest Territories into a brand new province.

Map outlines the area involved. Another idea being talked about at the same time is that B.C. take over part of the Northwest Territories in exchange for maintaining the Canadian section of the Alaska Highway. (CP Newsmap.)

Accepted Offer

LAWRENCE, Kas. (AP)— An automobile agency here contends its prices are so low that buying is almost like stealing.

The firm advertised: "Come in and steal our cars."

Early Wednesday somebody broke into the showroom and drove off a new model.

when he said in an interview that the idea was all his own.

He is a lanky, bearded, 25-year-old Australian army, F. R. B. Wake of Sydney, Australia. Covering 585,000 square here. They barely know we exist down there."

RETURNS LACKING!

His biggest complaint: "They're drawing millions of dollars out of us but returning very little of it—they're returning nothing."

So others in the Peace feel this way?

Sure. Well, Mayor Forsyth for example," said the young editor.

Sure enough. Dawson Creek mayor confirmed this later.

"Some day there'll be a new province of the Northwest," he said. "But this isn't a new idea. Various versions of it have been around for years."

Across the border in Alberta, Harrison, president of the Grande Prairie Chamber of Commerce, Creek is good but perhaps premature.

YELLOWKNIFE VIEW

Mayor Ted Horton of Yellowknife, N.W.T., said: "Well, get provincial status some day."

Val Wake isn't waiting. His semi-weekly newspaper already has printed a map slicing out his new province of the Northwest.

The paper has just introduced a "name-the-new-province" contest.

The area, with oil and agricultural products already bringing in big money, is one of Canada's potentially richest areas, and Peace River people know it.

Disputes may arise. Alberta and B.C. aren't likely to give up territory without a fight. Some Yellowknifers have spoken of provincial status for themselves.

Fort Fort Smith, Hay River, an elected member of the Northwest Territories council, has long advocated the District of Mackenzie, covering 585,000 square miles of the western territories, become a province in itself.

Val Wake asked Transport Minister Hees what he thought when the minister visited here recently. Hees summed up Ottawa opinion when he said: "interesting, very interesting."

Edmonton or Victoria have been just as non-committal.

Locked Outside by His Wife Is Sent to Mental Hospital

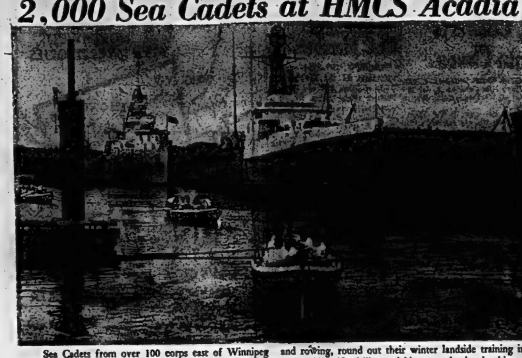
HAMILTON (CP) — A "nightmare" chain of events led to his commitment to Ontario Hospital for mental observation, Gordon Williams told a Supreme Court civil jury Thursday.

Mr. Williams, 47, is seeking $100,000 damages from the city Hamilton policemen for what he alleges was "false imprisonment and assault, battery and trespass." The policemen are Morley Outside, sergeant, Harold Winston and Morality Officers Winston and Jack Stanfield.

Mr. Williams testified that on Dec. 9, 1957, he had an argument with a tenant and his wife told him that if he didn't stop "bothering" she would call the police.

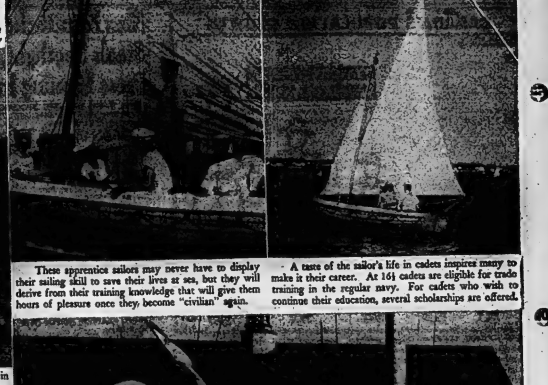
He said he opened the door to let her go to a neighbor's home and call the police.

"She gave me a shove," Mr. Williams testified, and he found himself on the back porch clad only in a silk dressing gown and barefoot with the temperature at 20 degrees.



Mr. Williams refused to let him in, he said, and he smashed his way and got dressed. He sat down in the living room and two police officers arrived, he testified. The two, whom he identified as Officers Outside and Winston, hustled him out between them, Mr. Williams testified.

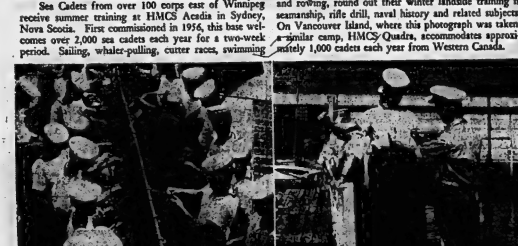
Outside, he was tripped handcuffed, and held with his face in the snow, he testified. He was charged with vagrancy by Sgt. Stamp with whom he had had no conversation whatever, Mr. Williams testified.



He said he had $945 on his person and $200 cheque and still had it when sent to the Ontario Hospital for 30-days observation.

Summer Camp for Junior Sailors

2,000 Sea Cadets at HMCS Acadia



Sea Cadets from over 100 corps east of Winnipeg receive summer training at HMCS Acadia in Sydney, Nova Scotia. First commissioned in 1956, this base welcomes over 2,000 sea cadets each year for a two-week period. Sailing, whaler-pulling, cutter races, swimming and rowing, round out their winter landside training in seamanship, rifle drill, naval history and related subjects. On Vancouver Island, where this photograph was taken, a similar camp, HMCS Quadra, accommodates approximately 1,000 cadets each year from Western Canada.

These apprentice sailors may never have to display their sailing skill to save their lives at sea, but they will derive from their training knowledge that will give them hours of pleasure once they become "civilian" again.

A taste of the sailor's life in cadets inspires many to make it their career. At 16½ cadets are eligible for trade training in the regular navy. For cadets who wish to continue their education, several scholarships are offered.

For centuries, the tying of knots and splicing of ropes has been an imperative part of every sailor's training. By summer's end you can be certain that these sea cadets will have no "granny" knots in their nautical know-how.

Competition is keen and proficiency is high in sports and seamanship. In each of the summer camps "Cock of the Walk" prizes are awarded to winning teams and individuals. The best all-round cadet receives the coveted "Captain's Prize".

In addition to the regular two-week camp, HMCS Acadia has a seven-week leadership course attended by about 75 cadets annually. This year these cadets formed a royal guard for Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. Discipline, skill and comradeship in sea cadet training prepare these young lads for a useful role as adult citizens of Canada. Whether their future lies with the Royal Canadian Navy or a career in civilian life, sea cadet summer at HMCS Acadia will not be soon forgotten.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon the Women's Association of Rylstone Church was entertained by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer. There were 21 ladies and the Rev. H. E. Beare present also several children.

Scripture reading, Matthew 6:43-48, was given by Mrs. Ray Stewart, president.

Arrangements were begun for catering to a wedding later in September.

There were three readings: "The Reaping Time," by Mrs. Will Rutherford; "The Secret Temple," by Mrs. Thomas H. McKeown, and "Kind Thoughts" by Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn, in Springbrook.

Lunch committee, Mrs. Zilla Jones, Mrs. Gordon Meiklejohn and Mrs. Rose Dickie.

Conveners for October meeting are Mrs. H. E. Beare and Mrs. F. McKeown.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

The anniversary service at Rylstone United Church was well attended on Sunday evening. The church was comfortably filled and the weather much cooler. The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith, B.A., B.D., of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was the guest speaker and delivered an interesting and inspiring address. Several members of his choir supplied the special music, which was much enjoyed. Mrs. Fred Tredree rendered the beautiful solo, "The Lord's Prayer," and the choir sang, "Now I Belong to Jesus."

Rev. H. E. Beare extended the thanks of the congregation to Dr. Smith and the choir.

'Woman', Daytime Special, Raises Interesting Questions

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Male and female roles, like everything else, are in the process of change. The fact that women now are doing jobs once entirely within man's preserve and that men are taking over chores once purely feminine has resulted in some confusion, but not disaster.

That generally was the conclusion reached Thursday by the exploration of Woman!— CBS' second daytime special — of that hardy old question: "Is America a woman losing her femininity?"

The hour-long show — which happens to have been written, produced, directed and photographed by men—was largely filmed in San Francisco and had some dramatic scenic backgrounds as the pros and cons were posed. The experts were professors and—best of all—an throughout Margaret Mead, who summed up the situation neatly. The opinion hardly constituted a scientific sampling, but they did make for an interesting show. One man just wanted women to go back into the home and start cooking, raising kids and pampering their husbands. !!—The Road, filmed in Europe.

WEEKEND HIGHLIGHTS

Tonight: Man in Space, ABC 8-9 p.m. EDT—first of a two-part series by Walt Disney. American futurity and the UN Handicap football, NBC, 4:45 — Louisiana State vs Rice.

Sunday: Meet the Press, NBC 5:30—K. Krishna Menon, Indian minister of defence; Sunday Showcase, premiere, NBC 6:30-8:30 — People Will People. Sometimes, original drama with Geraldine Page and Jason Robards, Jr.; General Electric Theatre, season premiere, CBS, 9 — Ed Sullivan, a serious play, Miracle at the Open; Loretta Young season premiere, NBC, 10—The Road, filmed in Europe.

Westminster O'Keefes 2 Up On Petes in Lacrosse Finals

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Speedy Jack Barclay, a former Golden Glove boxing champion, came up with his best-ever senior lacrosse performance Thursday night to pace New Westminster O'Keefes to an easy 18-11 victory over Peterborough Mercurys.

The result gave O'Keefes—who won the Mann Cup last year under the name Salmonbellies—a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship. New Westminster is holding for a record 14th Mann Cup title.

Third game is set for here Saturday.

Barclay, 25, pounded home six goals and one assist to pace New Westminster scorers. Helping out in his usual potent style was burly Jack Bionda who added four goals and assisted on four others.

POWER PLAY DEADLY

Both Barclay and Bionda took advantage of Mercury penalties to slam in tallies. O'Keefes scored each time they put their power play into action.

Though outfaced, Peterborough put up a better showing than in the opening game.

With Bobby Sim and Bobby Curtis in scoring form, Mercs took a 3-0 lead in the early minutes of the game and appeared to have O'Keefes reeling.

Then they ran into three straight penalties and before they could recover New Westminster had a 6-3 lead. The first quarter ended with O'Keefes ahead 7-3. It was 10-5 halftime and 14-8 at the three-quarter mark.

Although they pressed through out, Mercurys could never get their deficit to less than four goals.

Other New Westminster scorers were Don Sepka, three goals and an assist, brother Cliff Sepka, one goal and four assists, Stan Oddy, three goals, and Ivan Stewart one goal.

CURTIS NETS FOUR

For Peterborough, Curtis led the way with four goals. Allan scored twice and helped on three. Roy Wood had two goals and one assist. Florian Tomchisen, Frank Parsley and Carl Brioux one each.

Both goaltenders made many fine stops, each turning aside 35 drives.

Though much of the play was rough, there was plenty of good lacrosse, many of the goals coming after clever passing plays.

The most sensational was Barclay's fifth, in the third quarter. Jack leaped high in the air to grab a scoring rebound off the pads of Moon Wootton and calmly backhanded the ball past the surprised Peterborough netminder-coach.

Black Admits Knowing Salerno To Commission

NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Black told the state athletic commission Thursday he never was a partner in All-Star Sports or Rosenzohn Enterprises, Inc., and that he has knowledge of any sale of working press tickets for the Floyd Patters - Ingemar Johansson fight.

The commission is attempting to determine whether there were any underworld figures connected with the promotion of the June 26 title fight, or any other fight.

Black is an intimate associate of Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager.

Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the fight and former president of Rosensohn Enterprises, testified Black was involved in the sale of the press tickets and said Black had been given an interest in the corporation.

Black admitted he knew Fat Tony Salerno, Gil Beckley and Trigger Mike Coppola, figures with shady reputations mentioned in the investigation. He said he was present at various meetings Salerno attended at which Rosensohn and Vincent Velella also were present. Velella, principal stockholder in the enterprises, is a lawyer.

Black said he never told D'Amato of his association with Salerno, Beckley or Copolla.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday.

Betters World Swimming Mark

TOKYO (AP) — Peking radio claimed Thursday Mu Hsiang-Hsiung had clocked 1 minute, 11.4 seconds for the 100 - meter breaststroke, bettering the listed world swimming record of 1:11.5.

Peking said the mark was set in the first National Games of Communist China in a 50-metre indoor pool.

Mu's time, however, is 4.3 seconds slower than a 1:06.9 clocking by Australia's Terry Gathercole which is up for world recognition.

Grey Cup Champs Meet Toughies Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Grey Cup-champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers hit the road in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this weekend. They don't expect a friendly welcome from their hosts.

"This is going to be a rough weekend," says Bomber coach Bud Grant. "We play the two biggest clubs in the league in a day apart. If we come out with a split, I'll consider us lucky."

The league - leading Bombers meet second-place British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday night. They clash with Calgary Stampeders Monday night.

Edmonton Eskimos invade Regina to meet Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday afternoon before they head home against Lions Monday night.

The fifth-place Roughriders are still battling for playoff berths, peders, winners over Bombers in last two games, don't play Saturday and should be fresh Monday for Bombers.

Winnipeg has two top players at home. Defensive halfback Dick Miller may be out for the season with an ankle injury. Gerry James has been working with the club but still has a weak ankle. He spent a long stretch in a Cairo jail after suffering a broken leg last season.

Edmonton, tied with Calgary in third place, plans to dress quarterback Jackie Parker, who has been "out" for four games with sprained knee ligements. Parker will play at halfback.

Calgary is looking for their first win in eight starts, will field two new imports, Fred Burkett, a fullback from Baltimore Colts, and Jim Letcavage, end and guard out from Detroit Lions. Al Benecick, a tackle from Philadelphia Eagles, is also signed.

The Stamps, who have lost their last two games, received the good news that Bob Sawyer, American - born halfback from New York Giants, has been declared a Canadian citizen. His father was born in Sawyerville, Que.

Coe Seeking Second Straight Golf Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City conquered blinding fog, rain and two opponents Thursday on the way toward his second straight U.S. amateur golf championship.

The 35-year-old oil broker goes into today's semi - finals with Gene Andrews, 46, Whittier, Calif.; Dudley Wysong, 30, McCook, Neb., and Jack Nicklaus, 19, Columbus, Ohio.

Coe plays Wysong and Andrews meets Nicklaus in the 36-hole matches over the 7,010-yard par 71 Broadmoor course.

Coe, 5 up after winning four successive holes from No. 8 through No. 11, needed all his championship poise to turn back Ernie Vossler, III 2 up in the quarter-finals. On the fog-bound morning round, Coe whipped Ted Kroll, Smithsman of Ventura, Calif., 4 and 3.

FRENCH HORSE FAVORED

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Jamin, France's international titleholder, is the 2-to-1 favorite in the $30,000 American trotting championship, tonight at Roosevelt Raceway. Saint Laird is next and choice at 3 to 1 followed by Trader Horn, the American entry listed at 4 to 3. The race is 1¼ miles.

Bob Cummings Thinks TV To Topple Under Own Weight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP)—It's Robert Cummings' theory about the inverted pyramid, and you can make of it what you will.

"It's uncanny," he muses. "Every time I get close to the field of entertainment it dies under me—and always in the same pattern."

Folks are always amazed at his fine back Bob's career goes through he looks the sophomore's an unabashed 49 and began as a radio actor in 1930. There were the days when Broadway was thriving with 300 shows annually.

"When I started, a play with a single star was enough for the public," he observes. "As business got worse, the shows got bigger and bigger. You used to have a Ziegfeld Follies or Earl Carroll Vanities or George White's Scandals loaded with stars to draw a crowd."

VAUDEVILLE CHANGED TOO

The legit field faded and Bob leaped to vaudeville, playing a straight act with Milton Berle.

"In the old days, a vaudeville show needed only six or seven big acts — mules, some acrobats, a funny guy and so forth. But as Hollywood began to film the theatres added a movie, then piled up the stars. The climax was a bill at the Capitol in New York with George Burns and Gracie Allen, Rise Stevens, Milton Berle, a pit band, a stage band, George Olsen and Ethel Shutta and Greta Garbo in Mata Hari.

Bob had the distinction of tossing straight lines to Berle on the final vaudeville bill at the Palace, first stop on radio.

"Once again it was the same thing," Bob sighed. "In the early days of radio, people were content to sit around and listen to Amos 'n' Andy talking about 15 minutes."

But as radio progressed, it began lumping more and more stars together until television pushed them from radio over the brink.

Cummings plunged into the movies in 1941, starring opposite Margaret Sullavan in So Ends Our Rose—"for the first 20 minutes of the picture, until I was killed." His film career thrived.

"But I could see the movie industry was starting to die around 1939. The war came along and kept the business going until 1946 or 1947, when the movies began to die. They started throwing six or seven stars in a picture, but that didn't help."

Ever agile, Cummings leaped to television, starring in his own vision. He scored with a five-year run of the Bob Cummings Show. Now he's worried.

On Sept. 22, Bob will appear on NBC's salute to Jerome Kern with co - stars Howard Keel, Patrice Munsel, Carol Channing, Louis Prima, Keely Smith, etc.

"The inverted pyramid," he said. "Each of the industries I've been in started small and built up and out until it toppled of its own weight. Is it happening to TV?"

Lopez Only Tense One on Chicago Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox rested Thursday, hoping Al Lopez, "The attitude of the players is to play each game as it comes up. Ah, I'm worried about shutting the gate as soon as possible."

The White Sox also can blow away the title Saturday with victories in the first two games against Detroit provided Cleveland loses once to Kansas City in a three-game set which also begins Friday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Officially just thirty minutes before Ole Sol pokes a golden snout over the eastern horizon tomorrow morning, the roar of a shotgun will echo over the lake, marshes, swamps and rivers, and announce the opening of the duck-hunting season in the central part of Ontario which includes all the Trenton district.

But unofficially, unless the older changeth, some subwit who has sat in a hide half the night, is half-frozen and probably semi-inebriated, will be unable to control that trigger-finger itch and let go just for the hellsvit at some imaginary target.

"Then," said our news-room duck-hunting colleague, he "will scour the deadgood quacking and squawking as the duck flocks rise in protest. This character usually lets go a half hour before the dawn, and when the light does come there's not a corned duck in sight. There should be an open half-hour season on duck-disturbers."

Just because Khrushch's rocketry brigade is trying to make a further chasm out of the moon, is no reason for a gun-happy duck hunter to take potshots at the stars, endanger other lives and wind up with a mid-morning hangover—and no ducks.

Besides the official gendarmerie who has control over such matters says it is illegal to discharge a firearm one-half hour before sunrise or one half-hour after sunset.

And it is just as well to remember that if you do run into a closed of winged dinners your bag limit is six per day, possession eighteen. But, in the case of canvas-backs and redheads (ducks) the daily bag is limited to four and possession eight.

You can shoot geese (five per day), coots, rails and gallinules (limit 25), Wilson snipe (eight per day), and woodcock, also eight per day. And if you run into a flock of ruffed grouse you can take five per day. The pheasant season does not open until October 10, through October 31.

And if you want to go on a wild free-for-all hunting spree try your hand at a flock of crows, blackbirds, starlings or the common house sparrow. The sky's the limit.

Incidentally, under a $100 licence to own or operate a hunting preserve, pheasants may be released for shooting from September 1 to March 31 next. Such a hunting preserve is now open on Tubbs Island in West Lake. It is a 100-acre preserve called the "Pheasant-bird." It is under the management of Bill Ogsden. The lodge can accommodate 20 hunters and Bill says there will be plenty of pheasants for everyone. There's ducks in the neighborhood, too.

And don't forget that w lot of birds are protected by law. Stimtrol should think twice before pulling a trigger on any hawk, owl, gull, bittern, grebe or dove that comes within range. There are others, too, but then seem to be the favorites of hunters when they come within sight of the duck blind.

Hunters are reminded that only shotguns are permissible and no larger than ten-gauge. The guns must be incapable of holding more than three rounds at one time.

Only one gun per hunter and no rifle or shotgun loaded with a single bullet is permitted. Loaded firearms are not permissible in any type of power boat unless the boat is beached or attached to a blind.

Power boats are permissible to retrieve wounded ducks provided firearms are unloaded and within 200 yards of where the bird is shot. The power boats are not to be used to disturb birds with the object of driving them towards hunters.

It is not permissible to use night lights; live decoys, electrically-operated calling devices, and bait within 14 days of the opening date.

And be sure of what you're shooting at before you pull that trigger!

A hunter popped a partridge on a hill
It made a great to do and then was still.
It seems; (when, later on, his bag he spied)
It was his guide!

One shot a squirrel in a nearby wood—
A pretty shot, off-hand, from where he stood.
It wore, they said, a shooting hat of brown
And lived in town!

And one dispatched a rabbit for his haul
That later proved to measure six feet tall:
And, lest you think I'm handing you a myth,
Its name was Smith!

Another Nimrod slew the champion fox.
He glimpsed him lurking in among the rocks,
On rapid shot—it never spoke or moved.
The loquest proved!

A cautious man espied a gleam of brown;
Was it a deer, or Jones, a friend from town?
And while he pondered on the river's brim,
Jones potted him!

40 Years Nothing Compared With Sox' Next 48 Hours

Chicago Could Win Pennant By Saturday Night; Giants Take 2-Game Lead in National

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

It's now or "wait 'til next year" for the Los Angeles Dodgers in that National League pennant race.

They open a three-game series at San Francisco tonight tied with Milwaukee's repulsed Braves for second place, two games behind the Giants. And the Giants have the edge.

Each of the three contenders has eight games left — but for each game the Braves or Dodgers lose, the Giants can lose one more and still beat 'em. If either the Braves or Dodgers win five of the eight, the Giants need only play .500 ball to take it.

And that's exactly the way the Braves have played their last eight games—the Giants winning four and losing four, while Milwaukee and Los Angeles each won 5-3.

MAYS TOP SLUGGER

With Willie Mays leading the charge—driving in five runs and going 4-for-4—the Giants chased Warren Spahn and blocked the Braves' bid for a first place tie Thursday, blasting Milwaukee 13-4 for a split in the two-game series. Los Angeles scrambled back into a share of second, beating Cincinnati 4-3 after home runs by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges drove in enough of a cushion to hold off a two - run rally in the ninth by the Reds.

The Dodgers, facing a "must" chore of taking at least two of three from the Giants at San Francisco, open behind righthander Don Drysdale, Milwaukee is idle.

In the other NL games, Pittsburgh whipped St. Louis 7 - 0 behind a four-hitter by Harvey Haddix, and the Phils beat Chicago 5-2.

Ed Mathews drove in all of the Braves' runs, with a pair of homers and a sacrifice fly, but the Giants had it tucked away before he started slugging. Spahn (19 - 15) faced only four men, didn't retire any and left after 3 1/3 pitches as the Giants scored three runs in the first inning.

SIX PITCHERS

Mays added a three-run homer (No. 31) in the fourth off Bob Rush and singled in another in a three-run seventh, but Denver Houk, who came in four runs, and Ed Bressoud also homered for the Giants, who wrapped up 14 hits off six pitchers.

Jack Sanford (15-12) won it, although relief Sam Jones (who else?) mopped up when Sanford bogged down in the seventh.

It also was Matthews' eighth off Giant pitchers, who had never hit his home run bat at Seals Stadium until the final game of the season.

How long is 40 years? It's nothing but a memory to the next 48 or so hours ahead for the Chicago White Sox. That could be all that remains in their long way for their first American League pennant since 1919.

Going into tonight's opener of a three-game series with Detroit at Comiskey Park, the White Sox' magic number if "?"—any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland defeats totalling three—and the Sox clinch the pennant with the Indians second.

The White Sox could do it Saturday, at the earliest, with the help of the Kansas City A's who are hosting for a three-game set with the Indians beginning tonight. Or the Sox could nail it Sunday with a sweep of the Detroit series, no matter what the Indians do.

Both the Sox and the Indians, the only pennant combatants at the moment are general manager Frank Lane and manager Al Gordon, had a day off Thursday with the rest of the AL.

DRAMA IN CHI ONE

Manager Al Lopez, who figures he's "the only man who's home" in the city, has a fairly fat lead (1½) to face the Tigers tonight. Detroit, 6½ against the White Sox for the season, is the only club Shaw hasn't managed to whip in the brief managerial league career. The big right - hander broke in with the Tigers in 1957.

Either Frank Lary (17-10) or Jim Bunning (16-12) will work for the Tigers, trying to finish in the first division in a three-way battle with New York and Baltimore.

Cleveland's batting managers, Lane and Gordon, could be ready for a final blow-up this weekend —or as soon as the Sox clinch it officially for it. Particularly now that Leo Durocher has announced that he'll be back next season to baseball.

No one's saying where Durocher's headed. Even Leo's tightlipped about it. But the way Lane has been pursuing lately, it looks as though when the Injuns is dead, so is Gordon.

Lane and Durocher?

son series, won by the Braves 12-10.

Snider's 22nd homer, good for three runs in the first inning against loser Bob Purkey (13-12) followed Gilliam's leadoff single and a single by Charlie Neal. Gilliam then scored his circuit clout with his third homer in the eighth-inning, off Brooks Lawrence.

hoped the stadium would be named for the late Maurice Dupleasis.

Another strong candidate for a franchise is Buffalo, which led all minor leagues in attendance this year with 605,679.

A committee of three, headed by president John C. Hogan of Buffalo and including the Cincinnati officials that the city's recreation council had approved a plan to turn the new Civic Stadium into a park suitable for major league baseball with a seating capacity of 42,000 and adequate parking.

"The Buffalo representatives made a strong presentation supporting their application," said Rickey. "I believe the city will qualify in all respects."

Founding members of the league are New York, Houston, Minneapolis - St. Paul, Toronto and Denver.

Montreal Group Wants Franchise In New League

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans for a 45,000 - capacity stadium with parking for 10,000 cars were introduced Thursday by a Montreal group applying for a place in the projected third major baseball league.

A fourman group met Branch Rickey, Continental League president and Bill Shea, chairman of the founders group.

Hy Richman, Montreal spokesman, said a stadium which also could be used for football, soccer, track and field and other sports is planned. He said it was

LEAFS START REBUILDING

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, last in the National League this year, Thursday announced the appointment of Punch Imlach, Billy Hunter, first baseman-outfielder Don Saner and pitcher Stan Pitura.

Hunter, with a strong glove but a weak bat, played major league baseball with Cleveland, St. Louis Browns, Baltimore, New York Yankees and Kansas City. Last year he hit .248 for San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Saner, 26, brightest hope of the trio, averaged .322 at New Orleans, Pitura, 28, a righthander, won six and lost seven for Denver.

Leo Durocher Quits $65,000 A Year Job, Likely to Seek Managerial Job in Majors

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leo Durocher, former National League manager who hung up his spikes for a career as a sports announcer, says he plans to forsake the microphone and return to baseball.

"I have been negotiating with a baseball team for some time now," said Durocher Thursday as he arrived here to announce the Game of the Week for the National Broadcasting Company. He added:

"I'm not at liberty to tell you with whom. I can tell you this much—nothing definite has come from our negotiations so far."

Durocher did not indicate in what capacity he would return to the baseball pastimes.

GIVING UP $65,000 JOB

Durocher guided both the old New York Giants and the old Brooklyn Dodgers to National League pennants before his retirement from baseball. Since then he has been a talent relent for NBC and for the last two years a commentator on the network's Game of the Week telecast.

Should Durocher return to baseball, he would give up a $65,000-a-year job. Durocher said he had notified NBC 30% months ago that he would not renew his contract with them at the end of this year.

At that time, Durocher was quoted as saying he would consider returning to baseball only if he could purchase stock in a club and receive a part of his salary in stock.

"I would definitely be uninterested in an offer to return to baseball on a strictly salary basis," he was reported to have said.

Since then, many reporters have speculated that maybe Durocher is preparing a position in the newly - formed Continental League. Branch Rickey Jr., the new commissioner of the infant league, could not be reached for comment.

TO DIRECT INDIANS?

In other conjecture, Durocher's name has been linked with Cleveland Indians of the American League, as a source close to Durocher at NBC told a reporter that general manager Frank Lane approached Durocher six weeks ago and asked him to take over the Indians for the stretch drive this season.

Durocher himself would turn the offer because of his NBC contract, according to this source. Lane would not be reached immediately for comment.

Other rumors have had Durocher in line for manager of the New York Yankees, the Milwaukee Braves, the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers. No management could be found from any of the officials of these clubs either.

Durocher himself laughed this speculation off.

"I don't believe there will be an announcement for some time and I don't intend any further negotiations for the job which I had been discussing while I'm in Pittsburgh," he said. He quickly added:

"At least I don't expect anything to happen while I'm here unless something really breaks loose someplace else."

Ottawa Roughies Need Win Against Alouettes on Sat.

Ben BENN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Big Four football hits the halfway mark of its 14-game schedule this weekend with the spotlight on Montreal where the revitalized Ottawa Rough Riders visit the Alouettes Saturday.

League - leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats visit the Argonauts at Toronto Sunday.

Riders, who stunned Toronto 28-1 Wednesday night after dropping five in a row, need another victory to move into a third-place tie with Toronto.

Hamilton has a 5-1 record for 10 points. Montreal is second with eight, Toronto third with four and Ottawa last two.

ARGO PROSPECTS DIM

Few observers rate Argos much of a chance Sunday, who had little difficulty beating Alouettes 25-13 Wednesday. Thus Rider-Alouette clash has an added importance for each club.

Coach Frank Clair said Thursday Riders will have almost the same lineup that trampled Argos. Bot corner - linebacker Bill Sowalski, who suffered a bruised hip against Argos, and defensive end Lou Bruce, out since Sunday with a twisted knee, are doubtful starters.

Ottawa's key man will undoubtedly be import fullback Dave Thelen who scored four touchdowns Wednesday while rolling up 171 yards on 23 carries. Canadian Russ Jackson is slated for the quarter slot again.

Clair, Thelen and Jackson said Wednesday's big win was mainly due to a tremendous blocking job by the line. The arrival of three import lineman seeking regular berths probably helped inspire the present regulars.

Some changes are in prospect for Alouettes. John Ralliff, a rookie from Vita, Alta., may play defensive tackle, replacing Ted Kluby who suffered a dislocated shoulder Wednesday. George Dixon, cut last week by Green Bay Packers of the National League, may replace Verzyl Switzer.

End Hal Patterson and halfback Ivan Livingstone have not been recovered from early-season injuries.

Coach Jim Trimble of Ticats is expected to use Bernie Faloney at quarterback when Dublanski is alternated with Faloney Wednesday, will probably be given more room for Don Maynard, former NFL back with New York Giants.

Thi season Ticats held 16-7 and 37-3 wins over Argos, who only beaten them once since 1956.

Coach Hamp Pool, who viewed films of Toronto's disaster at Ottawa, said Thursday the Argo line will be to blame, failing badly on both offence and defence. He also felt the superior walkout of quarterback Ronnie Knox, who quit two days before, had a demoralizing effect.

Quarterbacks Gerry Doucette and rookie import Johnny Green were absolved of blame by Pool, who said they weren't given any protection, and both will undoubtedly see action Sunday.

Argo officials are looking to recent eastoffs from the NFL to bolster the line but none will be available for the game against Ticats.

Tackles Tom Saidock and Nick Mumley are expected in Toronto in a day or two.

Saidock, six-feet-four and 260 pounds, was dropped by Green Bay. He played for Philadelphia Eagles in 1956 and 1957 after leaving Michigan State College.

The six-foot-six, 250-pound Mumley was released by Philadelphia. He was named as fifth draft choice after playing college football for Purdue University.

Bobcats Win 1st Loop Title With Victory Over Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bobcats captured the Belleville and District softball league championship and with it the Bill Ott Trophy for the first time in the history of the senior fastball loop. Trenton Garrells 6-5 in Trenton last night.

Bob Trempie's OASA Intermediate "A" finalists took the loop title by defeating Trenton four games to two in the best-of-seven series. Last night's victory was their seventh in a row, including league and OASA playoffs games.

The Garrells gave the 'Cats a tight battle right down to the final out after the winners had scored two runs in the top of the seventh to take their narrow one-run margin.

Ken Grant pitched the Belleville - triumph, scattering nine hits over the distance and fining good ball after a rocky first inning. He slipped nine of the Garrells' batters while Trenton's Howie Cole with the tying run on second base to end the game in the ninth. He struck out three batters.

Howie Cole went the route for Trenton, allowing seven hits in all. He whiffed half a dozen but was touched for four runs.

Never more than two runs separated the clubs on the night's play, Trenton held a 5-4 lead entering the seventh frame. A leadoff walk to Paul Russell got the deciding rally under way. He took second on a passed ball and third when Crawford was safe on an error. Crawford streaked to second and Russell jumped home with the tying run on a delayed double steal. Jackie Hughes walked and Grant and Denny Hayden's infield hit loaded the bases with one out. Cousins forced Crawford at the plate but Hughes raced home with the winning run as Trenmaster was unable to hold Cole's low pitch.

Trenton got two aboard on walks in the seventh and Drake hit a leaded single in the ninth but Green bore down on both occasions blanking the Garrells over the final three frames to preserve the win.

Two walks and Earl Cousins' double gave the 'Cats a 1-0 lead in the top of the first. Trenton then went ahead in their half of the inning when Guy Austin singled and Doug Hexamer hit a two-run homer off the tip of Googan's glove on the deep left field. A walk to Googan, two passed balls and a throwing error tied the score for the Bobcats. Another walk, Hayden's single and a fielder's choice put Belleville ahead 3-2 in the third inning.

The Tabbies made it 4-3 in the fourth on Lamirande's infield single, another walk to Drake and Paul Russell's single to left field. Trenton tied the score in their half on a walk, Austin's infield safety and Roger Drake's double down the left-field foul line. A base-on-balls and Austin's triple on the same foul line gave Trenton the lead 5-4 in the sixth.

Denny Hayden and Jean-Paul Lamirande had two hits apiece to spark the champs with the hickory, Earl Cousins hit a double while Paul Russell and Lou Smrke had singles. Smrke was ejected from the game by base umpire Keith Burton in the last of the fifth for coming in from his right field position to question a call in the infield.

"Winner" Brown was missing from the Bobcat lineup because of an eye injury, result of a piece of flying cement.

Guy Austin collected a triple and two singles to lead the Trenton attack. Doug Alexander homered and singled while Roger Drake doubled and singled. The other hits were by Lamirande, Mitts and Howie Cole's single.

Sparkling plays in the late innings by Floyd Crawford and Denny Hayden helped Green protect his one-run lead.

Lineups — Bobcats: Crawford 2b, Smrke rf, Faulkner cf, Hayden lb, Cousins c, Lamirande 's, Green p, Goegan lf, Russell ss.

Trenton: Austin 3b, Drake lb, Alexander rf, L. Wannamaker cf, H. Cole pHMitts lf, D. Cole cf, Brinn rf, Smith 2b.

Umpires — Mike Whalen (p), Harold Bawden and Keith Burton. Time — 1:40.

Marciano Has No Intention Of Comeback

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—"I gave my word to my wife that I wouldn't fight again. I plan to keep it."

That was retired world heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano's reply Thursday night to a new rumor that he plans a comeback.

Here to referee a heavyweight fight between Pete Radenacher and Ralph Schneider, Marciano admitd he had asked his parents in Brockton, Mass., what they thought of a possible comeback.

"They were so disppointed in me to even mention it," Marciano, who retired undefeated, said.

Marciano said he believes the rumors started with his 35th birthday party in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Sept. 1.

"I told my friends there I wanted to announce a comeback because I wanted them to come back to my 36th birthday party."

AUSSIES TOP U.S.

MADRID (AP)—Australia defeated the United States 3-1 in professional tennis before 3,000 spectators Wednesday night. Ken Rosewall defeated Pancho Segura 6-1, 6-1. Frank Sedgman beat Tony Trabert 8-6, 6-4. In doubles Trabert and Segura defeated the Australians 6-4, 6-4.

Expect Ducks Will Be Scarce In Manitoba

PORTAGE la PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — A conservation official here said Thursday the Manitoba duck-hunting season opening Friday will be the worst in years.

Albert Hochbaum, director of the Delta Waterfowl Research Station, said large numbers of ducks have been sighted on the Delta marsh here but the season will not open to hunting until Sept. 25.

He said there just aren't any ducks elsewhere in the smaller marshes and potholes.

Heavy concentration of ducks in the Delta was caused solely by birds being forced here from western areas where water was lacking, Hochbaum said.

On the Tracks

CHICAGO (AP)—Jockey John Rotz Thursday scored with five winners in eight tries at Hawthorne to keep alive the hottest riding streak of any jockey in the U. S. this year.

The 34 - year - old veteran boosted his nine-day total at the meeting to a remarkable 25 winners.

It was the fifth time in seven days that Rotz had won four or more races on a single card, a feat unprecedented in Chicago racing history. In that period he has ridden 61 mounts. He had finished second five times and third seven times.

Trade Goalie

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series announced Thursday they have traded goalie Don Head to Windsor Bulldogs for centre Lou Rondo.

Head was the OHA's top goaltender last season. Rondo scored 39 points for the fifth-place Bulldogs.

SHACK RELEASED

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Hal Shack, New York Rangers' forward who suffered a concussion in an exhibition game against Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday, was released from hospital Wednesday. He rejoined training camp at Niagara Falls, Ont.

I'M AN OLD

Washington that the Soviet Union plans to present new disarmament proposals.

Khrushchev and his wife also were scheduled to visit the 102-storey Empire State Building and take a ride on the New York subway after visiting Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of the wartime president.

WELCOME IS COOL

But the bouncy premier showed no sign of noticing the coolness of the crowds, which included placard-bearing pickets, and appeared in the best of humor all day until the dinner incident, which followed considerable joshing.

Outsiders missed the dinner event, as the Economic Club here said lack of space prevented radio or television coverage at the Waldorf - Astoria's grand ballroom.

The ballroom's normal capacity is 1,500, and about 2,000 guests had been invited. Hundreds more of reporters were allowed to attend, but all press photographers were barred.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the UN, said in a speech some aspects of communism carry the "attributes of capitalism" and he added that Khrushchev would doubtless correct him if he were wrong.

PROVERB IS ANSWER

"Only the grave can correct a businessman," interjected Khrushchev, quoting a Russian proverb similar to the saying in the English: "A leopard never changes his spots."

"Capitalism and socialism are confusing words which can mean many different things in different places," said Lodge.

"I have been told that in the Soviet Union you can own your own home, make a will, and use a bank. And that there is no limit on what his income could become. Such things have been considered attributes of the capitalistic system."

Interrupting his dinner speech, said the U.S. had put pebbles on trade with the Soviet but this strengthened rather than weakened us." He contended that Communism is not backfired.

He also predicted that Russian economic development would catch up with that of the U.S. sooner if the Soviet had expected.

TOUCHY SUBJECT

Khrushchev later was reminded that he had said many times, including in a television speech Thursday, that he favors the people of Russia and the U.S. getting to know each other better and having more information about each other.

Why then, the premier was asked, would he not allow his people to be as free to travel from the U.S. if they wished, and why doesn't he allow American newspapers and magazines to circulate freely in Russia?

Khrushchev replied in general reply, going into an explanation of general principles of the exchange of visits with President Eisenhower. He was interrupted with cries of, "Answer the question" and it was then he lost his temper.

When quiet was restored, Khrushchev said:

"The question of what our public listens to or reads should be decided not by any outside government or influence but by our own people and government."

GOES UNANSWERED

He didn't answer the part of the question dealing with censorship of new dispatches coming out of the Soviet Union.

He criticized the U.S. government for refusing to give Washington Post reporter Alan Robeson, who has been associated with left-wing causes, a passport to sing in Russia and other countries, and complained that efforts were made to jamming of Voice of America broadcasts.

"If the voice with which you broadcast to our country will be a friendly voice, we shall not jam it," said Khrushchev.

The dinner lasted nearly four hours and he was given applause at the end.

Not at ovation, but fair applause," was the way one veteran correspondent summed it up.

Khrushchev's remarks stirred animated conversation at various tables among table groups, many of the businessmen saying they were impressed by the view of his personality, but not with his ideas.

Walter Waldorf, incidentally, Khrushchev had an experience of a little bit of a capitalist malfunction."

The elevator got stuck — the power went off — and he had to puff his portly way up five flights of stairs.

VOTERS RULE

At the dinner Lodge said Khrushchev is in the world's news rather than business leaders are the ruling class in the country.

Lodge said it was a good place in which to point out that the "robber baron"-type phrase he said was used to describe capitalists of a century ago is something to which the U.S. is opposed.

While Khrushchev bragged of Russia's industrial production gains, he complained about a few figures of his own on how people are faring under the U.S. system.

Lodge said that if robber baron is the definition of capitalism, then Americans aren't capitalists. They own 90,000,000 cars, 47,000,000 American own shares in U.S. industry.

Examples of all that is produced, he said, goes to the consumer.

Three of four families own their own cars. Three-fifths of modern families own their own home. Three of four farms are owned by people who own them.

HEAVY TAXES

Lodge cited the 52 per cent gains tax and said: "And we have an individual income tax which takes a heavy slice in the upper brackets." Nevertheless, he said, generally are considered attractive investments.

Lodge described the U.S. system as "economic humanism which is the opposite of communism."

Replying directly to some of Khrushchev's remarks at a luncheon earlier in the day, Lodge said Khrushchev had stated as a fact that the premier sees no difference between the degrees of early capitalism and the present-day system.

"The difference is as great as the difference between black and white," he said. "And we believe this will become crystal clear to you as you study things for yourself on your tour around the country."

KISSES LODGE

In a humorous vein, Khrushchev departed from his prepared text and called Lodge "very effective defender of the capitalist system in the United States."

The only question that arises, Khrushchev said, is what methods he has to put up such a defence of capitalism. One possibility, he said, with what sounded like a chuckle, was that Lodge was trying to convert him, but that was doubtful.

Another, he said, is that perhaps he was apprehensive that when a Communist addresses an audience of businessmen he tries to convert them. But, Khrushchev said, he could give assurances that he had no such intention.

He replied that an American visitor once advised him that it would be a good thing for him to visit the U.S. to show Americans he had no horns on his head. "I should say," Khrushchev added, "that you gentlemen here have got me that I have no horns on my forehead, because there isn't much hair to hide them if there were. And if I can prove to you that that is the case and there are no horns, then it would be a great achievement—a Communist before you in human form.

"Therefore the only difference that exists between us is the difference in our views on political and social matters."

Khrushchev suggested that the U.S. and Russia "compete honestly and peacefully as corporations do in this country."

PEAR PRICES RISE

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Canners and growers Wednesday set the minimum price of $40 a ton for kieffer pears for processing this year. It is estimated the Niagara Peninsula crop will be down about 26 per cent this year.

Bombay Floods Takes 150 Lives

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Thousands of residents of the town of Surat huddled on rooftops today to escape raging flood waters which have killed at least 150 persons.

Relief columns were battling their way to the town of 223,000 in Bombay state, which was flooded on Tuesday when a nearby river burst its banks and sent tons of water gushing through the community.

The flood waters, in places up to 15 feet deep, were reported receding today. In addition to the death toll, the floods caused heavy destructions as , property and cattle in the area.

ARMY IN ACTION

Army personnel, including doctors and engineers, were also active in Surat where many men with food, medical supplies and rescue boats were on their way.

Some 5,000 huts and houses were still wholly or partly submerged today.

As news trickled in observers here speculated that it could turn out to be the worst flood in two centuries in India—a country hit by bad floods.

At some points the waters were so deep that even the tops of telegraph poles could not be seen.

Sunday School Lesson

A Deficit in Integrity

By ROY L. SMITH

The ability of any nation to even encore rests down upon the moral character of the people. A state that is made up of men and women of integrity can face the future without fear. If the integrity balance shows a deficit, then no financing can save it.

This week's lesson is taken out of a strained period of Hebrew history. The generous attitude of Cyrus, the Persian monarch, had allowed a considerable number of thousands of the exiles to return from Babylon and undertake the rebuilding of the nation and the nation's capital. But it was an extremely difficult and discouraging job. The land was poor, supplies were scarce, everyone was wrapped up in the business of making a living, and a general spirit of discouragement appeared among the the people.

In the midst of the campaign a delegation arrived with a question to be answered. They wanted to know precisely how a certain feast was to be observed. Quite evidently they were much more concerned about a correct ritual than they were about the state of morals within the nation.

Now a dignified ritual has its value, and symbolism has its message. But it is easy to become so concerned about the lesser things that we ignore the vastest ones. Blessed is the nation, the church, or the individual who makes a specialty out of the most important things.

IT'S AN INSIDE JOB

This matter of defence is, essentially, an inside job. AA people who have achieved justice among themselves, can be relied upon to defend their institutions. A city that has developed a sense of solidarity is most attractive to industry. A church that specializes in fellowship is a hard one to stop.

The reason the Viet-Nanese went over to communism in such large numbers, deserting the French, was because they had lived for decades under a government that provided them with a minimum of opportunity. Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist Government in China might have been still in power on the Chinese mainland if it had not been betrayed by a long list of war lords who put their private fortunes above the good of the nation.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for September 20 is on "God's Promise of Peace," Zechariah 7 through 14.

The building of a great nation is an inside job. The educational system must provide training, the industries must provide employment and production, and the laboratories must provide technologies. But the church, and allied institutions must provide the moral character upon which the superstructure can be erected.

Anything that weakens the effectiveness of the church and the Sunday School in their efforts to train the youth in morals and honor, is an enemy of the nation.

RAWDON

Wellman's United Marks Anniversary

RAWDON — The Rev. Douglas Louie, B.A., Tweed, conducted the two services on Sunday at Wellman's United Church, on the Rawdon circuit, on the occasion of the 100th anniversary. He chose as his morning theme, "The Sky is the Limit," and in the evening, "The Wind that Bloweth."

The church was nicely decorated with baskets of flowers and plants. The nave was filled to capacity for the morning service and there was also a large attendance for the evening service.

Mrs. Craig Watson officiated at the piano and in the morning the choir rendered, "The Lord is My Light." The ladies quartet composed of Mrs. Gerald Clandinning, Mrs. Jalmer Pollock, Mrs. Fred Beckett and Miss Janet Tompkins, rendered "Come Ye Blessed."

The morning service closed on the theme, "Take From Our Souls the Strain and Stress and Let Our Ordered Lives Confess the Beauty of Thy Peace."

At the evening service, the choir sang, "Win One Every Day." The ladies' quartet sang, "To Live To Help Others." The service closed with the words of Charles Wesley's "And Grief and Fear and Care Shall Fly as Clouds Before the Mid-Day Sun."

Following the benediction, the full choir rendered a selection, "A Parting Hymn."

The pulpit of the Rawdon circuit, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.Sc., is in charge of the services at Tweed, on Sunday.

RAWDON —Mr. Norman McConnell, Mount Pleasant, attended the funeral of Mr. Cecil McCarthy at Shannonville on Sunday.

Messrs. Jim Johnson and Jim Somers arrived home from a camping trip at Crowe River over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver quietly celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on Thursday, September 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Merrick spent the week-end Friday from a trip to the west coast.

Mr. Ross Carlisle spent a week at Kincardine with relatives.

Mrs. Ross Hoard is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketchson in a cottage near Brighton.

Eight young people from Mount Pleasant are attending King George High School in Stirling. From the Allan Section, S.S. No. 9, they are Judy Cooney and Ralph Reid and from the Williams School, S.S. No. 4, Pauline Johnson, Carol Sharpe, Mary Ellen Hoard, Norma Hoard, Jim Summers and Howard Mills.

Mount Pleasant United Church will hold their 88th church anniversary on Sunday, November 1st. The special speaker will be Rev. Elgie Jolin, M.A., B.D., from Toronto. He is the son of a former pastor, Rev. Fred G. Joblin, Port Perry.

Mr. Ralph Carlisle spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson and family.

Mr. Ernie Caissie of Carmel, Mr. Ernest Carlisle of Carmel, and Mrs. Cecil Bedell, Campbellford, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Carlisle.

Wallace Hoard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoard of the Seymour-Rawdon benefit, began his educational career last Tuesday at the Williams School, S.S. No. 4.

Mrs. Charles Dunham recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dunham and Jean.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Everett Prindle motored to Toronto and Niagara Falls on the holiday weekend.

Mr. Richard Harvey, who had been visiting his father and brother in that city returned with them on Monday.

School reopened on September 8th, for the current term, with the same teachers, Mrs. C. Graham, of R. R. No. 2 Thomasburg in charge of the senior room, and Mrs. A. Bates of Roslin in charge of the "Junior" room.

The total number of pupils registered is 57, two less than last year.

Owners of cottages, who have spent the summer beside lakes and rivers, have practically all returned to the village and district.

Mr. Ronald Adams, of Toronto, was a holiday guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fisher of Toronto, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and family have moved from Roslin to the farm, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. Wood. A cordial welcome is extended them.

The cooler weather is a welcome change from the hot, humid days and nights of the past two months, but is a reminder that winter will soon be here.

KHRUSHCHEV ASKS FULL DISARMAMENT

Skeptical West Admits Appeal Of Mr. K.'s Plan

Propaganda Value High But Doubts He's Sincere

LONDON (Reuters) — Western sources were cautious today in their first approach to Nikita Khrushchev's disarmament proposals, but admitted he had likely scored a great propaganda success.

Expressions of outright approval were few in the Russian plan outlined in the United Nations Friday, except for Moscow radio which predictably described it as "remarkable . . . wonderful . . . sincere."

Many spokesmen indicated skepticism of true Russian good faith in the proposals.

British diplomatic sources said Khrushchev's call for complete abolition of all armies and their weapons in four years struck them at first sight as disappointing for the apparent lack of practical proposals.

LITTLE NEW

They said his alternative suggestion for a five-point partial disarmament plan seemed to have little new in it.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who arrived back here today from UN headquarters in New York, said he thought there were similar elements in his own plan for disarmament put before the UN Thursday.

Lloyd said his plan aimed at the abolition of all nuclear weapons and reduction to low levels of all conventional weapons in three stages — and with control. The Russian plan also had three stages and control with similar aim, though complete disarmament was the goal.

"We need to work on both plans and see whether anything can be made of them," he said.

Control, in the British view, was "the essence of the matter."

In Paris there was no formal comment but foreign ministry officials said privately it was "an clever propaganda move." They added, though, that the plan may mean Khrushchev is willing to reach understanding and peaceful coexistence.

"A shrewd move aimed at embarrassing the West," was the assessment of Italian political sources. But they said it would find, as Russia intended, a far reaching echo among the uncommitted powers.

The West German government always has favored studying all serious disarmament offers, said informed but rigidly noncommittal sources in Bonn.

In Belgium observers said the move would almost certainly get an enthusiastic response from the Yugoslav government.

The Indian government was still awaiting fuller details of the plan, but authoritative New Delhi sources said it would be "a good thing if Khrushchev's latest proposals . . . were accepted by everybody."

Japanese government sources in Tokyo unofficially said the speech could be taken more as a propaganda move than as an indication of Russia's positive desire for disarmament.

In Taipei, the Nationalist Chinese government said in a statement that any genuine plan for disarmament "depends upon whether the international Communist is ready to give up mankind's ideology and their plans of aggression and set free all captive people under their domination."

New Zealand's Prime Minister Walter Nash said Khrushchev had issued "a far-reaching proposal worth merits serious consideration."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The large high-pressure area which has dominated our weather for the last week is centred over southeastern Ontario this morning, ushering most of the province another fair day today. However, as this large mass of cool air continues eastward a band of showers will move into northwestern Ontario later today and extensive cloudiness will return to most Ontario districts. While the temperatures will climb slowly today and Sunday.

Police Continue Search for Two Kidnap Suspects

WINCHESTER, Ont. (CP) — Police today continue their search for two kidnap suspects who since Tuesday night have eluded them in a six-by-ten mile area near this village, 35 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Some 70 Ontario Provincial Police, operating in 13-hour shifts have patrolled the level area of bush and farmlands since the pair ditched a car and made off into the woods.

Police had expected Friday night the men would continue their pattern of breaking into farm houses for food, clothing, money and even baths but the men made no noticeable move.

The search has been on since September 6 when two armed men abducted Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Rooney from their home at Nigara-on-the-Lake and planned to hold them for ransom.

Since then nine other persons were abducted or held hostage.

The wanted men have been identified by police as Frank Madison, 17, and Wilbert Denning, 32.

Police are manning roadblocks and searching the district, cut by the National Harvest, which separates the men's homes and cars locked and their guns hunted.

Taza, a German shepherd dog owned by RCMP Constable Bob Patrin, joined the search Thursday.

He worked a trail that he vanished into the river.

He followed another trail Friday but lost the scent. It began at the Mrs. Rooney car and Mrs. Geordie Nicholson, broken into Thursday night, a farm where cars entered and clothing taken. The Nicholsons were visiting friends at the time.

Khrushchev Seen Driving Hard Toward Major Tour Objective

NEW YORK (AP) — With a sense, he says, "You believe in pixie grin, swaggling his hat and cracking homespun jokes and pleading sweet reason, Nikita Khrushchev is driving hard today toward a major objective of his United States tour.

This is to persuade Americans he is not the monster they pictured.

He is endeavoring to build the image of a sensible, practical, down-to-earth man who wants to be friendly. To this task, he brings the force of a towering personality and a powerful ego for effects. Note some of the techniques:

He describes his government as a "corporation," and himself as a corporation executive, one of the most familiar figures on the American scene. You can reason with an executive.

Boldly, he discusses the two systems, capitalist and Communist. But he doesn't try to depreciate the former or sell the latter. He emphasizes the appearance of immense common

47 SCOTTISH MINERS GIVEN UP FOR DEAD

Were Trapped by Coal Mine Blaze

KIRKINTILLOCH, Scotland (AP) — Forty-seven Scottish miners were given up for dead today as rescue operations stopped temporarily while a coal mine was flooded to extinguish an underground fire.

Rescue squads toiled for 18 hours to get out the fire until they were driven back by a large concentration of carbon monoxide gas.

"Altogether 47 men are missing in the colliery and are presumed dead," an official of the government's coal board said Friday night. "There is practically no hope of survivors."

The official said he did not expect the rescue teams to be able to reach the victims today, which is taking much longer than we expected to seal the fire off and put it out."

The fire started in the 50-year-old Auchengeich colliery when a spark from an electric fan burst into flames. Nearby supporting girders and timbers caught fire. Acrid fumes and a smoke rolled rapidly through the workings.

The flames ate through timbers and caused rock and coal falls that trapped the miners who were riding on a pit train 1,050 feet underground.

Rescue workers equipped with oxygen masks descended quickly by cage and were able to rescue six men. The body of another was brought to the surface about noon. One man escaped at the outset.

A three-day strike which ended Thursday probably prevented a greater disaster. The mine is 25 miles from Glasgow, employed 800 men. Most had stayed home and planned to resume work Monday.

Thomas Green, 50, rescued after he had collapsed while crawling through the smoke to rescue fellow miners, said: "We were travelling in a train when we saw smoke swirling toward us. We halted the haulage operator, to bring us back. He was nearly reversing and then he halted. I climbed from the buggy cart. I could hardly see anything except that I had a pick and I used it to lean on as I walked. Then everything went black."

Three Roman Catholic priests, one a descending with rescue workers.

Many hideous relatives of the trapped men gathered at the pithead, the Queen sent a message of sympathy to the chairman of the national coal board, which operates the mine.

Eden Improved

Proposals Worthless Unless UN Police Set up--Pearson

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Friday if Russian Premier Khrushchev really wants disarmament he should tell his United Nations delegation to support a permanent international police force.

The former external affairs minister said the wide-sweeping disarmament proposals made before the UN by Mr. Khrushchev are worthless unless backed up by some system such as an international force.

"There is no suggestion in Mr. Khrushchev's proposal for any international organization which would make international disarmament work," he said.

Mr. Pearson was interviewed in Edmonton, after reading the text of the address, he expanded on his remarks in a speech here Friday night to the annual meeting of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

Mr. Pearson said Russia opposed Canadian plans for a permanent international police force to keep peace.

"Now Khrushchev has his chance to tell his United Nations delegation to support proposals for an international police force. . . ."

Mr. Khrushchev's "sensational proposals" should be examined carefully and "should be studied both between and behind the lines," the Liberal leader said.

The proposals recalled similar fix-reaching plans, made during the 1930s at the old League of Nations, which proved unworkable.

Mr. Pearson said the statement that Russia would favor some method of international disarmament "is an important step and could indicate how serious they are in their current proposals."

Behind The Iron Curtain

Obliged to Take Guide Even if You Talk Russian

By Raymond Canon

(ARTICLE SEVEN)

LENINGRAD—

My trip to Russia is just about over, but there still seems so much to tell.

Some things, one of which has taken place here in Leningrad, the other of which has gone on during the trip.

First of all, let me tell you about this system of guides which Intourist provides. In order to get a visa you must agree to taking a guide-interpreter along in the car, even if you already speak Russian. This, I admit, rather annoyed me, since in every other country I have been in, I didn't need a guide, even in Poland and Czechoslovakia, and I felt quite capable of finding my way around Russia. But no guide, no visa, so I had no choice in the matter. Anyway as I have already told you, there was a guide waiting for us at the Polish border — a very charming young girl, so we piled her in our little Dauphine and away we went.

Actually having a guide along has its fascinating side, and is much easier to find the gas stations, which are few and far between, and usually situated in out of the way places. Also it gives you something to talk about Russia during the rather monotonous trips from city to city.

I must admit that after the first formalities were over, and we were on our way, we gave our guide a rather rough time of it in spots. The fact is that both of us went to Russia with the definite purpose of finding out just what the Russians thought about everything from God to the Hungarian Revolution.

In return we were going to let our guide know what Canadians thought about all these things. So now our guide probably wishes by now she had never spoken us, and will be afraid to see us over the Finnish border. But before I launch into my subject, let me say that I think none of us has ever let a discussion get out of hand. We have simply had political and religious discussions with singing of all sorts of folk songs, telling jokes, and a lot of good-natured bantering on the part of the Russian friend and myself, which has left our guide rather puzzled at times. She finds it perplexing and perhaps amusing that we are always criticizing each other's driving. But I don't think she will admit that on the trip she has been driving.

But our guide is a real Communist. She follows the party line quite faithfully and most of the answers we have gotten are those which one would get from any Communist.

Most of her answers seem to have been prepared from an American angle, because we have been able to reply on several occasions. Oh, yes, but Canada has

Wipe Out All Armies, Navies And Air Forces In Four Years Plan

'It's Too Good To Be True' Theme Of Most Reaction to UN Talk

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Nikita Khrushchev's plan for abolishing war by scuttling all weapons is getting a cautious—sometimes skeptical—response at the United Nations.

All important figures of the free world have given the Soviet premier's proposal before the UN General Assembly Friday that the world should get rid of its armies, navies, air forces, military schools and bases within four years.

But spokesmen repeatedly to the It's-too-good-to-be true theme. Western representatives point to flaws in Khrushchev's formula where matters of control and inspection are concerned—hurdles on which earlier disarmament negotiations have stripped repeatedly.

"The question is, does Khrushchev really mean what he says," said Western spokesmen.

By his own admission, Khrushchev is flying to Los Angeles today after a hectic two-day New York visit climaxed by his UN speech.

It was a moment of drama carefully nurtured by the crafty Russians who had let out the word in Washington and elsewhere that things were going to be announced regarding disarmament.

Khrushchev was solemn as he delivered his 8,000-word Russian-language speech, in contrast with his jocular fashion—one of the first desks he pounded was that of the delegation of the Nationalist Chinese, whose delegates had departed the meeting because of his appearance.

TERMED "CONCRETE"

He was referred to their regime as a "corpse" and called for the admittance of Red China forthwith, receiving forthwith the only burst of applause during the speech, from Communist bloc delegations.

Khrushchev spoke glowingly of peaceful co-existence. West relations, exemplified by his exchange of visits with President Eisenhower and called for full-scale summit meetings, but the main interest of his remarks concerned disarmament. Besides the four-year plan for general disarmament, his proposals included:

All atomic and hydrogen weapons should be destroyed and no new ones be produced.

Rockets should be dismantled and production halted. Rockets should be used only for "research."

Bacteriological and other advances in weapons of mass destruction should be prohibited.

Military bases must be "liquidated." An end would be put to all war ministries and military budgets.

Khrushchev apparently anticipated the West would not go all-out for his total disarmament and thus advanced a starting plan consisting of five major points which, as he pickedup, has already been rejected by the West. The alternate plan calls for:

Creation of a zone of control and inspection with reduction of foreign troops in the countries of Western Europe.

Withdrawal of foreign troops from European states and liquidation of military bases on foreign soil.

Conclusion of a non-aggression pact between members of NATO and of the Warsaw Treaty.

Agreement to prevent surprise attack by one side on another.

NOW NEW PLAN

Khrushchev recalled that Mr. Gromyko constituted the second time Russia had advocated total disarmament. Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff having proposed a similar idea in 1927.

At that time foreign critics had said the Soviet Union was moved by reasons of weakness, said Khrushchev, but it would be "preposterous" to make such statements now.

Canada's External Affairs Minister Howard Green said there was considerable repetition of previous Russian statements in Khrushchev's address, but it deserved careful consideration.

"I think the great future of this visit is that it is reducing tensions and the general desire to be in the direction of an attempt being made to work out a form of carrying on without the frictions there have been.

"Naturally it will take time to reach agreement.

Canada is particularly interested in the question of disarmament because of our membership on the new UN disarmament committee."

Polio Victim Subdues Black Bear With Bare Hands and Ties It Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Pollo victime George Mathys, a crewman on a freighter partially paralyzed, told Friday night of a struggle with a bear he had a week with a black bear.

The struggle, which took place Wednesday, occurred Sept. 10 at George's lonely cabin 13 miles north of Kapuskasing, Ont., where he spent the summer as a fire ranger. In the area he subdued, the animal with his bare hands and tied it up.

The 21-year-old psychology major, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Mathys of Kapuskasing, spoke excitedly from his bed in the isolation ward of Ottawa Civic Hospital. Bandages covered parts of his arms and hands and the long, half-grown black bear scratched and bit him.

George a six-footer who weighs around 175 pounds when in good health, is paralyzed in the right leg and also appears to be developing paralysis in his arm.

Though his condition was described as fair to good, his natural capacity for inhaling was said to have dropped considerably. It is when this capacity falls to 25 per cent that he or a patient is placed in an iron lung.

He was admitted to hospital Tuesday after registering at St. Patrick's Hospital, Ottawa, for a last undergraduate term for a social science degree.

Dr. Norman Bemiss, director of the isolation ward, said extreme fatigue, sometimes called, leads to paralysis of a polio victim, where otherwise there would be weakness.

Here is George's story:

"I was alone at the cabin all summer. On August 7 I went home to Kapuskasing for four days' holiday. When I returned to the woods I began to feel sick; thought I had the flu — I couldn't even get up the energy to cook a meal.

"Every so often I had to go to the tower two miles away and report to Kapuskasing. The

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev took a brief, uneventful tour of Harlem today, and then flew to Los Angeles for a quick look at the American West.

His plane left Idlewild airport at 9:42 a.m. EDT for a 5½-hour flight to Los Angeles.

Much had been made of Khrushchev's plans to visit Harlem, one of the world's best-known Negro communities. The Communists often have pointed accusingly at United States Negro policies, but today's trip made no more of a stir than it would through any other part of the city so early in the morning.

Trucks had washed down the streets before Khrushchev went by, clearing the place up a bit. Only several hundred persons were out when Khrushchev went by, at about 8:30.

MADE TOO EARLY

Observers said Khrushchev made his visit 12 hours too early. He should have seen it on Saturday night. Then the joint is jumping.

At the airport Khrushchev touched a point that has bothered everyone who has watched his whirlwind tour. He is meeting plenty of big shots, but said he is sorry he hasn't seen the working people.

From his meetings, he said, he has the impression that "the leaders and especially the people do not want war."

"Unfortunately, for a private persons, I did so, have the opportunity to meet with ordinary people of New York."

He then explained why:

"The working people might ask why there were no meetings between Malik and me, I have been told some meetings and agreements who take a negative attitude to our visit in the city.

"I think it is necessary that those who are unfriendly are very few, only a handful in the city."

The Khrushchevs were out early today, apparently still going strong despite the hectic pace they have maintained.

He had kind words for the officials of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where they stayed while in New York, and for the hotel employes.

Mitry Theresa Pizzorusso, an elevator operator from Brooklyn, had goodbyes, in English, from Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchev.

"He was very courteous," she said, "and so was his wife."

A hard man to pry away from a microphone once he got in it, Khrushchev was asked for 15 minutes at the airport.

PEDESTRIAN INJURED, WINDOW IS BROKEN

City police reported a quiet night on Friday. There was one accident on Bridge Street East between Front and Pinnacle streets, when Phyllis Thomas, 4 Ann Street, a pedestrian, was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Jean Cowan, 20 Murney Street, and suffered cuts about his left eye and the head. His injuries were not of a serious nature. The only other incident of any importance reported during the night was a stone-throwing escapade. This resulted in a window being broken in Loblaw's store on Pinnacle Street. This occurred at 10.40 p.m., a time at which there were still many people on the streets and was not an attempt to enter and rob the store.

"THE PATIENT MUST CONQUER HIS DISEASE ALONG WITH THE PHYSICIAN"

(Author's Name Given)

Physicians have to be good detectives. Their only clues are the various symptoms that accompany sickness. Many different diseases have similar symptoms. By a thorough physical examination, asking pertinent questions and the process of elimination, physicians find out the exact causes of the trouble. You can help them to be more effective if you follow these simple rules. Visit your physician at the very beginning of any illness. Sometimes a cure takes time. Don't be impatient. Most important, take any medicine your physician prescribes according to his exact directions. Pharmacists always follow a physician's instructions exactly when compounding prescription. You do the same and you will get well much quicker.

LEGION OPERATES SERVICE BUREAU

As one of its many services to the ex-servicemen, the Canadian Legion operates a Service Bureau to help veterans who are in need of help and advice with respect to pension entitlement or any other problem that has to do with veterans' welfare. Mr. Harry Moyer, service bureau officer, will be in Belleville at the Canadian Legion hall on Pinnacle Street on Tuesday, September 22nd after 5.00 p.m. to discuss with any ex-serviceman or ex-servicewoman their problems.

Seven Students Of BCI Receive $3,100 in Awards

Seven students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School have been awarded a total of $3,100 in bursaries and scholarships on the basis of examination results last June.

Chris Wien receives an Ontario Scholarship of $400 for an average of more than 80 percent as a grade XIII pupil and a Dominion - Provincial Bursary of $500. Chris obtained first-class honor marks on nine papers and second-class honors on two papers in Grade XIII.

Ann Cooper is awarded a bursary of $600 by the Canadian Bechtel Ltd. to attend Queen's University and a Dominion-Provincial Bursary of $500.

Norma Gunsalus, Mark Hall and Keith Johnston receive Dominion-Provincial Bursaries of $400 each to attend their respective universities, while Constance Johnstone and Donna Boomer and Vincent Tuepah get bursaries of $100 each to attend their secondary school education.

KHRUSHCHEV

cans will excuse him if he does.

Yes, he says, it is true he used the phrase "We will bury you." But then his expression changes swiftly, to a bitter scowl, and he says that was distorted. What he meant, he says, is that communism would supersede the capitalist system, just as capitalism superseded the feudal system.

In a closed room, directly confronting an audience, Khrushchev is polished, convincing, enormously effective. His restless, fine radiance of his voice, at wide-ranging as a pipe organ—and the expressions flitting across his face all enhance what ever he is saying.

The total impact of Khrushchev's arguments and theatrics, the powerful blast of personality, is yet to be gauged. The comments of people, listening to him in the same room, indicate strongly that he is already making a certain dent on U.S. opinion.

Quinte Unit Holstein Heifer Canadian Champ

Robert Jibb, of Cold Springs, Ontario, is the proud owner of a purebred Holstein heifer that has created a host of records for milk production. On the occasion of September 19th, neighbors, friends and leaders in the dairy industry gathered at the Jibb farm to celebrate the completion of the second championship record.

The new champion is named Brae-Crest R A Governor. She is sired by Regaborne R A Royal Governor, one of the battery of bulls maintained by Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association at Belleville by the Ontario Department of the cattle population through artificial breeding.

Starting on official Record of Performance last, supervised by Dominion Department of Agriculture, as a senior two-year-old, Brae-Crest produced 19,160 lbs. milk containing 818 lbs. fat in 308 days, the highest production for 365 days produced 23,931 lbs. milk (9,172 lbs. fat) and as a four-year-old her 305 days and 365 day production of milk are also the highest records for Canadian senior two-year-old or twice-a-day milking.

Glenvale looks every inch a champion, being a beautifully proportioned heifer, loaded with the glamor called by cattlemen "dairy character" and with a lovely udder. She was bred by George Darling of Milton, Ontario, and was bought by Robert Jibb Just a few months previous to her record breaking lactation.

Glenvale has that one quality that all champion milk cows seem to possess in common, but which is the least tangible. Not only is she a great feeder, but she is also a persistent producer. Her highest daily production was 73 lbs. (29 quarts), and in the making of her record, she gave 3,102 lbs.

Robert Jibb reports that her diet included rolled oats and a dairy concentrate but he gives a good deal of the credit for her sustained high production to the excellent pasture. Her second cut hay that she was fed.

SIBES DAM CHAMPION

Glenvale comes by her production honestly, for her sire's dam was the former World Champion producer, Regaborne Reg Apple Governess, who made individual records up to 30,583 lbs. of milk in a year and has a lifetime record of 183,117 lbs. milk and 6,900 lbs. fat in the herd of Osborne L. Sager of St. George, Ontario.

The former Canadian Champion for milk in the 305 day division, Carnation Segis Rilking was Curlbrook, Re-Echo Birdie owned by George W. Craft, of Ingersoll, Ontario, with a record production of 19,629 lbs. milk. Mr. Craft was amongst those present as the Jibb heifer broke Birdie's record. The previous Canadian Champion for milk in 365 days on twice-a-day milking was Maplewanna Penny Dandy who produced 22,185 lbs. milk in the herd of Ward A. Sharzs, Waterloo.

bvvgiivHa p..to g

Speaking at the celebration on the occasion of the completion of the record, Holstein Editor C. S. Nesbitt, of Port Perry, drew attention to the fact that Robert Jibb is a relatively new breeder of purebred cattle, having purchased his first Holstein in 1945. He has had now numbers 65 head, and in praising its quality Mr. Nesbitt pointed out that any young man who is willing to follow sound practices could have similar success in building a high class herd.

Acting on behalf of the Northumberland County Holstein Club, Secretary Clarence Nelson, of Castleton, presented Robert Jibb with a special lettered cup to be hung over the stall of the new champion, proclaiming her achievements.

WILLIAM T. CANNING

Stricken with a heart attack following an operation on Saturday last William T. Canning, 71 Yeomans Street, died suddenly in Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon, Mr. Canning was progressing favorably from the operation, when he was stricken earlier on Friday and died soon after.

He was born in this city 83 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Canning and lived all his life in this community. After completing his education in the public and high school in this city, he entered the shoe business and for many years was a valued employee of the Haines and Lockett Shoe store, in this city. When the store went out of business as a result of the amalgamation of a chain shoe stores, a position he held for some Fifteen years ago, he entered the employment of the Stewart Warner Alemite Limited company in the shipping department and had been a valued employee of the firm since that time.

Bill Canning, as he was familiarly known, was a sports enthusiast inclined and took to hockey as his favorite sport. He joined the Belleville O.H.A. team in 1906 and played for the late Eddie Thomas and for years was one of the best players in the district. After graduating from the junior ranks, he made his mark with the senior team and was a valued member of the team that won the Ontario championship. He never lost his love for hockey and was often seen regularly at the arena when the senior team was winning the Senior Cup and Belt in 1948. He was an excellent team player and life in the dressing room was never dull when Bill was around.

He was a good citizen and a fine friend and will be missed by friends in every walk of life. He was content to look as active in municipal affairs but was well versed and had a great love for his home town and his greatest enjoyment was to sit down with old friends and talk over the days of old days of hockey in the district.

Mr. Canning was a member of Christ Church, and is survived by his wife, the former Grace Beckett, his friend and wife, the former Elizabeth Ramsay, having died some years ago; one daughter, Mrs. Ian (Linda Jane) McColl, of this city; one brother, Clark Canning, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Ross (Bernice) Bunnett, Mrs. Cyrus (Jeannie) Crawford; Mrs. Jack (Dolly) Diamond and Mrs. D. (Carrie) Mahoney, all of this city.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Pinnacle and Ashley Ave. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. DOROTHY PATTERSON
Toronto - Belleville

Former resident of Belleville and Frankford, where she lived for about 22 years ago, Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, of Toronto, was buried on Thursday following service in the Turner-Porter Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. C. Cragg and Reverend Park United Church.

Mrs. Patterson was fatally injured in the railway train accident at Brockville. She and her husband, Professor Gordon C. Patterson, formerly with the University of Toronto, were enroute home to Toronto from Ottawa where they attended the funeral of their brother-in-law, Mr. E. Young.

Born in Belleville, Mrs. Patterson was the daughter of the late ex-alderman and Mrs. Robert Dafoe. She received her education in Belleville public schools and at Belleville Collegiate Institute.

A valued member of the staff of the Board of Education in Toronto for 25 years, Mrs. Patterson had a pleasing personality and was a leader of friends in the many organizations of which she was a member. She was a member of the Toronto YWCA Swimming Club and University Women's Club and was actively interested in Girl Guide work in which she had advanced to the rank of chief commissioner. She married the late Professor Patterson recently retired as language professor at Toronto University, in 1953.

Professor Patterson was seriously injured in the train accident from which claimed his wife's life.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Patterson is survived by three sisters, Mrs. W. A. (Mabel) Gibson, of Chatham, N.J.; Mrs. Roy (Beatrice) Badgley, of Shannonville, and Mrs. Erroll (Tena) Young, of Ottawa.

JAMES EDWARD TAVERNER

Stricken with a heart attack at his home, Coboconk, James Edward Taverner, retired CNR conductor and formerly resident on Herchimer Avenue in this city, died suddenly on Thursday.

Mr. Taverner was well known and highly regarded in this district, having for years been operator freight and passenger runs between this city and Toronto and on his retirement moved to Coboconk. He was in his 71st year.

He is survived by his wife, the former Sadie Harvey; seven daughters, Mrs. William (Alsidia) Isbister and Mrs. Edward (Filabeth) Thompson, of Coboconk; Mrs. Harold (Jean) Gerow of Aylmer; Mrs. Thomas (Norma) Dickey of Brantford; Mrs. Wallace (May) Bettes of Florida; Mrs. Donald (Ellen) Barrell and Mrs. Ray (Elva) Walker of this city, also two sons, Edward Taverner of Toronto and Roy Taverner of Pickering.

The funeral will be held this Saturday.

HERMAN ARTHUR HEGADORN

Funeral of Herman Arthur Hegadorn, Wellington, Ont., was held Wednesday, September 16th, from the Ainsworth Funeral Home, Wellington, where service was conducted by Rev. J. J. Rogers.

Interment was in Christ Church cemetery, Hillier.

Bearers were: Harold Adams, Ross Hicks, Gordon Adams, Fletcher Thompson, T. Halloran and Percy Elliott.

Mr. Hegadorn died Monday, September 7th, at his residence in Wellington. He had been in poor health for the past five months and was in his 84th year.

Born in Athol township, Prince Edward County, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alishia Hegadorn. He farmed for a number of years in Hillier township, and upon retirement moved to Wellington where he resided for the past thirteen years. He was a life member of Orange Lodge No. 757, Allisonville.

Besides his wife, the former Mary Evelyn Bradford, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clifton (Pearl) Gamble of Consecon, and Mrs. Z. J. (Vera) Deale of Toronto and one son, Fred Midelda, of Hillier. Also surviving are one sister, Mrs. Annie Hicks of Picton; and a brother, Thomas Hegadorn of Picton; three grandchildren, and one great grandson. Two brothers and two sisters predeceased him.

Fine Displays Farm Products Greet Buyers

Crisp and sunny was the order of the weather for today's Belleville farmers' market and many fine displays of farm products greeted the early shoppers.

Fears of excellent quality were available for $1.25 the bushel basket. Large, red apples of several varieties were selling between the same price. Also on hand was a ample cider of very good body and flavor was also available for $1.00 a gallon. Peaches were still available at $1.25 a basket and grapes for 15 cents.

Mushrooms sold at 20 cents each and watermelons of various sizes were available between 25 and 75 cents apiece. Strawberries were also on hand for 50 cents a box.

Rainbow squash was available at one stall this morning. Something of a rarity, specimens of this were available at 25 to 50 cents apiece. Accordingly to Red peppers sold at three for 25, while cucumber would buy four and green peppers, somewhat smaller in size. Ripe cucumbers in bellitas sold at 10 cents each or low were on hand, selling for about 10 cents apiece.

Sounish onions of good size sold at 10 cents each, whilst cauliflower were at 75 cents at the basket. Potatoes sold for around 50 cents a basket, while the hamper and $3.45 the 75-lb. bag. Beets of good quality were selling for 75 cents the basket. Corn-prices held the same at 50 cents the dozen ears. Cabbages, turnips, and marrow are varied between 10 and 25 cents apiece according to size.

Honey was priced at $1.00 for a large-pound jar. Eggs were up in price this week to 65 cents for extra large, 60 cents for large, and 47 and 37 cents the dozen for medium and small, respectively. Chicken prices held at the normal 29 cents per pound. Some flowers were left on the market and were selling for as little as $1.00 a dozen.

For those looking for pets there were a number of hamsters on sale at 35 cents apiece.

Moira School Principal Heard At Lions Club

The second regular meeting of the 1959-60 season for the Lions Club of Belleville was held on Thursday evening at the Bridge Street United Church with Bill Lions in the chair. Secretary Al Glover, read the minutes of the previous meeting of the season which included remarks from the president on his plans for this year's activities; all indications pointing to a busy season ahead for Belleville. Mention was also made of Past President Jack Pryde's report on the 1959 International Lions Club convention in New York. Address was opened by Nelson Rockefeller, Governor of New York State.

Lion Charlie Leppan introduced W. J. Musgrove, principal of Moira Secondary School, who spoke on the economic and scientific aspect of the present educational system. Mr. Musgrove pointed out that education is a most important factor in business which we cannot afford to do without. If we expect big progress and maintain the cultural and technical standards of our country, then education must be boosted. Expansive schools must be built and well equipped and the best qualified students may be returned out, not only with the ability to earn a living but fathers and mothers learned in their time, but a knowledge of what vast new fields have been developing since then and which year by year grow larger and more complex. In order to accomplish this, it has been necessary to increase the number of pupils per teacher and provide greater security for the teacher, a tendency to educate people according to their abilities. Mr. Musgrove stated that we are operating economically (our dollars spent on equipment must last up to 25 years) and efficiently, (our "wastage" in student drop-outs is comparatively small as a very small percentage) although he lamented the fact that many present-day students in over-emphasizing cultural things are showing a prejudice against taking a financial risk or gamble in new business and industrial fields.

There are four main challenges that our system which is a reflection of society, is not accepting blindly past principles and, introducing new ideas, but integrating our educators on many basic principles, with possibly some justification.

Mr. Musgrove was thanked by Lion Jim Wren. A vote of Lion Brennan announced that a salvage drive for paper, cast iron, brass, bonded metals would take place after 8 p.m. on Friday, October 2nd and Saturday morning, October 3rd. A trial area of the city will be covered on the East Hill only from Church Street to the east.

Other guest at the meeting included Vernon Zieelle, Allan Hall, Doug Laird, Jill Henderson, Jack Hammond and Jerry Dehoop.

WIPE OUT

He put in a plug for the display of Canadian flags at the United Nations Friday, saying: "It seemed a most appropriate new era of peaceful relationships between the states."

His first words, this time in English:

"Hospitality, dear friends."

Khrushchev's plane, a U.S. military jet, was rushing him to Washington to fulfill one of the strangest appointments in what must be the strangest forever undertaken by the head of a major modern power.

He will visit Los Angeles in time for lunch at 20th Century-Fox studios, then on to see the musical filming of a number from the musical Can-Can.

Tonight there is a dinner given by Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles. Sunday he is off for San Francisco.

Friday Khrushchev put in what has been known as one of his typical days. That is, it had a bit of everything.

Besides his speech to the United Nations, where he made his disarmament proposal, he visited Hyde Park, N.Y., where he placed flowers on the grave of president Franklin D. Roosevelt in the morning. In that appearance he was solemn and restrained.

IN MEMORIAM

BURNELL. — In loving memory of Dad, Elder Burnell, who passed away September 20th, 1947.
Dad, I'm not asking for a picture,
Or a loved one laid to rest,
You left us more than that dear Dad,
You left us memories best.
Remembered by our son Gordon, Belleville.

NICOLSON. — In loving memory of Donald Nicolson, who passed away September 20th, 1952.
Not lost, but gone before;
Lives still in memory dear;
And will forever more.

THORNTON. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Wilfred Johnston Thornton, who passed away today, September 19th, 1957.
Sweet memories are hallowed
Where no human foot has trod;
Our memories are sacred
To the one we loved and lost.
You suffered much and bore it bravely;
You died as you lived day by day;
W- aited and prayed that your door would Not be taken away.
Sadly missed by wife, daughter Betty and son-in-law Douglas.

When she's confused or herself and get the answer she simply replies, "I don't know," and gives some pat swer which satisfies nobody least of all us.

We have tried to give her a clear description of what we think, how we live, what our relatism is to the U.S. and many other aspects of our life. She has not been spared our opinions of Soviet foreign policy since 1945, and how all the goodwill which the West had for Russia at that time all disappeared in a few years, thanks alone to the ambitious and aggressive foreign policy of Stalin. Well, she admitted that Stalin had made mistakes. We told her that if he had made such mistakes in Canada, the Canadian people would have voted him out of office long before he died.

But, in the long run, we have not fared too badly. We have enjoyed her company and hope that she has a better understanding of Canada now. When we hear some of the other tourists talk about how useless their guide is, it makes us happy. But I think that the guides should all get together some time and get their information straight. We have heard different answers from different guides, and various reasons given why more Russians don't visit America. Also, every guide seems to have a different version of what rights and privileges we tourists have in Russia. It gets rather confusing at times.

When we got to Moscow, our guide said she didn't know the city very well, as she let a student take us around. He, too, was a language student in English, and although English spoken was so good, and he seemed quite shy at first, still we have enjoyed his company very much.
He did his best to show us as much as possible, and tried to answer all our questions as best he could.

INCORRECT ANSWERS

But before I go on to the second part, just a little introduction. Sometimes our guide would give a false answer to one of our questions. Once we asked her if there was any Western music played in Russia. No, she said, she didn't think so, but we sure have heard enough of it since then, especially at the Soviet Industrial Exhibition.

Early in our trip we got on the subject of religion. She said that she herself did not believe in God, nor a life hereafter. She was a complete materialist in the philosophical sense of the word.
She further stated that Communism didn't need a religion.

TO WEDDING

After the services we were invited to a wedding, as of course we accepted, and again had front seats. The ceremony was somewhat different from ours, but the emotions were the same.
It was all a very simple wedding, the bride came in wearing a wedding dress made of white muslin, she wore grey peasant shoes, and carried a bouquet of roses wrapped in a newspaper.
But she was sweet as any bride ever could be. The pastor talked for about for about 10 minutes, telling him that he was the head of the house (told him three times, no less) but that they must learn to live as one, to be guided by God in all their undertakings.

The bride was told she must not forget that her husband was the head of the family. After the ceremony, the pair were presented with a painting showing them walking on the water, and saying to the disciples
"Fear Not."

The service and wedding together lasted over three hours, but it was something we would not have missed for the world, and we both agreed afterward that it did us both a lot of good.
Sometimes one ends to become rather complacent in one's religion and it takes things like this to bring back the true conception of our faith.

POLIO VICTIM

Three New Members Join C.A.S.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society held on Thursday, a recommendation by Mrs. H. B. Caswell, chairman of the nominating committee, A. Dunsmore and Gordon Ellis, and Gordon Davis Hamilton, were elected to board membership. Mr. Dunsmore, recently-appointed Inspector of public schools in this area, replaces A. A. Cummins, who has been transferred to Burlington, and Mr. Ellis, assistant manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, replaces Mr. W. St. Pierre, who has been appointed manager of the Bank of Commerce at Parkhill. Mr. Ellis will act in the capacity of assistant treasurer. Mr. Gordon Davis will replace Mr. Ramsay Park of Trenton who resigned from the board several months ago.

In his report, Mr. Bruce Kerr, local director of the society, stated there were 19 boys and children in ward care. He said that despite the fact that the society's intake for the first eight months of the year was up somewhat more than that of the previous year, the number of children in care was steadily declining. This was due to the unprecedented success the C.A.S. is having in placing children in permanent homes who, but a few short years ago, would have been destined to remain in foster boarding home care for so long as they were wards of the society. People were simply not interested in adopting children beyond the infant and early pre-school age.

"Today we are able to place ten and twelve year olds," said Mr. Kerr, "and I feel certain that soon day we will go beyond that age too. Couples who have reared a family, who have achieved success and security in their personal and business life, have much to give the teen-age child. Every C.A.S. in Ontario has children in care of high school age who are of high intellectual capacity. These boys and girls need the environment but just as badly as do the younger children and the relationship between adoptive parent and child can be just as satisfying."

Mr. Kerr said that Lake Cossette in July was an outstanding success. Mr. Kerr said, and the 80-odd children in attendance enjoyed it and it afforded the staff an opportunity to really "get to know" the children under the most favorable circumstances.

J. C. Miles, who organized the camp and acted as camp director, did a fine job and received the full co-operation of all members of the staff.

The removal of Miss Whytehaven at Bowmanville have been placed in the society's care by the director of child welfare for Ontario. Both children on removal from Whytehaven were committed by the court to the care of Children's Aid Society of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham and then transferred to the local society. Mr. Kerr said that other children from Whytehaven were being cared for by the Napanee and Oshawa societies.

Kiwanis Clubs Will Entertain 800 Kids at Trenton Station

Hasty Pees Will Hold Church Parade Sunday

TRENTON — Over 300 members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will converge on Trenton tomorrow for the annual church parade. Participants are expected from Trenton, Belleville, Picton, Port Hope, Madoc, Norwood and Millbrook.

The event is scheduled to commence at the Armouries at 10.30 o'clock on the grounds before the Legion hall. It will conform with a report received by participants in the Community Gardens.

Conducting the religious portion of the ceremony will be the unit padre, Major S. S. McCausland, M.B.E., of Belleville. Following the laying of a wreath at the Cenotaph, the unit will march to the Gardens along Dundas and Bay Streets. Headed by their march past saluting base, in front of the municipal offices where salute will be taken by Col. M. Clarke, the commanding officer of No. 13 Militia District, Peterborough and Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton.

Commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Angus B. Duffy, has planned an invitation to any interested citizens who might wish to witness the ceremony. He has also announced that should there be poor weather, the service will be held inside the Trenton Community Gardens, where spectators will again be welcomed.

Harlem Satellites To Play All-Stars

TRENTON — One of the best and probably the most colorful professional basketball organizations operating today will appear in the Trenton Armouries Gardens on Saturday evening next, September 26th.

The Harlem Satellites, nicknamed the "Sputniks of Basketball", will, on that occasion, commencing promptly at 7.30 p.m., present an exhibition of basketball that is unique and will then play a team of all-stars selected from the surrounding district.

The Satellites feature such outstanding basketball stars as Rookie Brown, Sweetwater Clifton, Bill Matthews, Webb Ellis, Neal Humphrey and Jim Dew, the latter being a giant of approximately seven feet talent. These athletes, in addition to being experts in their chosen vocation, are talented comedians, guaranteed to provide hilarious entertainment throughout the evening.

TRENTON — About 800 potential Air Force recruits — some years hence — will be given a taste of Air Force life next Saturday when they're taken on an extended tour of Station Trenton . . . compliments of the Kiwanis Clubs in the area.

Saturday, September 26th has been set aside as Kiwanis Kids Day at Station Trenton and an estimated 800 children from Kiwanis District Six A will be guests of the Trenton Club for a six-hour tour of the Station.

And the kids are in for a real treat. Even a special air show is being planned for the benefit of the visitors, when they will witness a performance of all the aircraft used here by Transport Command.

Other things they will be seeing include a firefighting display by No. 6 Repair Depot, put in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week; a tour through the armament section, when they'll be given a view of signal equipment and a display of smoke generating equipment and flares; a tour through the hangars to see all the aircraft, helicopters and mobile equipment on hand; and a special demonstration of an air attendant in a display of landing and take-off, as well as a show of crash boats.

The children expected to arrive by bus at 11 in the morning when they'll be met by Kiwanians from the Kiwanis Clubs. They will be given lunch in Club 24 and then form up on the parade square for an official welcome. Scheduled to speak to the visitors are the Commanding Officer, Group Captain D. Williams, Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton and the local Kiwanis Club president, Nick Frasser.

Their tour of the station will then be finished off with a show that will be given supper and immediately following, will depart for their homes.

Mr. A. M. Doyle, Toronto district manager of Canadian General Electric Company, will address the Quinte District Foremen's Club Tuesday night at the Club Canara. His topic will be "Foremen and Management."

A native of Western Canada, he joined C.G.E. in 1923, upon graduation in electrical engineering from the University of Manitoba. After acquiring varied experience in manufacturing and engineering, he joined the Apparatus Sales department where he acquired field and headquarters experience in sale of electrical equipment for industry. He was appointed to Ottawa as district manager in July, 1956, and is one of this year, he became Toronto district manager. Married with three children, he is active in engineering society work, including the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario.

He will be introduced by Len Taylor.

Fire Damage Heavy at Tweed

TWEED (Special) — Considerable damage was caused to the paint shop of the Bob Woods service station about one-thirty this Saturday morning when fire gutted the premises. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

A practically new car, owned by a customer, was in the paint shop at the time, and was completely destroyed and it is believed there was no insurances on the vehicle. The Tweed fire brigade until did an excellent job in keeping the fire confined to the paint shop of the station. The damage has not been estimated but is said to be extensive.

Generous—Yet Futile

General Charles de Gaulle's plan for Algeria does not so much offer hope for the future of that unhappy land as it does provide additional proof, if any were needed, that de Gaulle is a strange man, an unusual mixture of brilliance and obtuseness.

His plan deserves a better fate than it is likely to get. In at least two-thirds of it he has displayed a breadth of outlook which places him outside the thinking—and probably, alas, outside the understanding—of his contemporaries. Despite his almost nineteenth century devotion to "La Belle France," he speaks like a man of the next century. But he speaks to this century, to French settlers who are bitter at his liberality and to Moslems who are apathetic because they have not yet realized the vision of tomorrow which de Gaulle has exhibited.

Let it be admitted that de Gaulle starts his plea badly. The demand for prior "pacification," for four years in which the annual death toll from revolt falls below 200, is an unfortunate exhibition of that oft-admired "firmness" which, as the late H. G. Wells loved to reiterate in his "Outline of History," has since the dawn of time torn empires to ribbons.

But once he got past that point, de Gaulle presented two shining alternatives for Algeria. The Algerians can vote for integration—all jobs, including government jobs, would be open to Algerians; they would be paid the same pay as Frenchmen for the same jobs (compare this to the situation in British-governed Northern Rhodesia as outlined in an editorial this week); they would enjoy all the social security of citizens of Metropolitan France. Eventually, in the new "small world" which we have created with the airplane, some extension of unnecessarily restricted national boundaries will have to come in the Old World and what better pattern could one imagine than this?

But de Gaulle did not stop there. If the Algerians distrust the results of integration, of living in a France in which the majority would be white, they can choose autonomy, with full domestic government for the Algerians but with France supporting with its wealth Algerian education, economic development and defence arrangements. Again, a generous offer.

Lastly, if the Algerians want neither of these proffered gifts, they can choose complete independence. It was here that de Gaulle lost his touch. It is easy to understand, and forgive, his grim warnings of the result of cutting all ties with France, but what the Algerian nationalists will not be able to either forgive or forget is his declaration that France would not only maintain itself in part of Algeria and preserve direct access to the Sahara but that she would uphold the right of Algerians and Europeans who voted "for France" to go on living in Algeria "under French jurisdiction." That, surely, must have an ominous sound! How would France maintain jurisdiction in a truly independent Algeria? Even if the Algerian is ready to trust the amazing de Gaulle to work out some equitable formula, what guarantee can be offered that there will always be a de Gaulle or a man of matching liberality? Who will be surprised if the Algerian nationalist, having brought France to the point where she offers this much, decides that nothing is to be gained by calling off the fight in this stage?

In the final analysis the French have made a mistake common to most colonial powers. The Montreal Gazette observes that de Gaulle "must have hoped he would not have to make this final sweeping offer. He may have hoped that less inclusive concessions which he had already pledged . . . would be sufficient to end the war." He ignored, though, is clear. Partial concessions never bring a permanent settlement in cases like this. Even this final offer of de Gaulle, which the Gazette describes as pledging "to the non-white Algerians all the things that the rebels have demanded by force," if not now too little, probably comes too late. The only solution which avoids tragic violence and economic upheaval is to make an offer early in the flow of the nationalist tide and to grant not something less but something more than the nationalists are demanding at the time.

A decade ago de Gaulle's offer of integration or autonomy would almost certainly have met with an enthusiastic response from the Algerians. The tragedy is not merely that a decade ago there was no de Gaulle at the helm but that, if the Montreal Gazette is correct at that time he would not have made such a generous offer.

In dealing with the rising tide of nationalism in Asian and African countries, it is more blessed to give than to have it taken away from one.

Historic Hastings
3,000 Visit Museum

ARTICLE 23

(Contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

The change in the title from "Historic Belleville" to "Historic Hastings" recognizes "a gradual change that has taken place over the past two years."

From a series dealing exclusively with the city of Belleville, this column has expanded to deal with other communities in Hastings County and Matters that affect the county as a whole, as well as neighboring counties.

While many future articles in this series will deal with Belleville's past, others will be concerned with such county topics as the Hastings Road, and the Kiddoo gold rush of 1866.

This column issues a plea to its readers: if you have topics that you think would be suitable for this column, or if you have reminiscences or brief articles that we could use, please let us know. Only in these ways can the history of the county be preserved.

Incidentally, this has been a good summer for the Hastings County Historical Society. The display at the Belleville Fair was a decided success, almost 3,000 persons stopped to view the display, which was staffed by twenty members and friends of the society.

The unveiling of the historic plaque to Capt. John Wills soon gave further recognition to the pioneer who is commonly regarded as Belleville's founder.

A recent move has taken the collections of the Historical society to 161 Albert Street, (WO 8-3023) and a further move is planned.

This will see the placing of many books and documents in the County Library, where they will be more readily accessible.

Finally — a reminder to rejoin us next week when we'll relive the Eldorado gold rush of 1866.

Do You Dig Queen's Jive?

Brantford Expositor

We used to be told that English was becoming the practical international language, and for some time there seemed to be a logical chance of that happening.

But, according to Professor Edward Dimock, director of a Bengali studies program in the University of Chicago, it is not so any longer.

English, he says, is being supplanted by regional languages in South and Southeast Asia. Due partly, no doubt, to the rising tide of national consciousness, other "colonial" languages are also receding in some parts of the world.

By way of illustration, Dr. Dimock mentions his specialty, Bengali, he points out, is one of the most important languages in Eastern India. About 73 million people — nearly four and a half times the population of Canada — speak it as their mother tongue, and millions more use it as a second language.

As for English, one sometimes wonders how it survives at all. Regard the number of English-speaking Canadians and Americans who consider themselves to be speaking English, yet commit the most atrocious errors in grammar, usage, pronunciation and even spelling.

"I ain't gonna skool no more; I don't hafta" is rather typical of the kind of English that one hears on the street and in homes. There's no need for it; there's no excuse for it, but there it is. No wonder the Bengalis don't want it!

Not much worse is the crazy vocabulary affected by up-to-date boys and girls. To themselves they use the kids' cant. Some of their lingo makes sense. An octopus, for instance, is a fellow who, when he gets cates, if you know what that means. A cool cat is one to "go steady". "In orbit" are a guy and a gal who are going steady. To "lay a rock" is to say such a curse. "Smog in the nog" is sound for being unable to remember anything. "Nog" is short for noggin, or head, or head. And we like "monster",as a term for telephone. Don't you? Then there are such verbal curiosities as "chick in the skins" "a girl in a fur coat) and refuel "a car."

If you use good English, the young fry will grant that "you make with the Queen's jive."

Do you dig?

Baby Giraffe Born in Zoo

Brantford Expositor

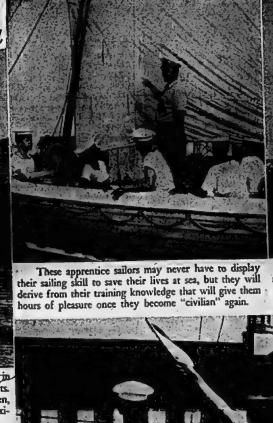
The other day, Maggie, a giraffe at England's famed Whipsnade Zoo, became a mother and since infant giraffes are not altogether common in captivity, this occurrence is becoming a good deal of attention.

Discussing the happy event, the Times of London says: "It is, of course, possible to take a firm line at the start, and, from the manner of the old story, refuse to believe in the giraffe at all. This is, however, rather too extreme and mystical, especially when the animal is looking down with an expression of what might be called inoffensive inquisitiveness on a face at the end of a neck the length of half a cricket pitch."

In their own way giraffes are attractive animals, particularly, of course to other giraffes. They make scarcely any noise at all. They have large eyes with astonishing lashes, and, generally, even in the wild state, mind their own business without preying on other beasts.

As to the unlikely appearance of the giraffe, this led to it being slug scoffed at by armchair scientists as a non-existent fabrication. But then the same sort of "impossible" use to disbelieve in the duck-billed platypus, too. Incidentally, The Expositor has in its library a book containing assorted years ago by the Barnum and Bailey Circus, which says that this show had "the only giraffe in captivity." Judging from its accompanying picture, the artist hadn't yet got around to seeing his subject.

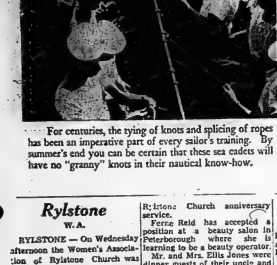
More seriously, doctors looking into the causes and cures of high blood pressure have discovered in the giraffe, since it has the highest blood pressure of any animal — at least twice as high as that of man.



Why should this be? The giraffe does not engage in heated arguments, practice fakers, indulge in rowdy life, doesn't drink or smoke and sticks strictly to a meatless diet. Maybe the Times' savants are not joking when they theorize that the giraffe's blood pressure may be due to the fact that its heart has to pump blood from its feet up to its head

Summer Camp for Junior Salts

2,000 Sea Cadets at HMCS Acadia



These apprentice sailors may never have to display their sailing skill to save their lives at sea, but they will derive from their training knowledge that will give them hours of pleasure once they become "civilian" again.

A taste of the sailor's life in cadets inspires many to make it their career. At 16½ cadets are eligible for trade training in the regular navy. For cadets who wish to continue their education, several scholarships are offered.

Sea Cadets from over 100 corps east of Winnipeg receive summer training at HMCS Acadia in Sydney, Nova Scotia. First commissioned in 1956, this base welcomes over 2,000 sea cadets each year for a two-week period. Sailing, whaler-pulling, cutter races, swimming and rowing, round out their winter landside training in seamanship, rifle drill, naval history and related subjects. On Vancouver Island, where this photograph was taken, a similar camp, HMCS Quadra, accommodates approximately 1,000 cadets each year from Western Canada.

For centuries, the tying of knots and splicing of ropes has been an imperative part of every sailor's training. By summer's end you can be certain that these sea cadets will have no "granny" knots in their nautical know-how.

Competition is keen and proficiency is high in sports and seamanship. In each of the summer camps "Cock of the Walk" prizes are awarded to winning teams and individuals. The best all-round cadet receives the coveted "Captain's Prize".

In addition to the regular two-week camp, HMCS Acadia has a seven-week leadership course attended by about 75 cadets annually. This year these cadets formed a royal guard for Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. Discipline, skill and comradeship in sea cadet training prepare these young lads for a useful role as adult citizens of Canada. Whether their future lies with the Royal Canadian Navy or a career in civilian life, sea cadet summer at HMCS Acadia will not be soon forgotten.

Wedding

DEFOSSE — HORSLEY

FRANKFORD — Pink and white gladioli and white chrysanthemums decorated the Center-in-Chalms Church, Trenton, on Saturday for one of September's prettiest weddings, when Lois Margaret Horsley became the bride of John Delmage Defosse. Celebrant at Nuptial Mass was the Rev. W. T. Casey, who performed the double-ring wedding ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Horsley, 238 King St. Trenton, and the late Mr. Horsley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Defosse, 39 Alfred Street, East, Trenton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of imported lace over ruffled net and taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice and gracefully full skirt accented by back panniers of lace and net. Her fingertip veil of pure silk tulle illusion was held by a half halo of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Kenneth Kerr, Belleville, R. R. No. 5 as matron of honor, wearing a floor-length crystalline gown with white satin cummerbund and sash, white shoes, and rose and white gladioli in her bridesmaid. Miss Mona Latchford, her sister, wore a gown in the same pastelle shade in style similar to that of the matron of honor, with matching headdress and accessories. Both attendants carried nosegays of white 'mums centred by pink roses.

Mr. Glen Parks of Plainfield, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Kenneth Kerr of Belleville R. R. No. 5 and Wayne Hall of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Club Canara, Station Street, where the bride's table was decorated with gladioli, white linen damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake adorned with pale pink roses and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, beneath an arch of pink lace. Pink tapers and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a navy sheath with matching bolero, navy and powder-blue patterned hat, navy accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother, also wearing a blue silk taffeta gown, with white accessories and a corsage of pink chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of dark blue silk with white accessories and a corsage of pink chrysanthemums.

Gladioli decorated the bride's home.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, other parts of Quebec and the United States, Mrs. Defosse chose a white linen sheath dress, with a mint green duster coat, which formed an effective contrast. Her accessories were in white, and she wore a corsage of pink chrysanthemums.

Out-of-town guests were present at the wedding from Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Oshawa, Frankford, and Carrying Place.

The happy couple will reside in Trenton.

STAR BREAKS LEG

TORONTO (CP) — Genevieve, French star of the musical Can-Can, tripped over a rope in a top-light Toronto night club and broke her leg. She was going to her dressing room outside the main tent after her performances at Music Fair, in suburban Dixie, when she fell.

PARKS — LATCHFORD

On Saturday, September 5, at 3.00 p.m. a very pretty fall wedding was performed in Christ Church, Belleville, by the Reverend Everett F. Smith, assistant rector, when Carole Marlene Latchford, of Belleville, R. R. No. 5, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Latchford, became the bride of Ross Orlean Parks, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Orley Parks, of Plainfield. White and pink gladioli blooms adorned the altar, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

The wedding music was provided by six small choir boys directed by the organist Mr. John Croyden Wilbern in their rendition of "O Perfect Love", before the procession of the bridal party, "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of imported lace over ruffled net and taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice and gracefully full skirt accented by back panniers of lace and net. Her fingertip veil of pure silk tulle illusion was held by a half halo of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Kenneth Kerr, Belleville, R. R. No. 5, as matron of honor, wearing a floor-length crystalline gown with white satin cummerbund and sash, white shoes, and rose and white gladioli in her bridesmaid. Miss Mona Latchford, her sister, wore a gown in the same pastelle shade in style similar to that of the matron of honor, with matching headdress and accessories. Both attendants carried nosegays of white 'mums centred by pink roses.

Mr. Glen Parks of Plainfield, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Kenneth Kerr of Belleville R. R. No. 5 and Wayne Hall of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Club Canara, Station Street, where the bride's table was decorated with gladioli, white linen damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake adorned with pale pink roses and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, beneath an arch of pink lace. Pink tapers and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a navy sheath with matching bolero, navy and powder-blue patterned hat, navy accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother, also wearing a blue silk taffeta gown, with white accessories and a corsage of pink chrysanthemums, assisted in the receiving line.

Mrs. Parks was gowned in Caribbean blue sheath with pink picture hat, pink and navy accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For travelling by motor to Watertown, Buffalo and Niagara Falls the bride chose a royal blue crepe sheath with taffeta-cummer bund, royal blue pillbox hat, black accessories, and corsage of white 'mums mingled with baby-pink Sweetheart roses. The happy couple will reside at North 14th Street, Belleville.

Attending the wedding were guests from Plainfield; Belleville; St. Catharines, Shannonville, Peterborough.

During the reception telegrams were received from the bride-groom's grandmother in Winnipeg, Manitoba and from Mr. and Mrs. Reeks and family, also of Winnipeg.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at three miscellaneous showers; at the home of Mrs. Bob Sullivan of Plainfield; at the home of Mrs. Jack Sargent of R.R. No. 5, Belleville with Mrs. Kenneth Kerr as co-hostess, and at the home of Mrs. Blake Cook, of Belleville, with Mrs. Glen Reid, as co-hostess.

Coronation WA Coffee Party Holds Fine

On Wednesday evening the Coronation W.A. of Bridge Street United Church held a highly successful coffee party at the home of the Reverend and Mrs. H. M. Davis.

The many guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. R. Chaplin and Mrs. J. S. Loynes and received in the livingroom by Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the minister; Mrs. R. Sherwin, wife of the assistant minister, and Mrs. G. E. Loucks, president of the Coronation W.A.

The livingroom was attractive with vases of red and pink pom pom dahlias.

Mrs. G. Shaver and Mrs. R. W. Edwards invited the guests to the tea room which was a delightful scene with floral arrangements of yellow daisies and yellow candles in milkglass candelabra. The table was appointed with a white hand drawn cloth, silver candelabra and centrepiece of snapdragons and yellow 'mums.

Presiding at the silver services were Miss I. Dickens, Mrs. L. B. Cronk, Mrs. D. M. Scott and Mrs. J. B. Leslie.

Serving the guests were Mesdames J. E. Dickens, J. Seekings, J. Perry, M. Giles, M. J. Bailey, G. Hyde, J. Bailey, D. Reid, D. Hickson and W. E. McBride.

Replenishing the trays of tempting sandwiches and dainty cakes were Mesdames D. Lockyer, D. W. Maddocks, D. Vics and D. J. Ross.

Mrs. C. Bristol and Mrs. R. W. Cass were in charge of the coffee pots.

The kitchen staff, in charge of Mrs. W. C. McGee, was composed of Mesdames H. M. Morton, R. Robinson, H. A. MacKillican, J. E. Nelles and T. R. Colden.

Mrs. W. D. Leslie was in charge of making the coffee.

Mrs. F. F. Taylor and Mrs. J. D. Courtney were treasurers for the evening.

The library was a centre of much activity with its heavily-laden bake table, convened by Mrs. R. G. Clapp. Assisting her were Mesdames H. Twiddy, A. A. Schryver, S. P. Reston and A. D. Revill.

The committee would like to thank all those who contributed to making the evening a success with special thanks to Mrs. B. M. Kerr, who convened the coffee party; Mrs. R. N. Wray for arranging the flowers and Mrs. H. M. Davis who so graciously opened her home for this annual event.

The Grace of Gratitude

By Alma Mason

(No. IN SERIES)

Are we truly grateful for the myriad blessings of this earth that our Heavenly Father has placed here for our enjoyment and comfort and protection?

If we are we should realize that gratitude is strongly linked with payment and payment is strengthened and upheld by service more than monetary recompense.

John Wannamaker was once a poor boy working in his father's brickyard in Philadelphia. He attended a church where Dr. John Chambers was pastor. He grew to love and admire the devout minister. As the stimulating sermons of Dr. Chambers gradually eased and finally erased the doubt and fear in the boyish heart of John Wannamaker, he longed to show his gratitude.

Soon an opportunity for gratitude to service was given him. He heard Dr. Chambers express chagrin over the deplorable state of the roofing pavement which surrounded the church. He hurriedly solicited bricks and cement from wealthy bricklayers. He then gathered enough funds from church members to have the walk repaired and re-laid.

The following Sunday John went early to church. He waited outside the church to see if Dr. Chambers would notice the improvement in the pavement. Soon the minister appeared. He walked back and forth over the pavement to see if it was real. He suddenly turned and saw John Wannamaker watching him. The pastor dashed on him. Beaming he shouted, "You had something to do with this my boy. Thank you. Thank you will all my heart."

Years afterwards as Mr. Wannamaker told the story he said, "That was my first taste of doing something about gratitude and in giving to the cause of the Lord. I had never before had an experience so satisfying and inspiring. Small wonder that I gave more and more as I became older."

When we find God; when we realize that through His goodness and mercy, all things are possible; when new vistas of endeavor open up for us because of faith and prayer; when the sky becomes more blue because we learn to peer through a crystal zone of love; when flowers seem more glorious in hue, grass a deeper emerald and trees more majestic, because they have breathed the breath of God from a Divine Craftsman, then we become obsessed with a desire to offer life in consecrated service. We realize that an earthly life lions of strenuous effort in the cause of the Great Giver of all Gifts would be but a drop in the huge ocean of our debt.

By faith and gratitude and a desire to serve, Columbus, when he was called of God, went out, not knowing where, to discover a new world. So did Cabot, Magellan, Vespucius and Balboa.

By faith and a desire to express gratitude through service, we have been enjoying a world bettered by science. We feast believe that faith and inspired service supplied the power that issued from the efforts of Fulton and Stephenson, Morse and Koenigen, Edison and Lister. Service to man through God motivated Cyrus Field, Alexander Bell, Marconi and Wilbur Wright. Through a will to serve these men made from float, yoked chariots to steam, sent the voice of man a thousand miles through the atmosphere. They lifted the bodies and minds of men on silver wings of awe and wonder, to set them sailing amongst God's stars and planets.

May we too express our devotion. No matter how humble the sphere we abide in it can become glorified, through service to God and Man.

If I would count my blessings lovingly,
I must count them full well Free,
My boundless, endless debt to Thee.
I must toil in Thy blessed cause
By sun and candlelight,
Without a thought of rest or pause
By day or night.
May I by tireless effort prove
My love and boundless gratitude.

Going Places

Tyranny of Man and Machine Humbles World's Travellers

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Tinfoil on baked potatoes is to get to the airport. But meekly you submit to this wastage of your time.

The problem turns out to be academic; when you get to the airport you find out the flight is an hour and a half late anyway, despite the fact that when you inquired before you left home they told you were told it's on time.

Your complain bitterly to the agent. It's not his fault; he doesn't run the communications system. He's simply a victim of station manager; he is well aware of this, and cowers before tears from your eyes so that when you leave you feel sorry for him, not vengeful. You write a letter to the head of the airline, but get back a five paragraph letter which can be summarized, "tsk, tsk."

Once cleared your luxury flight — which is further delayed an hour at the end of the runway due to traffic — you face the tyranny of the stewardesses. The word is regard the passenger as a necessary evil. Think we're kidding? Sit opposite the galley and eavesdrop on their conversation:

"We'll serve the champagne with the martinis, otherwise we won't get through." "Natalie's brat in 14B stepped on my toe twice; I wish she'd go outside and play." "There's a pest in 12A who wants a glass of water right now."

DON'T DARE COMPLAIN

You don't dare say anything. Not even to complain that the air-conditioning is turned full cold from any more than you do to the filling station attendant who forgets to wipe your windshield or the waiter who brings your dessert before the main course on the grounds that he's only got two hands and anyway it's his station, or the cab driver who arrogantly grabs your tip even though he's passed-you-on-the-right-and-cut-in-front-of-you-and-speed-limit-e n f o r c e d-this-years-no signs, for the same reason.

At motels if you timorously suggest it's a mite cool for you to ask to come out of one family car, hasn't pocket, you are distantly advised that the court is a member of World's Most Superb Motels, Inc., and there's a more modest dump about 12 miles down the road where you may might get in for $30 if you have references. Most of us meekly roll out our references or wallet instead of telling him he and WMSMI can go to hell and drive the road at least 12 miles themselves.

And so we continue to be pushed around. Perhaps this is the price we pay for progress in the world to unite. We have nothing to lose but our timid chains.

"Well! It's good to see you. When did you get back?"

"Did you have a good time?"

"Where did you go this time for your holidays?"

Such comments are the order of the day. Now is the time to hear about trips, impressions, experiences and travellers, as the summer season begins to close. What about the weather? Was it hot, say, in Scotland?

"Not far from cool," we're told by those lucky enough to visit there this summer, "and our sweaters and wool suits were simply extra luggage to carry about. Even rainfall was not to be feared."

"Does one need expensive equipment to camp out, on a motor trip?" someone asked.

"Well, we certainly started out with the best," claims one motorist of this vicinity. "My wife and I thought it would be fun to camp out on our trip, so we invested in a fairly expensive sleeping outfit complete with necessary essentials for sleeping and eating. On our first night we stopped at a tourist camp site and watched with considerable interest a family of fellow tourists who camped next to us. From the back of their station wagon the grandmother took out a coffee pot and made coffee at the communal fireplace, while the mother brought out some big boxes and put them on one of the picnic tables and took out a loaf of sliced bread, a pound of butter and packages of cold cuts.

"Come and get it," she called out.

AL FRESCO MEAL

"They all gathered around the table. Some stood, some sat down as each made his own sandwich with the cuts which they had between them all, while the grandmother poured the steaming coffee into paper cups. When they had their fill, the boxes were packed and stowed away in the car, the cups disposed of and suitable of the coffee pot, 'the dishes were done.'

"Where did they sleep? Certainly not in any outfit like ours. The youngsters slept in the station wagon, the two woman on cots, while the men just rolled into sleeping bags on a ground sheet. During the ensuing nights we got smuggled with folding and unfolding our equipment, trying to cope with meals under primitive conditions. I couldn't help but think how wise and smart those tourists were not to make tals the amenities of civilized life which take time, trouble and money to provide. After all, when one travels like that, one is out to do and see places, not linger to run a restaurant and motel. Think of it. No dishes to wash. Wonderful!!"

Pictures taken of a part of their motor trip are greatly prized by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seeley, 10 Nicholas Street, due to the fact that many of the scenes were altered just two weeks later by the earthquake. The views, you will have guessed, are of Yellowstone National Park.

Bellevignettes: "When my grandfather came out to Canada in 1840 from Scotland," confided Mrs. G. S. Cronk, 220 Mconald Ave., "he brought with him some Scotch Thistle seeds which he planted on the farm, still in family hands today. The thistles by some good fortune thrived, and for each year a sturdy lovely emblem of my grandfather's family."

"So you can imagine the thrill I received, when my husband and I attended the medical convention in Edinburgh this summer, to see the door of the assembly room flanked by two huge tubs, each planted with the Scotch Thistle. Tall and handsome they were. All of five or six feet tall and in bloom. Being the authentic national flower Scotland, we were surprised to learn that it does not grow profusely there. Thus we cherish our Scotch Thistles back on the farm, all the more."

Club Activities

FR. ED. — BELLEVILLE L.O.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Edward - Belleville Ladies Club was held at the Y on September 8th with the president, Mrs. L. Sharpe, presiding.

After 2 summer recess, Mrs. Sharpe welcomed the 14 members and two visitors and reported on the last trip to Niagara in July and the lovely picnic enjoyed by the club.

Thank-you cards were read from Mesdames Lent, Barber, Rollf and McCoy, also W.C.T.U. for donation of money.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Weese were sponsors for the meeting, presented the following program: Reading by Mrs. White, "Life Is So Short," who also introduced Mrs. C. Holmes, guest speaker for the afternoon. Mrs. Holmes' subject as her theme, "Pathways of Life," comparing it as a series of hills, such as—hill of appreciation', 'Grisly work', 'understanding', 'soon conformity', 'friendship', 'happiness', 'Christianity and faith', which are hills all have to climb in daily living.

Thanks were extended by Mrs. MacDonald to Mrs. Holmes for coming and giving the club this inspired address.

Piano and favorite songs were enjoyed in community singing.

A reading by Mrs. MacDonald, "Instructions To An Overnight Guest"; a solo by Mrs. L. Wannamaker, and a reading by Mrs. M. Dempsey, "Remembering", brought a delightful program to a close.

Mrs. Sharpe closed the meeting and a social half hour was enjoyed.

As conducted by Mary Moore

LETTER:

Thank you very much for your enjoyable column. I wonder if any of the following hints will be of assistance to you and your readers.

"If you dip your cookie cutters in icing sugar instead of flour, you will avoid white edges on ginger and chocolate cookies . . . instead of flattening dropped cookies by the cloth over a tumbler method, use your Swiss steak mallet. Dipped in icing sugar it speeds up the job and makes an attractive design. To make a fancy design on shortbread cookies, cut out with plain, round cutter, then press in pattern with the bottom of a plastic basket (sold in packages of 1-2 dozen in supermarkets and 5 and 10c stores). When icing cakes or cupcakes which are to be packed in lunch boxes, slice cake through centre and ice, then put together. They can be packed then without having the cream stick to the waxed paper.

(Fresh, not candied) and unstrained orange juice. I made ribbon sandwiches and they were good!

"Sometimes when the budget yells "Uncle" and we do want company, I make a good cold stew and top it with your special Tea Biscuit recipe — (If the house ever burns down, I'll rescue that recipe before the silverware!) and serve in casserole. Men, love it.

"Also on "Us-pay Days" my husband loves "Minus Con Carne." He named it because he doesn't like chili powder added to recipes, and this is basically a chili con carne: Soak overnight and then cook in pressure cooker in the same water one or two packages of red beans. When cooked add an undiluted tin of tomato soup. Fry onions until transparent (we like plenty), add ground steak (more or less depending on the budget) and cook until meat has turned light brown. Add to first mixture and turn into casserole and heat through. I forgot to mention the salt. With hot

Bill F. Mother should leave Dad.

Mrs. F. F. — I haven't the spirit.

Bill F. — I am 17 and have a younger sister and brother. My problem is my dad, who is running around with another woman. This thing has been going on for about two years and everyone in town knows about it. I have even seen him with this woman when I've gone out on a date with my girl. I felt like killing him.

I have been trying to get my mother to leave him, but she has no gumption at all. Next year I'll be out of high school and I'll be able to support her. I asked a lawyer and he told me Dad would have to pay for the younger kids. I can't see any sense in putting up with a guy like that.

Mrs. F. F. — I know I should leave Fred, but it's true I have no gumption, at all. Recently I've found my spirit into dust when he was unfaithful to me after the first nine months of our marriage.

My only consolation is that Bill will never be anything like his father. He is very considerate of me and he just detests his father for his horrible behavior.

The way I feel about it is that there is no sense in leaving Fred now after I have put up with him for all these years. I know Bill and I know that he'll soon tire of the other woman and will come back to me until the next time.

The Council It isn't always easy to determine where the blame for a marriage failure started, but we would say that at the present moment Mrs. F. F. and her husband are about equally at fault.

However (c certainly a cardinal sin, but from the human point of view there are other sins too.

Mrs. F. F. is committing quite a few of them when she works on her son's pity to the hilt to her in an ugly bond based on hatred for the man who is his father.

For better or for worse we are all identified to some degree with our parents. When one parent turns a child against the other, the latter may enjoy a certain sort of vindictive triumph, but in the long run the child suffers. He finds the "bad" parents is in him in some way. He hates at least half of himself, and self-hate rolls and a fresh vegetable salad. Let husband-holding fare, and cheap too. If you have a favorite, the double recipe is worthwhile making for an easy dinner on wash days . . . Doyoung?

WRITING NAMES ON PLACE CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Thank you very much for your help in answering the several questions I had in connection with our plans for giving a large dinner to celebrate our parents' Golden Wedding. We are following your suggestions, every one of them, with delight! One which I gild-edged place cards you suggested, and now I would like to know if, in writing the names on these cards, I should write the guests' names after the general dinner) or only the first names. (The guests will all be either relatives of our family or close friends of our mother and father.) — B. F.

For this family party, for relatives and intimate friends, write the informal names on the place cards: "Aunt Katherine"; "Uncle Bill"; "Cousin Ellen"; "Sallie"; "Arthur," and so forth.

"CONTRIBUTION TO THE CELEBRATION" IS NOT A FEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening several friends of mine and I we are all planning to be married within the coming several months! were discussing and checking on the list of Wedding Etiquettes you published in your column. I have noted with interest fand so had several of them) that you always write "contribution to the clergyman" instead of the usual "clergyman's fee." Why? — Bride-to-be

Because the money given by a bridegroom to the clergyman is actually a contribution, not a fixed fee. There is generally a definite and stated fee for the organist, for the soloist, usually for the sexton . . . and customarily there is not a stated remuneration for the clergyman.

NOTE OF CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A man who has been a business acquaintance of mine for some time, but whom I have not known socially, has just been made secretary of a large and important company in the city where he lives. I would very much like to write him a note of congratulation. Will you please suggest how I may proceed? I'm a pole at this kind — Reader

Your note might read:

Dear Mr. Blake,

May I send you my warmest congratulations on your appointment as secretary of the A — Company? Every good wish to you for happiness and success, always.

Sincerely yours,
John Delafield

"OLDER BRIDE" WISHES FATHER TO GIVE HER IN MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman.

I am 48 years of age, have never married, but now am planning to be married the 31st of October. I am an only child, have always lived with my parents, have been a "career gal" for quite a few years. We are to have a small wedding, in the chapel of our church, of which my father is a member. I have a very special wish to have my father give me in marriage, but I have been told not, recently, that an "older bride" to be given in marriage. Is this so? — G. P.

It is not very usual for the "older bride" to be given in marriage, but it is certainly correct if the bride wishes, and particularly when this is her first marriage. And I indeed understand why you . . . and your father also! . . . would wish to have this procedure.

The Experts Say

Should Purchase Paintings Within Means Says Artist

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Don't leave a painting hanging on your wall if you've outgrown it or become tired of it. That's the advice of one of Canada's best-known portrait painters, Marjorie Stevens of Toronto.

Exchange it for a new one or give it away, but do something with it, says the artist.

"People should buy paintings within their means, which add to cultured interest to their rooms and bring something extra into their homes," she advises.

Miss Stevens, president of the Women's Art Association of Canada, says too many people make hasty purchases of paintings.

EXPERT ADVICE

"The purchaser should get good advice from topnotch artists and dealers," she recommends.

Miss Stevens started with great enthusiasm of the growing contemporary trend in Canadian art. This she attributes to "increased leisure time and a complete change in our ways and art."

"It's extra leisure and not money which has brought hobbies such as art to the fore. People who have always wanted to paint now have the time, she says.

An art teacher herself, Miss Stevens says art classes have improved greatly during the past few years.

"The classes now are designed to stimulate the imagination. We bored the students in the old days by having them shade an apple."

The current interest in art can be developed by attending art lectures and museum galleries or local craft centres.

"When you become faintly interested, then buy books in the line of art you like, but remember, you can't take a three-day art course in a couple of evenings."

Small communities, not blessed with galleries, can be art-conscious, she says.

"Art teachers can be brought to town with proper local educational sendoff to local artists, and travelling shows help to create a stimulus in the whole town," she says.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. Earl Fox sold a successful auction sale of Holstein cows and farm machinery on Saturday. Mr. Haggerty was the auctioneer.

Misses Linda Sine, Joanne Reid and Barbara Hadley are attending Teachers' College, at Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hulin recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. Boyd and family, of Ottawa.

A successful sale of heirlooms, antiques, modern furniture, garden tools, was held on Saturday at the former residence of Mr. Ernest Gifford in the River Valley community. The sale was sponsored by Mrs. Bert Wannamaker, of Foxboro, and the auctioneers were Cameron and Harold Bunnett. The sale began at 10.00 a.m. and closed at 8.00 p.m. Crowds of folk from all parts of Hastings and Prince Edward were in attendance, and many came at an early hour on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Jack Bush convened a group of members of River Valley Women's Institute and they served light lunches. About 120 ladies assisted with the noon-hour rush. The River Valley group cleared $130 and were pleased with the success of their efforts.

The Misses Sally Fox, Jean Sutherland, Gail Sine and Patsy Fraser, began their three-year course as nurses-in-training on Monday at the General Hospital, Belleville.

Four Institutes in this area, Pine Grove, River Valley, Chatterton and Wellman's, have donated money for special prizes to be used at Stirling Fair.

Mrs. Maurice Bell gave an inspiring and informative address during her trip to Newfoundland and St. Paul's W.A. meeting on Tuesday.

Dr. Thomas A. Patterson spent last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson.

At noon on a recent Saturday in the local IGA Store, Clarence Woods made a presentation of appropriate gifts to three members of the local grocery store operated by Mr. Harold Bird. The girls have been employed for some time and are now studying elsewhere. The Misses Betty Sally Fox, Linda Sine and Gail Sine, each received appreciative thanks to the staff members for their kind remembrance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Rollins recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Sills and family, of Montreal.

Principal John L. Good of King George High School, Oshawa, and Mrs. Good announced that Miss Dawn Isobel, daughter of Mrs. Russell Isobel and the late Mr. Isobel of Carmel, and Mr. Michael Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strong, of Stirling, had been awarded Dominion-Provincial studentaid bursaries for grade 12 and 13, valued at $100 each.

Mrs. John Kane was hostess for the recent meeting of River Valley W.M.S. with Mrs. Gerald Brooks in charge, and several of the children assisted with the program.

Dutchmen Ask Bigger Split Of Gate Receipts

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen hockey club executive members have appealed to the Kitchener Auditorium commission for a larger share of gate receipts during the 1953-60 hockey season "to keep the club operating and to keep senior hockey alive."

Ernie Coman, club manager, asked the commission to consider a 75-25 per cent split for playoff games instead of the 60-40 split in last season's agreement. The larger portion goes to the club.

He also wants the commission to consider taking the guaranteed receipts to a visiting team off the gate receipts on exhibition games before making the 75-25 split.

The requests will be considered at a special meeting to be called shortly.

Terry Kovach, Billy Clarke, and Dennie Craft.

Those from here attending Stirling High School are: Robert Clarke and Paul Bridges in grade XII; Sandra Chambers and Annamae Clarke in grade XI; Allen Reide in grade X; Audrey Stapley, Sharon Reide, Barbara Chambers in grade IX. Large Crowd Enjoys IOOF Chicken Supper

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening despite the cold wave which hit this area, approximately 375 people gathered for a delicious chicken barbecue in the Agricultural Building at the Fair Grounds.

The meal, arranged cafeteria style with each patron carrying himself, Mr. Earl Fox served the chicken. Tables were arranged for 300 at one sitting.

The supper was sponsored by Stirling Encampment No. 80, I.O.O.F., under the direction of Chief Patriarch Farley Parnell and his committee, and it was a decided success.

The chickens were barbecued by a barbecue company of Elora and were cooked over charcoal heat in large containers outside the building. Potatoes were baked in their praise of the well cooked fowl and the appeting viands provided by the members' wives.

Several folk took their chicken home to eat as the evening was chilly and there was no heat in the building.

Guests attended from Eldorado Madoc Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford and nearby points. The list included Mr. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., and Mrs. Sandercock, of Belleville; Mr. Ralph Hubbs, Grand Patriarch of Grand Encampment and Mrs. Hubbs of Picton and other lodge officers.

About 20 people had purchased tickets who were unable to attend.

The officers in charge were pleased with the success of the venture and were especially grateful to all who assisted and to the large number who patronized the affair.

Several members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge attended the supper; also many residents of Stirling village and Rawdon and Sidney townships.

travelled by car to Toronto where he made connections with the airline for the flight. His parents were in telephone conversation with him on Monday and David reported the climate quite hot on his arrival.

Deryl Pritchard, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Orland Pritchard, was most fortunate last week when he was struck by a car near his home. He was removed to the office of Dr. McVicker for examinations and was allowed to return to his home as he was only slightly bruised. Fortunately, the car was proceeding slowly when the accident occurred and the driver stopped immediately. The accident was investigated by local police.

Garden Notes

Now Is Time to Shop for Shrubs

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

This is the time of year to go shopping for shrubs. By mid-September you can safely transplant the evergreens but the deciduous shrubs cannot be moved until they have dropped their leaves and the plants become dormant. It will be a strain on the imagination to picture leaves on the bare branches you will be planting in October. Even if you do not plan to plant until spring, do visit your local nurseries while the shrubs still have their leaves. It will help you to get a true picture of how the different shrubs could fit into your garden.

One morning recently after a heavy rain I put on rubber boots and walked up and down the rows of nursery plantings. The purple plum, berried mountain ash (also known as Rowantree) the silver dogwood and the crimson barberry looked their best. The Buddleia still had fine panicles of bloom. This is also known as summer lilac or butterfly bush as it attracts butterflies. The hollies glistened with the moisture on their shiny leaves. There were rows of dwarf crimson barberry. This is a slow grower and remains quite dwarf giving you a hedge that will not need pruning.

FOR ROCK GARDEN

The Daphne family is admirable and there are several good forms. D. Somerset has rich dark foliage pink blooms and is partly evergreen. D. cneorum is quite dwarf, a mound type and evergreen. They are suitable for rock garden, planted under low windows in a sunny position. They bloom four times a year.

Another shrub which blooms more or less continuously is the weigela. It is considered among the choice medium height shrubs. Bristol Ruby and Newport Red have good red blooms. There are pink forms and one white that has leaves variegated with yellow.

Kerria is a coarse leaved shrub frowned upon by some very diverse habit. In the fall they have beautiful berries which hang on well into the winter. I liked the C. willow leaf with its slender deeply veined leaves. C. adpressa does not exceed two feet in height, fine for border edging or foundation plantings. Most of this family have low spreading habits quite graceful valued for their flowers, berries and leaf form.

MOUNTAIN ASH

Look for pieris andromeda. It has shiny dark green leaves with good bronze color in the new growth in the spring leaves. The pendulous clusters of white berry-like blooms are most unusual and attractive.

Mahonia or Oregon grape has shiny leaves shaped like the holies. In a sheltered position it will keep its foliage through the winter. The yellow flowers appear in June and the grapelike clusters of blue berries hang on through the winter. Valued for foundation planting and for Christmas decoration.

Viburnum opulus tomentosum is beautiful with scarlet orange leaves and big clusters of bright red fruit. Euonymus alatus, or winged thorn is another fall spectacular. It has clusters of bright berries and flame colored foliage.

Every few weeks from spring to fall give yourself the pleasure of a trip to a local nursery. You will be surprised how the picture of your home will have their glory in the spring others much later. With the aid of your nurseryman you can have your garden interesting all year round with varied bloom, bark, berries and leaf.

VARIOUS CEMENTS

Depending on the use for which it is planned, concrete may vary in weight from 30 to 250 pounds per cubic foot.

HOW YOU MAY SAVE UP TO $300 ON YOUR NEXT CAR

Finance and Insure It Through State Farm

Are you one of the 2 out of 3 families who will finance your next new or used car? Then the State Farm Bank Plan is the modern way to buy that car . . . without signing up for expensive finance and insurance package deals that can keep you "car payment poor." The Bank Plan has helped thousands of car buyers save $100—$200—$300 and even more," enjoy lower payments, shorter loans.

Buying a NEW car? You save money through low bank rates. State Farm helps you get financing at a leading local bank. It's simple, it's private. Payments are arranged to suit you. No extra fees, no hidden charges.

Buying a USED car? Unlike most financing plans, you don't pay a higher rate when you finance a used car through the Bank Plan. These low borrowing rates may save you hundreds of dollars.

You get low-cost "careful driver" insurance. State Farm keeps rates low by aiming to insure only careful drivers.

Your State Farm agent handles details. No running around town for OK's. He writes you a cheque for the amount you need, even lends you the insurance to cover the unpaid balance. Call him today. (He's listed in the White Pages of your phone book under State Farm Insurance.) Before you buy, find out if you can save this kind of money with the Bank Plan.

How this easy plan works:

1. Pick the car—new or used. Before you buy, phone any STATE FARM agent. Tell him how much you need to cover the "unpaid balance." He'll discuss the difference between your down payment (or trade-in) and the cost of the car.

2. He does the rest! You get a cheque for the desire. You're a "cash buyer." That's the big saving.

New Type Car Finishes Need Waxing Too

By EUGENE MILMOE

Several readers have asked about the new lacquer and enamel finishes used on '59's and some earlier car models. The most popular question seems to be, "Is it true they never need cleaning or waxing?"

Unquestionably, these finishes are superior. They offer the brightest, hardest, most durable coatings found on today's cars. They also minimize the threat of chipping, chalking and fading. However, the enthusiasm for this improved product has apparently permitted claims to become a bit exaggerated and confusing.

Any car finish will eventually become spotty, dirty, pitted. Since water washing won't remove every type stain, a cleaner is sometimes needed. A good coat of wax not only brings out the brilliance and lustre of the finish, but also makes it easier to wipe or wash the finish clean. And, remember, a wax job offers another layer of protection against sun, rain, snow, grit.

Catholic Labor Members to Vote On Joining CLC

QUEBEC (CP) — The final decision on affiliation of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with the big Canadian Labor Congress has been placed in the hands of the CCCL's 75,000 members.

The membership will vote on the question in a referendum if 2/3 for affiliation are agreed to by the two labor bodies.

The 300 delegates attending the CCCL annual convention here Thursday granted the request of the union unity committee for a renewed mandate to continue affiliation talks with the CLC.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Couple Whipped Retirement By Establishing a 'Beachhead'

By THOMAS COLLINS

This is the story of a couple who has established a "beachhead" for retirement.

Their name is the Henry W. Meadows. Their reasoning, while logical, is unique.

"When I reached 61," Mr. Meadows says, "my wife and I were already trying to figure out how to escape from city living at 65. The children had been off our hands for eight years and we had travelled much on our vacations, always looking for a place to settle.

"We made a list of some pleasant spots. But always when we got home we had only some notes and photographs. And the spots seemed far away. . .'

They figured they would have to put roots in the ground — probably in the form of buying some property — before any retirement spot would have any magnetism for them after they returned home.

"You've got to have some such beachhead," Mr. Meadows says. "Your children living there can be a beachhead. So can old friends. Or fellow employees from the company. Or property your savings have bought.

"But our children and friends have not gone to the spot we found pleasant. And attempts to buy property in far-away places on the acquaintance of a three-week vacation were foolish.

"Anyway, how could we purchase a beachhead until retirement when it was so far away that we could visit it only on vacations?" . . .

BOUGHT A FARM

So the Meadows, who lived in a city apartment, decided to buy a farm 50 miles out of town. It was in Mr. Meadow's flist years.

The farm cost them $20,000. They had $9700 saved, most of it in savings bonds. They took $7000 of it for a down-payment, and a 4½ per cent mortgage for $13,000.

It was a farm that had a reliable tenant family already living on it and that had a record of around $1200 a year income for the owner.

The Meadows assured themselves that the status quo could be maintained, then made a deal with the tenant whereby any use they chose of a strip of the farm along a creek bank that was not under cultivation.

"On the $13,000 mortgage we were committed to $585 a year interest. This just about $600 a year out of the farm rental. We decided to add $50 a month to to this, for a total of $1200 a year to apply to the mortgage. . ."

Four years have passed since the Meadows made their deal. They have cut the mortgage a little better than their planned $1200 a year, and now owe only $7000 on it. They still have the same tenant. They retire next January 1st.

"But in these four years," says Mr. Meadows, "We have established our beachhead. The first year we rented a trailer on our vacation, parked it on the strip on the farm and with recruited farm-labor began building a cottage. Almost every weekend for the next year we drove back and pushed the work as fast as my salary would let us.

A FINE HOME NOW

"The next summer we were able to spend our vacation in the cottage by roughing it. Two years ago we spent our three weeks nicely there, and started driving back per weekend. By this past summer we had virtually a country place. And come next January we got ourselves a fine home..

"It's our beachhead for retirement. And it's deeper than just property. After four years of weekends, vacations and cottage-building we know folks for 20 miles around. . ."

The Meadows will retire with pensions "in the neighborhood of" $286 a month. The $567 over a year they must pay on the remaining $7000 of their mortgage can come out of the $1200 they still get from their tenant. This leaves $850 to apply to the mortgage, which would pay it off in less than 10 years.

The Meadows may let things ride this way. Or Mr. Meadows may cash in a life insurance policy which his wife and children no longer need and pay the mortgage off. As he says, it doesn't matter. He's got retirement whipped.

Humming Bird Gets Plane Trip to South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A humming bird that forgot to migrate is getting an airliner lift from the chilly north to sunny Florida.

Audubon Society officials in Miami have prepared a warm reception for the tiny bird. Due today via Northeast Airlines, Its $4 "fare" was paid by Mrs. Eugenia M. Moody, 75, wife - president of the North Woodstock, Vt., humane society. The $4 represented shipping charges on the bird and its cage.

Mrs. Moody found the hummingbird half - frozen in Sunday's low temperatures at North Woodstock.

The bird will be released in a Miami suburb.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED WILSON

THE HALF CASTE

Unless you visit water of some kind you need not expect to see a coot, that half caste which is really a marsh bird with habits of a duck. Although the first cousin of a rail or a gallinule, it remains tight in marsh land only at breeding time. Afterwards it may be found associated with ducks on all types of water, fresh or salt, small or large.

Just as a thrasher is noted for its fine, big tall, a pelican for its enormous, pouched bill, and an egret for its plumes, so a coot is noted for its decidedly large, extremely odd feet. Nature has given us the various kinds of birds feet to answer the purpose of each. A woodpecker's are designed for climbing up bark of tree trunks, a sandpiper's for walking on beaches, and a grouse's for scratching for a living. The feet of a coot have the combined assets of a marsh bird and a duck. The excessive length of the toes is for walking in marshy ground; and the extended membrane shaped in scallops on either side of each toe gives the coot the ability to swim which ducks have because of their webbed feet.

EXPERT DIVER TOO

This bird is about 15 inches long. Even when partly hidden by reeds we are aware of its presence because of that habit of constantly splashing about grunting, cackling, croaking and making all sorts of indescribably noises while feeding on under water plants or small aquatic animals. To do this it tips up like a duck, but it does water it dives expertly like a grebe. When swimming its white stern shows, and like a gallinule it continually nods its head. In order to rise from the water, like a merganser it has to patter over the surface for some distance before it is able to take to the air. In flight, a white border shows on the rear edge of the wing.

A physical peculiarity of these marsh birds is the bony looking bill which extends onto the forehead forming a frontal plate. The coot's is conspicuously white.

In summer coots are found right across Canada, Late in the season they gather in flocks on small lakes and ponds where they are often killed by hunters. This is needless slaughter, because they do not make good eating. The year is coming to an end before the last flocks take off for their winter quarters, some migrating as far south as the West Indies and Panama.

Gannets, the ocean birds which feed on fish, may reach a length of three feet.

Top ranking government and conservation officials, including the Hon. J. W. Spooner, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, are acting on the panel of judges for Molson's province-wide "Big Fish" contest currently being conducted under the auspices of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

An ardent fishing enthusiast, himself, Mr. Spooner is chairman of the judges' panel. Other members include Frank H. Kortright, president of the Canadian National Sportsmen's show; Kenneth Loftus, research biologist of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and Stanley Hodgkiss, vice-president and chairman of the fish committee of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

The "Big Fish" contest has aroused widespread interest and, since it was launched on May 1st last, many entries have been received. Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Limited is co-operating with the federation in the promotion of the tournament by contributing cash awards of more than $3,000.

The contest is for large mouth black bass, small mouth black bass, yellow pickerel, great northern pike, muskinonge, lake trout, speckled trout and rainbow trout. They must, however, be caught in Ontario waters during the regular open season on rod, reel and line and must be played by one person.

Dozens of cash awards ranging from $10 to $100 are being offered to winners in the various categories. In addition, an honor badge is being presented to each fishing enthusiast, submitting an entry which complies with the minimum weight requirements.

This tournament is open to all residents of Ontario and to all legally licensed non-residents. It runs through until October 31 and all entries must be submitted and received by November 8.

Entry forms and other details of the "Big Fish" contest may be obtained from any Molson's branch, the secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters at Ridgetown, Ontario.

Incidentally, women are making a strong bid for the top awards. Mildred Watson of Mt. Chenery, Ontario, has an entry of a 19 pound pike. Mrs. Jean O'Connor, Copper Cliff, has entered a 15 pound 5 ounce lake trout while Mrs. Greta Sieph, Euclid, Ohio, has a 6 pound 4 ounce large mouth bass and Margaret Ferbach, Buffalo, New York, is entered with a 12 pound muskie.

TACKLE-BUSTING TROUT

In the Boyne River, Tossorontio township, Ontario, a tackle busting brown trout has been giving anglers frustration complexes for two years or more, according to J. S. "Sandy" Ellis, senior conservation officer (game warden) of the Lake Simcoe district. Sandy's headquarters are at Maple, about 20 miles north of Toronto.

Residing in a deep, cool pool the big trout leaps and cavorts among bathers on occasion but disappears when anglers approach. Gogging observers insist the trout would tip the scales at 12 to 20 pounds (depending on the degree of their excitement under which the fish broke water). The potential record breaker has been hooked at least three times, Sandy says, but still lives to boast of broken rods and lures snatched from leaders.

Only last May, Sandy states, Bo Boyne River fisherman landed a trophy salmon trout which was solidly hooked on an eight-pound line. The angler played the fish 400 yards down stream and back again and finally captured it in his hand net. But when he lifted the net the still fighting trout broke the twine and escaped.

Enthusiasm has increased since two skin divers reported seeing the big trout in the depths of the pool. Apparently a very friendly critter, or very curious, it followed the skin divers around for a while before swimming into the tangle of roots surrounding its lair. The divers retrieved 32 spinning lures from among the roots and on the pool bottom.

SOFTBALL

Smarting from the first game 3-2 setback but fully confident they can pull this game and the series out of the fire, Lee Culhane's Bonths TV's softball bantams meet Toronto Willowdale this afternoon. The game gets under way at 2.45, so if you hurry you can get a piece if not all of it.

Strangely enough the first-game loss in Toronto did not bother Culhane too much. "We have played a first-game in Toronto for the past seven years and we have yet to win the first one. We generally take the second game to be eliminated by another club So the boys are used to having one strike on them after playing away. They're sure they can take this one"

Two Can Win For Chicago After Downing Detroit 1-0; Giants Cling To 2-Game Lead

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The high tension National League pennant race could be all but decided when Sunday dawns, two.

Or it could be completely tangled.

Everything depends on how the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers come out today in their crucial day-night doubleheader and the Milwaukee Braves and Philadelphia Phillies wind up in their single night game.

With an idle night Friday, San Francisco maintained its two-game edge over the Braves and Dodgers.

BIG ONES POSTPONED

Friday night's Giants-Dodgers game was postponed because of rain, so starters Johnny Antonelli and Don Drysdale had an extra day to hite their finger nails. They go to the mound today.

In the nighter, young Mike McCormick started for the Giants and Roger Craig gets the call for the Dodgers.

If the Giants can sweep the two games, Los Angeles, for all practical purposes will be finished running. The Dodgers then would be four/games back with only six to play.

The day's delay was welcome both to the tension - fatigued Dodgers and Drysdale, alike, are tired. Drysdale, though, has been ineffective in his last couple and Manager Walt Alston is trying a necessary gamble with him.

Alston knows that if the Dodgers are to win the pennant, Drysdale must be his big man. In 1956 he was the Dodgers' ace even in a row, but now he has just reason of his last night.

BRAVES ON THEIR OWN

As for the defending champion Braves, they, like the Dodgers, are on the spot with "one thing or not them. If San Francisco wins two and they lose to the Phillies, they, too, would be in bad shape--3½ games back with seven to play.

For the race to go right down to the wire, the Dodgers would have to win two from San Francisco and the Braves would have to lick the Phils. Then the Dodgers and Giants would be tied for first place and the Braves would be just a half-game back.

Only one National League game was played Friday. The Chicago Cubs turned back Pittsburgh 5-4, in the 13th inning on an unearned run.

Tony Taylor walked and

The magic number for the go Chicago White Sox today was two.

Any combination of two White Sox victories or two Cleveland Indians' defeats and Al Lopez' club will wip its first American League pennant in 40 years.

In fact, if the White Sox lick the Detroit Tigers today they can't do any worse than tie ever if they lose every remaining game and the second place Indians can win all the rest of their games.

The White Sox maintained their 5½ game margin over the Indians Friday night when they downed Detroit, 1-0, in typical fashion, 1-0. It marked the Sox' 35th one-run decision.

Bob Shaw shut out the Tigers on five hits for his 17th victory. Sherman Lollar hit a home run in the fifth inning to settle it. Jim Rivera held the Sox to four hits in the seven innings he pitched before giving way for a pinch hitter.

INDIANS BOMB A's

The Indians licked Kansas City A's 14-2, while in other action, Boston Red Sox vanquished New York Yankees, 6-4, and Washington downed cellar-crouched Baltimore Orioles 5-3.

Jim Perry of the Indians and his fielder of the day were involved in a tight pitchers'-duel for six innings. Each was issued free-bies, a home run. Lou Klimchock teed off on Perry in the third and Jim Piersall got it back in the sixth.

Frank Baumann was coasting along on a 6-0 lead with relief of a five-run Red Sox outburst in the first inning--when the Yankees suddenly came to life the ninth. Before it was over, Ryne Yanks had scored four runs and Mike Fornieles had to come in and put out the fire.

Bill Fischer snapped his personal losing streak at six games by shutting back the Orioles. He hadn't won a game since July 16. He gave up only two hits for the first eight innings and was tapped for three more in the ninth before getting out of a jam.

George Anderson bobbed what looked like a double play grounder by George Alting and Then Irv Noren singled, giving Baltimore a run--a run scored by Bob Bowman his first loss. Dave Hillman, fourth Chicago pitcher, got credit for the victory.

'Fire Me? Shucks I've Quit' Ughs Injun Chief Joe Gordon

KANSAS CITY (CP) — Joe Gordon, despite his intention of waiting for a miracle, beat the axe Friday by announcing he will not return next year as manager of the American League Cleveland Indians.

There is mounting evidence his successor will be Leo Durocher, former manager of the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 44 - year - old Gordon, involved in a bitter dispute with Cleveland boss Frank Lane over the running of the club, said: "We just did not see eye to eye and since he is the boss I just decided to step out of the picture for 1960."

Gordon is on a one-year contract. Lane said earlier this week it would take a miracle—the Indians winning the pennant—for him to be signed for next season.

LITTLE CONSOLATION

The Indians are 5½ games behind league - leading Chicago White Sox and have only seven games left.

Lane and team vice-president Nate Dolin were in Pittsburgh Friday talking with Durocher, who has said he will not return to his $85,000 job with the National Broadcasting Company.

Lane said his conference with Durocher was only preliminary and Leo also was negotiating with other clubs. But there is a growing conviction among those travelling with the Indians that Durocher will be the club boss next year.

Lane said he intends talking to Durocher and needed permission from other clubs to do so. This permission may try to hire a manager now under contract to another major league club.

Gordon, calmed and amiable, said he had no definite plans. Whether he would finish the season with the club was up to Lane, he said.

TO DECIDE TODAY

Lane said he "liked Gordon's courage but not his judgment." He said he would decide today about a manager for the remainder of the season.

The fiery general manager has made no secret of his disappointment in Cleveland's failure to stay in first place. He criticized Gordon's handling of pitchers and his strategy.

To this Gordon replied: "If Lane wants to run the club on the field he should sit somewhere close enough to signal to me and not second guess me after the game."

Lane hired Gordon, former star infielder with the Indians and New York Yankees, in June, 1958, don mounted.

CENTRE ISLAND, N.Y. (AP) —James C. Crang of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto clinched the North American Centreboard title Friday by defeating Mike Petre, Pelham, N.Y., in a seven - race series.

Crang, 31, sailing a Flying Dutchman, pulled into first place early in the season. When the White Sox beat the Indians four straight and took over the lead late in August, Lane's criticism of Gordon mounted.

A series of trades brought Vic Power, Jimmy Piersall, Billy Martin, Rip Repulski and Minnie Minoso and other players to the Indians. This season the club has vaulted into first place early in the season. When the White Sox beat the Indians four straight and took over the lead late in August, Lane's criticism of Gordon mounted.

Leafs Defeat Black Hawks In Exhibition

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 in an NHL exhibition game before 3,691 fans at Memorial Sight. The same clubs clash Saturday in St. Catharines. The game was 20 minutes late in starting due to a breakdown in the bus bringing the Chicago team to Peterborough.

After a scoreless first period, Leafs jumped into a 1-0 lead in the second when Bob Pulford scored with a hot assist from a pass from Tim Horton, the latter hailing Glenn Hall. Bob Mattiusal of Leafs was off at the time for holding.

In the third, with Marc Reaume sitting out an interference penalty, Tod Sloan evened the score on a rush with Ted Lindsay and Pierre Pilotte. Leafs' Larry Regan came right back to tally on Horton's pass before the penalty was up. Later, Regan intercepted Ja cloe to make it 3-1.

CLEAN GAME

Play was fast and quite clean. Leafs drawing six of the 10 minor penalties handed out by referee Frank Udvari.

Jacques Caron tended Leafs' net the first period, Chadwick the second and Johnny Bower the third. Glenn Hall went in goal for Chicago, and Roy Edwards guarded the cage in the third.

Ted Hampson, 6 - year - old centre who has been training with the New York Rangers and Springfield Indians' farm team, was claimed Friday by the Leafs. Hampson, claimed on waivers for $20,000, is scheduled to report to the Leafs today in St. Catharines, where Toronto will play Chicago Black Hawks in an NHL exhibition game.

Petes "Moon" Far From Total Eclipse

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Moon Wootton sat morosely in the dressing room and fired himself as coach of Peterborough Mercurys for the balance of the Mann Cup lacrosse final against New Westminster.

"I'm not helping the cause the way I'm going now," said the goalkeeping coach Thursday night.

"Back east, a guy could coach and play at the same time and get away with it. Out here, right now, it won't go. From here on in I play goal and Ed (team manager Ed Redmond) can do the coaching."

Wootton's Mercurys are behind 2-0 in the best-of-seven final. The third game is here tonight.

The difference between us and them is this: We've got guys [illegible] can skate, Allan, Curtis and Ferguson, but when we have the ball in front of their goal, Allan, Curtis and Ferguson are flat on their duffs on the floor.

OPPOSITION UNHINDERED

"But those Westminster guys are just coasting in and shooting without ever having a stick laid on them. They're hitting but we're not."

Wootton offered tangible proof to his shooting theories that have been given the Westminster forwards. He pointed to one of his goals. Jackie Leadbeter and Flore Shipboard, rushing down centre, threw a shot by Jack Biondo had left its mark.

Westminster coach Jack Provost, however, was allowing himself to be swayed by the celebration of his players. And a few words for Peterborough, words like "wildmen, choppers, killers."

"Those guys back you up," he said. "Almost every guy on our club had some meat hacked off him, and Cliff Sepka got dumped into the boards and nearly killed."

Only Mercurys defenceman Frank Farley is a doubtful starter tonight. He was limping badly with a swollen ankle.

League Vetoes Suggestion Certain Pros Rest A Year; Teams Post $2,000 Bond

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's hockey representatives to the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., next February, will play an unprecedented 48 - game schedule in the newly-formed Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series this season.

The Dutchies will play eight four-point games to make up a balanced schedule with the other teams, who will play 54 games.

Representatives of the five clubs in the series adopted the schedule at a meeting Friday night of the senior Ontario Hockey Association. The season opens Oct. 23.

Other clubs in the series are Windsor Bulldogs, Chatham Maroons, Belleville McFarlands and Whitby Dunlops. The league was formed after the organization of the Eastern Professional Hockey League forced disbandonment of the OHA-NOHA and OHA eastern divisions at last year.

RETAIN CAHA RULE

The teams decided to retain the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association eligibility rule. They voted down a suggestion from professional leagues that players 25 years or over would be forced to sit out a year before being allowed to contest in amateur ranks.

Wren Blair, Whitby manager, said: "I don't think it's age but advantage in amateur hockey. I would go along with it if there was an amateur entertainment for these players, but the way it is now it's just a handicapping weapon in favor of the pros."

He added, "they can tell their players that if they don't sign they'll have to sit out a year before returning to amateur."

Under the present CAHA rules, teams can reinstate two professionals at any time.

The meeting also adopted a minimum entry fee of $500 for intermediate and junior A league entrants. Team representatives agreed to post $2,000 performance bonds.

Mark Kennah of Chatham said in a heated speech he had approached him regarding a franchise in the new league, but it was agreed that the proposed entry would be too late.

Ernie Gorman represented the Dutchies, coach John Horeck the Maroons, coach Tim Hilderbrand the Dunlops and coach and Bill Butcher the Bulldogs.

Giants Resemble 1954 Champs Says Secretary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Most of the faces are different, but Giants veteran secretary Eddie Brannick sees the current pennant contenders closely resembling the world champions of 1954.

Brannick has been associated with the Giants, in New York and San Francisco, more than a half century.

"I believe," he said, "they most resemble the team of 1954. There's good pitching and good hitting, exceptionally good catching by Bobbie Landrith, and hustle.

"Certainly there is a touch of season. I've lived through 32 years of baseball club and I've seen it before. They know anything could happen in these final games."

Only four members remain active Giants of the squad that beat Cleveland in four straight world series games under Leo Durocher in 1954. Outfielder Willie Mays and pitcher Johnny Antonelli are regular duty. Relief pitcher Al Worthington and pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes, star of the 1954 series, are used sparingly.

Wes Westrum, catcher five years ago and now the first base coach, also compares the two teams favorably.

"They're more experience, but I think this is a better club than 1954," he observed.

Wes believes this club has better front-line pitching with Antonelli, Sam Jones, Jack Sanford and Mike McCormick but it doesn't have the bullpen strength to match Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom.

Sugar Kings Take 2-1 Lead Over Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Raul Sanchez and Tony Davalillo led Havana Sugar Kings to a 2-1 victory over Richmond Virginians in the 12 th round in their International League best - of - seven playoff series tonight.

Davalillo drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning double, then scored on a fly ball by Sanchez, who saved the game with a fielding gem.

Sanchez, who had a no-hitter until the seventh, went into the ninth with a two-hitter.

Bob Martyn, hitting for pitcher Ramon Monzant, got off with a triple and held third when Tony Asarao lopped a single down the left field line.

Davalillo went far to his left to field a ball hit by Jack Reed and turned it into a double play. Martyn scoring on Jerry Thomas' ran out at third hit, but Deron Johnson popped out to end the game.

Singles by Larry Novak and Sanchez set the stage for Davalillo's winning double.

Coe Reaches Amateur Finals

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Defending champion Charlie Coe and 19 - year - old Jack Nicklaus reached the finals today of the U. S. amateur golf championship.

Coe, the Oklahoman who won the championship each time he reached the finals, trounced Dudley Wyson of McKinney, Tex., 4 and 2 in the semi-finals.

Nicklaus, of Columbus, Ohio, had to go to the 36 hole limit to defeat 46-year-old Frederick Dodrey of Whittier, Calif.

They will meet today in the 36 hole final over the 7,010 - yard Broadmoor course.

Sugar Fights Wilf Greaves

NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Robinson, still recognized in New York State as world middleweight champion, will meet Willie Greaves of Pittsburgh and Kid Gavilan of Cuba in non-title mixed overweight 10-round bouts here Nov. 21.

The New York State Athletic Commission announced the fight, stipulated that Robinson must defend his crown against a suitable opponent within 90 days after the Greaves bout.

Last Saturday saw a very exciting and closely contested race meet at the Shannonville Fair. Reputations were made and properly good, with "Lee Mac S" owned and driven by Irvin Nese of Belleville taking both heats of the "A" class in times of 2.09 and 2.07 flat.

Mr. Lorne Lasier of the Shannonville Fair men committee said after the races that he thought this time of 2.07 1-5 was the fastest time ever on the Shannonville track. G. LaRush of Wolfe Island was 2nd in the last heat and 4th in the 2nd with "Mr. Bobby R. Gratian" while "Miss Tripsclwyn" owned and driven by Charles Gollogly of Kingston was third and 2nd, "Mr. Bobby Reiley" was 4th and 3rd.

The 2.20 class was won in straight heats by Bob Compton of Sydenham driving his good mare "Anna Lee MacDuff" in times of 2.13 and 2.11 3-5. John Wesley "Jack" Kuyper of Belleville driven by Ken Weeks of Kingston was third and 2nd, "Smithfield Boy" driven by Lloyd Hawley of Smithfield was 4th and 3rd.

The 2.30 class was won in straight heats by Bob Compton of Sydenham driving his good mare "Anna Lee MacDuff" in times of 2.13 and 2.11 3-5. John Wesley "Jack" Kuyper of Belleville driven by Ken Weeks of Kingston was third and 2nd, "Miss Tripsclwyn" owned and driven by Charles Gollogly of Kingston was third and 2nd, "Smithfield Boy" driven by Lloyd Hawley of Smithfield was 4th and 3rd.

Today and tomorrow "Mohawk" and Gliding Fairs and next Saturday is both Roseneath and Picton Fair days. The Roseneath Picton Fair has races on Friday as well as Saturday.

Irvin Nese' "Lee Mac S" us till last Saturday afternoon has won 16 races this year. Out of 21 starts stands at 16, 3, 2, with one fourth and one fifth.

The virus cough has shown up again at the Belleville Fairground with the horses affected in the heaviest being Bill Fraser's "Captain Kid" and Week's "John De Kuyper." Bill Orr's "Mr. Bobby Henley" is also coughing a little.

The virus is a dilemma to the horsemen as it usually only hits younger horses and nobody seems to have found any really effective cure for it. You just have to let it run its course and try to keep the horse comfortable till it's done as most remedies are little good.

The next Quinte Driving and Riding Club meeting meeting will be on the second Tuesday in October. All interested fans are welcome and all club members are requested to be present. A nomination will be seen in this paper later.

Three Richards Line Up With Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Rookies will get their big chance tonight when Montreal Canadiens and their farm-club Royals meet in an exhibition game as a windup to the first week of the training camp.

Coach Toe Blake named four rookie forwards who will replace four regulars he has loaned to Rochester. Bill Hicke also is a vcs Los Angeles (3). Sept. 19 (2) rookie defenceman.

The forwards will form a line: Cliff Pennington, from Flin Flon juniors; Wayne Larkin, a Winnipeg junior, and Allan Johnston, Spokane of the Western International.

Blake previously announced that rookie Claude Richard will join his illustrious brothers Maurice and Henri as another line. Maurice, Montreal captain is loaned to Guelph, from the Ottawa - Hull club.

The regulars loaned to the Royals are Phil Goyette, Claude Provost, Andre Pronovost and Don Marshall.

Among coach Floyd Curry's Royals are centre Cec Hoekstra, who had a good season last year with Rochester of the American Hockey League.

Hoekstra will work with Wayne Connelly, from Peterborough juniors, and Gilles Tremblay, from Ottawa-Hull.

Faloney To Control Tigers, Parker Back With Eskimos

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Jim Trimble is abandoning the idea of using two classy field generals quarterback the Big Four coach is going to stick with Bernie Faloney, his ball - handling magician from Maryland, after a successful experiment of alternating him with Tom Dublinski, a castoff of Toronto Argonauts.

Dublinski will be sitting around doing nothing while Toronto coach Hamp Pool and Ottawa pilot Frank Clair are frantically to straighten their signal-calling situation. In Argos' case it became a near catastrophe when Ronnie Knox earlier in the week quit Argos and left them in the lurch. Ottawa's situation is not much better, with still no sign that Frank Tripucka can produce as expected.

Faloney will be at the controls when Hamilton meets Argos in Toronto Saturday in a Big Four game that could decide the issue. Argos, who have already clinched second place, can finish no higher than third. Hamilton, which has already clinched first place, can finish no lower than second.

Trimble is also giving Dublinski an opportunity to show his wares against Ottawa Rough Riders, who have had little else to cheer about this season.

From the Eskimo camp came word Friday that Jackie Parker, out for the last six games with a leg injury, will be in the lineup Saturday when Edmonton Eskimos entertain Edmonton today.

The first-place British Columbia Lions in Vancouver tonight. A victory would put the Coast team into a tie for top spot.

Winnipeg will be in Calgary and Saskatchewan in Edmonton Monday night.

Only Roughriders, winless in seven games, will dress a few new imports against the Eskimos probably including fullback Fred Burket and centre - guard Jim Goss, Vancouver from the Montreal League.

Winnipeg will be without Gerry James and Nick Miller. James is building up the leg he broke last year and Miller has an ankle injury.

Classic Bowler Barely Misses Perfect Score

Call it "beginner's luck" if you will, but the fact remains Jim Coelles bowling his first game with the Maine Footwear team of the Quinte Classic League, missed a perfect 450 score by two pins at the Bowl-O-Drome last night.

Coelles ripped off eleven strikes but left the two-pin standing after his last bowl. Under the new 2-3-5-3-2 scoring system only a perfect score can top Coelles' feat.

The league got away to a fine start with McDougall's Insurance topping the field with an aggregate score of 3845, good for ten points.

The scorers:

Anthony Wins Over Johnson

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tony Anthony weathered fierce early flurries by Alonzo Johnson and bored his way to a close unanimous decision in their 10-round fight Friday night.

Anthony, a ranked heavyweight, weighed 189, Anthony 184, it was the third loss in 10 fights for the 26-year-old Johnson, from Braddock, Pa.

Anthony, a four - old New Yorker driving to make a place for himself in the ranks of heavyweight ranks after being ranked 10th among the light - heavyweights, posted his 40th victory in 45 fights.

Referee Eddie Leonard scored the fight 46-45 for Anthony, judge Tom Kelley 48-43 and judge Benny Goldstein 46-44.

The only times each fighter was down didn't count. Anthony was hit on the hip in the first round and lost his balance but got up without a count.

In the third round Johnson tangled with a roundhouse left and went partly through the ropes.

Sudbury Gets Five "Leafs"

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Five players in training with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were released Friday by the Leafs to reign for the new Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Rochester and Detroit Red Wings will co - sponsor the Sudbury entry.

The players are goalkeeper Jacques Caron, defencemen Gerry Cheviks and Norm Ryder and forwards Johnny Sleaver and Jacques Lemaire. They left Friday with Sudbury coach Murph Chamberlain.

Chamberlain has been in the Leaf camp the last few days looking over talent. The Sudbury team begins its training at noone Sunday.

Whipper, Sam Disqualified After Slugging Maxwell

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The fans loved it.

It was like manna from heaven.

They had been looking for such a thing to happen for, lo, these many moons.

And when it did, they guffawed deeply, from the belly up.

After all, they believed the guy asked for it and they were free to argue with the paid pewsters. Referee Bert Maxwell, privately sore for a famed Toronto hostelry, should not be so partial — or appear to make it that way.

The portly man-in-white got, so the fans thought, his come-uppance last night in the Memorial Arena when one, or the other, or both, of the team of Whipper Billy Watson and Sam Steamboat, the idol of the hinterlands and mayhem merchant extraordinaire, slugged Maxwell and laid him low.

We are not prepared to go on record as having heard and swear which one dealt the dastardly blow. We, like the vast majority of the fans, were too busy smiling through the tears.

After all, when a couple of tough hombres like Don Leo Jonathan and Hazel Hardcolled Haggerty resort to everything that is not in the book, to defeat the mayhem merchants, the law-living gladiators like the Whip and Sam, they deserve some scant gratitude was done.

And the Whip and Sam did it. So what if it did not end there the fall and the match.

It was worth it. Disqualification for justifiable means does not rate a demerit on the escutcheon of such athletes as the Whip and Sam.

Besides, they will never know how many fans were gladdened and how many backs were thumped after one or the other or both delivered the blow that almost put portly Bert into orbit.

The honorable Bertie was badly put out, to be sure, but he will be immediately disqualified the Whip and Sam and awarded the match by default following villians, Don Leo and the "Hag."

Up to the point where Maxwell was abologated it was a real fine wrestling match by Watson and the "Hag" handing out some terrific punishment, but Steamboat proved the speedy younger, faster, duo.

They got an assist on every play, or at least so the fans believed and when the torpedo finally flew through the air it was feared it was as good as a victory for the Whip and Sam.

Jack Laskin won a fast semi-final over Ian Campbell while Tiger Tanaka was taking a Paul Coda wrestled to a thirty-minute draw.

General Motors Prices Remain Same

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corporation said Friday it is holding the 1959 price line on all its 1960 regular passenger car models.

Factory list prices on all five models—Chevrolet, Buick, Oldsmobile, Cadillac and Pontiac—will not be increased over 1959.

GM's announcement followed earlier reports that all of the auto industry's big three—GM, Ford and Chrysler—would hold the 1959 price line.

Ford and Chrysler have yet to announce their 1960-model prices.

453 Canadians Get $100,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada in 1957 had 453 big-money men—those making over $100,000 a year.

This is a slight increase from the 432 who were in that bracket in 1956, but still below the postwar peak of 460 in 1955.

The figures were released Thursday by the revenue department in its analysis of 1957 income tax statistics.

In the $50,000-$100,000 income bracket were 2,202 Canadians, 148 more than in 1956 and an increase of 652 people since 1954. There were 10,672 taxpayers in the $25,000-$50,000 bracket in 1957 compared with 9,598 a year earlier.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four would - be bandits yelled "hand us the sack" at their intended victim Thursday and were left holding the bag.

The four, two armed with pistols, surrounded the car of market operator Chester Cole and Cole obediently handed over the only sack he had. It contained: Four sandwiches, a bottle of hair oil and some underwear.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Because of old age, a TV antenna that is in A1 condition can still short change you in reception quality. Improvements in design and construction over the past few years have made TV aerials much more efficient than older models. This means clearer, sharper pictures from more stations.

If your TV aerial is of model "T" vintage, you're missing a lot of viewing pleasure. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 264 Coleman St., are TV antenna specialists and can recommend the type best suited for your locality. Star Status One of Big Things In Show Business Says Kane

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Toronto's Jack Kane, finishing his second summer season of New York television, sees one big difference between Canadian and American TV.

"It's the old business of star status," said Kane, whose regular beat is on CBC. "In New York this is one of the big things recognized, but not so in Canada.

"Star status is one of the big things in show business and let's face it, it is part of show business. The CBC has never fully recognized it, but it's coming around to it now."

PROVIDES EXAMPLE

Kane maintains that the star technique is what sells a production, and he gives as an example the Andy Williams show on the Columbia Broadcasting System, on which he will finish a summer stint as musical director and arranger Sept. 22.

"Producer Perry Lafferty says he's determined to make Andy Williams the greatest star in the world, and the result can be seen in the program," said Kane.

CBC producers stop short of this attitude, he added.

Kane has also what he calls a "sort of compromise star billing" on his Canadian program, the award-winning CBC variety show which resumes Oct. 19 with the title Music '59 Presents the Jack Kane Hour." Previously it was known simply as Music-Makers '59 and Music-Makers '58. It now will be a one-hour show every second week, where it had been a half-hour show once weekly.

ABLE NEGOTIATOR

The compromise follows considerable negotiation, says Jack, an energetic 34 - year - old who gives the impression he'd be an able negotiator in any league.

Kane's CBS summer appointment followed a similar job last year on the NBC Steve Lawrence-Eydie Gorme show but, while he enjoys the New York work, he is looking forward to his return to Canadian TV.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, September 20, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Hoarding is hardly the way to have progress soon. Read up on new ideas and ventures that bring good returns on monies invested. This will soon do away with any big problems you may have, turn difficulty into opportunity. Be cheerful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Here is a day when the planets are being very forceful and you desire to follow rather selfish inclinations without thinking of others. But, being warned, you can now be kind and thoughtful and make this a fine day indeed.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — This may be one in which you feel hemmed in and would like to throw all caution to the winds and make radical changes, which on promises made. A few moments of sincere prayer will diffuse gloom and you save much that is of value.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You may feel that comrades and relations have let you down and are not as worthy as they might be. Examine your own conscience and see where you have erred or been remiss. Use kind words and cement better relations now.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Don't break any regulations whatsoever today, or you will be sorry you have. Remember the Leonite temperament should be used in constructive channels for there is a very great future ahead for you. Think before you act.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — With all inspirational thoughts coming to the fore, you want to make quick changes and forsake the old for the untried and tried up on the new, the modern but meet all obligations and don't fall.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — It is well you were advised about that incorrect intuition you had, or you might have followed it pell-mell. Confer with good advisers today. Think things over well in P.M.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Should anyone say the wrong thing right now you are apt to sever connections with associates of long standing. Think before you make a move or say something rash. Put yourself in their place and be more understanding.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While you are full of vitality and would like to labor very hard, remember to keep the Sabbath day and be off to church instead, or read the great philosophers; listen to the old and learn.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Utilizing old time is what is uppermost in your mind no matter what others do or you could easily lose what valuable assets you have and possibly great friends, creative opportunities, too. P.M. have fun inexpensively.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The occasional Aquarian penchant to go off on a tangent is apparent today, but you must control and conquer this, for it would be especially harmful around own home and kin: Be loyal, balanced and cheerful now.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Now studying the fine literature and religious philosophy that broadens and strengthens the mind. Don't scatter your forces in the outside world, where you might meet with injury.

If your child is born today — The dear child born today will on feel that the only good way to get rid of a problem is by having a good argument over it. Early give this child training in sports so that excessive energy will be used constructively and rules of fair play learned. Also, give courses in psychology. And do not neglect the religious study that colors the whole of his, or her, life beautifully.

Monday, September 21

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Guard against taking chances with investments or present set-up. Curtly simple because you are bored or close tie wants you to. Whatever problems you have will be righted of themselves in due course of time. Maintain poise and balance.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — This is a very bad time to make radical changes where any practical affairs are concerned, or financial matters. Listen not to the ideas of a powerful associate. Then study them thoroughly. His or her M. Arrive at wise decision.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It would be very wise now to throw away whatever is antiquated, no longer of use to value. Those put behind you all those small jobs that await your attention. Be cheerful at work. P.M. lend a helping hand to the needy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is one of those days when you want your own way at any cost. Be wise instead and listen to the advice of good friends, and be thoughtful of those about you. You will accomplish much by being very careful and kind.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — In an attempt to make progress now there is risk you might easily ir higher-ups and influential persons to your very great detriment. Make your plans intelligently, then labor steadily and diligently, and be constructively.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Endeavoring to carry through with plans made with a too-dynamic new partner will not be successful at all. Foundation is not secure here. Get a better view of the whole situation before you take any action.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You erroneously feel that your closest tie is not being loyal, and this disturbs your ability to work today. Put such thoughts out of your mind and be grateful you live the Golden Rule.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You seem to be unable to come to agreement with any of your partners today, and this is because you do not consider his, or her, viewpoints. Try doing this before you get angry and the picture will change satisfactorily.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A day to first complete yourself or you will meet injury, do damage that will be quite expensive to say things which you should unfortunately. Also, plan your work wisely and carry through conservatively. Be neat, clothes in order.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although you are desirous of enjoying yourself, the fall work is upon you, so you would be clever to delve right into it to safeguard security and be ahead of the game. P.M. have fun inexpensively with closest of kin.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While you ordinarily can gain from some unusual enterprise that comes your way and others fail to see the possibilities in it, today's hunches are not correct, so take no chances with finances now. Caution pays big dividends later.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Extreme care should be exercised now on the road or walking anywhere, or there can be serious danger following. Also, be loyal to those closest to you, or you may lose a most valuable friend or partner.

If your child is born today — The very healthy child born today is the type who soon feels that if he, or she, makes enough noise, whatever is desired will be forthcoming. Prove to your youngster that a amount of noise can equal a kind word and a cheerful mien. Also, early teach to accept change and how to cope with it when it comes, since there will be major changes throughout this lot's lifetime.

CLARINETIST DEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Omer Simeon, 67, the New Orleans Jazz clarinetist, died of cancer Thursday. Regarded at one of the purest musicians to play the classic New Orleans style, Simeons early in his career was brought to the younger generation via records — including Sidewalk Blues and Wild Cat Blues — by Jelly Roll years the Negro musician had been part of Wilbur de Paris' seven-piece group at the Shad Street jazz club, Jimmy Ryan's.

PLAYS CHOPIN IN POLAND — Walter Buczynski, 26-year-old Toronto pianist, will play at the International Chopin piano competition at Warsaw in February. After the contest, he will study in Paris, aided by a $1,000 Canada Council award. Buczynski, who hopes the Warsaw competition will make his reputation, started to play the piano at 10, studied in Toronto and New York, and has toured Canada coast-to-coast. In this picture, Buczynski's dog Fluffy watches his master mull over a composition. (CP Photo)

Toronto Pianist En Route To Poland to Take Part in International Chopin Contest

By JOHN VOYTECH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Buczynski, now en route to Poland to prepare for the International Chopin piano competition at Warsaw, hopes that his first trip to Europe will further his reputation in the musical field.

Then the slight, brown-haired pianist intends to take advantage of a $1,000 Canada Council award and study competition in Paris under Nadia Boulanger.

The Chopin competition, to be held in February, will have such notable judges as Jose Iturbi, Artur Rubinstein, Witold Malcuzynski, Ilcky's, Michelangeli and Edwin Fischer of Germany. It runs for three weeks and competitors come from all over the world.

Coincidentally, the 26-year-old Toronto-born pianist made his debut with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in 1955 by playing Chopin's Concerto in F Minor.

STARTED AT 10

Walter started playing the piano when he was 10. He recalls that he saw a model piano in a store window and was fascinated. He wanted one. He was overwhelmed by the size of a six-foot upright delivered to his home.

He studied at the Royal Conservatory of Music under Godfrey Ridout and Earle Moss. In June 1952 he went to New York to study under Rosina Lhevine. While there he performed on a special radio broadcast commemorating the Paderewski Foundation centennial.

In 1958 he made a coast-to-coast tour of Canada with soprano Marguerite Gignac. The Quebec-Maritimes part of the tour was under the auspices of Jeunesse Musicale and he recalls playing before school children in a movie house at Asbestos, Que., where three youngsters in the front row ate popcorn throughout the performance.

Walter admits he often is nervous before a performance.

SCARED SOMETIMES

"Confidence is the thing," he said. "Have no fear and you can do anything. I get scared sometimes and I think 'My God, what am I doing here.'"

He has appeared on the CBC and some of his own compositions have been featured on the networks, including his Woodwind Quintet which in 1956, while he was studying under Darius Milhaud, received the Frommi Foundation award in Aspin, Colo.

Buczynski's posture at a piano is that of a classic pianist and, if anything, his technique follows Russian principles.

"Genius has a reason for doing it," he said referring to particular traits which some pianists, like Toronto's Glenn Gould, possess. "Everyone has quirks. It appears as a quirk to us only because we don't do it. He (Gould) is unusual and we laugh at the world for it.

"I prefer Russian techniques which call for use of flatter fingers in comparison with the over-curved fingers taught by many teachers here. I find flatter fingers help especially in fast passages. The other method is too tight. I can't relax using it."

He has no favorite composer. He plays Stravinsky "when I'm depressed—he makes me laugh." He finds a deeper satisfaction in playing Beethoven perhaps because he associates particular Beethoven moods with his own.

He enjoys playing Bach, but he doesn't like listening to the German master's works.

Buczynski was not always known as a budding artist.

During high-school days he liked to play football but his brother, John, a violin teacher, warned him this, for fear of injury to Walter's delicate fingers. "I'll get on the team and then coming," Walter laughs. "I just tossed a touchdown pass and got home fast.

Buczynski, who has three brothers and two sisters — his Polish-born parents are dead — practices from three to six hours a day.

His most embarrassing moment occurred in a Bathurst, N.B. school moments before a concert. He didn't like the position of the grand piano so he gave it a shove.

The instrument crashed as one leg gave way. Fast repairs saved the day.

STIRLING — On Wednesday morning gardens and flowers were blackened with the heavy frost which hit this area of Stirling village and Rawdon township at midnight. Practically all vines, both in gardens and flower beds, were frozen as well as dahlia plants, gladioli, foliages, geraniums, and garden produce.

This is the earliest on record that everything has been frozen in one full sweep.

The much needed rain at midnight Monday evening would have brought out a large succession of blooms during the next two weeks, if the frost had not destroyed them.

Mr. Dan McCloy and Mrs. R. Hinton, Brantford, were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox and attended the chicken barbecue.

PUBLIC SCHOOL STAFF

The staff at the Stirling Public School are as follows: principal, Kenneth C. Gillilie; teachers Mrs. Glenn Heath, Mrs. Bruce Bell, Mrs. L. McGee, Mrs. Clarke Rodgers, Mrs. Raymond Wood, and Mr. Marvyn Scott. The music teacher is Mrs. Ross Sheppard.

Mr. James McIntosh, Scoutmaster, and his assistant Donald Hathaway, were in charge of the opening meeting of the Stirling Boy Scouts troop at the King George High School on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox entertained at their home a number of lodge personalities and their wives from various points in this area, on Tuesday evening. The group enjoyed a chicken barbecue at the Agricultural Building and then spent a social half hour at the Fox home.

Western Correspondents Discover Reports Of Laotian Battles Grossly Exaggerated

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Western correspondents who returned from the battle zone Sunday night said the northeastern Laotian village, reported to have been scene of five days of fierce fighting, was practically unscarred.

They said the local commander told them the village in western Sam Neua province had not changed hands four times as had been reported.

Laotian government troops withdrew under attack Sept. 12, they said, but re-entered the village the following morning and have remained ever since.

Official accounts of the war in northern Laos have frequently been contradicted by eyewitness reports.

United Nations fact-finders went to find out about Laos charges of Communist aggression from North Viet Nam, have received a bulky 200-page report from the government. The report is being given careful study.

Search Centres Near Winchester For 2 Suspects

MORRISBURG (CP) — Police are continuing a search for two armed robbery suspects that began 200 miles away 15 days ago.

The couple abducted at Niagara-on-the-Lake Sept. 6 were later released at Trenton. Since then nine other persons have been abducted or held at gunpoint while two men ransacked their homes taking food, clothing and money.

Ontario Provincial Police had only about 30 men on search duty today—the smallest group in several days. But another 50 are standing by.

Armed police and a dog have been combing regions east and north of this St. Lawrence River village. The search had centred near Winchester about 20 miles north of here but Saturday it swung towards the rural community of Brinston, six miles north of here, after a farm home there had been entered.

Police continue roadblocks around Winchester and Morrisburg, where the men were reported seen earlier, and have questioned about 25 miles south of Winchester.

Early today police said they have had no leads since the Brinston breakin.

Meanwhile, district farmers are keeping their homes and cars locked and their guns handy.

Police have identified the wanted men as Frank Madison, 37, and Wilbert Durning, 32.

PANTHER HUNT FAILS

MONTREAL (CP) — A party of hunters with 106 dogs searched unsuccessfully this weekend for a panther-like cat in St. Leon and de Port Maurice. A Montreal suburb police chief Emile Quesnerville of St. Leonard says four people have seen a black 100-pound creature with two - inch fangs.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synoptic: A late September warm spell is forecast for Southern Ontario today and Tuesday as strong southwesterly winds continue bringing in warmer air from the Mississippi Valley and the Gulf of Mexico. Skies will be predominantly sunny and it should be a pleasant both days but a steady increase in humidity is expected as chances of isolated thunderstorms late this evening and again Tuesday.

Will Open North If Russia Does — Says Diefenbaker

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has offered to open the Canadian North to Premier Khrushchev if the Russian premier opens the West inspect the Soviet Arctic.

Mr. Diefenbaker, starting a week-long rest at his Laurentian lodge with a speech in this Laurentian Mountain village 75 miles north of Montreal, said he welcomed Mr. Khrushchev's proposals for disarmament but Russia should show her good faith by allowing inspection of her defences.

Unless the West can inspect Russian defence preparations, any disarmament promises he made were worthless, he said.

He remarked that several years ago Russia had accused Canada of letting the United States use the Canadian Arctic for aggressive purposes.

MAKES OFFER

"I make this offer to Premier Khrushchev," Mr. Diefenbaker said, "He can inspect any area in Northern Canada which he believes Canada is being used for aggressive purposes by the United States, provided he lets us inspect all areas in the U.S.S.R. within the same latitude."

He said he believed it was firmly as the U.S.S.R. in disarmament. What is needed are specific proposals on how disarmament could be achieved, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada should examine Mr. Khrushchev's speech objectively. They should not let their hopes be raised too high, and should they reject all he said as propaganda.

He hoped Mr. Khrushchev or the Russian delegation to the UN would expand and clarify the premier's disarmament proposals.

'Serene' Just Word for Mrs. K. In Hectic Tour With Hubby

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Serene" is just the word for Mrs. Nina Khrushchev in the midst of her husband's unpredictable, hectic, whirlwind sampling tour of the United States.

Is she related amid American dining, officials and movie stars?

"I've never seen her, otherwise," reports her official hostess, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, wife of the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. Mrs. Lodge calls the tour "an experience I will never forget."

Mrs. Lodge thinks the whole family is enjoying the visit, even if at times it may seem otherwise.

Here are some of her impressions after the first days no better-sicklier, so chaotic, that Mrs. Lodge even left her lipstick behind in Los Angeles:

Defence Minister Called A Col. Blimp by Reporter

ATHERLEY (CP) — Canada's defence policies and its defence minister came under fire Saturday during a panel discussion at the annual conference of the Ontario branch of the Young Progressive Conservatives.

The three - man panel was asked whether Canada has the wrong men in defence and whether or not Defence Minister Pearkes is out of date.

Charles Lynch, Ottawa press gallery correspondent for the Southam newspapers, described the 72-year-old major - general as "an anti-Communist personality of a Colonel Blimp."

He said Mr. Pearkes thinks like Colonel Blimp, he talks like him, he looks like him."

"The defence minister is "too old for the job," he added, and is a poor salesman for Canada.

Clark Davey, Ottawa correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail, said that because of Mr. Pearkes's background the minister is a captive of the chiefs of staff. He said, the entire cabinet must share the blame for Canada's defence policy because its members are "willing to go along with the way things are."

John Collingwood Reade, radio and television editor for the Montreal Star, said Mr. Pearkes is "limited by the considerations of the time in which he grew up rather than by his own personal qualifications."

Mr. Lynch and Mr. Davey both said Canada has no defence policy which is either new, sensible or effective.

Mr. Davey suggested a drastic cut in defence spending—scrapping the three overseas squadrons of jet fighters and the time home defence squadrons, saving transport units.

He said defence spending reduces funds that could be used to help Canada's depressed development program.

More than 100 young PCs attended the weekend conference at this Lake Ontario chicking resort near Brighton.

Saturday night they heard Conservative MP Gordon Aiken Hamilton say it is discouraging to everyone in public service that thousands of otherwise well-informed people are "so completely indifferent to politics."

"Their spoken attitude is either one of contempt for politicians or one of indifference."

Ontario Energy Minister Macaulay criticized the Bank of Canada for lack of leadership and failure to convince Canadians it is following any logical policy.

Inflation, tight money and erratic interest rates are making it difficult for any department to formulate any definite plan for the future," he said.

He said that $30,000,000 of monetary finance would be needed in Ontario during the next 20 years to provide energy for its heavy industry.

Lorne Monaghan, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Hamilton South, said "we must restore the moral forces that have been social forces released by physical science and technology."

He suggested this will change from the standpoint of experience to that of conscience with the resurgence of conservatism at this time in Canada is a hopeful omen."

Hero Worship Remains Strong in the Russians

"Before the revolution (1917) this building was used for such and such a purpose. After the revolution this building became the headquarters of the communist party, or else a old people's home, or something like that". Almost without fail it is the "party" or the object in question was put to which better use after the revolution, or the revolution and the pre-revolutionary time is made in the fascinating manner.

All this might lead one to believe that there was little good before the revolution, and that was bad after it. That is, until you begin to realize that you are extremely proud of the treasurers which they possess from the Czarist times, and that for the most with reverence of some of the accomplishments of the Czars of the Czarist regime, and it has caused me to wonder if they are aware of this rather incongruous attitude which they take towards the Czarist history.

I think this act of dividing history into two minor parts can be traced even further, to the country where everyone is supposed to be equal. I have been amazed at the amount of hero worship which is paid to past generals, I think and know who are dead, needed has a monument or statue erected to him.

CLIMAX OF HERO WORSHIP

This hero worship reaches its climax in the adoration of Lenin and Stalin. Nowhere have I seen such idolatry as at the tomb of these two, where thousands of Russians each hour in line to file past their bodies. Both men have been embalmed, preserved somewhat like the mummies of Egypt, and are lying on top of each other in the same coffin. The silence as one files by is almost overwhelming. The guard at each side is everywhere. The tomb itself sits right out in front of the Kremlin at the end of Red Square as conspicuous a place as one could have.

Now I can understand a certain amount of reverence for Lenin. After all he did found the Communist state in Russia against heavy odds, and at a time when the fortunes of the party were at a low ebb, but in Stalin, Lenin was lucky. He died before he could make many bad blunders. But there is no doubt about it, he was a great man.

Youth Credited With Saving Four Companions

PORT SEVERN (CP) — A 16-year-old youth was credited today with saving four Toronto area companions burned in a cottage fire that claimed the life of a fifth boy.

The blaze swept through the cottage Sunday at nearby Gloucester Pool when a stove blew up while the boys were lighting it.

Burned to death was Ronald Silvi, 16, son of CBC producer Joe Silvi of Toronto.

Ross Martin Jr., also 16, escaped with only minor cuts and unharmed and helped four other badly - burned youths into the family's 25-foot cabin cruiser. He steered it four miles through Georgian Bay to the Port Severn locks where he roused the lockmaster who summoned help.

Rushed to hospital were Caffrey, 16, Brian Hoskins, 15, Tom Keefe, 16, and Gordon Martin, 14, all of Toronto. They were reported late Sunday in satisfactory condition in a Midland hospital. Special nurses and hospital staff were reported "doing well."

Ross Martin, whose parents were away, said he and Ronald got up shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday to light a fire before the others rose.

He said when Ronald poured a can of gasoline into the stove to "encourage" the fire, the stove blew up.

Ross described the can and ran for a coat to try and smother the flames. But his clothing caught and fled. When they assembled outside, Ronald was missing. They couldn't get back into the fiercely burning cottage.

Ross said Ronald did a wonderful job. He practically had to carry the four boys from the cabin cruiser. He had a cool head not to panic when he saw Ronald was missing.

Stolle and Keefe were taken to Georgian Bay General Hospital at Port Severn where they were reported resting comfortably.

TWO SHOT

SASKATOON (CP) — RCMP Friday released the name of the second victim of what police believed to be a murder and suicide on a farm near White Bear, Sask. He was identified as Karl Henry Furrow, 23, an itinerant farm hand employed by Hilmar Dahlquist, a farmer with Dolores, also died in the double shooting.

40 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS REPORTED DURING WEEKEND

Traffic Mishaps Take Heavy Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway mishaps took a heavy toll of life during the province's last weekend, accounting for 30 of the 40 accidental deaths reported throughout Canada.

Most of the tragedies occurred in Quebec, where 17 persons died on the roads—seven in a single accident.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed Quebec with two drownings and one killed in a plane crash.

Five traffic deaths and three drownings were reported in Ontario which had a total of 11 accidental fatalities. The others were a boy burned to death in a cottage fire, a fatal injury in a spill at a stock car race and the death of a glider pilot when his experimental plane crashed.

HUNTING TAKES TOLL

The Ontario drownings all involved duck hunters whose boats overturned.

Fatality totals in the other provinces ranged from single deaths. Four traffic deaths were reported in Alberta, two in Nova Scotia and one each in Newfoundland and Manitoba.

A 25 - year - old Halifax immigrant was shot accidentally in British Columbia while hunting deer. It was the province's first accidental fatality and the first hunting death of the season, which opened in most B.C. districts Saturday.

New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan had clean slates.

The weekend toll includes only deaths in traffic, boating, hunting and other violent deaths connected with holiday activities. Industrial accidents are not counted.

The Ontario dead:

William Hall, Jones, 35, of Quebec, whose truck rolled over near Pembroke Friday night.

Michael Safek, 21, struck while walking along Highway 17 near Ottawa Sunday.

George Wilks, 28, of Bloomfield, whose car struck a bridge Saturday.

Mrs. Julia Koch, 31 - year - old Windsor woman whose car was struck by a train at a level crossing at London Saturday night.

Roy E. Arnold, 47, of St. William, Elgin, died of injuries suffered in a car collision near Straffordville Saturday.

Ronald Bondy, 16, of Toronto, burned Saturday while hunting on the Rice Lake Indian Reserve, north east of Kingston.

Ronald Kelly, 16, of Toronto, drowned Saturday while hunting on Lake Simcoe.

Edwin Searson, 24, of Canaoque and Norman Bay, drowned Saturday night while hunting ducks on the Bay of Quinte near Deseronto, north east of Kingston.

Ronald Kelly, 16, of Toronto, burned to death in a cottage fire near Port Severn.

Ross Martin Jr., of Guelph, whose experimental glider crashed into a field near Brantford Airport Sunday.

Billy (Flipper) Coates, 30, of Bridgeport, Saskatchewan stock car driver killed Saturday night in Kitchener when his stock car hit a wheel and crashed in a retaining wall.

Now It's Just Plain Old Nikita, Child-Lover, On Whistle-Stop Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was just plain old Nikita Khrushchev, family man of the people, friendly politician, smiling handshaker, warm - hearted lover of children, as the touch opponent of sin.

This was the Khrushchev that emerged in Soviet Premier's brain ride from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

The train was loaded with suspicion, furtive Russian security men and nervous newspaper and news agency men. Up ahead army helicopters hovered protectively over the track. Alongside, police cars raced along parallel highways.

Sheriff's deputies guarded the bridges. Police motorcycles performed police stood watch from the tops of freight cars. In the intervening spaces was half-expected Indian scouts.

Then it Santa Barbara the poet shepherder who made good as the chairman of the Council of Soviet Writers of the United Soviet Socialist Republics decided to do a little whistle-stopping.

Nikita Is Happy, 'Today I've Seen Real Americans'

Jokes, Joviality, Wrath Mixed Into Typical Day

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Outspoken Nikita Khrushchev, who seems to plunge into an argument at every formal dinner, changed his pace again today.

His schedule called for sightseeing by boat and by automobile, with a look at a housing development, a supermarket and a drug store.

Nowhere—at least until tonight—is he likely to run into a display similar to the one he had on Sunday night with American leaders.

At his dinner the union leaders reported, Khrushchev vigorously defended his system and his policy, including the putting down of the revolt in Hungary, and said "our positions are irreconcilable."

Along with sightseeing, Khrushchev was to drop in today on the San Jose plant of the International Business Machine Corporation, lunch with the workers in the cafeteria and see the big electronic monsters made there.

CANCEL TRIP

For reasons never made clear, the trip to the Stanford Research Institution at nearby Menlo Park was cancelled.

Sunday burned into another typical Khrushchev day, with comedy, secrecy, joviality and fireworks all jumbled together.

His reactions:

"Today I've seen some real live Americans, and it seems they are just as likable as our people."

But he complained that security restrictions are so tough that he can't go where he pleases, such as Disneyland.

"What is it, the cholera there or something?" he demanded. "Gangsters taken over the place?"

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. representative with Khrushchev's party, acknowledged that Khrushchev had been told he should not go to Disneyland.

Lodge explained through a spokesman that Khrushchev had not made up his mind to go until the last minute, when it was too late to take adequate security steps.

Khrushchev also complained he had been forced, on a previous occasion, to "sit in sweltering heat—in a closed car under a hot

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Eight persons were killed and another critically injured in early today in a three-vehicle collision on a straight stretch of highway here.

Involved were a pickup truck, a car carrying six persons and a tractor-trailer. Seven of the car's occupants were killed.

The truck driver escaped the westbound car was attempting to pass the vehicle but failed to make it. Then an oncoming tractor-trailer, which jack-knifed and burst into flames.

Iraq's Kassem Executes 17 Foes of Regime

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Spectators cheered Iraq's Premier Abdel Karim Kassem Sunday while firing squads in Baghdad killed 13 Iraqi army officers and hangman executed four civilians as enemies of the government.

The executions were the largest in a single day in the history Iraq since the overthrow of the monarchy 18 months ago.

The army men participated in the abortive revolt in the month-ago military headquarters in Mosul last March or were charged with plotting against Kassem. They were opposed to the left-wing tendencies of Kassem's regime at that time.

Brig. Nachim Tubaijali, commander of the 2nd Division at Mosul, was the highest-ranking officer of the also prominent among the executed officers, was Col. Mustafa Hal Sibei, chief of the Iraqi air force operations in Baghdad.

The officers, tried before a "people's court" and sentenced several months ago, were accused of supporting the exiled President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Kassem's No. 1 enemy.

The civilians, accused of being criminal traitors, were members of the government of the late Nuri Said, the pro-Western premier who was killed in Kassem's revolt of July 14, 1958. The widest-known among them were Said Qazzaz, former interior minister, and Rashid Alifayzi, security chief.

They were the first known executions by members of the Nuri Said government, 14 of whom have been sentenced to die.

The Mosqui uprising was the most serious challenge to Kassem's rule. It grew out of the widespread uneasiness the army was Kassem appeared at the time to be heading toward communism.

Hamp Pool Fired As Argos' Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Hamp Pool was fired today as head coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League and Orville Burnham, 37, the team was named to succeed him.

The announcement was made by managing director Lew Hayman, who reached Argos' coach after Argos lost their fifth game of the season Saturday 27-7 before a crowd of 18,383 booed and jeered the coach and players.

Pool, former head coach of Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, had been able to develop a winner in his three years here. The team failed to make the playoffs in 1957 and 1958, winning only four of 14 games. Pool was signed to come up with a contending team this season to hold on to his job.

LABOR LEADERS ENRAGE NIKITA BY QUESTIONS

He Calls Reuther Capitalistic Stooge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev kept his belligerent diplomacy going full blast at a tumultuous dinner session with a group of American labor leaders Sunday night.

The Soviet premier, according to union chiefs, blew up on at least half a dozen occasions and wound up declaring:

Walter Reuther, Auto Workers Union president and spokesman for the labor group, told Khrushchev, through his interpreter, accused him of being a dictator and a capitalistic stooge."

AFL-CIO President George Meany said from the start he "wouldn't be caught dead" with Khrushchev and warned American labor not to be fooled by Khrushchev's peace talk. He said the Soviet Union is guilty of "deceit and aggression."

No effort was made to toss down questions, Reuther said, although there was a lively exchange when Washington state delegate

Youth Credited With Saving Four Companions

PORT SEVERN (CP) — A 16-year-old youth was credited today with saving four Toronto boys from drowning when he left a cottage fire that claimed the life of a fifth boy.

The blaze swept through the cottage Sunday at nearby Gloucester Pool when a stove fell up while the boys were lighting it.

Burned to death was Ronald Silvi, 16, son of CBC producer Silvio Silvi of Toronto.

Ross Martin Jr., also 16, escaped from the blazing cottage and helped four other badly - burned youths into his father's boat. He then headed it steered it four miles through Burrows Bay to the Port Severn dock where he roused the lockmaster who summoned help.

Hospitalized in Penetanguishene, Brian Hoskins, 15, Tom Keefe, 16, Ronald Bridgeman, 16, all of Toronto. They were reported late Sunday night in serious condition with burns and shock. Special nurses and hospital staff were recruited to care for them.

Ross Martin, whose parents owned the cottage, said he was "very proud" of his son.

"I told my son shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday to light a fire because there was a chill.

He said when Ronald poured a two-gallon can of naphtha into the stove to encourage the fire, the stove blew up.

Ronald released the can and ran for a coat to try and smother the flames. But the coat caught fire and fled. When they assembled outside, Ronald was missing. The youth couldn't get back into the fiercely burning cottage.

Young Ross Martin did a wonderful job. He practically had to carry each one of the boys to the cabin released. He had a cool head not to panic when he saw his son seriously burned."

Stolle and Keefe were taken to Toronto's Western General Hospital by motor where they were said to be in critical condition.

TWO SHOT

SASKATOON (CP) — RCMP Friday released the name of the second victim of what is believed to be a murder and suicide on a farm near White Bear, Sask. He was Alexander Karl Hermo, 22, an itinerant farm hand employed by Hjalmar Laurgies, Lauriers, Dakota, also died in the double shooting.

40 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS REPORTED DURING WEEKEND

Traffic Mishaps Take Heavy Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway mishaps took a heavy toll of life during summer's last weekend, accounting for 30 of the 48 accidental deaths reported throughout Canada.

Most of the tragedies occurred on Quebec, where 17 persons died on the roads—seven in a single accident.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m.-local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed Quebec with two drownings and one killed in a plane crash.

Five traffic deaths and three drownings were reported in Ontario which had a total of 11 accidental fatalities. The others were a boy burned to death in a cottage fire, a fatal injury in a spill on a farm race and the death of a glider pilot when his experimental plane crashed.

HUNTING TAKES TOLL

The Ontario drownings all involved duck hunters whose boats overturned.

Fatality totals in the other provinces and territories included five traffic deaths were reported in Alberta, two in Nova Scotia and one each in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

A 25 - year - old Indian lumberjack was shot accidentally in British Columbia while hunting deer. It was described as an accidental fatality and the first hunting death of the season, which opened in the B.C. districts Saturday.

In New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan had clean slates.

The weekend toll includes only deaths in traffic, boating, hunting and other violent deaths connected with holiday activities. Industrial accidents are not counted.

The Ontario dead:

Mitchell Sabo, 28, of Sparbee, was struck while rolling over near Pembroke Friday night.

Mitchell Sabo, 28, struck while walking along Highway 17 near Ottawa Friday night.

George Wilks, 28, of Bloomfield, whose car struck a bridge near Picton.

Mrs. Julia Koch, 31 - year - old mother of seven, whose car was struck by a train at a level crossing at London Saturday night.

Roy E. Arnold, 47, of St. Williams, who died of injuries suffered in a car collision near Simcoe Friday night.

Ronald Silvi, 16, of Toronto, who died in Sunday in a cottage fire near Port Severn.

George Cowan, 30, of Guelph, whose experimental glider crashed into a field near Brantford Saturday afternoon.

Billy (Flipper) Coates, 41, of Bridgeport, died in a drowning accident near Kitchener Saturday night when his stock car left a track and crashed in a retaining wall.

Now It's Just Plain Old Nikita, Child-Lover, On Whistle-Stop Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was just plain old Nikita Khrushchev Monday, simple name of the people, friendly politician, smiling handshaker, warm - hearted father of children, staunch opponent of strife.

This was the Khrushchev that emerged on Sunday's dramatic train ride from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

Before the train was loaded with sullen, furtive Russian security men and unsmiling Americans assigned security men. Up ahead army helicopters hovered protectively. Behind, police cars, police cycles, police cars raced along parallel highways.

Sheriff's deputies guarded the bridges. Then some years' conformed police stood watch from the tops of freight cars. In the intervening spaces were packaged Indian scouts.

Then at Santa Barbara the poor shepherdess who made good as the chairman of the Council of Soldiers' and Union of Soviet Socialist Republics decided to do a little whistle-stopping.

Nikita Is Happy, 'Today I've Seen Real Americans'

Jokes, Joviality, Wrath Mixed Into Typical Day

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Outspoken Nikita Khrushchev, who seems to plunge into an argument at every forced dinner, changed his pace again today.

His schedule called for sightseeing by boat and by automobile, with a look at a housing development, a supermarket and a drug store.

Nowhere—at least until tonight—is he likely to run into a display similar to the one he had Sunday night with American labor leaders.

At his dinner, the union leaders reported, Khrushchev vigorously defended his system and his policy, including the putting down of the revolt in Hungary, and said "our positions are irreconcilable."

Along with sightseeing, Khrushchev was to drop in today on the San Jose plant of International Business Machine Corporation, lunch with the workers in the cafeteria and look at the big electronic monsters made there.

CANCEL TRIP

For reasons never made clear, a trip to the Stanford Research Institution at nearby Menlo Park was cancelled.

Sunday turned into another typical Khrushchev day, with comment, joviality and fiery invective mixed in typical fashion.

His reaction:

"Today I've seen some real live Americans, and it seems they are just like us—good as our people."

But he complained that security restrictions are so tough that he can't go where he pleases, such as Disneyland.

"What is it, the cholers there or something?" he demanded. "Security will be taken over the place!"

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. representative to the United Nations, acknowledged that Khrushchev had been told he should not go to Disneyland.

Lodge explained through a spokesman that Khrushchev had not made up his mind to go until late Saturday, when it was too late to take adequate security steps.

Khrushchev also complained he had been forced, as a security measure, to "sit in a sweltering heat in a closed car under a hot

Iraq's Kassem Executes 17 Foes of Regime

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Spectators cheered Iraq's Premier Abdel Karim Kassem Sunday while firing squads in Baghdad killed 13 Iraqi army officers and hangmen executed four civilians on a calendar of the government.

The executions were the largest in a single day in neighboring Iraq since the overthrow of the monarchy five months ago.

The group men participated in the abortive revolt at the northern military headquarters in Mosul last March or were charged with plotting against Kassem. They were opposed to the left-wing tendencies of Kassem's regime at the time.

Brig. Nadhim Tabakjali, commander of the 2nd Division at Mosul, was the highest-ranking officer to die. Also prominent among the executed officers was Col. Mustafa Haj Sibri, chief of the army's intelligence bureau in Baghdad.

The officers, tried before a "people's court" and sentenced several months ago, were accused of conspiring against President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Kassem's No. 1 foe.

The civilians, accused of being criminal leaders in the membership of the government of the late Nuri Said, the pro-Western premier who was killed in Kassem's revolt of July 14, 1958. The civilians executed included Said Qazzaz, former interior minister, and Hashat Alfiyah, executive chief.

They were the first known executions of members of the Nuri Said government, 14 of whom have been sentenced to die.

The Mosul uprising was the first serious challenge to Kassem's rule. It grew out of the widespread uneasiness in the army as Kassem appeared at the time to be heading toward communism.

Hamp Pool Fired As Argos' Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Hamp Pool was fired today as head coach of the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League and defensive coach Lou Rug was named in succeed him.

The announcement was made by managing director Lew Hayman, who reached a decision in his office at Argos lost their fifth game of the season against 2 record crowd of 27,583 booed and jeered the coach and players.

Pool, former head coach of Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, had been able to develop a winner in his three years at the helm. He failed to make the playoffs in 1957 and 1958, winning only four of 16 games in 1957 but came up with a contending team this season to hold on to his job.

8 Persons Die In Road Accident

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Eight persons were killed and two critically injured in a Sunday today in a three-vehicle collision on a straight stretch of highway near here.

Involved were a pickup truck, a car carrying eight persons and a tractor-trailer.

Seven of the car's occupants were killed.

Police said the driver of the westbound car was attempting to pass the pickup but turning left in front of an oncoming tractor-trailer, which jack-knifed and burst into flames.

AMAGE TO HOUSE, OT EXTENSIVE

The Belleville Fire Department as called out twice yesterday. t 2.15 p.m. a fire occurred in a empty house on Dundas Street s Church Street. Firemen used water to extinguish the flames and the damage, apparently, was not extensive. A service call was answered at 7.30 p.m. to a home on East Moira Street.

On Saturday a tar drum caught fire at 128 Wright Avenue, but little damage resulted, firing soot before firemen reached the scene.

BREAK-IN NETS $250 IN CASH, GOODS

A break-in at Tanner's Service Station in Stirling netted eight operators about $150 in cigarettes, tobacco and silver on Sunday. Also stolen was an electric razor.

The intruders forced a window leading to the wash-rack department and from there made their way into the service station office. Provincial Police from Belleville assisted in the investigation.

Car Rolls Over, Driver Is Cut

Mrs. William J. Mullin, 86-A Yeomans Street, suffered facial and scalp lacerations, along with a severe shaking up, when his car went out of control on No. 2 highway near Bayside and rolled over several times before coming to rest on the pavement.

Driving a borrowed car, Mr. Mullin lost control of the vehicle as it rounded a bend in the Jewish cemetery. The car went into the ditch, struck a concrete culvert, then bounced back onto the highway and rolled over, throwing the driver into the roadway. The car was a complete wreck, setting hubbies.

Ken Griffiths Honored on His Retirement

Former Sales and Service manager with Northern Electric here, Mr. A. J. Ken Griffiths, has retired after 34 years service with the company.

Mr. Griffiths came to Belleville with Northern Electric and during and after the move here acted as personnel co-ordinator assisting in securing housing accommodation here for employees moving from Montreal. He left Belleville about 1950.

He was tendered a retirement luncheon at the Fraser Arms in Toronto recently by the executive of the company.

The president's toilet was presented for a E. Milburn, by John Martin presented the Television and Pioneer life membership, says "Northern News", publication of Northern Electric. "Miss Clason presented Mr. Griffiths while Art Parker expressed the best wishes of the executives. Greetings and messages were read from friends throughout the company."

Born in Newport, Wales, Mr. Griffiths came to Canada in 1903. He served for six years with the R.C.M.P. in Eastern Canada and joined the company in 1920. He has held many positions in accounting, electronics, sales and service, and has been with Moncrieff since 1956, first as district sales manager, and then as assistant zone manager.

"He is an enthusiastic and artistic photographer, as well as a master craftsman in wood-working.

"Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths plan to live near the Jewish cemetery. The car went into the ditch, struck a concrete culvert, then bounced back onto the highway and rolled over, throwing the driver into the roadway. The car was a complete wreck, setting hubbies.

'Open House' Held at United Church

FRANKFORD — Last Thursday was open house day at the United Church, according to Rev. Frankford. This lovely old brick house on the corner has been completely renovated and modernized, inside and out, and the ladies served tea and refreshments to over two hundred visitors. A large picture window has replaced the one in the door at the front; new chimneys have been erected; the grounds landscaped and the whole decored in white with green roof and trim. A new oil furnace has been installed and the house completely re-wired.

The floors have been sanded and polished downstairs and tiled upstairs, all the rooms painted and decorated and extensive modernization effected in kitchen and bathroom. The attached garage has overhead doors and a new cement floor. The total effect is a tribute to the long term planning and efforts of the Women's Association in the charge and the co-operation of the boards of stewards, the session and the congregation.

The church, itself, which is celebrating its 80th anniversary September 27th, has also been completely redecorated inside, in pastel shades in keeping with the windows and furnishings and the choir loft has been remodelled to accommodate a larger choir. Special music is being arranged for anniversary services at 11.15 and 7.30 and the guest preacher for the occasion is Rev. J. F. Lane, of Oakwood, former minister of this church and immediate past president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada.

Harry J. Smith, cruel, Ice Dealer for 60 Years, Dies

Stricken with a heart seizure at his home, 66 South Church Street, on Sunday afternoon, Harry James Smith, Fuel and Ice dealer for many years, died suddenly before medical aid could be summoned.

Mr. Smith, who was 80 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith and had lived his entire life in this community. Educated in the public schools of this city, Mr. Smith, as a young man, entered the fuel and ice business and for over 60 years had supplied his many customers with these commodities although in the late years, the ice business has been reduced due to the increase of electric refrigerators in use.

Harry Smith, as he was familiarly known, enjoyed a wide circle of friends in every walk of life. He lived all his life in Foster Ward and through the years remained a popular figure of people from that section of the city, who looked upon him more as a friend than an employer. In his early life he was active in sports, such as boating, both summer and winter variety and in his time owned more fast sailing craft than though he never actually engaged in racing. He was a keen fisherman and always had his active support.

MEMBER OF PARKS BOARD

He had been a member of the Parks Board almost since its inception, and was a familiar part in all branches of the work, especially the work done at the Victoria Park. He also served as a director of the fair board and was familiar with the management of the grounds. This position worked in well with his responsibilities on the parks board and today this city has one of the finest parks part due in no small measure to his labors. Although he never married, Mr. Smith was fond of children and he nevertheless was well-versed on the affairs of the native city of Belleville. He was in the Conservative party all of his life and was many times active on behalf of his younger days.

Mr. Smith was a kindly man at heart, a true citizen and will be sadly missed by a wide circle of friends. He was a member of St. Thomas' Church, and is survived by his wife, the former Florence Bowerman; his first wife, the former Margaret Ann Bowerman, predeceased him some years ago; seven sons, Robert of McArthur's Mills, Ontario; Thomas, Lewis, Howard, Mac and Harry Smith, all of this city; two daughters, Mrs. E. (Elizabeth) Nettleton of Toronto; Miss Betty Smith at home; one brother, Albert Smith, of this city. Also surviving are eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren. The funeral will be on Wednesday afternoon at St. Thomas Church at 2.00 p.m.

Mine Detection Crew to Search For Stolen Caps

A mine detection crew from army area headquarters at Kingston was expected to join the provincial police from Belleville today in a search for stolen dynamite caps from a quarry nine miles west of here last week.

Police said about 30 of the detonating caps were believed stolen from the bush area adjacent to the quarry owned by H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Ltd. An explosives box was forced open Thursday night and two dozen of the caps were stolen. The caps are said to be extremely dangerous and are easily detonated.

Police commenced their search for the missing caps in the bush area near the quarry after questioning two boys. Five of the caps were said to have been recovered.

Two Meetings Will Be Held By Ratepayers

Members of the Belleville Citizens' Committee and also the West Hill Ratepayers Association will hold separate meetings Tuesday evening to elect new slates of officers and also to name prospective candidates for the December municipal elections.

Belleville Citizens' Committee will meet in Queen Alexandra School, and West Hill Ratepayers Association at Prince Charles Public School. The meetings will get underway at eight o'clock.

The Belleville Citizens' Committee is primarily interested in the Belleville area ring between Front highway and the Bay of Quinte and Herchimer Ave. and Dundas Street, and the West Hill Ratepayers embrace the area which the Association name implies.

gime are almost impossible to believe. Millions of people died or were exiled, and Stalin would be hailed as the great god of everybody who stood in his way.

His death is still somewhat of a mystery, and although he was admitted that he had not been more than the Russians had been led to believe. In fact he had made a considerable number of changes, but for some reason he led the pack of those condemning Stalin was Khrushchev himself. One of those who were cronies of Stalin and if they disapproved of his methods, they never said anything about it at the time.

I wonder what Khrushchev thinks of it when he passes Stalin's tomb. I don't think it bothers his conscience, for the simple reason Communists don't seem to have a conscience in our sense of the word.

The other day I gui onto this subject with a friend. I asked him, "Don't you find it rather strange when Pravda you read of a Russian leader who is not a revolutionary nature. Suddenly you find this person was not a great man after all."

He said, indeed, an enemy of the state, perhaps even in cahoots with some Western American imperialists, and has received his just reward, "exile off in Siberia, or perhaps even Russia." "Where," he replied, "you have to be careful if you ever change a bit difficult to understand."

But another example of this split personality. One reads here continually of the great desire of the Russians for world disarmament for peace and friendship for everyone in this world. As I have already pointed out, I fully believe that the Russian people want peace and friendship. As far as the government is concerned, I'm not so sure. It is all right to talk about it but at the same time there are a considerable number of Russians which do anything but foster peace in friendship.

Since I have been here. I have picked up a Communist magazine which shows numerous pictures of supposed American atrocities in Korea, and an amusing painting America in a bad light compared with Russia. I think the Russians would scream with anger if we turned out half the nonsense about them as they do about us. The worst thing about it all is that the description of pictures are there to make people quite plausible. But to people who know the truth or even the outright lies, I don't suppose it occurs to them to question the validity of the information. Due to us the ridiculous nonsense which we have read here about the United States is about the worst thing one could do to further peace and friendship.

EXCHANGE VISITS

One way to foster friendship is to have as many people visit other countries as possible. But the fact remains that the Reds don't want it. That is why Russia before they can leave the country. That is they have to get the permission of the government before they can take a trip abroad. This is a control of our system where a person can go anywhere he wants. Perhaps the Russians realize that were they to relax this restriction, that the same thing would happen as in Berlin, a steady stream from east to west.

This suspicion which the Russian government has extends to themselves their own people is especially foreigners. A friend for mine told me the following story. Two Canadians were travelling in a Russian train. They were together in a compartment where there were also two berths. The two locked in and went to bed, good-night to each other, and prepared to go to sleep. After a while one said to the other — "Hey, wake up, you're snoring too loud". The other said "I'm not the one who is snoring. I was just going to wake you because I thought that it was you snoring all the noise". Well, if they weren't snoring, somebody else was. So they decided to investigate. Sure enough they found a Russian up above their compartment who had been listening to their conversation. He had evidently got tired too, had fallen asleep, and it was he who was doing all the snoring.

But truth is sometimes stranger than fiction and there are a lot of strange stories about Russia to tell.

IN MEMORIAM

ORR. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph H. Orr, who passed away September 22nd, 1938.

His memory is as dear today.
As in the hour he passed away.
Sadly missed by wife Hilda and son John.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mere words are inadequate to express our gratitude to our relatives, friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband, father, wife and mother, Mrs. Anna G. Orr. We thank you so much.
—Mr. Chesnik Boyd and family.

Medical Mirror
SAFE ECLIPSE VIEWING

Q. Is it harmful to view an eclipse through smoked glass?
A. No, not if the glass is plain white soot, and photographic film, contrary to popular opinion, does not afford adequate protection for eclipse viewers. Searing rays of the sun are invisible and may burn the inner eye. The safest way to observe an eclipse is to allow sunlight to pass through a pinhole in a piece of cardboard, focusing the image on another piece of white cardboard. A somewhat clearer image of the sun is produced by using one sun of a pair of binoculars in place of the pinhole cardboard. An eclipse can be observed without harm and much more clearly in this indirect way than by direct viewing through smoked glass.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and base metals dipped to 1938 lows as the stock market turned down today in light morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 463,000 shares, compared with Friday's 521,000 at the same hour. Speculatives did little in dull trading.

Most industrial groups were down.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 15-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, near noon today. Friday's noon rate was 95 3-16 cent.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quiet, with offerings light for a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in the cases: A large 28-29; A medium 43; A small 22; B 35; C 17; cooking eggs to retail A 25-26; A medium 48; A small 27; B 30; C 22.

Butter: Finest on Canada, first grade; Ontario tenderable 84; non tenderable 82 in extremely light trading; western 33¼-33½ (nominal).

Jewish Mother Makes Protest Over Pamphlet

TORONTO (CP) — The mother of four Jewish children in a suburban Toronto public elementary school has protested against a pamphlet distributed in Etobicoke schools by the township's Protestant Ministerial Association.

The pamphlet "makes members of others faiths look as if they are second - class citizens," said Mrs. Clarinda Hundert.

She objected to a part of a pamphlet addressed to parents reading: "Your future and the future of Canada depends on what you believe and the kind of life you live. The best life is centred in Jesus Christ and in the fellowship of the Christian church."

Church and school authorities are satisfied with their reaction to Mrs. Hundert's complaint. Rev. R.A. Saul, president of the ministerial association and author of the disputed wording, said the leaflet only made clear the Christian position and Jews were free to accept or reject it.

Dr. F. F. Brueler, Etobicoke director of education, said he did not understand a Jewish family objecting to the wording, but said no offence was intended.

East Belleville to Have New Presbyterian Church

Another important step was taken by the Presbyterians in East Belleville toward their goal of a new church at the corner of Farley Avenue and Bridge St. East.

Church school classes have been held for some time and now church services will begin on Sunday, September 27, at eleven o'clock in the manse on Farley Avenue.

A potluck supper was held last Thursday evening in the Presbyterian manse and was attended by many interested persons. The evening started with a delicious supper enjoyed by all present. While the ladies lingered over a cup of tea they were entertained by the most playing a game which required them to model ladies' chapeaux. George Fisher, the eventual winner, was quite becoming in a large white picture hat.

The meeting was opened by the Reverend R. D. MacLean. A most appropriate hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," was sung with great enthusiasm and with that thought in mind everyone was ready for the task ahead.

Mrs. K. Denton Taylor introduced the guest speaker, the Reverend David McCullough, Director of Church Extension for the Presbyteries of East Toronto and West Toronto. Mr. McCullough paralleled the building of a church and congregation to the growth of a field of wheat. In the beginning it is a wonder to behold and at the completion a joy to be seen. He outlined the action taken when a new sub-division is planned so that the church is located centrally.

Several specific questions were asked regarding this particular proposed congregation and these were answered to everyone's satisfaction.

Mr. Wilbert Marmer thanked Mr. McCullough for the information and help he has given in this new undertaking.

Everyone departed with the knowledge and a feeling of pleasure for the work ahead and with the assurance that in the future the goal will be accomplished.

MELROSE CUBS

The chief in his wisdom, when he lowered the age of boys wanting to be Scouts, from 12 to 8 years old, gave these youngsters the title of Wolf Cubs —totally irresponsible, intensely active, unpredictable busy little Cubs and at camps completely happy and carefree. One thing that is common at all Cub gatherings is the absolute confidence they have in their leaders. It is exceptional to find a disobedient Cub — certainly not in the Melrose pack, which is blessed with very efficient, enthusiastic leaders. Cub parents in the Melrose district know this and we all take this opportunity of paying homage to Akela English and her assistants for the wonderful training they give our boys.

CUBS AT CAMP

Unfortunately Mrs. English couldn't attend the camp at Kingsford owing to the serious illness of Mr. English. Mrs. T. Howard acted as Camp Akela and was assisted by Mrs. Grant McNeely, Miss Barbara Demille, Mrs. McLennan and Scouter Jimmy Howard. Mrs. Demille was the cook and Mrs. McLennan helped with the cooking and in her capacity of a trained nurse attended to the health of the Cubs. The Cubs who were at camp were:

Kenneth McLennan, Ronnie Pascoe, Harold Pascoe, Bruce Pascoe, Ronnie Demille, Ricky Phillips, Wayne Sager, Joby Herrington, Jonathan Kearns, Kirk Reid, Ronnie Bush, Edward Lasler, Ernie Howard, Morris McLaren, Gary Sero, Jimmy Konkel, Lynne Sutton, Dennis McQuade, Anthony Kant, Douglas Fox, Michael Cook.

One of the features the Cubs were busy on was a table of jungle animals for the Shannonville Fall Fair, one of the Scouts' display. They went on several nature walks and of course, the camp fires were enjoyed at the closing of the day. Scoutmaster Fred Sleeman was a welcome guest one evening. We are pleased to report that the health inspector complimented them on a good clean camp.

The Cubs had a wonderful time and will remember the camp for a long time to come, especially the cocoa and cookies.

Boy Scout Apple Day will be on October 2nd and 3rd in Belleville and October 24th at Trenton.

Meetings of the various groups in the city swing again and of course the annual meeting of the Belleville Local Association, at which new officers are elected, will be in October. The Belleville Valley Association will have its first meeting at Tweed on October 7th.

Wiring Blaze Soon Quelled

TRENTON — Except for being called out to extinguish three minor fires, two on Saturday and one Sunday, Trenton firemen had a very quiet weekend. Very little damage was caused in any of the three fires.

One of the calls Saturday might have resulted in a serious blaze had the fire department been unable to extinguish the outbreak quickly. As it was, the blaze, which started in the electrical wiring at a home on Dufferin Avenue, was confined to the immediate area where it started. Small damage was caused.

The second Saturday call was to extinguish an oil burner blaze in the kitchen of a home on Carrying Place Road. Firemen managed to quell the outbreak in a matter of minutes and little damage resulted.

On Sunday at 4.30 in the afternoon, the department was called out again to fight a small grass fire near Carrying Place Road. No damage was caused.

Pave Downtown Trenton Street

TRENTON—Downtown Trenton resumed the appearance of another obstacle course today, as local motorists were greeted with a new blocked off area earlier this morning.

Cause of the detour around the heart of the business section was the repaving of Dundas Street West from the Woolworth store to the Division-Dundas St. railway crossing. Work commenced shortly after the night o'clock rush hour traffic and was expected to be completed within a few hours in charge of the operation is the H. J. McFarland Construction Company.

During the time that the street was blocked off, Trenton police re-routed Dundas Street West through traffic via King and Queen Streets.

Eight Vehicles Are in Mishaps Damage Is $200

TRENTON — Four minor accidents in the Town of Trenton over the weekend caused over $200 damage to eight vehicles involved. Police report that the small traffic mishaps, the local Police Department reported on, occurred during the weekend.

Two of the accidents happened at the corner of Dundas and Byron Streets. The first occurred at 3.05 Friday, involving a car and bus. A car owned by George Fleming of Belleville, driven by Edgar Parker, in Water Street, Trenton was parked on Byron Street opposite Fox Cartage when an RCAF bus driven by LAC William Fenish of Station Trenton, was forced to make a wide turn from Dundas Street, striking the left fender of the car. Police estimated $35 damage to the car and none to the bus.

The second accident at this corner happened at 11.45 Saturday morning, and involved a car and small German car and truck. The car suffered about $5. damage, the truck $40. The car, driven by Aidan Strunk, 342 Dundas Street West was proceeding south on Byron and turning into Dundas and the truck, operated by Joe Roberts, 190 Dufferin Avenue was turning onto Byron from Dundas. The left end of the front bumper on the car was dented and the truck received dents to the left front fender and door.

A few minutes earlier Saturday, two cars were involved in an accident on Quinte Street, the result being $75 in damages.

The mishap occurred when Francis L. Arthur, 172 Shuter Street, Toronto attempted to back from the Trentonian Parking Lot. A child in the front seat of the Arthur car hit his balance and fell to the floor, distracting the driver's attention, and he backed right into a passing car, driven by Bernard Blamire, 26 Francis Street, Trenton. Only the bumper was damaged on the first car, but the Blamire vehicle suffered a dented front fender, door and panel.

Early today, a two car accident caused about $75 damage to the vehicles involved in a minor collision at the corner of Dundas and Queen Streets.

A car driven by John Molly, R.R. 1 Carrying Place, was attempting to make a left turn onto Queen Street, when it collided with a car driven by Charles Carter, Front Street, Frankford, which was proceeding south on Queen. Police estimated the damage to the Molly car at $60, and to the second car a 15.

Will Select Cast for Play At Meeting

The Belleville Theatre Guild will hold a meeting tonight in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Front Street. Purpose of the meeting is to cast for a three-act play "Little Women", adapted by John D. Ryan from the famous novel by Louise M. Alcott.

The play is to be under the direction of Mrs. Betty Sadler. There are openings in parts for young and old. The cast will require seven women and four men. Anyone at all who might be interested in a part in the play is invited to attend the meeting, whether or not they are a member of the Theatre Guild.

Besides the actual stage cast, there will be many opportunities for back stage workers, and people to design and work on the set.

The casting for "Little Women" is the first move of an active and interesting program the Guild has lined up during the coming season.

2 Airmen Killed Honoring Battle Of Britain

Two airmen were killed and two injured Sunday in accidents during flying displays held to mark the 19th anniversary of victory in the Battle of Britain.

In Canada, 1,300 RCAF personnel and others paraded at Ottawa while another 1,000 marched at Montreal. Associate Minister Sevigny took the salute at Ottawa, his first public appearance since being appointed.

Picton District Farmer, Father of Six, George Wilkes, Dies as Car Hits Bridge

PICTON — A Picton district farmer and father of six, George Wilkes, 34, was killed instantly when his car struck a cement bridge railing at Allisonville, 16 miles west of Picton, early Sunday morning.

The left side of Wilkes' 1934 model car was sheared off at the point of impact, after which the vehicle rolled over several times and skidded on its top a distance of 130 feet. Wilkes was the lone occupant of the car and was crushed in the driver's seat.

Wilkes is survived by his wife, three sons and three daughters, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilkes, all of whom reside at the family farm, eight miles west of Picton.

Major A. S. McConnell, padre of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, stands before the color party at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Church Parade Sunday in Trenton. The parade formed up in the Legion park, where a religious service was conducted by the padre, following which the Hasty Pees marched to the Community Gardens for supper. An estimated 200 members of the regiment from the surrounding area attended the event. (Photo by George Puttenham.)

Hasty Pees' Church Parade Sees Five Officers Retire

Something new was combined with something old as the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment held its first ceremonial church parade since the start of the fall training program. The outdoor drumhead ceremony was held Sunday evening in Trenton at the Legion Park and was followed by a parade and march-past through the town with about 250 officers and men of the Regiment sitting down to supper at the Community Centre. This was the first time that the officers and men had had this opportunity since the days of the Second World War.

The something old was the retirement of five officers of the Regiment. They were Major A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., padre of the Regiment; Major E. Loucks, C.D., of Trenton; Capt. C. Geary of Picton; Capt. R. Dafoe of Madoc and Capt. R. Dulmage, M.B.E., of Belleville. Among them these officers had contributed 118 years of service to the Regiment.

The Commanding Officer, Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, expressed the gratitude of the Regiment to these men for their years of service and loyalty and mentioned that the Regiment could not function without the sacrifice of men such as these and that their record was an excellent example for those coming up in the Regiment.

HONOR CAPT. DAFOE

Something new was then added to the Regiment's history. Captain Dafoe was made honorary Major in the Regiment by Lt.-Col. Duffy. This is the first time such an appointment has been made within the Hasty Pees and is an extremely rare action within the Canadian Army as a whole.

Captain Dafoe joined the Hasty Pees in 1930, receiving his first commission in 1933. In 1939 he went overseas as a Captain and commanded a company in the landing on Sicily. In 1943, just as he was to receive the rank of Major, he was seriously wounded and was unable to complete the required active time in the field for confirmation of his promotion.

The Regiment's training program for the forthcoming season was briefly outlined by Lt.-Col. Duffy, during his remarks. It was designed, he stated, to both improve the morale of the Regiment and to fulfill the training requirements of the new role which the Militia is to play across Canada in the Civil Defence operation. He mentioned that initiative and imagination were required by those administering it and felt confident that it would be successfully performed.

The Group Commander of the 11th Militia Group, Colonel M. Clarke, of Peterborough, and Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton were present at the ceremony and later took the salute at the march past.

The dinner at the Community Gardens was under the able chairmanship of Major Campbell of Trenton, who performed this duty with his usual wit and polish. All in all it was a good show on a good day.

Consistent, All

The United Nations steering committee has voted to receive for another year the question of seating Communist China in the UN.

Nations who have, in the past, opposed the admission of Red China could do nothing else, if they wished to establish any claim to consistency.

For many years now there has been no question but that the Chinese Communists are in secure control of the Chinese government. There have thus been only two possible reasons for excluding Communist China from the UN. One has been the possibility of arguing that, while the Communists are the de facto government of China they are not the de jure Government, in other words that while they are in control of China they have no legal right to enjoy this position. To advance this reason, though, involves overlooking the questionable background of the ruling regime in many other lands which are members of the UN. The only reason for opposition to the admission of Communist China which can be easily defended is that Communist China is not a peace-loving nation. This has, indeed, been the argument advanced by most, if not all, the states opposing its admission. If there was good reason to take this stand last year, there is doubly good reason for sticking by it this year, when the Chinese have forced the Dalai Lama to flee from Tibet and have violated the recognized borders of India.

In spite of the dispute between India and China, however, India's defence minister, V. K. Khrishna Menon, again this year as in the past, urged that the UN admit Red China into membership. Many will be surprised by this—and it is indeed surprising as an example of forbearance uncommon in the world today. But Menon and the government he represents were not seeking to appease China—they were merely being consistent. Menon said that none of the events "that have happened in our (India's) part of the world have changed our views." And, from the viewpoint of most of those who have urged Red China's admission to the UN in the past he was perfectly right—for the most effective answer that has been given to opponents of admitting Red China is that whether or not a nation is peace-loving is immaterial, that, indeed, if a nation has aggressive tendencies it becomes doubly important that it should have representatives at the UN, where the representatives of peace-loving nations can remonstrate with it and endeavor to control its aggressive tendencies.

Russian Report on Lunik

A news bulletin issued by the USSR embassy at Ottawa contains much interesting information concerning the Russian rocket which hit the moon.

For instance, we wondered, as many of our readers realized that the last stage of the Russian rocket, without its fuel, weighed over a ton and a half! It was no grapefruit which the Russians tossed to the moon. Even the layman can appreciate the fact that, in the words of Anatoly Mitskevich, Soviet physicist and mathematician, "at cosmic velocities every additional kilogram requires a considerable increase in the thrust of the jet engine." Mr. Mitskevich also reports that "several stages were used by the rocket to obtain a velocity exceeding the break-away speed of 11.2 kilometres per second." "It should be noted," he writes, "that one of the most difficult tasks was to keep the rocket on its charted course during the sudden changes of weight which took place when the stages were jettisoned. For this the last stage of the rocket was made to be guided." The Russians did not just aim at the moon. They devised a method of correcting any error in direction while the rocket was in flight, after having broken away from the earth's gravitational pull.

In order to ensure the proper working of the instruments in the rocket, "great attention was paid in designing the container to stabilizing the inside temperature, since sharp temperature fluctuations could result in errors." Information radioed back to earth showed that the temperature inside the sphere "remains" (this Russian report was written while the rocket was still in flight), within 20 to 25 degrees centigrade, a quite comfortable temperature range for humans, between 68 and 77 degrees Fahrenheit.

HOME TO REST

By EDGAR A. GUEST

She's glad to get back home again,
The summer cottage joys are o'er;
She can lie in bed till ten
And needn't dress till after four.
The dishes now she needn't do,
Nor sweep the bedrooms and the hall;
These things she's not accustomed to,
Because her mother does them all.

Out by the lake she used to rise
At six the breakfast to
Or housework that girls despise
She simply had to do her share.

She used to make the beds and cook
The meals when friends dropped in to call;
But now she simply reads a book
And lets her mother do it all.

She's glad to get back home once more,
Where she can now enjoy her ease;
She's glad the summer season's o'er
And autumn comes with bridge and teas.
The days of all that she likes best
Are really those of early fall
When she can get back home to rest
And let her mother do it all.

I Once Had a Brother

By Joan Finnigan in the Ottawa Journal.

I once had a brother John, now sleeping in Pontiac county, whose life he shared, and to share after second to have little meaning. He died last summer, almost two years to the day on the anniversary of my death. I was given the choice naturally to use the inexplicable part he played in the drama of life and will never know his name, let alone his tragic story.

I only know that he was an illustration of the mysterious and unknown and complex ways in which we often unwittingly affect the lives of others, sometimes with no more than a word as the teacher to the child; sometimes like a whole life, as brother John to the young stranger.

My brother John was born with a severe heart condition which, in medical predictions, gave him a year at the most. But when he and my mother thought that prognosis overlapped into a span of 30 years albeit the last ones could only be defined in terms of pain.

In his younger years, however with the special courage that seems to be in his handicapped, he managed to be "one of the boys" at school, to play, to slog him from playing hockey; it slowly kept him in goal. When a gang-fight broke out, he did be although the Gatineau hills sometimes he and he had to walk up while his friends waited at the top. (Heaven bless their patience.) And I remember when the family was down on its financ- he sold programs at the Auditorium and washed cars at Bill Hoople's and toted papers down Bridge street (perhaps you remember him? — he did with the hunched back?)

So little he had and such courage, that the only "why" that you were tempted to think that he would grow out of it, that the doctors were wrong, that with would win. But then came the "treat it with kindness," inexplicable unmentionable heartbreak, the inexplicable unkindness, the gradual withdrawal. The twenties, as Dr. Campbell had predicted, were years, painful deterioration of body and personality, so much so that sometimes I was ashamed of the being was the courage to fight.

As my brother was dying, we asked the old eternal "whys" of watchers down the centuries, "Why this boy?" "Why this pain and suffering?" "Why?"

If there ever is an answer to such questions, I was given a good part of it, when my brother was visited by a young Ottawa doctor who married a good friend of mine, and who also took over the general practice of the doctor who had been brother John's doctor.

Realizing that John was my brother, he had taken the time to very carefully read over the case history of my brother, had spoken from specialists who had examined John and stated the prognosis of Arteriosclerosis, as happened accurately and to the year.

We in the family realize that John's life could have too soon. Today with new heart surgery, he would have a chance of heart repair and normal life. This operation should be reserved for those in the patient is young, the chances are better. We had hoped that John was too late for surgery but, true to human nature, I pressed Doctor Bill to have the operation once more, particularly since he was professionally interested and had been behind the scenes, so to speak. He didn't hesitate for a moment.

"No, Joan, there was no hope whatsoever," John was dying, because of him, there is hope for someone else."

And then he told me the wonderful story of a young patient of his, a grand nine, whose heart disease is exactly the same as John's and whose fate is clearly written on the X-rays of his crippled heart.

"You know", the doctor said, "I couldn't talk the parents into taking a fighting chance and every — the child's only real hope for normality. I knew what I was saying, you, he'll grow out of it. He's better, already. He's playing with the other children. He's trying to skate. . . The mother kept saying, 'What if — what if!' I couldn't convince them that once the tenth year is past, deterioration sets in. Then it is too late. I gave the father John's case history. Here, I said, read every last word of it, this, down to the bitter end."

"And what happened?"

"John's story gave them the courage to take a chance on surgery. They finally realized that they had an opportunity for their child, a hope which was only given 10 or 20 years ago. The boy was operated on. It was a success."

I once had a brother John, now sleeping in Pontiac county, whose life and dying had meaning in terms of the life of another, even a stranger.

It helps to know this.

Letter To the Editor

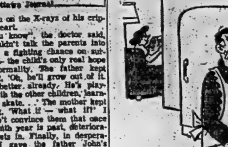
Commercial Permits In Residential Area

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Some two years ago there was loud wailing and viewing with alarm by the City of Belleville at Thurlow Township's action in granting building permits not two service stations and a retail pharmaceutical outlet at the East Bridge and Dundas street intersection. These commercial enterprises, it was generally conceded, did nothing to enhance the property value of those owners of land in the area was the general consensus that said building permits should not have been issued had the area been within the city limits at that time.

Now I am given to understand that the City of Belleville in its wisdom? has granted a building permit for an addition to a dwelling located between one of the said service stations and said retail pharmaceutical outlet for the purpose of operating a combined barber shop and hair dressing establishment. It would be interesting to know the reasoning, if any, behind the decision so add to the commercial status of that area, rather than the line it existed when the city took over last January 1st.

I feel this would also be a good time to bring to your attention the deplorable traffic conditions that now prevail in that area. Traffic congestion there is considerably from St. Joseph's School through to Herchimer Ave. and Dundas, including up and down Bridge St. four times daily, the following to the terrors of conditions that are common in this section.



1. Disregard for speed limit and school zone signs.
2. Parking on both sides of street.
3. Parking on wrong side of street.
4. Parking in front of driveways.
5. Parking in front of fire hydrant.
6. Parking 5 and 6 abreast none in at said retail pharmaceutical outlet. This practice is particularly dangerous since cars are thereby parking on the wrong side. True, it is a gravel walk but since when has it become legal to park there?

It is nothing short of disgraceful to allow these conditions to continue, particularly so when free parking is advertised at both service stations at the corner of Bridge and Herchimer. Furthermore, while nothing has appeared in the press, one child has been knocked down and others have been struck by cars pulling away from the said retail pharmaceutical outlet. To allow existing conditions to continue is to invite another fatality as recently occurred at the Bridge-Herchimer corner.

Yours truly,
E. Plurbus.

While tomatoes are being grown by Jack Sedgewick of Trent River. That vine is still exhibiting a quantity of the albino vegetable which is all white with peculiarly smooth skin and tastes sweeter than the ordinary red variety. It is believed the plants are a freak resulting from cross pollination.

There need be no lack of good old southern dinners of fried chicken and corned beef hash in Belleville if gardeners-owners of the city have the same success in producing the tasty vegetable that Messrs. W. E. Burrowes and George Stewart, Dufferin Avenue residents had this year. The harvest is beyond the expectations of their owners.

Mr. Burrowes showed the product of the Red Cross from service clubs, churches, fraternal and other organizations of the city and district has been nothing short of wonderful. Mr. I. G. Heffey, chairman of the local branch of the society stated this morning.

Following a summer of inactivity the Belleville Y's Men's Club returned to service with a prospective membership meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last evening at which Mr. H. R. Peterly was the principal speaker. President Harold Vaughan outlined the proposed activities of the club during the coming semester which consisted principally of subsidies for the Y.M.C.A.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

NATURAL CHILDBIRTH IS BEST FOR SOME MOTHERS

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about natural childbirth? I am expecting my third child in January, and am very interested. Would I have to go to a special doctor? — Mrs. J. C."

Earlier this year I noticed some newspaper articles on the death of Dr. Grantly Dick Read, who did a great deal to popularize so-called "natural childbirth."

— see nothing to criticize in "natural childbirth," so long as it doesn't become a fetish and interfere with good medical judgment and (most decidedly) common sense.

I cannot agree that the idea should be carried out invariably, to the exclusion of every other factor. And for that matter, while I know of plenty of obstetricians who "practice the method, I can't offhand think of any of them who do not feel as I do.

Basically, the idea came about in this manner. Peasant women in Russia in the field would do hard labor right up to the time of birth. Then, with a minimum of fear or fussing, they have their babies, and in a surprisingly short time are in the fields. The same thing holds true in countries of Africa, as Dr. Reed pointed out after his studious trip there.

But does that mean that all women should adopt, in toto, such practices? I hardly think so!

An averagely active American woman, in good health, should be pretty tired, sore and lame if he abruptly tried to do the things which, for generations, he accustomed his muscles to doing. That is logical, isn't it?

So with, "natural childbirth." The broad hips, the muscles accustomed to walking, stooping, lifting in field work, make childbirth without anesthesia a normal process for some women. But many women who have sat behind a desk most of their life are not prepared for "natural childbirth."

Quite a few first-class hospitals now have classes for expectant mothers, designed to explain the problem. Trained nurses teach exercises which, in reasonable time, prepare the muscles for the work of childbirth. You don't have to be a genius a worker in the fields, but you do have to tone up muscles which, in our civilization, we don't use at any great tension.

Depending on the skill of the mother and her conscientious use of the proper exercises in the months before, "natural childbirth" becomes practical and easy. Even the whiff of ether in the last few minutes may still be beneficial — if it may not be needed.

Most certainly a light or moderate use of drugs is good for both baby and mother, but this is dependent on whether the mother has prepared her muscles for the vigorous demands of childbirth.

In short, what "natural childbirth" must, therefore, tell their doctors so as soon as possible. It isn't a last minute thing to be made at the last moment—it is a year Dr. Molner! Several years the canals of my ears have itched. The condition comes and goes, three or four times a year. I scratch and the itching only becomes worse until finally the ear is so sore I don't notice the itching for a few days. Could there be such a thing as an ear fungus? — Mrs. M. R.

Yes, there's such a thing as ear fungus, but I wouldn't know whether that's your trouble. Ask your doctor to refer you to a specialist.

Note to G. W. R.: I don't know what prompts your inquiry, but in the Canada Year Book, there are no periods of life during which one is immune to tuberculosis. The records of gay TB sanitarium will be convincing proof of this.

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation"? I'm not sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of the Chicago Sun Times, Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for my pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet Of Health" enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Owen Sound Sun-Times

There have been certain developments in recent years in sales promotion methods which tended to arouse an increasing resentment among the buying public. The average Joe, Blow and his wife like straightforward selling where they get value for their money and where the facts of life as they pertain to the product in question are clearly set forth. They may be kidded for a time. But they find no pleasure and benefit in the use of a small cent sign, .9. To all intents and purposes the actual cost of gas is above the amount set forth in the big figures. Of course if you buy 10 gallons you save an extra cent!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Having just come back from a trip through Quebec, not only amid the more familiar region between Montreal and Quebec City, but also along the south shore of the St. Lawrence, I would like to offer the opinion that in Quebec, especially in that beautiful country of farmsteads and villages along the south shore, they have the finest woodpiles in all Canada.

Now I realize that in some parts of Canada people are rather proud of the fact that we have no woodpiles at all, indeed, there are very large areas of the realm in which a generation has grown to manhood and never seen a log so piled a stick of wood, much less a woodpile. In fact all our stoves are electric or gas is a matter of unction with us. We are moders.

But do not think that on these farms and amid the villages I speak of they are without the accoutrements of the modern age. Every farm is lighted with electricity, cars group themselves around every door-step, have all manner of labor-saving devices, a big and modern bathroom, and so on. Tremendous woodpiles, as neatly stacked as books in a bookshop, tight piled against winter, are usually at least two hundred feet in length. And nearly all birch.

Loving hands, men's hands, so piled it. For the finest cooking in the world is the use of the cherry red embers of a good birch fire.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

BURDENS MAKE THE GOING GOOD

A prominent business man was once threatened with a very ugly disease. His assistant handed him a large sum of money, but he decided instead to take them into court and fight the thing out, regardless of the shame and humiliation it involved.

He won his court action and with it the added esteem of his fellow men. After the court decision was announced, he accepted an opportunity to speak. "Most of the trouble I have had in life," he said, "has come about through trying to help people. I would say to all young people here present that if you want to avoid trouble, never go out of your way to help anyone. Be hard and self-demanding." Then he smiled in a rather engaging fashion and said: "But if you do you will have no friends. Everybody will have a clear run and secretly hate you. And worst of all, you won't get much fun out of living."

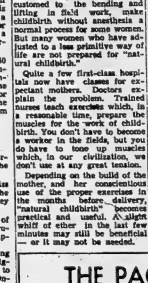
The way to avoid trouble is to avoid responsibility, but a life of no responsibility is sterile, vapid, leading to every factor which brings true happiness. Friendship and love for others involve duty, but nothing else is so worth while.

TODAY'S TALK

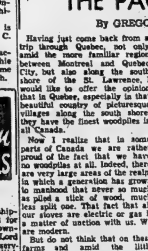
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CHILDREN OF MY MIND

Some day fingers will reach into the shelves of my books that have so long held treasures. They will take them out tenderly, as a mother does her first born when she puts on the cloth. Others will fall out from many like little nestlings when disturbed — a reviewer's opinion, a lover's comment, or some item neighborly to the beaten.



Perhaps many a book will be inscribed to me personally, because of my love and appreciation, or it may be inscribed to a greater one than the author himself in recognition of the beauty of their friendship. There will be notes, too, of some character to give fragrance to these books of mine. Each one has stood, each of these volumes, accumulated over a long term of years, will be that of personal love and devotion.



There will be rarities that cost only search and a handful of pennies, but their hidden wealth will be like pure discovered gold. Treasures like perfect pearls that hunger, struggle, or suffering created. A Gissing, a Thoreau, a Hudson, Vachel Lindsay, or a Keats. Books have character because character gave them birth!

I wonder then about the inheritance of great men, especially famous authors or popular ones — as far greater wealth than gold, bank, or bonds? What an inspiring thought to know you have inherited the shadows of great men and women in their recorded words. They, who once were alive in life, but now immune to death!

In these books of mine there are markings of "yours" and "mine" for bursts of beauty that the author gives to the reader or expression. I take them from their stalls from time to time and look at them over and over again, and they give to me new cheer and hope, or perhaps a new created faith.

These books are the children of my mind and when they are no longer mine to love and cherish, they will be passed on to friends and other lives, to give them the love and devotion they so long gave to me — their custodian.

101st Presentation of Stirling Fair One of Best in Years; Patrons Enjoy Horse Racing

Clear skies and bright sunshine prevailed Saturday for the closing day of one of the most successful fairs ever held in Stirling.

The 101st presentation of Stirling Fall Fair was officially opened by Elmer Sandercock, MLA for West Hastings.

In declaring the fair open to the public, Mr. Sandercock paid tribute to the fair president, E. W. Wallace, and the fair board for the tremendous amount of work put into making this year's fair a success.

Noting the Stirling Fair had passed the 100-year mark, he stated: "The fair is in good hands and I'm sure it will run for another 100 years."

Brief addresses were also given by immediate past president, and this year's treasurer, Clarence Fitchett, and fair director Ben Bleecker.

Fair secretary R. E. Shortt said this year's attendance was among the highest for the annual autumn event.

Features of the fair included excellent horse, cattle and other stock competitions, pony and bicycle races, free-for-all, 2.25 and 2.35 class harness races, varied exhibits with the accent on 4-H and Junior Farmers Club work, cheese judging competitions, a midway and continuous entertainment.

The entertainment portion of the program was provided by the popular Frankford Pipe Band, a daring female aerialist from Indianapolis who performed acrobatic feats while swinging on ropes high above the crowds, and the "Kansas Farmer," Jack C. Thyme, who entertained the crowd with jokes and home-spun philosophy.

The midway of games, concessions and rides, a popular fall feature with the kiddies, was provided by the Allan Shows.

Tasty meals and snacks were served on the grounds by the Bellman's Women's Auxiliary.

BUILDINGS FILLED

The Agricultural Building was filled with a variety of exhibits from farm and garden products to electrical appliances.

The ladies' work section was by far the largest exhibit, with the domestic science section running second in number of individual items.

Lovely examples of clever and imaginative needlecraft were on display. Included in this division were ladies', men's and children's wear, a thrift division, and home craft section featuring quilts, rugs, crochet, tatting, tablecloths, doilies, embroidered and network pillow cases, aprons and towel sets, stuffed animals and pictures.

Among the ladies' work specials were collections of four aprons representing the seasons which showed a great deal of imagination.

The four-piece settings for a children's birthday party and a new Canadian exhibit.

There was also a junior section for children aged nine to 11, and 12 to 14. The public school section included social studies, science, and school projects exhibits, garden produce, examples of writing, maps, health posters, collections of seeds insects, weeds and leaves.

The domestic science exhibit featured a delectable assortment of pies, cakes, cookies, tarts, bread and buns, and other examples of home baking art; also the outlet goods, eggs, and boxed lunches. Winners of one of the specials, best original cake, was an iced "witch's head" cake complete with white "coconut" hair and tall, pointed "hat".

The Stirling Horticultural Society provided a colorful display of summer blooms and plants, attractively arranged in separate groups.

Products of farm and garden, including a variety of fruits, vegetables, grains and seeds, were also on display.

LARGE ENTRY LIST

There was a large number of entries in the cheese judging competition, with 18 large cheese, 21 block-type, and four entries of Stilton cheese on display. Grand aggregate winner was Don Deline of Ivanhoe.

The South Hastings 4-H Grain and Seed Club displayed examples of the work undertaken by these groups. William Vermilyea of R.R. 5, Belleville, was the winner of the 4-H corn competition, with Glenn Heagle of Harold, James Gunning of Tweed, placing second and third respectively. Other exhibitors were Don Farrell, Paul Heagle, Owen Ketcheson, Harold Bateman, and Linda Ketcheson.

Exhibitors in the 4-H Grain Club display were: Allan Johnston, Doug Rollins, Robert Hamilton, Dave Brooks, Robert Sager, Ken Fargey, Elizabeth Sager, Isabella Sager, and Ronald Heath.

The corn club project, a miniature replica of a farm scene, was won by Carl, Dorothy and David Brooks, of Frankford.

The Trent-Moira 4-H Forestry Club also had an interesting exhibit of various species of tree twigs, leaves and seeds.

A large collection of foam and leather craft was on sale in the Agricultural building.

Merchants displaying the latest in appliances, heaters, typewriters, T.V. sets and aluminum products included: Air-Shade Aluminum, Belleville and Napanee; C. H. Kilpatrick, Marmora; Mouck's Hardware, and Jack's Appliance Shop, Stirling-Madoc.

An excellent competition of horse-flesh with a large number of entries was held. There were approximately 30 entries in the light horse class competition and the carriage horses and hackney ponies, and close to 30 entries in the heavy horse class, featuring heavy draught and wagon horses, and teams. Mr. John Morgan was in charge of the light horse competition, and Mr. Raymond Chambers was in charge of the heavy class competition. There was also a good turnout in the pony class.

PROGRAM APPRECIATED

The Junior Farmers program is certainly appreciated by the young people of Hastings County according to both a veteran and a newcomer in this work, both of whom showed at the Stirling Fair. Jack Wood of Ivanhoe, who in his first year of Junior Farmers' activity is much impressed by what he has been learning about farming during the monthly meetings held in the Stirling area. And hand at this work, Paul McKeown of Springbrook, veteran of four years of showing and this year's winner in the calf division, commented that he felt the frequent visits to the farms of top cattle farmers in the area did much to provide one with new ideas and information.

Both of these youths placed in the top three of some 25 entries in the calf division of the Stirling area's contingent of the Hastings County Junior Farmers. There are other groups in Marmora, Tweed, Belleville, Madoc and Frankford.

To compete these lads were marked on their year's work as well as their final showing at the fair. Home conditions, field reports, attendance at monthly meeting, and a written examination are taken into consideration as well as their showmanship and the calf itself, which are judged at the fair. The entrants are marked out of a possible 1,000 points and with only 17 points separating the first and third place Junior Farmers it is indicative that competition is keen.

The first year calf class there Paul McKeown, acquired 961 points. The runner-up, Ron Heath of Stirling, was only two points behind with 959. Jack Wood, the third-place youth, had 945 points, and the rest of the 2 entrants were not too far behind in points.

Besides he calf class there were the classes for tractor-driving, corn, grain and forestry. All of these classes received a large number of entries and some of the displays were very well thought out and planned.

MANY EXHIBITORS

Whilst the Junior Farmers were having their show their parents were also well occupied with their items in the cattle and horse exhibitions. Amongst the leading exhibitors in the cattle classes were: Elmer Sandercock; A. J. Elmhurst, of Indian Point; Lorne Hagerman of Harold; Lorne Jarret of Cannifton; Craig Nelson of Campbellford, Ronald Gay of Roslin; Ogilvie and W. A. Danford and Sons of Springbrook.

The horse exhibitions were heavily attended as usual. In the light horse class the following well-known exhibitors were noticed: James Johnson of Frankford; Bert Smith of Campbellford; Miles Benedict of Belleville; Will Kenney of Roslin and Elmer Gerow of Picton. A heavy entry list was in the heavy horse class with Ben Bleecker of Stirling, Carl Grey of Napanee, Vic Irwin of Campbellford, Gordon Jones of Marmora, Gordon Chapman of Cooper, Robert Danford of Hallowy, Bill Doyle of Marmora, Harold Johnson of Stirling and Fred Keating of Frankford having horses entered.

The pony class also received a good share of attention from exhibitors. Entrants included Dave MacDonald of Belleville, Carman Denny of Crowbush, Larry Bertrand of Marmora, James MacMillan of Springbrook, Paul Ouellete of Odessa and J. A. Boyd of Belleville.

HARNESS RACING

Three good races were witnessed by the large crowd at the fair. Although there were no more than four horses in any one race the racing was forceful and exceptionally keen. Both of the fast classes were split affairs, while a Belleville horse was a straight heat winner in the slow class on the day. Cameron Bunnett was in charge of the starting gate, while Ken Ketcheson phoned to announce the races and J. E. McArthur as presiding judge.

There were no accidents to mar the race program.

Duck Hunters Report Bags Not Too Good

"Some ducks but not too many" was the consensus of a half-dozen hunters contacted after Saturday's opening day shoot.

Blue teal seemed to be in the majority among the flying dinners while some blacks were noted, as were wood-ducks.

Gunfire blasted the morning air early on Saturday while some intrepid hunters apparently blasted off at imaginary ducks long after darkness had set in.

One veteran hunter said he would have liked a "little cloudier. "South wind and a cloudy sky" he quoted "and there's good hunting in the morning".

Ex-alderman Doug Mozzan and son returned with a fair bag of some ten ducks after the morning's hunt. Shooting in the Big Bay area the pair returned with ten which included one black and two wood-ducks, the rest were blue teal.

Fishermen probably saw more ducks than did hunters. Many small flocks, chiefly blacks, were to be seen far out on open water during the afternoon.

Toys, Pencils Taken From Q.V. School

Toys and pencils from the kindergarten room at Queen Victoria School were stolen during the weekend when intruders smashed a school window to gain entrance.

A parcel containing the toys and pencils was found under steps at a nearby former canning factory and investigation to determine the ownership revealed the break-in at the school. The toys and pencils were identified as having come from the beginners' classroom.

Belleville and Brighton police reciprocated in car recovery activities during the weekend. A car stolen here was recovered in Brighton, while Belleville police recovered a car which had been stolen in that centre.

Three Slightly Injured in Two Accidents

Philip Drumm, 137 Ann St., suffered eye and scalp lacerations when struck by a car as he was crossing Bridge Street in the vicinity of the Moira Schuster office.

Police said that Mr. Drumm was attempting to cross from the north to the south side of the street and, after passing between a line of stationary cars stepped into the path of an eastbound vehicle driven by Manson Jones, 20 Murpey Street.

In a second accident occurring Saturday evening, two young girls, Alma Watson, 7, and Judy Aldcasal, suffered slight cuts to head and face when the car in which they were riding collided with another vehicle at the intersection of Bridge and Church Streets.

Police said that W. G. Russ, Alsken Street, was southbound on Church when, after stopping for the stop street, he attempted to cross the intersection and was in collision with an eastbound auto driven by Donald R. Watson, Harriett St. Mr. Watson suffered a cut forehead in the mishap.

MISSING MEN FOUND

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two men missing since Sept. 13 when their plane crashed on a flight in northeastern British Columbia have been found alive and uninjured, RCAF headquarters here said Monday. Pilot Dan Yeager, 35, of Fort Nelson and passenger John Henry Jones, 32, of Edmonton were picked up on Laird River by J. E. Norcross, a Protestant missionary flying a civilian Stinson.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

The first week of the new season has, on Royal Canadian Sea Cadets Corps "Quinte" certainly got off to a flying start with an inspection by the Area Officer, Lt.-Commander J. Jeffries, RCN, accompanied by Lt. D. Davidson, RCN assistant area officer.

Commenting that Sea Cadets were not expected to be just "one of the bunch" but to show above the rest, Lt. Commander Jeffries made several critical observations of the appearance of the cadets on parade. He stated that cadets should always take care of their appearance in public because they are judged outside of the Corps more by their appearance and conduct than by the amount of training which they have mastered.

Inspection of the ship's stores was made and many supplies were ordered to be surveyed (i.e: older items to be taken off the ship's records) and new replacement equipment ordered. A supply of new bayonets for the replacement rifles which the Corps is to get in the future were received.

NEW CADETS WELCOMED

Several new cadets were taken on board during the past week. There is still the opportunity for more boys to join the Corps. Applicants should be between the ages of 14 and 18, inclusive, and in good health. Any lads having a musical or band experience are invited to join as a Sea Cadet band is being planned for this year.

Training nights are held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday parades are held at the Armouries at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle when drill, sports, and shooting are conducted. Thursday evening parades at the South Front Street barracks are devoted to instruction in such subjects as seamanship, naval history and traditions, communications, current affairs, and allied naval topics.

For those lads under 14 years of age, but over 11 years of age, the Sea League Cadets, held at the Sea Cadet barracks on Friday evenings, offer the same advantages of the senior group. Both units are sponsored by the Belleville Ferry League, a member agency of the Belleville United Appeal.

The coming week will see the opening of rifle instruction and practice on the range. A team of marksmen will be trained and selected over the next few weeks to be the Corps' entry in the Commonwealth Sea Cadet competition for the Duke of Edinburgh's Ship's Bell trophy.

Quinte Trap And Gun Club

Three regular members of the Quinte Trap and Gun Club came up with high scores of 25 over the weekend. Dick Rosaile, Dr. M. Walcott and Doug Johnston turned in the 25's.

Other good scores were: Jackie Wardhaugh 24, Doug Day 23, Ski Keogh 22, R. E. McKinnon 22, B. Thomson 22, G. Hammett 22, Ron Walsh 21, C. Gardner 21, V. Card 21, Don Parker 20.

It has also been announced that this Wednesday, September 23, will see the final mid-week shoots of the season.

The club championship shoot will be held on the weekend of September 27th.

W.C.T.U. Holds Rally, Topic 'Cocktails'

The September rally of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Hubbs on the theme "Christian Love and Service". Miss Gilpin led in the devotional, followed by a meditation on the theme by Miss Barnum, who also read a Call to Action organization, based on love and service, to which is inserted "Love is the foundation and heart of the gospel, taught and lived by our Lord. Our duty is to ever love our enemies and to pray for them." and "Love of alcohol problem as "Public enemy No. 1," is the problem most concerned about our youth."

The devotional was taken by Mrs. Coulter, reading 1st John 4:7-21, giving many thoughts on Christian love, setting as an example Paul, who wrote "If meat make my brother to offend, I will eat none while the world standeth."

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was Mrs. Muckiow, who has been a leader in Christian Citizenship, conducted the Bible study period, did personal visiting, the work of the WCTU Conseconn Lake camp. She told of the lovely surroundings, its ideal location by the lake, its recreation and the fine staff for the hot vacation period and the fine staff of leaders. She also told of the cooking, food, and to drink, which excelled other camps she knew and the popular way the meals are supplied snacks after vesper hour. But most of all the Christian love, atmosphere and influence for the girls to "help find themselves."

Miss Horton gave a study on "Cocktails" by the president, Dixon, FRS, MD, lecturer in Pharmacology at University of Saskatchewan. The effects of alcohol contained in a cocktail has a greater effect on the nervous system than either or both times its alcohol content in beer. Cocktails cultivate the habit of drinking as a way and to a degree which, in my opinion, can be caused by one glass of beverage. We implore the Christian hostess not to serve cocktails.

A short business period was conducted by the president who made an appeal for support of the work. There were about 30 in attendance and 14 new members were secured.

Mrs. Acker and Mrs. Coulter will convey with the hostess, Mrs. Coulter, and her helpers serving delicious refreshments.

Eastminster W.F. Begins Fall, Winter Meet

The Woman's Federation of Eastminster United Church held its first meeting of the new season on Monday evening with a good attendance. The meeting opened with prayer after which the president, Mrs. William Jones, extended a cordial welcome to all.

After the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports, business followed the order in which time plans for the forthcoming fall events were discussed and arrange made to be held in the Legion Hall, and the banner was won which is being held in the Kiwanis Centre.

Mrs. Burnham's group conducted the devotional period, the theme being, "Fellow Worker With God." Mrs. Winderow introduced Mrs. Carman Atton who, with her husband, had visited the Holy Land during the last Easter season. Mrs. Atton showed some slides which they had taken and gave an interesting and inspirational details of each. During the showing of these slides, Miss Loretta McDougall sang "In Love to Men," and "Were You There?"

Mrs. Burnham thanked the speaker and Mrs. Alexander and McDowell closed the meeting.

A social get-together followed the meeting.

S.W. Hastings W.A. Rally Meets In Grace Church, Trenton

By MRS. E. CLARY

South West Hastings held its recent annual Women's Auxiliary rally in the Grace United Church, Trenton.

Mrs. Thomas gave a short talk on the Scripture reading, John 4: 7-21, saying: "If we accept God, we must love our fellow men. He who says he hates another does not love Jesus. Love sees not Jesus in the cross—love for us."

Mrs. Fleming, a solo and Mrs. Preston, closed the devotional with prayer.

Mrs. Wilson, president of Grace W.A. welcomed the ladies of Wallbridge and to Grace Church to which Mrs. Baker of King St. replied.

Greetings were also brought from W.A. Presbytery by Mrs. Jackson, president of Belleville Presbytery. She asked all to remember that the first aim of W.M.S., namely prestudies is to deepen the spiritual life of the women of the church, raising money is secondary but important. There should be more volunteer prayer girls. Mrs. Jackson mentioned the new program packet compiled by Dominion Council for the W.A. Each members would find they filled the need for program material and the Clarence Holmes, president of Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S., reported the meeting of the Presbyterial. She had come, she said, to extend the hand of fellowship to God's call to service how much the hand is received of the Lord. We are told to cleanse our hands as well as purity our hearts. Study the Bible well. Develop with our hands: we are the hands of the body of Christ. She also mentioned extending the hand of encouragement and the hand of prayer. Finally, she said, "For she who hath received of the Lord shall hath also given all." Extend the hand of assurance, there is no greater joy than service for the Lord. Into His hand we now commit you."

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. E. Clapp, and the roll call and minutes of meeting and reports of all associations present were read and passed to be adopted.

Mrs. C. W. Sife gave an interesting talk on the splendid work mentioned many publications and literary aids she had on hand.

The reading of the study book higher Christian level. A Christian woman has a message to declare. Are we eager to tell others of the Saviour, or indifferent? Are we using our talents for God in moulding our character and our spiritual life, will help to make effective witnesses in our daily life.

MANY UNTOUCHED LESSONS

Many untouched lessons on the printed page byer touched in a sermon or Sunday School. "Turn not to the left or right" (the Gospel — by living, by doing, and by talking. To be best person is the most difficult, but the most effective. Reading and prayer are the best ways to improve our personalities."

Mrs. Sine quoted from a speech by Ralph Hill, "Stewardship is what you do after you say 'I believe'."

Mrs. Sine wished everyone to understand that her first interest was not to promote the sale of the literature, but to encourage its use in W.A. and personal life.

The ladies assembled in the basement for lunch. A social hour was enjoyed while consuming the box lunch brought by each one.

At the afternoon session the Holloway Street W.A. had charge of the devotional with the theme, "The Power of Choice."

Mrs. Way gave a talk on the Scripture. She asked, "Do we who live in freedom appreciate the privileges of choice? We may be devoutly thankful for our freedom to choose our own religion, our own vocation and even at most times our own military career for only once in our history have we been told we must be conscripted and that was in an emergency.

"Freedom of choice involves responsibility. It always has — After Moses' death, God chose Joshua to lead the Israelites. When Joshua knew that he was nearing the end of his life he wanted to be assured of the future of his people. He said: "Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve."

"We cannot change our parents' heredity, sometimes even our environment, but we can choose how much these things affect us, and how they affect us.

She pointed out as examples to Jane Adams and Al Capone, both children of the same slum district. "Jane spent her life-time on redemption of the human with great success, while Al Capone became the No. 1 wanted criminal of his time.

"In life the current we choose carries us on and on until we have reached the point of no return. We must make sure we are in the right current. It is not the gale but the set of the sail that determines the way you go."

Mrs. Townsend sang a lovely

Holy Rosary Club Plans Fall Bazaar

The September meeting of the Holy Rosary C.W.L. was held in the school with 19 members present. Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, Mrs. J. McGuinn, presiding.

Mrs. W. Lockhart reported 56 paid memberss and Mrs. C. Barrett gave the report of the convention held in Ottawa.

Mrs. A. Eves read a letter regarding the League magazine and Mrs. Campbell urged subscribing to the magazine.

Mrs. A. Farrell gave the spiritual report, and cards of thanks were read.

Plans for the November bazaar were discussed in detail and the convenors named for different duties.

Lunch was served and a social hall hour was spent.

Mrs. Rose said that we must guard against raising fees. We must see that all branches of work of both groups be improved.

We must raise more for home and foreign missions and support schools and hospitals so that all the work of both organizations be carried on. Some branches are unselfish, losing none of their values.

There will be a joint board of men-and women. The men are strictly to raise funds. The women have a contribution to make and it is our responsibility to see that we do. We must expand representation on all boards and committees.

Mrs. Rose stated that this should be a challenge to us to prepare and serve in every way intelligently.

The speaker encouraged questions and answers. Should we be asked to raise a definite percentage? Mrs. Rose said that is no decrease. She added that we, as women, are members of Church Church and should give first to the church and then to organizations and others. After all, it is not our place to judge. We must accept Christ's example and serve Him as women of the church, must prepare our children for their prayers and study.

The president, Miss T. Johnson, thanked Mrs. Rose for her address.

OFFICERS APPOINTED

Mrs. C. H. LaRue gave the report of the nominating committee as follows: past president, Miss T. Johnson, Grace, Trenton; president, Mrs. R. Smith, King St., Trenton; vice-president, Mrs. Mac Nobes, Grace; secretary, Mrs. T. T. Young, White's W.A.; treasurer, Mrs. R. T. Ketcheson, Wallbridge.

The Reverend G. A. Puttenham installed the officers officially.

GOOD EVENING:

One of a Theatre manager's greatest pleasures is to stand in the foyer to shyly and greet and talk to the patrons after they have seen a really good picture; to have them tell him how thoroughly they enjoyed coming to the theatre and seeing that special picture.

This gratification at happiness started last Wednesday when "South Pacific" opened at the Belle Theatre and has continued ever since.

Everything about this picture is a great blending of talent and production ability, and I can only compare it to the feeling of those who saw and loved "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

It will be playing tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday, so plan to see it soon . . . You might want to come back a second time, as many are doing.

Sincerely,

Gene Graham

Court Applications of Act Bring More Harm Than Good Report of Social Worker

By DON PELOCKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A Montreal social worker reports that a study of the early years of a juvenile court application of the Juvenile Delinquents Act—intended especially to protect children—has actually brought more harm than good to a family.

"Putting one member of a family legally in prison seldom helps the family," Miss Dorothy McGill University social worker told the annual meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council in Ottawa.

"The petition seldom lies in punishing one member without treating the family as a whole. Pre - sentence evaluation and work with the entire family is recommended whether or not there is a conviction."

WHITE'S W.A.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — September meeting of White's W.A. Association was held at the home of Mrs. R. Ketcheson with a good attendance of members and one new member.

The 1st vice-president, Mrs. William Thompson, presided.

Mrs. L. Young was the devotional leader. The Scripture, Matthew 22:34-46 was read by Mrs. O. Ghent. "Prayer Means to Me", was read by Mrs. L. Young, followed by prayer.

It was announced that a missionary get-together be planned for each year with missionary program prepared by Mrs. Gariepy's mother, Mrs. Robert Chatterson, of Brighton, a "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Ross Ward, a "bon voyage" to Corporal and Mrs. Hal Hicks and children, Brenda and Barbara Ann, who are leaving for Germany.

Among those present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chatterson, Mrs. Gariepy's cottage, Roblin Lake, to report on Hubbard Squash is pictured being prepared for freezing in the Experimental Kitchens of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Mary Moore was present and a member of the panel when frozen squash was being test-tasted, and gives you the panel's findings today.

Frozen Squash Taste Panel At Canada's Experimental Kitchen

I have been in the Experimental Kitchens of the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. The Supervisor of the kitchens, Miss Gertrude Gerlach, and one of her technicians, Betty Brown, were tasting squash which had been frozen in December of 1958.

So here we were in September 1959, a taste panel of six including Miss Laura Pepper, the Chief, three Home Economists, one experienced tester from outside and myself — ready to judge results.

Each piece, and marked with the number to correspond with the item.

So when the samples were brought to the taste panel in groups of three we got to know them for texture, flavor and doneness, without knowing of course, which sample had been subjected to what treatment.

Those of you who have freezers in your kitchens and who have Hubbard squashes ripening in your gardens or available on your markets, will be grateful to hear the results of the judging.

The squash which 1) had been cut into serving pieces, precooked 15 minutes, cooled before packing in polyethylene bags and 2) frozen (in this case for 1 year with a long forest) and 3) thawed in storage section of refrigerator overnight and 4 taken from polyethylene bag and baked on shallow pans at 400 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes — this was the unanimous choice of the judging panel.

The points to remember then to freeze Hubbard squash are 1) Cut into serving pieces, steam on top of stove in pan on rack with small amount of water until barely tender, about at 400 deg. 15 minutes covered. 2) Cool and pack skin sides facing into poly bags, press out the air, twist top tightly and fold over, fasten snugly with elastic. 3) When preparing to serve thaw in storage part of refrigerator overnight or at room temperature for 3 hours. 4) Bake on shallow pan with water for 25 minutes, or until tender at 400 deg. Fahr. brushing with butter during last 15 minutes.

This information comes from the most authoritative source in Canada — the Experimental Kitchens of the Consumer's Service of the Department of Agriculture, with Miss Laura Pepper as their Chief — and beloved guide and counsellor. You can depend on it.

Experimental Kitchens approximate baking times: Frozen; 400 deg. 50 minu.; 375 deg. 1 hour; 350 deg. 70 min. Thawed; 400 deg. 25 min., 375 deg. 30 min., 350 deg. 35 min.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . .
AN ENDEARING HABIT

A very special grace is the endearing habit some people have of always remembering to send their greetings (or wishes) with or "love" or "salutations" or "kindness" is appropriate) to a member or the members of your family when they are about to leave after seeing you. Some people always remember this amenity, inevitably, after their goodby to us, they graciously add, "And do give my love to your mother, and very best wishes". And the melody of this thought lingers on. P.S.: Why don't you adopt this appealing habit right now, at the beginning of the new season, when you will be meeting and greeting many friends after vacationing? You will enjoy acquiring this habit.

SHOULD FLOWER GIRLS STAND IN RECEIVING-LINE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to have two flower girls and a little page boy the 15 not in the ring-bearer's) at our wedding party. I dearly love these three lovely children who are members of their cousins of mine, whom I also love dearly. And of course I want everything to go smoothly at my wedding. But, alas, I've come upon a problem, and I'm wondering if I am right. It just had never occurred to me to have the two little flower girls and the page boy stand in the receiving-line at the reception. This seems to me rid-iculous, most inconvenient, and probably would require a lot of "carrier fee". But I've been told that the mothers of the children insist that they do, or else they? — Bride-to-be

You are right . . . flower girls are born for ring-bearers) do not stand in the receiving-line at the reception. It is a most important adult procedure. And, as you say, having these children in it would indeed mean too much "caring for." I am sure your caring will understand this when you explain it to them graciously and directly.

SHOULD FIRST TOAST BE "TO THE BRIDE" OR "TO THE BRIDE AND GROOM"?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've often read or heard that the first toast at the wedding reception is toast "To the Bride." And it seems to me that just as often I've read or been told that the first toast at the wedding reception is the toast "To the Bride and Groom." Now that I'm making plans for my own wedding, will you tell us, please, which is correct — To the Bride — To the Bride and Groom?

Actually either toast is correct. It is the toast "To the Bride" and groom to decide which they prefer and inform the host (and so wonderful it is to have the honor of announce this most important first toast.) Personally I think it's more appropriately romantic to have the toast "To the Bride" — To the Bride-groom" since this is their wedding.

WEDDING GIFTS AT FIVE-DOLLAR PRICE RANGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is recently out of the service least we have just been married. Because of family responsibilities on both sides, we're starting out on a very limited budget. We've just been invited to the wedding of dear friends of ours, and we want to give them a wedding present. But we can't afford more than $5. Would we look too cheap giving such an expensive present? Would it be better if we didn't try to give them anything? Or perhaps we could think of something they might like? We'd be so grateful for your help. — Mrs. J. M.

I'd like to suggest that you and your husband do give these dear friends a wedding present, and I am sure they will appreciate your circumstances, and value so much more the thought you put into your gift. How about 4 or 5 table mats, so decorative these days and so wonderful when a card particularly the plastic ones?

Dish towels and small guest towels are always welcome. And so are medium-size trays, pretty tea trays, for example. And it's your local department store you will find many to give suggestions for "just the right" gift, and I assure you, a wide choice in the price range you mention.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. Names and some problems have been dealt with by responsible secretaries and counsellors.

Rose R. — She should stop working now that she has the money.

Ethel L. — But I'm used to working.

Rose E. — My sister and I are in our mid-50's and grandmothers. I have been more fortunate in my marriage. My husband has done well financially, but sister's husband never has done well and never will. My sister has worked most of their married life, even when her children were young.

Our father died recently leaving us each a nice sum of money which could bring a fair return if it is well invested. I was very happy for my sister because I felt that at last she'd be able to stop working.

Instead Ethel says she wants to give each of her children substantial gifts and buy a new car. The car is being mainly by her husband for his business. She feels "needed" as I was by with her husband. Our father left this money for her. She owes it to her memory not to squander it around.

Ethel L. — Rose has always been bitter and resentful toward my husband because I married him instead of somebody else. She "needed" me as I was her husband's brother. He too has been very successful financially and Rose has not had the opportunity to let me know she feels I made a big mistake.

But I don't regret my marriage. My husband has been unlucky in business, but we've never lacked to get along. The only thing I regret is that we weren't able to do much for our children when they got married. Well, now I have a chance to make up for it.

I know Father agreed with Rose about my husband, but he didn't specify in his will that he wanted me to do anything special with the money so I feel I have a right to do as I please. I am used to working and I want to keep it up as long as my health holds out.

The Council: Rose is an extremely overbearing person and all wrong in this affair. It is definitely not her business and analyze her sister's marital and economic situation, or to hand down judgments.

Women like Rose, who are seething with criticisms, grievances and annoyances about others, need to look inward not outward for the source of their unhappiness. They tend to project on others the restlessness and anxiety they feel. They want to straighten out the lives of others but can do nothing with their own.

Ethel appears to be of sound mind and certainly has sufficient reason to know what she wants out of life. We get the strong impression that she has had her share happiness out of her marriage than Rose has had out of marriage to her successful husband.

It is impossible to read into the case the source of Rose's difficulty. We can only say that she feels about her father's memory. Undoubtedly her father hoped it would contribute to her welfare and he judged she is the sole judge of what that involves.

Indian Women Asserting Right of Equality With Men

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—A silent revolution is taking place behind the walled courtyards and latticed windows of Indian homes. Women are asserting their right of equality with men.

Perhaps nothing dramatizes this more than the fact that a Hindu woman has just become India's first female paratrooper. Miss Gita Chanda of the Indian Air Force has proceeded from the headlines overnight.

Until now, the ambition of educated girls in India was to become doctors, professors or members of the privileged Indian administrative service, patterned after the high-efficient British-trained Indian Civil Service. Only last month a Bombay woman became the state's first district commissioner. Today, many college girls plan to join the air force and become paratroopers.

Two women have just become junior judges. The number of women ministers in the central and state cabinets has been steadily increasing. The most outstanding among these up-and-coming women politicians is Mrs. Laxmi Menon, deputy minister for external affairs.

NEHRU'S PINUP

A former college professor, Mrs. Menon is one of Prime Minister Nehru's "finds." Young and able, she has justified the expectations of Nehru and the Congress party.

Mrs. Menon — no relative of V. K. Krishna Menon, the defence minister—has, not only one of the prime ministers, borne the brunt of the current India-China controversy. She dispatches for Nehru in Parliament and is a match for such brilliant opposition critics as Mrs. Renu Chakravarty (Communist).

The Nehru cabinet does not have a full-fledged woman minister of cabinet rank, but there are hopes that Nehru will not wait long before appointing one.

There is a proposal to appoint more women governors of states. The success of Mme. Padmaja Naidu as governor of the turbulent state of West Bengal is cited by women's organizations and journals to press female claims on the administrative machinery.

West Bengal is, next only to Kerala, the country's most difficult area. Calcutta, its capital, has just passed through a wave of Communist-organized riots.

SOCIAL IMPACT

But the awakened women of India are not interested in administration and politics only. Their impact is being felt more in the social sphere.

Enlightened women are organizing themselves to fight such lingering social evils as child marriage and "unequal allowance."

Recently, women foiled the attempt of a 66-year-old widower to wed a 13-year-old girl. Shouting slogans, they raided the office of the registrar of civil marriages and compelled the aging groom to liberate his prospective bride.

In a village called Dhanora Parkar in Bombay state women organized a Gandhi-type passive-resistance program to compel drunkard husbands and brothers to give up liquor. They refused to cook, wash clothes and sweep their houses. The program was described as a "general success."

India's first all-women factory has gone into full production in Poona city. Its general manager says women workers contribute to "greater efficiency and smoother industrial relations."

The Hubbard squash had been prepared in pieces for serving and frozen in polyethylene bags. Half of the batch was frozen. Half had been steamed in pans 15 minutes and then frozen.

The tests included 12 variations: 1) The raw frozen squash transferred to the oven without thawing; these samples were baked in 3 different ovens at 350 deg. F., 375 deg. F., and 400 deg. F. 2) Raw frozen squash first thawed before baking but at the same three temperatures as No. 1. 3) Steamed frozen squash was transferred to three ovens without thawing and baked at the same three temperatures as No. 1. 4) Steamed frozen squash was thawed and then baked at the same three temperatures as No. 1.

Every sample was carefully numbered. For instance "A one a" was the designation of the frozen raw squash baked at 350 deg. F. "A one b" was the frozen raw squash baked at 375 deg. Commuter Service Seems To Be Answer to Bus Problem

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—Small foreign station wagons shuttling out of the main downtown district are this city's answer to the thorny problem of red-ink bus transportation.

The tiny wagons—Volkswagens or English Thames—are painted bright red, get up to 30 miles to the gallon and can accommodate as many as a dozen passengers in a pinch.

They run roughly from sunup to sundown on half-hour schedules between downtown Bay City and six major outlying residential areas. The fares: 20 cents one way for adults, 10 cents for children under 12 years of age. There are no transfers.

The city commission turned to Morland S. Hibbler's Bay City commuter service last fall as a last resort after failing to come up with an answer for continuing regular bus service.

Baicer Brothers Motor Coach Company, whose buses had operated here since 1921, pulled its vehicles off city streets in May, 1958, after rolling up a 10-year deficit of more than $132,000.

Baicer had seen its passenger volumes drop from a high of 7,350,000 in 1946 to just over 2,000,000 in 1957, and it was going deeper in the red despite a series of fare increases.

VOTERS REJECT PLAN

The city commissioners went to the voters with a guaranteed subsidy plan, but the voters overwhelmingly rejected the proposal.

Meanwhile, this city of more than 28,000 was without bus service of any kind. The people complained, the shoppers and merchants protested.

Then Hibbler organized his commuter corporation, bought an English station wagon, outlined six routes, and won commission approval for a 90-day trial period.

Hibbler started with one bus, and it caught on. Under his temporary franchise he sold five other routes to independent operators on condition that they pay him $1 a day each bus for franchise rights, purchase and maintain their own buses, and line up to commuter's provisions with the city.

Explains Hibbler: "The volume of patrons is so small, and our margin of profit so slim, that you couldn't make this service go unless its operators owned and drove their own vehicles to cut overhead."

The corporation plays fair with its operators. Each week, routes are rotated so that every operator runs over each of the six different routes in regular rotation.

ROUTES PAY OFF

"This way we let everybody get in on the runs with the best volume, and then take their turn on those that aren't being used so much," Hibbler says. "It works out pretty well."

The plan has worked out so well, in fact, that Hibbler won commission approval for a three-year franchise running through June, 1962. And he reports that the routes are paying off. "Nobody is going to get rich," he comments, "but on the other hand, nobody is getting poor either.

"We have an operation that is flexible enough to be adjusted to meet changing needs. Our buses will continue to run, at a low investment and at low operating costs, so long as and wherever people want them."

Vatican Sources Deny Conflict Between Clergy

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Vatican sources Friday night denied any conflict had arisen between Pope John and high American clergy over the merits of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

The sources were commenting on left-wing newspaper reports here that high Catholic dignitaries had been irked by a papal speech Wednesday welcoming the Soviet-American "summit."

Pope John, addressing a general audience at his summer residence at nearby Castel Gandolfo, said Catholics should look upon "initiatives" like the Khrushchev-Eisenhower meeting "with interest" and pray that they lead to "peace on earth to men of goodwill" and "bear earthly and social fruit for the human race."

The sources said tonight that "private, of American or other nationality, had ever opposed the idea of President Eisenhower and Khrushchev meeting.

Two Horses Tied to Meter Get Tickets

HAVERHILL, Mass. (AP) — A traffic policeman tagged two horses for overtime parking Thursday.

When patrolman Anthony M. Cardoza found the two riding horses tied to a time-expired parking meter he scratched his head, wet his pencil and made out a ticket. After considering which horse should get the ticket, he decided he would have to make out two.

"One of the horses sort of resented my action," he said, after he tied the tickets on the bridle.

About that time, the two riders discovered what was going on, came out of the luncheon where they were having coffee, and persuaded the policeman to take the tickets back.

FRANKFORD

Wood Load Pins Man, Injures Leg

FRANKFORD — A Frankford man, Mr. Harold Lemoine, who is employed at Williams and Williams, Trenton, is at his home suffering from a badly bruised leg and foot caused at an accident which occurred while he was unloading wood on Tuesday at the plant.

Mr. Lemoire was handling the wood, which is bound by metal bands, and is used for crating the aluminium windows made by the Williams and Williams firm for shipment to various destinations, when one of the bands became undone, and the heavy heap of wood fell to the ground with Mr. Lemoire pinned underneath.

Dr. W. Weaver was sent for and treated Mr. Lemoine before he was sent to his home.

MARITIME MUSICIANS HIT JACKPOT—It took a long time but band leader Jerry Messer from Teweddide, N.B., ritably hit the jackpot The violinist-leader has landed a year's contract for a weekly television show on the CBC's national network Monday night. The 35-year-old Messer started his career in 1930 and in 1939, landed on CBC national network from Charlottetown as "Don Messer and His Islanders." The group has broadcast weekly ever since and Maritime viewers have seen them on TV for four years. This summer the "Islanders" replaced the western style musical TV program Country Hoedown for eight weeks and wound up with a year's contract. In this photo, Messer (with violin) leads the group while singer - guitarist Charlie Chamberlain (right) keeps an eye on him. (CP Photo).

Tips About Wading Equipment

Our larger trout streams and bass rivers are being tended more and more each year by anglers. Many, a great many, of these fishers wear boots. Most of the remainder wear waders, and a few are content to wear old clothes and "wade wet." I used to wear the upper type waders. Now that rubber waders were readily available, and if there is a more unsuitable, unpractical way to fish, I can't imagine what it would be.

Of course, boots are inadequate for say but the smaller trout streams. To get around a three-trout stream or a bass river with any degree of satisfaction you need waders. Here is the answer, breast-high waders. These come in a variety of prices, from the cheap plastic jobs to the more expensive tailored garments turned out by a firm in California.

Waders come either with boot feet attached or with stocking-type feet, if you find the latter they take a bit longer to put on and take off, but, once on, they are the more comfortable and most easy of fit that you can't get in the boot foot type. Waders generally have the distressing tendency to become damp inside from condensation. Sometimes this feeling can be turned inside-out and dried. Almost invariably the boot foot waders require a deal of fussing to have them even reasonably dry.

The type of material in your waders should depend on the fishing you do. If you cover a lot of ground (which inescapably involves walking) through a certain amount of brush get the heavy-duty type made of cloth and rubber. If, like me, you are content with one or two pools, get the lightweight ones of pure rubber. They won't last as long as the heavy ones but they are far more comfortable.

GET GOOD FIT

The way a pair of waders fits you can make all the difference in the world comfortable. When you buy a pair, try them on in the store. Be sure the foot fits comfortably over a pair of light-weight socks and a pair of heavy woolen condensation socks. Next see that there is plenty of knee room. Waders that bind your knees are an abomination; also they are extra likely to spring leaks for lack of ventilation.

Make sure that the inseam of your waders is long enough so that the crotch is not too low, where it belongs instead of being halfway between your hip and your knee. If the crotch is too low, fit as it should you will have little comfort while fishing.

Last but not least, make sure that there is plenty of loose material in the waders around the hips. Looseness here makes for ventilation, and lets up tough wading. Another thing — good waders come equipped with a pocket inside the front. Some of the makers of waders today tend to skimp on material, and to eliminate the necessary pocket, giving you as little as possible for your money. Make sure you get what you pay for.

The matter of foot gear for wading is what might be called a moot question. Those who come on fairly smooth soles, sloped soles, or felt soles. How anybody can wade safely in rubber soles, cleated or not, is beyond me. I simply cannot stand up in the things. I would just as leave try to wade while wearing roller skates as to do so with rubber soles. Of course, you can always wear "creepers", which look and function somewhat like tire chains, but they are fairly clumsy for walking.

The other day I was reading an article about outdoor clothes and equipment and the author, who should know better, hailed, and stated, fat-positively, that felt soles were the one and the only right sort for fishing in a trout stream. That fellow's thinking needs some revision.

SOFT-IRON HOBS

Every year we have fishermen brought here by simple our trout fishing. All of them bring felt-soled shoes. Moreover, they attribute all the alleged virtues of these things at great length. If the stream are at all high, we — my son and I — spend our days helping these fat-headed amateurs across fast-water riffles. What do we wear? Leather and canvas sneakers which have heavy leather soles equipped with soft-iron hobs. And note that I said "soft-iron", not steel. Steel hobs are far too hard and the rocks can't bite into them. Thus, they slip and you take a duckling.

If you are a felt-sole addict (and you probably are) there is another sort that has felt soles and leather heels. The uppers are of leather and canvas and the soles are fairly light. The heels are studded with soft-iron hobs. It makes a pretty good compromise between lightness and security.

The felt sole is too fussy about footgear for wading. However, I do like to stay dry during the course of a fishing day. I've tried 'em all — boots, boots and creepers, felt soles, leather soles, leather brogues with felt soles, hob-studded sandals, the lot. The only style in which I am reasonably assured of staying dry all day is while wearing brogues studded with soft-iron hobs. If you haven't done so, try a pair and see if I'm not right.

Driver Misses Death in Speedboat Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mira Slovak, driver Wahoo to victory Sunday in a near-tragic finish to the President's Cup speedboat regatta.

Don Wilson, at the controls of Miss U.S. 1 of Detroit, was hurled unconscious into the Potomac River at the start of the last of five three-mile laps but survived through the swift action of a rescue crew.

Wilson, who won the President's Cup last year in George Simon's Miss U.S. 1, was quickly fished out of the river and carried by launch and ambulance to a hospital. He later recovered consciousness and appeared to be out of danger. He suffered a concussion and was gashed about the face and shoulders.

Slovak, 23-year-old Czech refugee, completed the closing lap of the 15-mile heat in Bill Boeing's Seattle boat.

Unofficially a first and second Saturday, Wahoo earned the cup with a total of 1,100 points.

Miss U.S. 1, which won twice on opening day, was second with 800. Miss Detroit had 734.

Heavy Hauls Thorimbert of St. Louis, Sask., caught a prize 21-pound, 10-ounce lake trout in Waskesin last summer. The lake holds an annual competition for the biggest catch and Saskatchewan is disappointed if the prize-winner is under 35 pounds.

Large northern pike, walleye, pickerel and perch also swim in the deep lakes and streams.

Some fishermen like the plush accommodation of the luxury lodges such as those on Reindeer Lake.

Others can be found roughing it on sand points in Cree Lake, 355 miles north of Prince Albert—with only the Cree guide, a boat and plenty of tackle as company.

President Eisenhower's brother Earl, chose the latter as his vacation spot this summer. At about the same time, Prime Minister Diefenbaker was catching a half-dozen grayling at Stony Rapids, east of Lake Athabasca near the Northwest Territories border.

AIRPLANE THE KEY

Air travel unlocked the North's fishing. Arctic Char is taken as his via aircraft and charters planes to fly American sportsmen in from Edmonton.

Owner Fred Lockhart said he has had visitors by 1,000 guests this season. His lodge is "a colony of 20 buildings in the middle of 83 lakes and 43 includes Cree guides.

Last year Lockhart, who comes from Duluth, Minn., had only three cabins.

Private pastures are often more numerous than cars in the Lac La Ronge area, 180 miles north of Prince Albert. As many as 100 are lined up there at the height of the season.

The four-month season ends in late September.

Don Messer Little Bewildered By Success of 'Islanders'

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—There's been a lot of "doozy-dos" between the five-and - dime store in Boston years ago and Don Messer's present national television show.

Smiling Don, 50, is a little bewildered by the success of his eight-member orchestra, the "Islanders." It's also cut the CBC national television network last month as a summer replacement for Country Hoedown, for a run of eight weeks.

Network officials said viewer response was "terrific," and Don Messer's Islanders now has a 26-week national TV contract.

The violinist - leader of the group says its appeal is toe-tapping "music of the people." He cringes at the word hill-billy. Some critics have called it "sophisticated corndust."

EARLY START

Messer was seven years old when he played at his first barn dance in his native Tweedside, N.B. Nine years later he moved to Boston to live with an aunt, and took a job as a dime-store clerk. He was the store's assistant manager in 1930 when he decided to return to New Brunswick to pursue his musical career in earnest.

He organized his first orchestra, the New Brunswick Lumberjacks. Their syncopation got them work in places in New York and Boston and an appearance on the Major Bowes Amateur Hour. But the Depression lasted long and the depression dollars slow in coming.

Messer says he was glad to accept a salary of $12.50 a week from an old-time band at Charlottetown's station CFCY in 1939. With him went two of the Lumberjack originals, portly, step-dancing tenor Charlie Chamberlain of Bathurst, N.B., and versatile pianist Jullus "Jake" Nelson, of Woodstock, N.B.

CBC radio listeners first heard Don Messer and the Islanders on the network in 1939. They've been there with weekly shows ever since. Maritime viewers have watched them on a regional television network for four years.

Radio, television, recording dates, rehearsals and dance hall commitments fill the week for the Islanders. The tightest schedule belongs to clarinet player Roe Simmons, Waldo Munro, pianist, and CBC MacEachern, violin and guitar, who commute between their homes in Charlottetown and weekly radio and TV dates in Halifax.

Songwriter Mary Osburn, a native of Moncton, lives in nearby Dartmouth, where her husband manages a hotel. Warren MacRae and Messer on violin complete the group.

PLAY OWN MUSIC

Messer composes and arranges much of the music the group plays, although three of the members can't read a note. His tune "Breakdown" was one of those the Queen danced to at an Ottawa square dance in 1951.

Royal fever, the road to success and 15,000 complimentary letters a year haven't swayed the group.

"We are very humble in this ... It's very nice, of course," Don says. "We want to be the same as always. In this business you're sometimes in today and maybe out tomorrow."

Messer and the band are happiest when they "bring the house down." They've done it many a time, and once literally.

That was in Hopewell, P.E.I., when the pillars in a hall toppled over under the impact of top "toe-tmains let." Dancers merely kissed the pillars out the windows and kept right on "toetmaining."

Lords, Dutchies Win in ORFU

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Lords moved into first-place tie with Sarnia Saturday handing the Golden Rebels their second straight loss in Ontario Rugby Football Union senior game at Sarnia.

Third-place Kitchener Waterloo-Dutchmen defeated the winless Detroit Raiders Sunday in the other weekend action.

Quarterback Lorne converted touchdowns in the second quarter to beat Sarnia 14-6. Though the Lords have a 4-2 record second, Sarnia with a four-point win Saturday, has 12 points on a 5-3 record; the Lords are 6-1.

BLAST DETROIT

The Dutchies overwhelmed Detroit 30-7. All games in Detroit are four-pointers because the Raiders play only three home games this season, so the win moved Kitchener to only four points behind the league leaders.

London touchdowns were made by Larry Aldrich on a 45-yard pass from quarterback Jerry Thompkins and by Ron King. Earl Kaiser converted both.

London made 18 first downs and Sarnia 12. Ledyard tried 20 passes for the Lords and completed seven, with one interception. Thompkins completed 20 passes for the Lords and completed 11, with two interceptions.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Strong Boy, owned by J.E. Frowde Seagram of Waterloo, Ont., won the $7,500 Fall Stakes at Old Woodbine Park Saturday, defeating Tadoussac by a head in two heats. Jerry Evarts finished third, four lengths behind the winner.

It was the first stakes victory of the season for the long-famed Seagram stable which dominated Canadian racing for the first 30 years of this century.

Strong Boy, responding brilliantly to the urgings of jockey Avellino Gomez, ran the mile in 1:36 3-5, only two-fifths of a second behind Grey Monarch's Canadian record.

Furgo Takes El Paso Open

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Marty Furgol of Coghill, Ill., posted a seven-under-par 65 in the final round Sunday to win the $20,000 El Paso open golf tournament by two strokes.

He played six under par on the front nine, taking the lead from Bob Rosburg of Midland, Tex., and Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla.

Vossler finished with a 70 to tie for second money with Jay Hebert of Lanford, Fla., at 277 for 72 holes. Hebert had a 68 Sunday, including his second hole in one in as many days—on the 170-yard third hole.

Thelen Keeps Scoring Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fullback Dave Thelen of Ottawa Rough Riders scored three touchdowns in a 43-6 victory over Montreal Alouettes Saturday to keep the leadership in the Big Four Football Union scoring race.

The spurt kept Thelen, with 43 points, six ahead of Hamilton's Ron Howell who counted three touchdowns Sunday as Tiger-Cats stopped Toronto Argonauts 34-17.

Bobby Simpson of Ottawa scored two touchdowns against Als and is third with 36 points.

East Regains Soccer Crown

TORONTO (CP) — Osvaldo de Brasi, 22 - year - old native of Buenos Aires, gave Canadian Varsitettes of Montreal a 3-2 victory over Westminster Royals Sunday to retain the Canadian soccer championship to Eastern Canada after a two-year lapse.

Royals, defending champions, were run almost ragged by the brilliance of the husky Italian who broke goal 34 minutes from the finish capped the two-goal lead he had ahead on goals by Art Hughes and Angie Edwards.

Hector Dudderio broke the ice for the losers 20 minutes and Scottish born Johnny Davidson brought the teams back on even terms six minutes later.

Field Gains On Ernie Pitts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fullback Johnny Bright of Edmonton moved into fifth spot in the individual scoring race in the Western Interprovincial Football Union as the second game ended Saturday night in Eskimos' 32-0 victory over the winless Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Placement kicker Vic Kristo-vich boosted his point total to 43 field goal in B.C. Lions' 17-6 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers to pick up ground on leader Ernie Pitts of Bombers, who went scoreless. Bomber quarterback Jim Van Pelt scored all of Bombers' points on two touchdowns to consolidate his hold on third place.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Colorful Ron Gagnon, once a "mortal foeman" Belleville fandom who led the Whitby Dunlops to an Allan Cup and world title, will wear a McFarlands uniform this season, playing coach Ike Hildebrand informed this department over the weekend.

Possibly a bit slower than in his halcyon years with the Dunnies, the big rugged player has a lot of hockey left, especially between the ears and should be an asset to the 1959-60 edition of the Macs.

Ray Partridge, big blonde forward of the now-defunct Kingston Merchants, announced his willingness to play with the Macs and has been sent a card to sign. So has Jerry Toppazzini who performed with Kingston last year.

Hildebrand said he has high hopes of getting the services of Jacques Caron, goalkeeping sensation with the Peterborough Junior "A" squad last year, who has been trying out with the Leafs, and recently sent to the Sudbury team of the new Eastern Pro League. However, according to Hildebrand, the Sudbury squad has plenty of goalie talent and it is more than likely Caron will be secured by the Macs.

Billy Colvin, high-scoring forward of Kingston, has already signed on the dotted line. So has Gordie Bell-"Wiener" Brown, Floyd Crawford are said ready to ink the papers while Minnie Menard, who is on the Cleveland Barons' option list is attending the American League team's training camp.

Hildebrand who had high hopes of getting Mary Edwards, the goalie who did such a fine job relieving Gordie Bell during the European junket last March, said he was disappointed as Edwards' father is one farmer, who doesn't have it that the goalie has signed with the Kitchener Dutchmen and will accompany that team to the Olympics.

Incidentally the Dutchmen open the league schedule here on October 23 with the Macs going back to Kitchener the next night. As was reported the Macs will play a 48-game schedule with the rest turning in 54 games. Eight of the games with the Dutchies will be worth four points, but these four-pointers include the last eight games in the schedule.

Jean Paul Lamirande's departure from the Macs to take over as playing coach of the Windsor Bulldogs, leaves a hole in the McFarland rearguard brigade, but Hildebrand told this corner he was under negotiations with a player, whose name cannot be divulged at the moment. The big fellow won't hurt the Macs' defence corps in the least.

BOXING

The Belleville Boxing Association opens what it hopes will be a successful fall and winter season tonight with an attractive card on tap at Memorial Arena. The first of a series of four preliminary bouts gets under way at eight o'clock with four outstanding semi-finals and matches of main-bout calibre rounding out the show.

Headlining the show will be the five-round bout between Jack "Rocky" Lucas of Belleville and Joey Leroy of Hamilton. Ontario lightweight champion. Rocky was declared the last home and has been training hard and well and tonight will come up with the fight of his life.

Another fine local mittman, Barry Parsons, headlines the second five-rounder, clashing with Jimmy Fred Richardson of Hamilton. Barry is one of the BBA's better fight prospects and this bout should be a thriller, as will that between Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa and Johnny Bay of Hamilton. This is a rematch grudge fight and should be worth the price of admission. Another Belleville fighter, "Muggy" Dean, makes his ring debut tonight in a bout with Junior White of Oshawa. Bob Temple has been named as the association's white club president and Jack Fitzgerald and his partners, Jim Totten and George Polmanter have secured a competent panel of judges.

...ron TV's dropped their se-...ion-run decision in a row to ...ville Booths, 5-4 affair, at CNSA Park Saturday, afternoon to tow out of the OSSA tentam "A" semi-finals.

The two tricky matched clubs battled on even terms throughout the game and it not until the top of the seventh and final frame on one out while walking three in that the visitors posted across the decisive marker.

Leadoff batter Harry Hamil opened the seventh inning with a triple right down the ...sing with a triple right down the third-base foul line, the drive kicking up chalk as it hit. Pitcher Bob Pugh then drove in his own winning run with a fly ball to right field as the throw was taken on the first base side of the plate in a nip and tuck play. Culhane's scrappy crew had scored single runs in the first and second frames and netted a pair in the fifth to tie the score at 4-4. Earlier runs by Willowdale came in pairs, in the second and fourth innings.

Windmiller Bob Pugh let the Belleville club down on four hits over the distance, three of these coming in the last three outings. He nipped nine on third strikes but gave up half a dozen free passes.

Al Mott toiled in a losing cause, touched for seven hits over the ...s. He claimed five men ...a well-pitched ball game.

Mott drew a base-on-balls in the initial stanza and later scored on Jim Rutherford's double to left field, followed by a wild pitch. That ...ounded the scoring until the seventh.

Doug Hanson had two singles and a walk in three trips to lead the winners at the plate. Harry Hamil had a triple while one baggers went to Pugh, Gary Marsh, Bob Booth and Bob Taylor.

Indians Still Breathing; Dodgers Lead National

Los Angeles has wrested the National League lead from San Francisco Giants but Milwaukee is breathing down the Dodgers' necks only half a game back.

Warren Giles, the National League president, might as well start flipping coins and drawing plans for a playoff. If his race doesn't wind up in a two-way or even three-way deadlock, he will be a lucky man.

Sunday's 9-3 Los Angeles victory knocked the Giants from a first-place tie into third place, a full game behind. Both the Dodgers and Giants have five games to play, all on the road.

They will switch opponents for three final games next weekend.

AIM FOR TOP

Meanwhile Milwaukee Braves, 5 - 5 winners over Philadelphia Sunday, have six to go. They can tie the idle Dodgers tonight if they can beat Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers completed a three-game sweep over the Giants in the final series to be played at Seals Stadium. If the Giants come back to win two games, they expect to play the series in their new stadium.

Pittsburgh clinched fourth place Sunday when Vern Law won his 18th, a 7-3 decision over Cincinnati. Dick Stuart led the Pirates with four singles.

St. Louis came from behind with an extra base barrage to whip Chicago, 7-5.

The Giants two - game lead vanished Saturday when the Dodgers took a doubleheader, scores 4-1 and 5-3. In other Saturday games Milwaukee defeated the Phillies 9-3, St. Louis beat Chicago 2-1 and Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 4-3.

SNIDER OPENS LEAD

With Johnny Podres opposing Sam Jones in Saturday's game, Duke Snider got the Dodgers off to an early lead with his 25th homer. The Dodgers chased Jones and added another in the second, two more in the seventh and sewed it up with four in the ninth. Larry Sherry, Sandy Koufax and finally Clem Labine followed Podres.

Labine had the bases loaded with nobody out in the ninth but struck out Frank Thomas, Leon Wagner and got Eddie Bressoud to bounce into a game-ending double play.

Mickey Vernon sparked a fifth inning rookie - laden rally that beat the Phillies. The Braves saw a 3-3 tie disappear when Carl Sawatski hit a two-run homer in the eighth. Vernon's single drove in the first Brave run in the ninth and the second scored when Harry Anderson fumbled the ball. Bobby Avila knocked in the third run off Robin Roberts with a single.

Henk Aaron's 39th homer in the fourth and Eddie Mathews' 41st with a man on in the third helped build up a 4-0 lead for Warren Spahn, who was relieved in the seventh by Don McMahon after Ernie Banks' two-run homer had made it 5-3.

Frank Lane says he stays until the club is eliminated mathematically. Since he said that, the Indians have won three straight.

Just suppose Cleveland wins its last five games and Chicago loses its four. Would Lane let Gordon manage in the world series? Or would Gordon be entitled to fire Lane?

Of course, that's all hypothetical. With a 3½-game lead, all Chicago has to do is win one more and they can do no worse than tie, for combination of the White Sox victories or Cleveland defeats and it should be all over.

FAVORS CLEVELAND

However, the schedule runs in favor of the Indians the rest of the way with all their games at home while the Sox are on the road. Losing on Tuesday night is the big one with Chicago at Cleveland in the history behind. Moosil, Sherm Lollar homered for the Sox.

Cleveland squeezed past Kansas City 4-3 with the help of Herb Score's 10th victim and Tito Francona. Actually, Woody Held's single drove in Rocky Colavito with the winning run in the eighth.

TOP PITCHING

Camilo Pascual pitched his sixth shutout and 11th complete game, both tops in the American League, as last-place Washington romped over Baltimore 5-0. Rookie Jim Donohue has his first big league homer off loser Billy O'Dell in the first.

Elston Howard's two-run pinch homer was the big blow in New York's 7-4 decision over New York and Baltimore defeated Washington 5-3.

Lew Burdette. The Braves' 21-game winner was knocked out in the second inning as Ray Jabl and the Phils until the ninth for his sixth victory.

CHANGE OFFSIDE RULE

TORONTO (CP) — Commissioner Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League announced today the "sucker shirt" will no longer cause a five-yard offside penalty.

Halter said Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four, whose use of the shift has resulted in several penalties for opposing clubs, have been advised of this.

In the shift the quarterback leans forward for the snap, then takes a direct sideways step behind the ball. Several backfielders join him in the motion, foiling opposing players into thinking the ball has been put into play, and causing offsides.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

We got to talking about the Iron Age (about 1000 B.C.) as the dim beginning of the Canadian opinion which our friends engineer civilization rests.

The trouble of course is that the Iron Age was the beginning of everything but "rest". Each century has therefore saw more and more unrest, and human upheaval spent Canada's technological advances evenif man didn't learn how to keep his society abreast of his technical progress.

Now, there we go on a philosophical tangent, from what we really meant to get around to, is that if you treat things all the way back to very beginnings the Iron Age was the first big planning of the automobile, which is possibly one of the most beneficial end results that man could imagine. So the Iron Age brought us the Mobile Age, with all its blessings and all its complications.

Whether your automobile brings you difficulties in proportion to its blessings or inspiration depends upon the car dealer. If, first of all, you choose your car from a reliable dealer, and then have it maintained and serviced by such a conscientious dealer, you will seldom realize how really complex a mechanism it is.

We strive with all our heart to be such a dealer. As one example, in the line of the business a poor car is often referred to as a "load of iron", and when we get such a "load of iron" we consign it back to its beginnings or we wholesale it. We will never sell one to you.

Tiger-Cats Smash Argos; Riders Crush Alouettes

Stretch Lead to 4 Points As Larks Cling to Second; Ottawa, Toronto Split Third

By REW WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A week ago today Ottawa Rough Riders had lost five games out of five and were just back counted out of the Big Four Football Union race. What a difference a week makes.

Today, at the half-way mark of the 14-game schedule, Riders look like the hottest club in the circuit after smashing the favored Alouettes 43-6 Saturday in Montreal. The win, three days after they dumped Toronto Argonauts 38-1, moved the Riders into a third-place tie with Argos.

RECORD CROWD

The Riders got an assist from Hamilton Tiger-Cats who walloped the bewildering Argos 50-17 in Toronto Sunday before a record Eastern Canada crowd of 27,685.

The weekend's results extended Hamilton's lead to four points over Montreal's eight, Toronto and Ottawa have four each.

Alouettes, 11-point favorites, got a rude awakening early when Rider converted two fumbles into touchdowns to lead 14-0 after five minutes.

Both were scored on line-bucking runs by import fullback Dave Thelen. Four touchdowns were against Argos Wednesday tied a league record.

ALS LOOK WEAK

Thelen and Don Clark cut through the Alouette line time and time again for big gains and quarterbacks Russ Jackson and Frank Filchock had their aerial plays grinding out yardage like bulldozers.

It was 23-0 in the third quarter before Als got their only points on Sam Etcheverry's perfected touchdown. Alouettes generated five fumbles, one by each Ned Taylor when he was in the clear.

Bobby Simpson grabbed both Ottawa touchdown passes, one a 21-yard heave by Jackson and the other a 5-yarder by Tripucka. Jackson scored a touchdown on a one-yard quarterback sneak and Thelen came up with his third of the game in the fourth quarter.

Other Ottawa points came on five converts by Clark, one safety touch when Patterson got on a fumble.

PATTERSON HURT

To add to the misery of 32,811 fans, Patterson limped off after an injury in the third quarter. The game was his first since a knee injury Aug. 29. The new injury was termed "not serious" by club officials.

The record Toronto crowd booed as the Argos turned in a generally poor performance against the defending champs.

Argos looked particularly feeble as Ron Howell grabbed two Toronto punts and carried them for touchdowns, one on a 45-yard run and the other on a 90-yard scamp.

Al Bruno's touchdown throw from quarterback Bernie Faloney gave Bowie his third. Gerry McDougall smashed across from the one-yard stripe for the other Toronto touchdown.

KICKS SEVEN POINTS

Other Tiger scoring came on a field goal, Dave Mann's single and a single by Steve Oseschuk, a two-point safety touch credited to Don Boydston and Faloney's kick for a single.

Hamilton fullback Cookie Gilchrist kicked a field goal to open the scoring but Argos went ahead 8-4 in the third quarter when Tiger coach Jim Trimble replaced Bill Bewley with defensive backs as ball carriers and pulling homebrew Bobby Dawson at halfback.

Then Boyd Carter and Dick Shatto connected for touchdowns in the fourth, both converted by Gilchrist.

Saturday Montreal visits Toronto and Hamilton goes to Ottawa.

Dutchies Draft 'Moe' Benoit For Olympics

KITCHENER (CP) — Players from 18 hockey teams across Canada, including seven junior clubs, have been drafted by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen as possible candidates for places with the Flyers club when it represents Canada at the 1960 Winter Olympics.

Details of the draft were released today following a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association executive meeting in Toronto.

At its last annual meeting the CAHA approved special legislation to assist Canadian teams who will play in future world and Olympic hockey tournaments.

The team selected is able to name 15 players, not more than one from a club, who can be obtained without release. This list must be filed by Sept. 1 and the drafting does not until Nov. 1, after which 10 of the 15 players drafted it would like to play.

Players drafted:

Bill Kennedy, centre, of the Toronto Marlboros; Marve Edwards, goalie, North Bay Trappers; Moe Benoit, centre, Regina Pats; Ron Landa; Elmer Sykes, defence, Windsor Bulldogs; Mike Ellis, defence, Chatham Maroons; Stan Mikita, centre, St. Catharines Teepees; Bruce Connelly, right wing, Peterborough Petes; Les Kozak, defence, Edmonton Oil Kings; Cliff Pennington, centre, Flin Flon Bombers, Terry Gudmundson, Regina Pats; Pat Adair, defence, Waterloo Siskins; Tom Sleeky, defence, Verdun Canadiens; Bill Hryciuk, right wing, Kamloops; Pete Conacher, defence, Oshawa Packers; Bob Rousseau, centre, Oshawa Hull Canadiens.

Not all of these players may attend the Dutchmen training camp which opens in Elmira next Saturday. Players from Western Canada will be called in only till the Dutchmen see how their player situation is after looking at the candidates from closer points.

Hawks Miss Close One Over Leafs

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs fought to a 5-5 tie in a penalty-marked National Hockey League exhibition game here Saturday night.

The teams, watched by a crowd of 3,700 fans, had 82 minutes in penalties. They included match penalties to Ed Litzenberger of Chicago and Marc Reaume of the Leafs in a second period stick-swinging duel.

Gerry Edmundson led the Toronto attack with two goals followed by singles by Bert Olmstead, Gerry Ehman and Dick Duff.

Chicago scorers were Dollard St. Laurent, Eric Nesterenko, Bobby Hull, Kenny Wharram and Phil Maloney.

Chicago outshot the Leafs 28-23.

LINESMAN HIT

During the Litzenberger-Reaume brawl, linesman Bruce Sims had to retire from the game when he was hit over the left eye by the Chicago player's stick.

Match penalties ordinarily would draw a fine and a reprimand from the league president, but there is no provision for this action in exhibition games.

Nesterenko could have turned the game into a victory for the Black Hawks before the Leafs pulled out goalie Ed Chadwick in favor of an extra attacker. Nesterenko dropped in on a breakaway, drew out Chadwick, but stick-handled past the net.

Larry Regan, Leafs' stickhandling wizard, picked up four goals and added a fine job in killing penalties, Leafs were short two players for about a minute in the first period, but otherwise missed checking, held off the Hawks.

Chadwick and Johnny Bower divided Toronto's goal - tending duties. Roy Edwards started in goal for Chicago, with Glen Hall relieving him near the half-way mark.

Stock Car Driver Killed

KITCHENER (CP) — Veteran stock car driver Billy "Flipper" Coates, 44, of Burlington was killed Saturday night at the nearby Bridgeport Speedway before a crowd of 2,000 that included his wife.

His car lost a wheel, spun around and hit a cement retaining wall surrounding the track. He died of a fractured skull, because the track's first fatality since it opened 10 years ago.

Coates, who got his nickname when his car flipped over 11 times during a race in Guelph, started trailing the pack at 20 cars in the five-mile feature race.

Brooklyn Wins 23-Innings Softball Game

DRESDEN (CP) — Brooklin defeated Dresden 21 Saturday night in an Ontario Colonial Amateur Softball Association intermediate C playoff marathon.

Chuck Hall's two-out single, his fifth hit of the game, drove Bill Croxall from third base with the winning run.

The bottom of the 23rd Dresden leadoff man Gerald Cook was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch a triple into a home run.

Association secretary L. G. (Leroy) Pickard of St. Catharines said Sunday night the game was probably an OASA record.

Winning pitcher Maurice Meulemeester, from the Oshawa district, struck out 17 batters and walked four. Loser Joe Verschueren struck out 18 and didn't walk a man.

The game lasted four hours and five minutes.

Royals Toss Scare Into Habs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens had their hands full Saturday night before pulling out a 7-4 win over the Royals in a Montreal Royals with a four-goal splurge in the final period.

The game, opener of the new Eastern Professional Hockey League, marked the Habs' debut and held a 4-3 lead going into the third period but succumbed to the Royals' attack in the National Hockey League champions.

Ralph Backstrom counted two for Canadiens. The others went to Ab McDonald, Jacques Plante, Bud Sonia and rookies Allan Johnson from Spokane and Chuck Rayner from Quebec.

Phil Goyette, Claude Provost and Andre Pronovost were Habs' scorers for the minor leaguers.

The game opened a title penalty-free, fight-filled affair.

Fleming, with Rochester of the American League last year, played a standout game on defence for Royals while Wayne Connolly, from Peterborough juniors, played well up forward.

Jacques Plante made Cyr each worked 30 minutes in goal for Canadiens while Claude Hodge and Ken Walters, junior from Regina, split the chores for Royals.

Bruins Defeat Providence 5-2

BOSTON (CP) — Vic Stasiuk scored two goals to lead Boston Bruins to a 5-2 victory over Providence Reds in an American Hockey League game club, in an exhibition game before 6,667 Sunday night.

Guy Gendron, Jerry Toppazzini and Leo Labine accounted for the National Hockey League club's other scores while Paul Larose and Reds.

Goalie Don Simmons, who shared the Bruins' netminding with Harry Lumley last season, made 19 stops in the Providence

Sports Cars Win Duel Over Stock Type

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

JARVIS (CP)—A duel between stock cars and sports cars Saturday broke all kinds of records but failed to prove a thing.

The sports cars, on home ground at Harewood Acres Track near here, ran away and hid from their stock car challengers, but they had an assist from Canadian customs officials.

Harry Blanchard of Greenwich, Conn., set an SSC Porsche, clipped off $1,600—$1,000 as the overall winner, $600 for the first sports car, and $100 driver's fee.

Frank Bradley of Toronto, also in a Porsche, pulled in $1,200 for second spot, Bob Cliff of Pontiac, Mich., rode his Corvette into third place and $900.

STOCK CARS LAST

Only 11 of the more than 20 starters finished the 100-lap feature race. Only two stock cars—both Fords—finished. They came dead last.

Tom Gilmour, president of the Canadian Sports Car Racing Association, said the crowd, approximately 10,000 paid customers, was a record for Canadian sports car events. About $10,000 was collected at the Globe and Mail swimming pool for retarded children — the entire proceeds after driving fees and prizes.

The course record, 1:22 for the hilly and sinuous airport circuit, was lowered to 1:20 — approximately 55.1 miles an hour.

By Blanchard.

Ed Otis, vice-president of the National Association of Stock Car Racing, who claimed that late-model United States stock cars would defeat any sports car on any track, blamed "officious" Canadian border guards for the dismal showing of the stocks.

He said two cars "cannot be ready for the customs at the Peace Bridge—without any trouble." He claimed those who could assess the value of the parts so the drivers could post a bond and bring them in. They were told they could bring them through without.

As a result, the stocks ran with whatever gear ratios they had.

nets in the first period but was forced out of the game by a groin injury.

Normand Jacques, fresh from Barrie Flyers, replaced Simmons the rest of the way.

Dutchies Draft 'Moe' Benoit For Olympics

KITCHENER (CP) — Players from 18 hockey teams across Canada, including seven junior clubs, have been drafted by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen as possible candidates for places with the Flyers club when it represents Canada at the 1960 Winter Olympics.

Details of the draft were released today following a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association executive meeting in Toronto.

At its last annual meeting the CAHA approved special legislation to assist Canadian teams who will play in future world and Olympic hockey tournaments.

The team selected is able to name 15 players, not more than one from a club, who can be obtained without a release. This list must be filed by Sept. 1 and the drafting does not until Nov. 1, after which 10 of the 15 players drafted it would like to play.

Players drafted:

Bill Kennedy, centre, of the Toronto Marlboros; Marve Edwards, goalie, North Bay Trappers; Moe Benoit, centre, Regina Pats; Ron Landa; Elmer Sykes, defence, Windsor Bulldogs; Mike Ellis, defence, Chatham Maroons; Stan Mikita, centre, St. Catharines Teepees; Bruce Connelly, right wing, Peterborough Petes; Les Kozak, defence, Edmonton Oil Kings; Cliff Pennington, centre, Flin Flon Bombers, Terry Gudmundson, Regina Pats; Pat Adair, defence, Waterloo Siskins; Tom Sleeky, defence, Verdun Canadiens; Bill Hryciuk, right wing, Kamloops; Pete Conacher, defence, Oshawa Packers; Bob Rousseau, centre, Oshawa Hull Canadiens.

Not all of these players may attend the Dutchmen training camp which opened in Elmira next Saturday. Players from Western Canada will be called in only till the Dutchmen see how their player situation is after looking at the candidates from closer points.

Ryne Duren Breaks Wrist

NEW YORK (AP) — Ryne Duren, New York Yankees reliefer star, broke his right wrist in a freak accident Saturday and is through for the season.

The injury came in the game with Boston Red Sox, the 30-year-old pitcher ran out of the bullpen in right centre field to take a throw for the Yankees dugout adjacent to first base.

He tried to dodge away from a youngster who he thought was trying to grab his baseball cap for a souvenir and stumbled, falling heavily on his right hand.

"I thought it was only a sprain," he said Sunday, "I put ice on it and went home."

X - rays showed a broken scaphoid bone, which is on the top of the wrist in the hinge area between the hand and forearm. It was placed in a cast and must remain immobilized for two to three months.

Duren had a 3-6 won-lost record in 41 relief appearances with an earned run average of 1.89.

'Round Table' Wins United Nations Classic

NEW YORK (CP) — Racing's richest horse, Round Table, added to his winnings Saturday by carrying the top weight of his career in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City. . .

Willie Shoemaker up at 126 pounds—between 24 and 22 pounds heavier than his nine rivals—found Feola took the lead at the start of the stretch to win by 1½ lengths from Nourreddin. Li'l Fella was third in the mile and three-sixteenths classic, run in 1:55.1.

WIN $85,000

The winner's share of $85,000 put his total earnings at $1,659,- 000. Mr. and Mrs. Travis Berry paid $175,000 for Round Table when they bought him three years ago.

The odds-on betting favorite returned $3.65, $2.50 and $2.20. Nourreddin paid $3 and $2.60 and Li'l Fella $3.

At Ohio U.S. tracks Saturday, Golden Notes, ($4) a five-year-old gelding, equalled the world record of 1:14 4-5 for 6½ furlongs while winning the $14,500 Mid-west Handicap at Hawthorne.

At Aqueduct, Weatherwite (9.80) defeated the $145,000 fourthly stakes for two-year-olds running the 6½ furlongs in 1:18 3-5.

Battle Dance ($21.70) won the $11,650 Albany Handicap over six furlongs at Golden Gate Fields in 1:10.

NAME HOUND CHAMP

KINGSTON (CP) — Frostenac Faultless, owned by Jack Hickey of Kingston, won the grand championship at the fourth annual hound trials on nearby Wolfe Island. The three - day field and bench trials, sponsored by the Frontenac District Fox Hound Association, ended Saturday and drew 80 foxhounds.

Teener' Wins U.S. Amateur Golf Title

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP)— Jack Nicklaus, big, likeable youngster, won the final holes from Hillcrest's Dudley Wysong Saturday and defeated Charlie Coe 1 up to become the third teen-ager to win the U.S. amateur golf championship.

Nicklaus, who will be 20 until next January, is the second-youngest player ever to win the coveted title.

Coe shot the front nine of the Broadmoor Golf Course and had a two-under-par 69 for the morning round to lead 2 up at the halfway point of the 36-hole match.

But the lanky Oklahoma lad showed signs of tiring. On the deciding 36th, Coe overshot the green, recovered nicely only to lose the hole and the match when Nicklaus crowded in a six-foot putt for a birdie 3.

Petes Down Three Games in Lacrosse Final

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The Mann Cup final's fourth game is here tonight and things look anything but bright for Peterborough Mercurys.

Coach Lloyd (Moon) Wootton's team has been beaten in three successive games by New Westminster O'Keefes, seeking their 14th Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

Saturday night New Westminster took home with a five-goal outburst in the final quarter for a 14-9 victory.

The easterners, playing their finest game of the best-of-seven series, held O'Keefes to a 3-3 tie in the first quarter and led 5-4 at the half and 9-6 by 2:56 of the third.

GO ON RAMPAGE

New Westminster then scored eight unanswered goals. Jack Blonda, who holds a Canadian record of 146 points, added three and gained two assists. He has scored 11 goals and nine assists in the three games.

Peterborough, learning from previous games, stayed clear of the penalty box. The Mercurys took only nine minutes in penalties compared to the 18 minutes given New Westminster.

Cliff Sopko scored three goals for O'Keefes, Doug McRory and Ken Odie two each and Jack Bayford, Bill Jobb, Don Sepka and Rudy Reisinger accounted for singles.

Bob Curtis, Paul Parnell and Ray Wood with scored twice for Peterborough, with singles from Larry Ferguson, Bobby Allan and Bob Bailey.

Richmond Cuts Havana Lead To One Game

HAVANA (AP) — Renewed faith in the record-breaking bat of Dereo Johnson accompanied Richmond Virginians back here tonight for a chance to even the International League final with Havana Sugar Kings.

Johnson, whose six homers against Buffalo Bisons advanced Richmond to the final, smashed his first homer in five games at Richmond Sunday to help Richmond Sugar Kings to Havana leads the best - of - seven series 3-2.

The Vees received six - hit pitching from Bob Wiesler and Jim Hughes and reported a 13-hit attack highlighted by Johnson's eighth-inning solo homer and a ninth-inning blast by second baseman Billy Shantz with no one aboard.

Wiesler moved into the night with a four-hit shutout, then yielded a two-run homer to Ray Shearer and gave way to James following a single and a wild pitch.

Havana sends Raul Sanchez to the mound tonight to face Bill Short.

Loretta Young's Opening Show Called Soap Opera

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AT THE PARK — Peter Finch stars with John Agar and Anthony Quale in the story of the death of the mighty 'Graf Spee', "The Battle of the River Plate", in Technicolor and VistaVision. Opening tonight at the Park Theatre. Out the mists of memory, Hardy Kruger, who is starring there tonight, appears as Frank Wern, German war ace. One complete show starts at 7.20 p.m.

NEW YORK (AP) — There's this rich married lawyer who wants to marry another girl. Then there's his wife, who's always taking big handfuls of pills, and her psychiatrist, who is also her lover. Then there's a prowler, probably the noisiest burglar in television history. After a lot of strange talk and prowling, the rich married lawyer is dead, and his wife has lost all touch with reality.

That, in a very long paragraph is, I think, the gist of the first Sunday Showcase on NBC Sunday night. The play was an original—believe me, that's the word —play by S. Lee Pogostin, called People Kill People. Sometimes.

I got lost somewhere between the first part when everybody stood around and talked and the last part when everybody stood around and screamed. The dialogue went like this:

"There is no evil: There is just sickness." And "gullfighters search for the moment of truth, a psychiatrist searches for the truth of the moment."

ACTORS CONVINCING

Geraldine Page played a convincing neurotic and so did everybody else, whether they were supposed to be neurotics or not.

Shortly after Showcase, Loretta Young swept through her door with a special hour-long show. The Road, which opened her new season on NBC TV.

Miss Young plays a disagreeable, nervous woman with a brain tumor (but a wonderful mink-lined greatcoat) who is trying to find herself. She does, and also goes back to her husband, after a visit to Lourdes.

The film was made in France and the Lourdes portion would have been fascinating had the film not been burdened with such a soap-opera plot.

It's early to send out the invitations, but Pfc. Elvis Presley's return to civilian life and the entertainment world will be celebrated next May by Frank Sinatra on CBS with a special, of course. . . . So many people tried to get a look at Ingrid Bergman while she was rehearsing in a New York hotel for a forthcoming show that security officers were placed at the entrance of the rehearsal hall. . . . Who'd-ever-guess-it says television is just an entertainment medium? It's going to be used by one swank New York apartment house so that attendants in the lobby can keep an eye on passengers in the self-service elevators. And one kidnap-conscious New Yorker has closed circuit operating between a front door camera and a TV set in the library. Extra protection for her young son.

Recommended tonight: Chevenne, ABC, 7:30-8:30 p.m. EDT—CBS, 10:30 p.m. — Miss Allyson Opens its fifth season; the Du-cc-tairs with Ann Harding in a post show with June Allyson, drama.

AT THE BELLE — Rossano Brazzi and Mitzi Gaynor co-starred with John Kerr, France Nuyen and Ray Walston, in Twentieth Century-Fox release of "South Pacific". De Luxe Color version of the Rogers and Hammerstein's hit, playing today Tuesday and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. Two performances daily at 2.00 and 8.15. Doors at 1.30 and 7.30.

AT THE McCARTHY — A terrifying task faces Peter Cushing as he futilely attempts to destroy his fiendish and murderous adversary, played by ghoul-king Christopher Lee. The shocking scene is from "The Mummy", new spine-chilling shocker in Technicolor. Released by Universal-International Pictures, the drama is a Hammer Films production and opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd thrill-packed hit is "Curse of the Undead" with Eric Fleming and Kathleen Crowley.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, September 22, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) The pioneer is very much in your sign, and today you have the chance to test it in some fine enterprise that comes your way, or simply find better and easier way of operating. Or it may be in connection with a trip.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) F time to study ways of increasing abundance materially. Also, don't forever be deliberating and procrastinating. You can readily decide upon some plan of activity that will pay off in real dividends. Your potential is great.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Here is a day when you can accomplish just about anything you put your mind to. You are filled with inspiration and dynamism and will please all those with whom you come in contact. But get off that easy chair and go, go, go.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) There is a good chance now to find out what it is that is closest to your heart. Then you can make progress commensurate with the wisdom you show in utilizing this knowledge. Get secret support from powerful person, authorities.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to all that seemingly idle talk from others today, since therein lies the key to some of your future success. You will then also meet some interesting and powerful people, and before night much fun can be had with comrades.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Civic or public matters are the issue right now by which you can achieve real progress. Also, get advice and support from experts and profit by their experience. Today's activities are the cornerstones of tomorrow's success.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You have wonderful intuition now along with how to get your hopes and desires, and you should follow it. Be sure to contact those of different background than yours. Benefit by their advice.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Provided you are very quiet about your activities, all sorts of wheels can be put in motion that bring early advancement, greater abundance. Get money and security matters attended first. P.M. have delightful time with pals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Talking at length with associates may appear to be much wasted time, but in reality so many fine ideas can be picked up that will mean cementing better relations. Make new agreements, iron out differences, etc. Work.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There is much that can be accomplished now if you use positive thinking and action. You can be either at abode, at place of business, other sphere of endeavor. Good day for making sales, getting recognition in artistic work.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day for happiness and enjoyment at the activities that most suit you. Dress in nicest taste, then full speed ahead. Waste not a moment of this delightful day. You can combine business with pleasure admirably.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Put that feeling of unrest to work at something very constructive now. Do your best to see that those who depend on you are placed in a better position, and do much research work that will give you an edge on the other fellow.

If your child is born today . . . The masterful child born today will early have ideas for making his or her life a most successful one. The possibilities in this born because the potential is very great, and the talents varied. So it behooves to early teach that whatever is once begun must be completed before going on to something else. Perseverance is really the only key necessary in this fine chart.

NOW IT'S JUST

the missile centre at Vandenberg Air Force base. "We've got enough of our own and ours are better."

GOT BETTER

Yes, he felt better, he had no thought of cutting short his tour of the trade he was seeing "the people," free from the "house arrest" of his American escort.

No, he didn't like the Can-Can dance staged for him in Hollywood—it was "pornographic" and "humanity's face is more beautiful than the backside."

The candidate moved forward and suddenly we were all swept off the back lot into a huge, small station platform at San Luis Obispo, where newspapermen surrounded the way, a light pushing circle no more than 10 feet across closed in around the beautiful Russian premier.

Security officers formed a ring around him and suddenly even United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge found himself holding hands with Russian agents.

The whirling circle moved forward. There was a little girl of about eight crying.

Khrushchev picked her up and held her high over his head, cooing to her and trying to calm her fright.

Finally, the Russian security men had had enough. With visible snarls, they pushed the whole party back toward the train.

As the security men helped Lodge up the steps, Khrushchev laughed and yelled over his shoulder in English: "Save Lodge!"

Lodge was saved.

And the bedraggled reporters wished they could say as much for their sanity.

LABOR LEADERS

pertinent officials wanted to avoid having Khrushchev forcibly irritated on his American tour.

Khrushchev didn't budge an inch. When asked about the 1956 revolt in Hungary, suppressed by Russian troops, he answered: "All revolutionaries or being "hooligans and scoundrels."

Why is it that Russian workers have no right to strike, Khrushchev was asked.

His reply, the union men said, was that Soviet workers have such a right, but never exercise it—striking, according to Khrushchev, that their government will take care of them.

WIGGLES BACKSIDE

Reuther said that Khrushchev at one point stood up and, pushing up the back of his coat, "displayed the back part of his anatomy" and wriggled like a belly dancer.

He was talking about the film "Can-Can" which he had seen at a scene from the movie Can-Can.

"We don't want to see this kind of trash," he was quoted as saying.

Cecil Rieve, board chairman of the Textile Workers Union, said: "Khrushchev is not what we possible to have socialism without dictatorship.

LOOSE CONTROL?

"He sort of lost control of himself at this point," Reuther said. "He showed himself to be a stupid question, not worthy of discussion," he commented.

Another question asked: was why, if communism is so great a governmental system, do so many peoples flee to escape it.

HUNGARY REFUGEES

Union president who posed that query, said 3,000,000 refugees have fled Communist-controlled East Germany, 3,000,000 escaped from Red China and more than 200,000 Hungarians have braved arrest or death in changing across the border to freedom.

Once again, according to Reuther, Khrushchev "got very agitated" and answered "You drink some beer and maybe you'll find the answer."

The labor men kept a list of 1,000 Hungarian and Polish political prisoners to submit later to the Soviet authorities. It had been compiled through reliable sources in Hungary and Poland, one would be asked to have the men freed.

SEVEN ATTEND MEETING

Other American union leaders attending the meeting—seven in all—included presidents Paul Phillips, Paper Workers Union, O. A. Knight, Oil-Workers Workers, Joseph Curran, Maritime Workers, and James B. Carey, Electrical Workers.

Phillips, asked the question on running if he had put forward questions to the Soviet Union and asked: "If we can have a free flow of information doesn't that seem to block this?"

Reuther said Khrushchev again became agitated and slammed the table with his fist.

"What do you like to eat?" he demanded of Phillips.

"I like beef, that has to do with the question," Phillips replied.

REPEATS QUESTION

Khrushchev insisted: "What do you like to eat?"

"Why, roast beef," Phillips replied.

"I like borscht," said Khrushchev.

They can have roast beef, but in the Soviet Union the workers will have borscht," he declared. He reported that Khrushchev then hit the table again and asserted that he was the master of the working class and would decide what they would have.

NIKITA IS HAPPY

sion."

"I thought I could come here for a free ride," he said.

With a little more than mock indignation, Khrushchev broke in. He could be heard words to explain the security restrictions to people.

"I personally will accompany anyone any place in my country without any fear. The suggestion of his being subjected to anything bad is absurd."

The tone of a glittering Hollywood party and luncheon for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev changed when he took his seat when actress Elizabeth Taylor, unable to get a satisfactory view of the Soviet premier from her seat, climbed up on the table to get a better look.

Khrushchev said during his speech that the Soviet Union still has a long way to go to catch up economically with the U.S.

But he thought predicted it would be done and the Soviet system would leave capitalism in the lurch.

"We will say to you," he declared, "capitalism, where is going by. Catch up if you can."

KEPT THEM LAUGHING

He kept his jokes and jokes, extremely informal and at his boundiest, Khrushchev kept his audience laughing and applauding.

Khrushchev frequently interrupted the speaker who preceded him, Pr ident Spyros Phil Skouras of 20th-Century Fox, in whose studio commissary the luncheon was held.

Khrushchev popped up to argue

Festival at Stratford Drawing Capacity Audiences

By WILLIAM GLOVER

STRATFORD - UPON - AVON, England (AP) — Sandwich bags that Dame Edith Evans in All's Well and Shakespeare, a starry cast and dreams.

Together they are giving this home town of the bard a celebration of high theatrical import.

"An outstandingly successful season," agreed a spokesman for the Shakespeare Festival, noting the 98 per cent of capacity chalked up at the box office.

The 34-week season continues until Nov. 28. By then, 280,000 ticket-scrambling spectators will have seen the five productions.

It has been an unusual season in several planned ways. Glen Byam Shaw, associate producer director after eight years, lived up a glittering array of stars, found play directors to limit novel interpretations.

The sleeping giant of sportaneous phenomenon. They were brought along by youthful show folk who camped out on the Stratford lawns of the tiggins in order to get a chance at the handful of seats and standing spots allotted for each performance.

The local consabulary, imured to the annual influx of visitors, never before had campers to contend with. But it soon-maturely kept order among the collegiate groups who came warmed with alcohol stoves for hot coffee and phonographs for music.

"People have lined up in London for 24 hours, something that never happened previously," said a theatre official.

The centennial marks the 100th season of production here of Shakespeare's works.

The chief come-on undoubtedly has been the parade of Sir Laurence Olivier in Coriolanus, good-humoredly with the speaker. Later, he even interrupted himself to call on Russians in the audience to stand up as examples of the worth of the Soviet system.

In one exchange, it was that way:

Skouras interrupted Khrushchev to point out there were 2,000,000 presidents of American companies in the country. Khrushchev with names of leaders in art and industry who rose from workers' ranks. He pointed out the metallurgist chief in his entourage.

"It's a people's monopoly," he remarked. "He (the metallurgist) doesn't possess stocks. He compels he wears."

Skouras interjected another remark: "He's not president; he just works for you."

KEEP UP TEMPO

It was all in the best of humor. Khrushchev said, in the course of his talk, he hoped he wasn't offending anybody, and he didn't intend to, but that one should not argue with one's hosts.

During his speech, Khrushchev was somewhat grinning broadly, sometimes deadly solemn, sometimes gesturing comically, sometimes shaking his finger admonishingly.

Again, pointing out that modern war means mass destruction, he said fighting cannot long no longer a matter of one man pulling out another man's beard. The other still can grow a beard. And then he cited another old Russian proverb:

"When you lose your head, you don't cry over your hair."

Penal Authorities Skeptical Of Claims Made by Russia Over Treatment of Criminals

By ROGER GREENE

NEW YORK (AP) — American penal authorities are frankly skeptical of claims that Soviet Russia has outstripped the United States in its humane treatment of convicted criminals.

Nevertheless, members of congress are beginning to question penal officials to find out why U.S. prisons are falling down on the job of rehabilitating criminals before returning them to society.

Among other things, recent travellers to Russia have reported:

1. Under the Soviet system, prison inmates live in hope instead of drifting in an atmosphere of black despair so common in American jails. Riots and escape attempts are said to be rare.

2. Soviet prisoners work at a trade and earn as much as they would outside, thus helping support their families and saving money for a fresh start.

(In many U.S. prisons, the only jobs available are "made" work. Laws forbid prison-made goods to compete in the open market. And too often, when a man has served his time, he goes out to face the world with a prison-made suit and a $10 bill).

3. Soviet authorities encourage the preservation of marriage ties and discourage sexual depravity in prison by permitting inmates' wives to visit them for several days each month.

SHARP CONTRAST

By contrast with these reported conditions in Russia, too many U.S. prisons are said by recent visitors, including with escape ... and admittedly hotbeds of ... there is widespread doubt whether some Soviet penal methods adopted in Russia would be desirable in the U.S.

Discussing the congressional visit system, Lamoyne Green, superintendent of the new $12,000,000 Marion Correctional Institution, told me:

"I don't know if we should build our population with children stirred by murderers" who are going to spend the rest of their lives in prison.

"There is a good deal of talk now about permitting home visits—longhs to prisoners with good behavior records. From the standpoint of rehabilitation, it might be a good thing, but from the standpoint of punishment it would be bad.

"When we see that a man is ready to go home and lead a decent life, then it's a different story. I'd let them go home over the weekend, during the last six weeks in prison, so they could look for a job and get back into the community."

FURLOUGHS FAVORED

James V. Bennett, veteran chief of the federal bureau of prisons and one of the country's top penologists, says he too would favor home furloughs for prisoners with good conduct records.

"I think it's the coming thing," he said in an interview.

As for Soviet-style conjugal visits in prison, Bennett said:

"I don't think we're ready for that in this country. There's still a good deal of puritanical makeup in our people.

"But a restricted form of family visitation would solve many social problems if a selected prisoner were permitted, occasionally and particularly just prior to release, an opportunity to visit his family over a weekend."

So far as known, Mississippi's state penitentiary at Parchman is the only American prison where conjugal visits are openly authorized. Perhaps significantly, it has escaped the unrest which has been exploding in prisons elsewhere across the country.

At Parchman, wives are permitted to visit their husband every Sunday afternoon. Special passes were built to accommodate them.

"We believe the program is very successful," says William Harris, superintendent of the Mississippi prison.

PRISONERS CONTENTED

"For one thing, the prisoners are contented. Perhaps more important is that allowing a man and his wife to have a little of the normal relationship helps hold families together while the man is in prison."

Parchman also permits 10-day furloughs home for trusty prisoners serving 10 years or more who have been in the penitentiary for five years and a trusty for six months.

Some critics, however, complain there is already too much "psychiatric smorgasbord" connected with prison rehabilitation programs.

Scoffing at what they call soft-headed do-gooderism, these critics say the only answer to crime is to incarcerate the criminal until he has learned his lesson—the hard way.

Bennett sadly agrees that some criminals appear to be warped beyond redemption, but he adds this thought-provoking comment:

"Our prisons would bulge to the bursting point if everyone who broke the law landed behind bars."

Rawdon

RAWDON! — Rawdon township first experienced a few days of extreme heat followed by cool weather. On Wednesday and Thursday of last week the heat wave was almost unbearable. Fans were used to cool the rooms and many folk had difficulty sleeping in the evenings. Then the climate reversed itself and by Saturday the air was much cooler. Sunday was an ideal summer day. On Monday the temperature dropped to 45 degrees and rooms were uncomfortable unless they were heated. A few folks reported forst in the area on Friday and Sunday evenings.

Rain is badly needed all over the township. Wells have gone dry on several farms and water is a scarce commodity. A large number of farmers have been drawing water from the small streams for their livestock all through August. When rain comes it will be too late for gardens and flowers but it will be greatly needed in order to assure plenty of water for the long winter ahead.

The Department of Highways laid a central strip of white paint on the county road between Stirling village and Roach's Station on Monday. The road was built in 1950 and this is the first time it has been marked.

West Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — The rain which came on Monday evening and Tuesday morning was surely appreciated; also the cool weather that accompanied the rain on Tuesday.

Sunday ushered in the anniversary season for many of the churches. Fuller United was the first this year. The guest minister was Rev. Rindall of the Bible Methodist Church of Campbellford, and the wonderful sermon he brought will long be remembered.

The Men's Quartet of Frankford provided special singing with Miss Wallace of Frankford as pianist. Those in the quartet were Messrs. Harry Slingerland, Ernest Wallace, Ron Mitts and Frank Ketcheson, and Mrs. Rindall also contributed two numbers.

There was a large attendance at both services. Many of the visitors were entertained by the Fuller people and the offering was large.

Next Sunday the Presbyterian Church of Fuller will have their anniversary; also the United Church at West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gale and family visited a number of places in the U.S.A. over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr spent a few days recently at Owen Sound with their grandaughter and her husband, Rev. and Mrs. R. Bowyer.

Gerald and Carol McKeown of Ben Gill, observed their visiting friends of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carr, of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eggleton of Stirling; Mr. Arthur Eggleton of Brandon, Manitoba; and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carr, and children from Eggleton.

Among those from here attending the anniversary services at Fuller on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. William Fitchett, Jr., and Mrs. Goldie McInroy, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. William Eaton and family; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Carr, Sarah and Arthur Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. John Lainson.

Mrs. Fuller was the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Carr. Other parents attended Toronto C.N.E.

Mr. Howard Smith is helping with the building of the new Calvary Temple, in Belleville.

Mrs. Lyon Bowyer and Pat returned to their home in Syracuse, N.Y., after spending seven weeks at their summer home here.

Will Delve Into Controversial Freight Rates

OTTAWA (CP). — The royal commission on railways has decided to delve into the controversial Crowsnest Pass freight rates, a touchy political issue since the turn of the century.

The seven-man commission, over-ruling objections of provincial governments of Alberta, Manitoba, said Friday it is going to look into the low Crow rates to see what effect they have on the general Canadian freight rate picture.

The below-normal rates originally were negotiated between the CPR and the federal government at pre-1900 levels. In 1938, they were wrapped up in a statute embracing all railways in the west.

The year regarded in the west as the backbone of the grain economy.

It appears unlikely, however, the rates will be boosted, particularly in the light of a May statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that they will not be touched.

The commission might look into the rates without recommending changes, or it might recommend a federal grant to take care of rate variations in moving the prairie grain. This would run to $50,000,000 - $60,-000,000 a year.

Rail Passengers Getting New Deal From Companies

Reduced Fare for Those Who Travel in Bunches

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's two major railways have announced package deals for long-distance travel and reduced fares for passengers who travel in bunches.

The new programs are effective October 1.

Canadian National Railways said it is offering off-season reduced fares and all-inclusive package deals in an effort to make rail travel so appealing that it will win back long-distance travelling in private cars.

Canadian Pacific Railway said its two economy plans are "to stimulate off-season rail travel."

All of the plans have 90-day limits.

ALL-INCLUSIVE

The CPR plan includes in the ticket price rail fare, sleeping accommodation, meals and tips. It is good for one to six passengers in all classes of travel between Eastern and Western Canada, and between points in Western Canada.

The all-inclusive CPR plan covers groups of two or more coaching travelling passengers. The group members go and return together any distance longer than 1,000 miles on the reduced fares.

CNR said its program is a gamble that by offering travellers cheaper and more convenient trips it can win them away from using private cars.

It is based on a survey of Canadian travel habits and attitudes confirmed that the automobile is the "big" competitor for long-distance trips.

Travellers who make 6,000-8,000 trips a year of 100 miles or more, the survey showed, and 75 per cent are made by car. Only 11 per cent are made by train and the rest by bus or airplane.

CNR said its rail coach fares for groups of two or more and all Canadian liners are being cut by "gas-routed" fares. The reductions apply anywhere in Canada on trips of more than 1,000 miles.

SUBSTANTIAL CUT

Two adults travelling together would each get a reduced fare of 75 per cent of the regular fare. Three adults would each get a reduction of 25 per cent and four or more would each save 37 per cent. Children are allowed, and the normal free baggage allowed for.

The CNR package plan applies on transcontinental trains between Montreal, Ottawa, North Bay or Toronto and Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton or Vancouver and between the six major western points; between any of these points and Montreal and west of Winnipeg; and between intermediate points on the same package plan for one-way or round-trip travel. All adults in Groups may use it for return trips only.

Children between the ages of 5 and 12 pay 55 per cent of the adult fare and children under five who need meal service pay seven per cent.

Vanier Performs First Official Act of Office

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier, an old infantry hand, travelled Monday on a massive granite memorial to the heroes of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery. It was his first official function since he assumed office last Tuesday.

The moving, sun-washed ceremony took place in Major's Hill Park, just below Parliament Hill. It was attended by some 2,000 people, mainly army officers in dress uniform and widows and mothers of fallen artillerymen.

The Queen's representative, a retired major-general, was active in military affairs. He lost his right leg above the knee while serving in the First World War with Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Vanier, who wore a simple mauve dress and matching headpiece.

MASSIVE MONUMENT

The memorial, 31 feet long and eight feet high, is inscribed with the glorious memory of the officers and men of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery who gave their lives in the service of Canada."

The inscription is topped by a brief ode in French which reads: "a nos glorieux morts"—to our glorious dead. To either side of the inscription are the RCA coat of arms and a sword set in a Latin cross.

At the conclusion of the one-hour ceremony Maj.-Gen. Vanier walked over to Mrs. Alexander Haggerty, of Fruitland who lost two gunner sons in the Second World War, and saluted.

Both the governor-general and Mrs. Vanier chatted briefly with the misty-eyed Mrs. Haggerty, who earlier had placed a wreath on behalf of the mothers and widows. Mrs. Vanier kissed her on both cheeks.

Gen. Vanier placed a wreath on behalf of the armed services and Defence Minister Pearkes, representing Prime Minister Diefenbaker, placed one on behalf of the Canadian people.

The governor - general read a message from the Queen in which she said she devoted the sacrifice of the regimental dead will be "an inspiration to those who follow in their footsteps."

Among those present were Maj.-Gen. C. C. Pitre, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, and Lt.-col. J. Keiller MacKay, lieutenant-governor of Ontario. Both are former artillerymen.

Khrushchev Exploited as Buffoon Is British Newspaper's Complaint

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers are expressing anxiety here at the United States "needle" Russia's visiting Premier Khrushchev to the danger point, but several note that the tough talk has been given, and some good, some good.

There is widespread concern that this is a visit which could change the course of history, and thus should not be endangered. The London News Chronicle says American mayors and union leaders "are the dangerous men" on a journey in which hundreds of millions outside America are involved."

The sharp-tongued columnist Cassandra, in the Labor Leader Daily Mirror says that since Khrushchev arrived in the U.S. the clean leader "has been subjected to a campaign of needling, veiled and not-so-veiled insults and has carefully been made the fall guy of plots to humiliate him by any municipal half-pint local jack-in-office who wants to take a cautious snap at the heels of the Russian bear."

Under the heading "Uncle Sam, be your age," Cassandra says Khrushchev is being "assiduously exploited as an itinerant buffoon."

Such treatment "may go down well in Hollywood and Los Angeles," he says, "but any personal knowledge they have the biggest aggregation of cranks, buffoons, crackpot religionists and exhibitionist mercenaries ever gathered in one place. . . .

"But it does not go down well in Russia. I was there. I saw, in Budapest and in a city called London to which the flight-time is that of one of Mr. Khrushchev's nuclear missiles is less than five minutes, the launching pad to the Strand."

Cassandra recalls Khrushchev "as the great dictator in the 20th century who has dared to leave his homeland and face the West." He was also "the ruler of lands far bigger than the United States and the symbol of the hopes, if not the idol, of 10 times the number of people than General Eisenhower controls."

Conversely, the Conservative

'OUTLAW REGIME' U.S. DESCRIPTION OF RED CHINA

Debate on Motion To Hold Debate Held

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United States terms Red China an outlaw regime and Nationalist China a "good warrior" ally, a reliable comrade in the cause of peace.

Russia terms Red China a "great peace-loving state," Nationalist China "that detestable clique . . . that corpse."

These were the starting points of a debate resuming today in the United Nations General assembly, which is considering whether to include on its current big agenda an item on the UN representation of China.

The assembly has before it a U.S.-sponsored recommendation from its 21-member steering committee that it reject India's request for debating of the issue. The committee asked nothing more, but Russia immediately demanded—as it has in recent years—that the Peking regime replace the Nationalists in the UN.

SEE NORMAL DEFEAT

The U.S. predicted another defeat for the proposal in the Russian-led assembly. Last year the vote was 44 to 28 with nine abstentions.

Walter Robertson, former U.S. assistant state secretary, declared Monday that "by every standard of national and international conduct the Red regime of Peking is an outlaw."

Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov echoed Premier Khrushchev, who addressed the assembly last Friday, and declared it "intolerable" that Red China, one of the biggest powers in the world, had not after years been deprived of its lawful UN rights.

He accused Robertson of turning the facts topsy-turvey, and he described Formosa's claim to the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, ruling only U.S. "bayonets" enable the Nationalists to hold their position there.

Dryness, Rain at Wrong Times Sad Story Told by Farmers

By The Canadian Press

Dryness in the growing seasons and rain at harvest time of Trials the sad story told by farmers in most parts of Canada as they toll to bring in the remaining crops.

Soggy grain fields in the west and the Maritimes alike forced harvest machinery to wait for drying sunshine. The Canadian Press found in a cross-country survey.

However, the general prospect in most areas is for crops not far off average—although much of the prairie grain crops still are vulnerable to weather.

The prairie grain harvest, now well on its way, was bedevilled for some weeks by repeated rains. The wetness has caused damage and loss of quality to grain, especially grain lying in swath on the ground.

But despite this, Manitoba Centre, foreground, police and security officers push their way through a huge crowd as the ed in with his party on an unannounced visit. smiling premier moved down an aisle.

In Prince Edward Island grain harvesting is in full swing.

Behind The Iron Curtain

Westerners Find Russ Policies Unpredictable

LENINGRAD —

The French have a well-known proverb, "plus ca change, plus c'est la meme chose." Freely translated, it means "the more change there is, the more it's the same thing."

There is more truth in this statement than meets the eye, especially when one has a look at Russian history before and after the Revolution in 1917. It is important to remember this date, for the Communists in the same year in which they seized power were forced to explanations of what existed before and after the Revolution which would give one an impression that everything has greatly changed since that time, and for

GUNMAN EXECUTES TEEN-AGER FOR INVADING AREA

One Admits Killing Seven Rounded Up,

NEW YORK (AP) — A juvenile gang member's effrontery in going into another gang's territory to date a girl is said to have set the stage for the slaying of a 17-year-old boy on his high school steps.

John Guzman, a Puerto Rican student at Morris High School in the Bronx, was ambushed outside the school Monday by eight youths wearing trench coats.

Gunman and two companions retreated to the school steps, where Guzman was dropped by a single bullet. He died at a hospital two hours later, after whispering to police: "A blue convertible shot me."

CONFESSES KILLING

Later police rounded up seven Puerto Rican youths and Edward Perez, 17, was the killer—and according to witnesses was the wearer of a "cowboy" outfit. They said Perez confessed the shooting.

The blue coat, police said, apparently was a badge of leadership in the street gang, as all the other youths arrested had worn light tan coats.

The youths arrested, and one still sought, were described as members of the Viceroys and the Royal Knights, composed mainly of Puerto Ricans.

HAD LEFT GANG

Guzman had been a member of another Puerto Rican gang, known as the Chevaliers. But police said that just before the fatal shooting he had left the Crowns some time ago.

The Knights apparently thought he was still a member of the rival gang.

Behind the fatal meeting, police said, was an argument that grew up after a member of the Royal Knights went into Vivian Crown "territory" Sunday night to see a girl.

A short time after yesterday's shooting a grand jury returned first-degree murder indictments against seven other Puerto Rican youths in the fatal beating of two 16-year-olds August 30 on a west side playground.

Mayor Boasted He Was Ready With Long Knife

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A television commentator said Monday Mayor Norris Poulson had said saying before gifts banquet remarks by Nikita Khrushchev:

". . . I'm going to have a long, long knife. And I'm going to ram it all the way up his rear end—a . . . ."

"The mayor did not complete this phrase," said a news release from station KTLA.

Word for the release the mayor said his recollection is that he merely told the commentator, "The speech is going to be long. I'm going to have meat in it. It's not going to be a lot of baloney."

Gay Mr. K. Wears His Sunshine Face In San Francisco

In Supermarket, Factory And Union Hall, 'Peace'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev, who became so charmed with San Francisco that he sounded like a chamber of commerce, headed today for the corn fields of Iowa.

Ahead is an agricultural schedule that should keep him—a onetime sheep herder—in the same gay, peace-talking mood he was in all day Monday.

His plane was scheduled to leave at 12:30 p.m. EDT...Two hours and 15 minutes later he was due in Des Moines.

There he will tour the city, stop at a farm implement plant, speak at a dinner tonight and on Wednesday visit a farm at Coon Rapids; to see how tall the corn grows.

Khrushchev is a man of many moods. Monday he was jovial and joking and didn't lose his temper once. Over and over again he preached the world's peace and friendship.

He said he and President Eisenhower had begun frank discussions in Washington, and he found the second round, which beginning Friday, would bring the differences substantially closer together.

Khrushchev was at his lighthearted best in a speech to a factory winding up a sometimes stormy, sometimes gay day that says hestle three-day stay on the United States west coast.

The audience greeted enthusiastically when he said:

"The people in San Francisco have positively charmed us. I felt as if I were among friends when I was thinking the same thoughts as the people in the hall thought."

All cities he has visited were good, but San Francisco was "the best of all."

Khrushchev once again put forward his plan for total disarmament plan, and again called for peace and friendship with Communist ruled-East Germany.

But there wasn't a hint of belligerency in his words. And once he said of the Soviet system:

"We want to build a society under which every man will be a brother of his neighbor, where there will be no enmity, where will be complete equality; as, by the way, was preached by Christ."

Earlier he went a step further than Communists usually do when they discuss the U.S. The Communist line is that only the American people may want peace but their government doesn't.

But here was Khrushchev saying:

"We want to have friendship with the American people and the American government, and I draw no line of distinction between the government and the people of the United States."

Khrushchev went on to correct away with his theme that he even declared peace with Los Angeles.

Before Saturday night he threatened to go home.

In reference to his blowup there, when he became angry at a speech made by Mayor Norris Poulson, as "the unhappy incident," and added:

Nina Dodges Reporters to Visit Stores and Take Look at School

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nina Khrushchev dodged reporters and crowds for a few hours of window shopping and a chance to look at an American school.

Nina, on the run from a reporter, a cameraman and a bodyguard, made a quick tour of a department store, where Gunman and two companions Khrushchev and her husband, the Soviet premier.

Slipping out of the official motorcade in a limousine, Mrs. Khrushchev and her small entourage eluded their confused guards. Reporters and cameramen were off for more than three hours before they caught up with them. But Mrs. Khrushchev was escorted by her own security guard throughout.

Mrs. Khrushchev went to a department store, where she spent $150 buying such things as clothes for grandchildren — just about expected.

The outing, lasting from about 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., took her and the Khrushchev daughters, Rada and Julia, over the Golden Gate bridge, through a Chinese section of the city and into the suburbs.

They paused for a late lunch at Trader Vic's Restaurant, where the Khrushchevs selected hamburger Hawaiian — served with fried bananas and pineapple on the side. Then they looked at international dishes, including Russian caviar.

After lunch the private journey ended. As the party set out for the store and a half drive, a 10-car motorcade of newspaper people screeched past red lights and up to the Khrushchev limousine.

Mrs. Khrushchev went to the Edgewood Elementary School in Mill Valley. She was greeted at recess play. She shook hands with the principal and children as they trooped inside. Then she inspected the classrooms and asked questions.

Assistant principal Barbara Moore said Mrs. Khrushchev commented that the school was "very nice" and had "wonderful" equipment.

She noted a number of Negro children and asked if there was any tuition fee. When told there was no charge, she wondered how books and paper were paid for.

In a fifth - grade classroom, Mrs. Khrushchev discovered a picture of herself tacked up.

She was pleased at that, principal Gertrude O'Halloran reported.

Jobless Number 11,000 Higher During August

OTTAWA (CP) — A five-month improvement trend for Canadian labor was reversed in August as employment slipped slightly and the number of jobless rose by 11,000 daily, the government reported today.

However, compared with August of last year, employment was higher and unemployment lower.

The July all-time record of 6,206,000 employed persons dropped to 6,186,000 at Aug. 1, the bureau of statistics estimated, mostly due to an earlier-than-usual decline in farm jobs. It was 6,025,000 a year earlier.

The bureau estimated those without jobs and seeking work numbered 229,000 in August, compared with 218,000 a month earlier and 291,000 in August, 1958.

SEASONAL GAIN

But the government's National Employment Service reported simultaneously that the number of persons registered for work showed a drop between July and August.

The total was 278,833 at Aug. 31, compared with 287,431 at July 14 and 357,687 in August of last year.

The NES figures, however, are arrived at in different ways.

The bureau makes monthly national estimates on the basis of a sample survey of 30,000 households.

National Employment Service provides figures on hand at a given date, corrected each week to confining them to actual jobseekers but admittedly containing an inevitable proportion not then unemployed. Also, not all unemployed register with the service.

The job registrations showed declines between mid-August for all major sections of Canada except Quebec, where they went up 7,129 to 107,143. Over the year, they were down everywhere.

Steel Strike Forces Closing Of Auto Plant

DETROIT (AP) — After 10 weeks of a nationwide steel strike has forced an automobile plant to close. More shutdowns can be expected unless the flow of steel from mills halted.

Plans announced by the Columbus, Ohio, plant of General Motors' Terminfel Division which makes trim and body hardware for GM cars, it halted production Monday and will lay off 2,500 production employees during the next week.

Terminfel officials said finished inventories were sufficient to match the number of cars GM can build without steel available.

The auto industry is the biggest buyer of steel and GM, biggest builder of cars, apparently is the source of first effects of the competitors.

Chrysler says it can build cars into November. Ford, which produces half of its own steel, probably can hold out that long, too. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard also reported sufficient steel for another two months.

The industry expected a steel that steel shortages will hamper production in a big way at the start of what the companies predict will be an excellent sales year.

HASTINGS T.B. BODY OFFICIAL AT MEETING

Mrs. A./N. Hallam, executive secretary of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association, last week attended a four-day secretaries conference at Toronto. During the Thursday morning session, of which Mrs. Hallam was the chairman, it was announced that Dr. Feaner of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association that in 1961 Canada will be honored by being host to the International Union Against Tuberculosis. This is a most colorful gathering of approximately 2,000 delegates from all over the world, and in 1959 the Union meeting was held in Istanbul, Turkey. The meeting in 1961 will be held in Toronto, it is believed at this time.

AUTHORITY WILL INSPECT AREA

There will be a meeting of the Moira River Conservation Authority Wednesday afternoon. The members of the Authority will be gathering at the Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area, one mile east of Thomasburg at 1.30 p.m. for an examination of the area, which the Authority intends to open up as parkland next year.

Following this they will proceed to the Municipal Hall of Rungerford in Tweed for an important business meeting. The later is expected to commence at about 3.00 to 3.30 o'clock.

WILL DISCUSS FINAL PLANS FOR ANNUAL RALLY

The Belleville Chapter of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club will be holding a special meeting tomorrow evening to discuss the final arrangements for the club's annual Thousand Islands Rally, Canada's senior national calendar rally event. The meeting, which will commence at 7.30 p.m., will open with a short road rally for members and guests starting from the Bel Canto barracks on Scott Front Street. The business meeting will follow the rally and a film of the 1956 Sebring Grand Prix will be shown during the entertainment period following the business meeting.

3 New Routes Being Considered In Contract

Three new bus routes serving recently developed areas in the East, North and West sections of the city are being considered in the calling of tenders for the out bus franchise for the next five years.

The new bus agreement will go into effect on January 1st.

In all, six bus routes are proposed for operation under the proposed new agreement, three of them covering essentially routes now being covered.

There will be three routes for east Belleville, one of them the newly developed area, the ultimate aim being to extend the route along Victoria Avenue to Haig Sideroad. Due to Victoria presently being unopened for the entire distance, this route is being temporarily changed to traverse opened streets.

In north Belleville it is proposed to serve the Hillcrest, West College and Parkdale area, while one of the East Hill bus routes will be changed to serve Palmer Road and West Dundas Street in the annexed area.

The bus route will be let out for tender and the agreement will later be covered by by-law.

Members of 'Fighting 21st' To Hold 41st Reunion Here

"Old soldiers never die, they simply fade away."

The famous old-soldier song applies to the "Fighting 21st Battalion, CEF" whose members "fade away" rapidly, only to gather again within twelve months.

And these grey-thatched "old sweats" of World War One have an unique record, one of which they are justifiably proud.

They comprise the only unit of two world wars which have held annual reunions since demobilization.

Since that first battalion meeting after the war bugles sounded the cease-fire in World War One, the "1ist" has not missed an annual get-together.

On Saturday and Sunday of this week, Sept. 26 and 27, the famous infantry unit marks its 41st annual reunion here at the armouries and the Hotel Quinte.

The "21st" comprises a unit of which there can be no new members. Each year Time takes its inexorable toll. Each year its numbers dwindle. Hundreds of members of the battalion attended the first few reunions. Then the numbers started to diminish. It is expected some 200 of the "remnants" will meet again here this weekend.

In the language of the first world war "in general and the 21st" in particular, the 1959 "Big Push" starts at the Bridge Street Armouries Saturday morning where registration starts at 10 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the executive body of the battalion association convenes at four p.m. in the armouries. At 6.30 the annual banquet will be held in the Hotel Quinte.

Wives and other lady guests in attendance at the dinner will be entertained at the Armouries, where they are accommodated of their own at the hotel while the veterans are at the banquet table.

A regrettable note of the reunion is the fact that the veteran editor of the battalion communique, Fred T. Hart, who has not missed a reunion, will be unable to attend due to illhealth.

PADRE WILL COME

The beloved padre of the battalion, Lieut.-Col. Rev. Canon W. E. Kidd, MC., MA, DD, of Kingston, will be here and will be the guest preacher at the divine service which the battalion will attend at St. Thomas" Church Sunday morning.

Garn Dobbs is president of the Belleville branch of the 21st Battalion Association. Other Belleville members include Leroy Madden, past - president, H. "Bonner" Holway, Harper McEwan, Fred T. Hart, Ab Acheson almost a full complement with us Bell Telephone. Charley and Bill Coleman, Ab Newman, Joe Hart, and others. From Trenton will come Lorne Foster, Mike Harrison, Bert Riley and others. Col. F. R. Wilkie hails city, and Major Ewart Jones of Lindsay are also ex-members of the battalion.

Saturday night's banquet will be preceded by "mustering on" of the battalions famous colors. This will be in charge of Garn Dobbs.

Major the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, Padre, padre of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, will give the invocation.

The toast to the 21st will be proposed by Lieut.-Col. T. S. Fairman, ED, former commanding officer of the Hasty Pees, with the response given by Lieut.-Col. H. E. Penne, ISO, MC, ED, Kingston, former 21st commanding officer.

Lieut.-Col. Angus B. Duffy, MC, will respond to the toast to his regiment the Hastings and Prince Edward, and the Canadian Armoured Corps.

Padre Kidd will propose the "toast to the fallen."

Association president W. Tay. Allen will be chairman of the banquet meeting.

No Dog Catcher As Yet Named By Council

Belleville is still without a dog catcher pending committee action on a council recommendation to again screen applicants for the position and recommend a suitable man for the position.

The job has been vacant since the beginning of the month ago Charles Thorn, who re-applied for the position, when applications were invited.

Of the 13 applications received the name had narrowed down to two men — Earl Latchford of Sidney township and Charles Thorn but the committee chosen to screen applicants were tied on their choice of men.

Two weeks ago council in committee approved of a recommendation that Latchford, Thorn be appointed. Then last week the recommendation was referred back as council might no action was taken on the matter.

"I am getting disgusted with this dog catcher situation," commented Mayor Conrad Hyde who said he was receiving many telephone calls from conscientious people wanting to know what to do with stray animals.

He noted that one of the objections which some members of council took to Mr. Latchford was that he lived too far out in the country. He said, however, that Mr. Latchford had promised he would move into the city as soon as it was possible for him to do so.

It is expected that the special committee headed by Alderman Jack Ellis may come up with a recommendation for next council but in the meantime the city is still without a dogcatcher.

Auto Looted, Another Stolen

A .22 calibre semi-automatic rifle, a trunk containing shirts and other clothing, and a camera were taken from a car on the post office lot last night.

Police said thieves forced a rear window on a car owned by John Redz of Walthingham, Ont.

Thieves also entered an Elliott's used car lot on North Front Street, stole the keys to a 1953 sedan and made off with the vehicle.

In court this morning a translent was given three months in jail for shoplifting.

Behind Iron Curtain

wouldn't know an original thought if they had it.

But the best proof of all this is Yugoslavia. After the war the Yugoslavs, under the leadership of their communist wartime hero Marshal Tito, broke their ties with the Russians. It only took a few years for Tito to realize that the Russians were interested in Yugoslavia only for two reasons — a source of cheap raw materials and a government subservient to Moscow. Tito would have none of this, and had the courage to break off from Moscow's domination. Since then he has been the bete noire of the land of Communism, and the quarrel between the two countries has waxed hot and cold.

Coming a little closer to home, one has only to remember the intervention of the Russian army in the Hungarian revolt of 1956. Somehow have yet to get a satisfactory answer to why this intervention was necessary. Either I get a lot of nonsense about reactionary elements trying to overthrow people's republic or else the subject is rather quickly dropped. I'm not sure which but there is still some uneasiness in the Russians' minds about this.

TWO GENERATIONS

Of course we were told that the Soviet government and people wanted peace and the proof was we learned them that we did, too. If that was the case, they replied, why did the United Nations doing with all their bombers bases around the world? Was not the American way of showing they wanted peace? I replied that their efforts at building an alliance, appear to be a warlike act on the part of the American people before there is any conclusion as to the reason for their existence. As Russians we cannot consider two things.

First, after the war the Allies, with the exception of Russia, demobilized almost completely, and it was only after a careful deliberate act on the part of the Russians that the Western nations began to rearm.

Second, the bases that bother the Russians as much as they do, are for defensive purposes, and no bomber would be sent out to attack Russia unless there was proof proof that America itself was being attacked.

The pattern of discussing this and many other questions with the Russians is made much more difficult, as we have found out, by the fact that much of the information or facts which the Russians possess are, from our point of view, misleading and/or completely false. I get the impression that when you tell a Russian something he does not know, he quite often just doesn't believe you, or doesn't want to.

Sometimes one thing to us and another thing to the Russians. I think he would call "dom" to them means the freedom to go ahead and inflict on others their own way of living. When we don't look at their way we obviously don't understand them. Quite often our guide has stated in the Russian language "I un- d- derstand you, but I don't think you understand me."

This statement, I found rather strange, for I had the impression we were much better informed than she was, and we understood her all too well.

UNPREDICTABLE

But I must admit, that in looking at recent Russian history, that while one may understand what the Russians are trying to do, it is next to impossible to tell in advance just how they are going to go about doing it. Some of their actions in policy have left even the Russian people themselves confused, to say nothing of the rest of the world. I think back at all I have seen and heard these past few weeks, and it all leaves me rather limp. Such a lot to digest in such a short time. But I can't say I have been really surprised at what they have told me. Much of it I suspected or knew in advance. But I like ju ste for myself. I just want some of the friendliness of the people here had rubbed off on the locals ers. Perhaps much of what I have described in this article would not have appeared

LUCAS — Suddenly, on Sunday morning, dear mother, Eva Lucas, who passed away at her home, 420 September 20th, 1949.

We would say suffer and heard you sigh

But all we could do was just stand and cry

For when the time came, we had suffered more

For you never deserved what you went through.

So you who have a mother,

Dearest, her with care,

For you will never know a heartache

Until you see your chair.

—Sadly missed but never forgotten by her daughter Shirley and son-in-law Ralph and kids.

CARDS OF THANKS

Rotary Rejects Motion by Single Vote

Local Rotarians voted down a motion that the Rotary Club of Belleville forward the application to Rotary International that the parent body extend fraternal greetings to Premier Khrushchev of Russia on his making a goodwill trip to the United States and to present to the Russian premier the objectives of Rotary International along with its best wishes to the Russian people. The motion, presented at yesterday's weekly dinner meeting brought forth much comment from those both for and against it and was eventually voted down by one vote.

The program for the day was a film on the uses to which the atom could be put in the interests of mankind. This interesting film stressed that much had to be done in the way of research and technical perfection to bring benefits of the atom into peaceful use. Prior to the film it was apparent to the club projectionists that similar work was necessary, to ensure that the machinery used to make such presentations was perfected.

The club's new meeting time of 12:15 p.m. instead of 12:30 o'clock fooled a lot of members but Dr. Harry Bunn, organized-arms, soon turned this slight bit of confusion into contributions for the Crippled Children's Fund via the fine box. Despite the confusion over time the meeting was very well attended and if the level is maintained club president Fred Wilson's request for the members to make an all-out effort to bring the club out of the district's attendance cellar should not have to be repeated.

This week the club's long distance visitor was David Dunham of St. Augustine, Florida and Dr. Van Blakelee's birthday was celebrated. Guests were introduced by George Lawhern. A Scottish sing-song was conducted by Jack Bateman and Ernie Burnham at the piano. President - Fred Wilson was chairman of the meeting.

Former Grand Old Oprey Star Stirs Audience

Overflow audiences at Calvary Temple on Sunday heard T. Texas Tyler, former star of the Grand Old Opery, television academy award winner and favorite entertainer of millions, tell the thrilling story of his fight to fame, his battle to overcome the habits of dope and drink that had fastened upon him, and the heart-warming epilogue of his salvation and new life in the work of God.

Tex ran away from home at the age of fourteen, determined to reach the top. "It took eighteen years to get there", he said, "but when I reached the top, the Hollywood crooks came into my life. When you get to the top in Hollywood you find you have to have express agents, managers and bodyguards. These hangers-on get power of attorney and run up expenses that you have no way of accounting for. You don't even know what happens to your money. Everything looks clean and beautiful on the outside, but its heart is filthy. It is the summer-time hell on this earth".

The Western singing star started drinking to be sociable. He thought he could keep within the bounds of moderation, never dreaming that it would get a hold on him. Before he knew it he was a confirmed alcoholic and dope addict. He was ashamed to go on these narcotics to keep going. "I tried every cure that was supposed habits, but will power never helped an alcoholic or dope addict. Alcoholics Anonymous helped many drunkards but they didn't help me. It takes a greater power. I went to psychiatrists but all they did was to ask me about my family history and every other question they could think of, until it drove me mad. I then needed money as much as I did.

"Close friends who had become Christians, such as Roy Rogers, Redd Harper and Stuart Hamblin, tried to tell me that I needed God. but I'd always change the subject. I thought, when I got my business all caught up I'd be a Christian. But, naturally, that doesn't want you to wait till things get caught up — He wants you to accept Him now".

MET DISC JOCKEY

Then, a year and a half ago, while Tex was playing golf with a couple of movie stars, he met a disc jockey who had become a Christian. They offered this man "The Squeakin' Deacon." He said, "Yes — If you've tried all these other ways to break your bad habits, and failed, have you thought of trying Jesus?"

The next day the Deacon got a Foursquare Gospel preacher to visit him. "I had been drinking since I got up that morning," said Tex, "and when I saw them coming I ran like an old hypocrite to the bathroom to rinse my mouth with listerine. They got me on my knees after a while and I gave my heart to God. I promised God that if He'd help me get rid of my drinking and dope habits I'd serve Him the rest of my life. The next morning, for the first time in many years I had a cup of coffee. Previously I had to start the day with a half pint of liquor. Jesus had set me free.

GOT NEW SPONSOR

"I've got me a brand new sponsor — God Almighty. I'm about broke but I'm happy, because I have the richest thing in this world, salvation and freedom from the bondage of sin. A rich man without Christ is only a poor man with money. I've said, for what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

Tex admitted that he was no great evangelist but only a greenhorn in God's yet, in a year and a half of ministry he had over a thousand souls for Christ. "I'm going to preach and sing up and down the U.S.A. and Canada as long as God gives me strength, because these countries need God more than most other countries in the world. There is only one way to get to Heaven and that is through Jesus."

In the Sunday School session, as well as the morning and evening services, the former star of the entertainment world thrilled his listeners with many gospel songs rendered in his inimitable Western style, accompanied by his famous guitar.

LIGHTNING STRIKES

WOODSTOCK, Oct. (CP) — At least 10 cows in Oxford county farm pastures were killed by lightning during one fierce storm late in August.

Blow-Out Cause Of Accident, Driver Injured

Andreas Gaal of Cardiff, Ont. suffered a broken arm late Monday afternoon as result of a two-vehicle collision on the Madoc-Tweed road just north of Halloway. The accident occurred at the foot of "The Hill" located immediately north of the village.

The injured man had just purchased a late-model used car and a Belleville used car lot and was driving it home when his vehicle was in collision with a southbound pick-up truck driven by Louis Bourgeois of Madoc, N.B. A blown tire on the truck was said responsible for the mishap.

Capt. J. Watson New Chairman Of Sea Cadets

The Navy League of Belleville held its first meeting of the fall season yesterday evening at the headquarters of the RCSCC "Quinte". The main topic of the evening was the problem of making certain basic structural alterations to the Sea Cadet barracks. These alterations under Bill Judge, chairman of properties, was appointed to investigate the cost of such alterations as might be required.

A clean-up of the barracks was approved in principle and this work is expected to be completed shortly, after the receipt of a cost estimate. The cost of obtaining regular janitor services is also being investigated.

The resignation of Bob Lanning as chairman of the Sea Cadet committee was regretfully accepted by the president, Ross Silver. Capt. John Watson was elected to the post and vacated by Mr. Lanning, confirmation by an earlier appointment in this capacity by the president.

A favorable representation to the annual Navy League Convention, being held in Toronto October 2nd and 3rd, was made. This included the president, Ross Silver, Capt. John Watson and Doug Phippen.

Some problem has arisen over the future of the Sea Cadet Corps in Belleville and it was suggested that the Navy League had improved considerably during the past year. A request for new mouthpieces, drumsticks, and refacing of drumheads for the Sea Cadet band was approved by the members.

It was also suggested that the possibility of locating a new camping site for the Sea Cadet Corps summer and camps be investigated. The site used by the Corps for the past few years is now in the hands of the provincial government and the facilities extended by the land's previous owner have not been continued.

United Appeal Organizations Submit Budgets

The 11 agencies participating in the 1950-51 Belleville United Appeal campaign to raise $85,000, which opens October 15th, submitted budgets totalling $71,190.

A breakdown of the budgets, disclosed at the campaign chairman E. G. Gurnett, is as follows: Boy Scouts Association $2,000; Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, $4,000 (Canadian National Institute for the Blind, $7,800; Canadian Red Cross Society, $13,000; Children's Aid Society, $4,500; I.O.D.E. Argyle Chapter, $450; I.O.D.E. St. Julien Chapter, $450; Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps. (Quinte), $3,000; St. John Ambulance, $3,500; Victorian Order of Nurses, $7,000; and the Young Men's Christian Association, $25,000.

The remainder of the $85,000 objective includes an estimated $6,000 for campaign expenses, and a $7,300 contingency fund to any new agencies wishing to join the Appeal prior to the start of the next campaign. Mr. Gurnett explained.

He also stressed the budgets submitted by the various Appeal organizations represent the difference between the estimated total budget and the amount of money it receives from other sources of revenue.

Mr. Gurnett also announced the names of chairmen for the eight canvassing units.

Chairmen are as follows: national corporation (corporations whose headquarters are not in Belleville), Gus Freeman; special names, Jack Tweedsmuir; business divisions, Hal Floyd, H. R. "Barney" Parsons; residential, Doug Courtney; public services, Harold Parker; professional division, Dr. Reid; payroll deduction plan, J. C. R. Punchard; residential section, Mrs. J. H. Forrester; railway division, Judge J. C. Anderson with vice-chairman, A. O. Drysdale.

The campaign chairman is E. G. Gurnett, and vice-chairmen are A. S. Lewis, T. W. Simpson and R. W. G. "Bob" Freestone.

Planning Board Under Fire at Council Meeting

TRENTON — Policy of the Trenton Planning Board got another lashing going-over by Trenton Town Councillors at their regular meeting last night when it was appointed up during a lengthy discussion concerning the following items.

Mrs. Gladys Pelkey has a fabricated tract of land at the corner of George and South Streets in Trenton. She wants to build a home for sale and requested there. But Mrs. Pelkey has a problem.

She can't build a house on her lot it's too small.

She took her problem to the local Council some while back. They referred her to the local Planning Board. The Board made no decision on the matter, but they had not sufficient information.

At last night's meeting, local solicitor, James Day appeared to speak in Mrs. Pelkey's behalf. He wanted to know what was going to happen. In fact, so did Council.

It seems that the lot in question measures 50 x 99 feet — which is much smaller than the Planning Board. The Board made no decision on the matter, but they had not sufficient information.

Council Offers No Bus Service, Just Sympathy

TRENTON — Residents of the West and Princess Streets area, north of the city limits of Trenton, received the unanimous sympathy of Trenton town council last night — but nothing else.

A petition request from these residents to have the Rathbun Bus service extended to the area was read by Clerk O. W. Larry at last night's meeting. In the letter, the residents complained of the fact that they had to walk or take a taxi to go downtown, a considerable distance by anyone's standards.

Mayor Burit explained that the matter had been previously reviewed by the traffic committee and that it was discovered that bus service could not be extended if the company was subsidized in the amount of $3,500. This was considered an impossibility.

As Councillor Lloyd Weese explained, "The people are in a distinct disadvantage. But with costs the way they are, there's no can do about it. Such things are happening all over. In Belleville, it's the same old tuck all the way."

Mayor Burit added, "We must have these people our sympathy, but there's definitely nothing in the budget for at least $3,500 donation for bus service for 1,200 people."

Councillor Claude Graham ended the discussion by pointing out that it might help if these people would patronize the buses. "I've seen more buses doing the circuit without a single passenger," he said.

Mr. Graham then added that all was not lost as far as the bus service for these people was concerned. "From what I understand the end of Byron Street is developed, some sort of service can be exercised if not done in the outlying area."

Clerk Larry was instructed to write these people a letter of sympathy, but explain that, for the time being, at least, they'd have to walk.

Committee of Adjustment would accept Mrs. Pelkey's plan as it was, and would allow for the lesser footage.

Mayor Burit closed the discussion by suggesting that the Town have the area surveyed at their expense — so they could find out exactly where the South-George Street boundaries were. Then it could be again taken up with the Planning Board.

Everyone agreed — for it was obvious all Councillors felt Mrs. Pelkey should build her house.

A report will be made at a later date.

'Guck' on Road Annoys Woman

TRENTON — One Trenton lady isn't too happy with the material the Town has been using to lay the dust on the roads this year. That point was obvious at last night's meeting when she told the local town fathers in no uncertain terms, exactly what she thought of the "guck".

The lady resides on Weeks Avenue, in the area where there are several children. She was extremely annoyed about the fact that her youngsters as well as those of the neighbors, had been playing in huge puddles, which had wreaked havoc with their clothes and the parents' rugs. She demanded that something be done about it.

Town Engineer Eric Aldersey explained that new equipment had been used to lay the oily material in that area and that no doubt some adjustment could be made to reduce the amount of spray.

He promised that he would attend to the matter "first thing in the morning" and see that things were laid over the material.

The lady made a promise too — that she'd be found him with 'phone calls if it wasn't done. And if it wasn't looked after by the next Council meeting, she told the members they could expect a laundering bill for clothes and rugs. With that, she left.

After calling for order several times, Mayor Burit resumed the meeting.

Seeks Approval Of Subdivision

TRENTON — "I could make some money for myself. And it would mean more taxes for the town."

Hoping he'd hit home with these words, a young Trenton contractor displayed knowing tactics last night when appearing before town council with a request for approval of a new subdivision. And, what's more, his plan was a success, for his words met with an approving laugh and a promise of quick action from the local council.

Stanko Klemencic was requesting Council's approval to build several homes next to the Sidney Street Armoury. The granting of this request involved the fulfillment of several conditions on the contractor's part. After being told by Mayor Burit that Mr. Klemencic would have to have a meeting with Councillor Bradshaw and his committee before the matter could be settled, the contractor quipped:

"That's fine with me, but I hope it doesn't take too long to arrange it. I want to start building before the end of the year, or it will be too late."

Besides, I could make some money for myself. And you know, it would mean more taxes for the town."

"Now that you've mentioned the tax angle" said Mayor Burit, "I can assure you that you'll get prompt action from Mr. Bradshaw and his committee."

He promised Mr. Klemencic that the matter would be settled within two weeks.

Car Runs Away, Damage Is $90

TRENTON — A car parked at a service station on Dundas Road yesterday, took a little trip by itself across the road, through the ditch and into a field before the curs'on" will cost the owner an estimated $90 in damages.

The incident occured when a car, owned by James P. Casson, R. I. Connecticut, was parked in the B A Service station yard. The brakes apparently failed and the car slipped across the road and into the High School fence. The vehicle suffered damages to the hood, grille, left fender and front bumper, estimated at about $60. The boat fence is expected to cost $30 for repairs.

Study Repairs To Marmora Dam

The Water Control Advisory Board of the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority met at Marmora yesterday afternoon to hear proposals from three consultant engineering firms on suggested repairs to the dam on the Crowe River at Marmora.

This dam is presently in poor state of repair and there is excessive leakage of water around the base of the concrete pier, making it difficult to control the water level during the dry season.

The board decided to appoint Mr. Brian Butler, P. Eng. of Peterborough as consultant engineer. He is to prepare a complete report on the proposed repairs, the methods to be used, the costs, and the benefits to be realized from such repairs. The appointment is conditional on the approval of the Department of Planning and Development. The report is to be ready for another meeting of the board on October 7th, prior to a meeting of the full Authority.

The Authority's solicitor is to investigate the status of the property on which the dam is erected.

No Liberals Left

"A cartoon in a contemporary shows a long line of soldiers on a battle field designated as "British Commonwealth." All but one of these soldiers are dead. The last to fall, "T. L. Mac," is handling a banner inscribed "Liberalism" to the sole survivor, "Joey." The cartoon is entitled "The Sole Survivor." It is evidently intended to refer to the recent victory of the Progressive-Conservatives in Prince Edward Island. "Joey" is Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, the only part of the Commonwealth which has a government which goes by the name of Liberal.

Fortunately the situation is not really this bad, or it would be worse. Premier Smallwood is not likely to be accepted as a liberal by many who pride themselves on that designation, while many of the Commonwealth's leaders who rule under other names frequently advocate liberal policies. Nevertheless, turning from the political field where confusion frequently misleading, there is enough truth in the cartoon to hurt. What has happened to liberalism in the world?

If we are to answer that question, we need first to define liberalism. The dictionary does not help us much. "Free in views or opinions," it says, but a liberal is not free to hold certain views and opinions, though he ought to grant to other men the right to hold them. "Expansive in purpose or aim" says the dictionary and that is a little better. "Not narrow, bigoted or intolerant" says the dictionary, but that is a negative definition and true liberalism ought to be a positive force. Perhaps there are as many definitions of liberalism as there are liberals, but so the reader may pardon one more. It seems to us that a liberal is a man who habitually welcomes change, unless it can be shown that this change is harmful, who wants for himself the widest latitude, in the expression of his opinions and in the field for his actions, it is possible to grant without limiting the similar rights of other men, who does not believe that he has a monopoly of truth for their rights of other men half a world away as for his own rights, (though who can reach this ideal?) and who is prepared to resist the imposition by force of standards of speech, thought, belief and action which are not imperative for the welfare of the community, even though he himself believes in these standards. Specifically, a liberal will welcome a law against rape but oppose one against adultery; may be an atheist, agnostic, theist or deist but oppose any law promoting atheism, agnosticism, theism or deism to the disadvantage of those holding different beliefs, may be a socialist or a capitalist, but not a Communist or a Fascist, may be white, black, brown, yellow, red, British, French, German, Russian, Japanese, Hindu or Arab and neither ashamed nor proud of this accident of birth, will hate sin and help the sinner although he may, perchance, decline to recognize the existence of either; will be slow to judge but firm to support what has been proven.

The world's climate is inclement for the liberal, and none but the liberal mourns his passing. Perhaps this is as well, for the liberal, as painted, never really existed. .He was just an ideal and if, a few decades ago, there were men who appeared such it must have been just an illusion, like the illusion that every day in every way the world was growing better, like the belief in the inevitability of gradualism in man's improvement, like the conviction that because war was becoming so expensive it was also becoming impossible, like those other illusions, those dreams of prophets long ago, which led Christ to say "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," and Buddha before him to declare "One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self," which leads the Hindu to proclaim "The true rule is to do by the things of others as you do by your own" and the Parsee to urge "Do as you would be done by," which prompted Confucius to instruct "What you would not wish done to yourself, do not do to others" and made Mohonmet command the faithful "Let none of you treat a brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated."

But, if the world survives, they will be back, all these illusions, perhaps a little brighter, as art and science emerged brighter in the Renaissance after the Dark Ages. The new orthodoxies, Communism and free enterprise, nationalism and imperialism, a science shackled to the international ballistic missile and the automation, already have many enemies, who may kill off each other, let it be devoutly hoped without killing off everybody else also. For what plagues this world today is not unbelief but a belief in too many things which are not true, or which, at best, are only partially true. Which is perhaps just another way of saying that what plagues the world is a lack of liberals, for orthodoxy in any form comes hard to the true liberal, even orthodox liberalism.

FIGHTING APHIDS

West Germany is exporting beetles and flies to Canada and the United States. This may seem like sending coal to Newcastle.

But it should be pointed out that these imported insects are being used instead of poisonous sprays to control an aphid which kills balsam trees.

Conservationists on both sides of the border commend the idea. The sprays normally used for destroying forms of wild life, from spring peepers to fiddler crabs and birds. (Kitchener-Waterloo Record.)

Mrs. K. No Bush Leaguer

By J. Norman Smith in the Ottawa Journal

Is it too much to hope that the scores of thousands of Americans and Canadians who watched on television the Khrushchev vs. Washington Press Club game Saturday will now put finality out of their mind the idea that the Russians are major leaguers?

The Soviet Premier caught, kicked, passed, ran around the end and bucked through the centre as though he were just running through a morning workout. He finished without a hair out of scratch to show for it and the only sign of his occasional chortle in his voice made clear that he knew he was going this. As he say in racing parlance, he won going away.

Yet this was no small engagement. This man has never met an unbridled press in his life. He's always had to throw their barrest at him, and he knew that all the world would be watching. But instead of a nervous, worried man with everything at stake he was relaxed, ready-for-anything, and indeed he was.

For 50 minutes he made a speech, half the length devoted to questions. And for the next 45 minutes he faced up to whatever questions the press of the world chose to throw. Nothing took him off stride, no question did he duck as rude or unfair. And he was a master debater he was on the alert for the careless statement and make it dance to his tune.

This is not to say he gave direct answers to every question or even (to us) satisfying answers. His weaving and camouflage were at times masterful. But no, by time did he give his opponents the satisfaction of thinking they had him in a corner.

Confirmed believers in our system of democracy will have felt that he was evasive, unresponsive or even downright dishonest. I am among them. But one can only admire the skill he displayed, the onlookers from Africa or Asia or the Middle East or South America — these would not have any feeling that the head of Russian delegation had been worsted or bore the freedom of the spoken word.

Then, the TV channel didn't reach all those countries and Khrushchev was able to put his case on his own terms, but in its fundamentals the Khrushchev story is beginning to sell to those people, one way and another, yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Let us not forget that Khrushchev has been many places before. He has been in Britain and used to mock the travelling team of British newspapermen. He was in India or wherever they showed up. Perhaps after yesterday's performance there will be no more concerned when we read that Khrushchev is off on tours. A man that can walk into the lion's den at Washington Press Club and come out grinning won't have too much trouble walking into the lion's den at Baghdad, Cairo, Delhi, Peiping, Djakarta or other capitals where explosive anti-Western sentiment is not in vogue.

And yet, will even Thursday's telecast make the impression it should — that he should — that is, in our own lands of democracy?

"We are a persistent people," said Khrushchev of the Russians.

We, too, are a persistent people. We persist in underestimating the Russians.

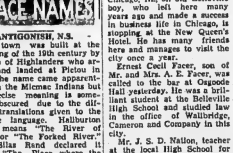
The world has seen brilliant Russian achievements and technical victories at UN ever since 1945. But we have chosen to ignore them. Even when we have seen the Reds beat us in space, we have said it was a fluke; they sent up Sputnik and we declared it trash in the sky just for propaganda; they turned off engineers and scientists at a greater rate than the USA and we smirked knowingly that the quality was there, good scientists; they left us so far behind in might of planes and missiles that we were Branches are Torn Off The Trees by Bears Getting Beech Nuts." Take your choice.

tucked away safely with a load in nuclear energy bombs but now the load has vanished; they announce they will hit the moon and at what time, and some of us said that was just hokum, but they hit it's aiming point and the moon folks don't believe it.

And now the leader of the Communists moves into the capital of capitalism, dresses like a capitalist, talks like a capitalist, talks the smooth sell like an experienced TV announcer, claps all the spears into his breast and comes out refreshed and gleaming from combat.

This was the man we had liked to think we had one step down a savage, usually drunk, and simply a tough gangster type with death power over his clerks and technicians. Yet there he was, answering all questions on his own and with relish. He wasn't sitting beside Gromyko for prompting, nor beside his Ambassador to Washington. He sat with Bill Lawrence of the New York Times on one side, and the news interpreter on the other. He was his own man and was in the world confronting and by the world confronted.

On what subjects? Well, here's a partial list: Hugary, trade, coexistence, the Jerry Lawrence interview with Eisenhower, capitalism, possession of the moon, Stalin, world domination of international affairs conferences around the world for many years, the use of professionals like Churchill, Roosevelt, Eden, Spaak, Hammarsjold, Canada, Dulles and Pearson, he never seen stand with any comparable authority, knowledge and variety of shelltire. And those were all men who had been in the New York Times office for years. The man in front of the cameras yesterday was not the man we met lately to this sophisticated and cosmopolitan atmosphere, a man, indeed, who has put his own foot on this continent let alone been trained to the ways of his press.



It will be said that of course Khrushchev knew how the answers to these questions.

Yes, of course.

But for many of us have been too grudgingly slow to recognize his skills and his stature in the many years? And how many of us will still cling to some vain idea that we still have a ability and energy are superior, must be superior, to any product of communism?

We confuse morals with efficiency. We confuse efficiency a Communist system being worked to the full with a democratic system glandular to loot at the full. Because we know our intentions and principles to be more honorable and more humane, we believe that they must therefore prosper. It ain't necessarily so.

Incorrigible optimists may hope that Mr. Khrushchev was so extremely able that he may have weakened the system so glandular is democracy. The pessimists will have some reason to fear that the awakening, if there was one, is mighty late in the day.

THE OPTIMIST

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I sin't denyin' trouble .
Is eternally about.
An' care's no empty bubble;
No one ever lived without
Their little load to carry
An' bein' up against it, too;
Life's a battle with disaster,
An' the sales ain't always blue,
An' its sun ain't always shining'
An' the moon ain't always bright;
But its troubles, I'm opinin',
Never always come out right.

Leastwise mine have. An' I reckon
I'm the average sort o' chap;
I've seen grin sorrow beckon
An' I've heard the Reaper rap
At my doorway; an' I've stumbled
Into helpless on my way,
An' by failure I've been humbled,
An' my feet have gone astray;
I have stayed eyes-wide an' starin'
Through the dreary hours of night
With the troubles I was-brarin',
But they' mostly came out right.

Time, I find, has reconciled me
To the sorrows I have known,
An' the cares with which Fate piled me
One by one have from me flown.
Why the trouble I was fearin'
When my skies were grim an gray,
Sort of vanished with my nearin'
Anyhow it didn't stay.
Oh, I sin't denyin' trouble
Is a real thing. If you'll fight,
Grit your teeth an' bravely double
Up your fists, you'll come out right.

Two divisions of volunteers will be organized at once to be available if and when the need arises to send an expeditionary force, and trained air personnel will be sent at once, was the statement made last night by former Defence Minister Mackenzie. Less than an hour later Mr. Mackenzie was sworn in as Minister of Pensions and National Health, and was succeeded by former Minister of Labor Rogers in the Defence portfolio.

Lighted by candle held in the hands of Mrs. Archie Robertson, the scroll blazed brightly as it was slowly turned by Mr. Arthur McGie. W. G. Walker, nephew of a former minister, assisted with the ceremony. The Rotarian thanks and gratitude of the crowded hall that the last mortgage on church property had been paid, was suddenly consummated in applause that rang through the auditorium. The ceremony of burning the symbolic mortgage culminated years of co-operative effort on the part of congregation, organizations of the church and individuals, the Rev. W. J. Patterson, minister of the church said in a brief post-ceremony address. "Thanks to the generous gift of a donor, who does not want his name mentioned, and the generosity of the congregation, this ceremony has been made possible."

Competition His Formula

Winnipeg Free Press

Mr. Ludwig Erhard, who has directed the economic recovery of West Germany for the past ten years, shares the secret of economic progress in West Germany. It is simply to permit — indeed enforce — the fullest possible degree of free market price and free competition in business and industry. Controls, subsidies and price-fixing have no place in the West German scheme of things. Mr. Erhard writes: "Price agreements and other forms of business combination are the source of distortion in the market. Genuine competition for better results — and there is no other competition — is not a cut throat practice that leads to ruin but a fountain of youth that constantly refreshes business.

ALCOHOL IS A DRUG AS WELL AS A FOOD

The following item appeared in this column a short time ago: Dear Dr. Molner: I sit down to supper with a group of friends and some of them drink a bit of liquor, eating a slice or more of bread with each glass. Is alcohol and help bring on sobriety?

Mrs. R. L.

The answer was (and still is) no. The alcohol is still in the system.

However, the old idea still lingers, and I have gallery people sincerely and makes all sorts of extravagant promises.

But how far this alcohol absorbed? What effect does eating have? Of black coffee, or making a cup of strong tea, or black? We'll continue this tomorrow.

"Rear Dr. Molner: We are two young girls with a weight problem. We both started menstrating last summer, but now we've gained 10 months since we had a period. Is this normal? S.B. and J.B.

Yes. When menstration begins it is quite common for it to be years before it starts.

Decisions, Decisions!

Milwaukee Journal

Decisions, decisions, decisions! Congress and the president face them constantly. After a long time, neither is finally faced up to the problem of the potatoes. And so in California. It decided to change the name to Petaluma river. And now the legislature will decide whether to agree — or leave the city of Petaluma on the river immediately on the bank of a creek instead of a river.

The dictionary describes a creek as "the estuary of a small river; a brook or a river of moderate size." A river is "a natural stream of water of a size larger than a brook or a creek." Can a stream that has existed for ages, and is now navigable by ocean steamers, actually be called a creek? Congress can do almost everything.

You can hardly blame Petaluma for wanting a river instead of a creek. As one congressman pointed out, you can get bigger boats up a river than up a creek. More salmon go up rivers than creeks. More tug-up creeks. Fishing is usually better. We're glad for Petaluma that congress passed its bill.

Now it's up to the president. He'll never have to face a more time to work on his conference table. Suppose with a problem like this facing him at home. Come to think of it, it's a wonder how congress got anything done when it has to waste its time on stuff like this.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is a good idea to stop long enough, when you are in a shop, to ask the storekeeper questions about his business. For instance, I was buying some envelopes and paper in a small country store yesterday, and it just happened that I was the only one waiting on me why they called it stationery.

"Well, sir," he said, "we in this business were originally packmen. We used to go from house to house with packs on our backs, selling needles and pins, tapes and such like. We couldn't read or write, most of them. So some of us who could read and write got the idea of making a round with a pack on our backs, with paper and pens, pencils and ink in it, and we was; and away we'd go over the hill and dale, calling at lonely and villages, where we were the only presence along through the streets. And people would write a letter written would run out and fetch us into their houses and we'd be so many and so, or sometimes a shilling, we would write the letters they wanted written, with many a beautiful flourish, and we'd read them back.

"Often, we'd meet up with someone who couldn't read and write but who had no paper. So we'd sell them paper and pens. Then we also sold books, mostly cut-and-dried books for scholarly types in the back roads.

And in due time, more and more learned to read and write, and we had to open up stocks of paper and pens and books. Finally, so many could read and write that it made some of us settle down in shops, or in certain fixed places, and the packs in place. We became stationary instead of travelling, and they called us stationers to distinguish us from packmen. And what we sold was stationery.

Lovely? And that's the kind of business you get into when you pause long enough to ask a man about his business.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REGRET NOTHING

Some people have so many regrets dogging their paths from day to day that they get lost in trying to remember the things they regret. Even those they had intended to use. With so many regrets to choose from, even the one with a rich savings in ideas gets discouraged when tied to such a long array of regrets.

Regret nothing. Sweep those regrets from your mind and have nothing to do with them. There is nothing constructive in a carload of regrets, no matter how you may feel about the loss of a few things. There are compensations to equalize all losses, but you will need to have courage and faith to look for them and to go forward with a smile. We must remember that Faith comes to us as we walk, not as we stand. Faith serve no useful purpose.

Regrets, however, are sometimes useful. They sharpen the edge of courage sometimes. They guide us all from danger spots and from mistakes. They harbor regrets, however, serves no useful purpose. They only clutter the way ahead. They enter Low Ebb when we allow them entrance to cause us trouble and anxieties. We need clear minds, with all lights ahead, to do our best. Regrets lead no one. They only add to a disturbed state of mind.

Regrets cannot be repaired: they have relapses. They can only be recalled for interviews. We could live healthier lives, and more abundant ones, if we dismissed all regrets at the moment they appear. Regrets are for the glory of others, and for their misery.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FONDER — BUT DON'T WEEP

It may seem a rather hugubrious way of looking at life to say that we should always be prepared for death. But prepared we should be. It may come to any of us within the next minute. It may not come for many years, but come it certainly will. Therefore, we should live our lives every day in such a spirit and after such a fashion that when it comes we are ready.

For each individual this means some different thing. Business matters need to be arranged definitely. This needs to be indicated by a will. Insurance and bonds you want your survivors to start feuding over furniture, clocks, and rugs. Whether a man has an estate of a thousand dollars or a million dollars, his affairs should be arranged so that when he dies there will be no doubt as to the way should be settled.

Spiritual preparation is the most necessary. Some people should be so ready spiritually at all times that, when death comes, the time of its coming is of no consequence. People sometimes die at fifteen after living a life that is ripe, whereas others, having lived at all.

Lazybones? Not at all. Senators, wholesome, forthright,

A CRYING SHAME . . . was the way onlookers expressed themselves this morning as a bulldozer proceeded to cut down this old soft maple trees to make way for the new half million dollar Hastings County court house. Eight big maples on the terrace in front of the courthouse were toppled to clear the site for the new building. The tree clearing activities held up the morning session of the Supreme Court which was journed by Mr. Justice Kelly for half an hour until din outside had subsided. Bulldozer is shown above in front of the courthouse steps as it ripped out the big maples.

"Let's us consider it closer".

Early Monday Khrushchev slipped his leash and ran happily crazily, too, it seemed to the writers who tried to keep up with him—through the San Francisco area.

He saw the American gift to market.

He saw a booming development.

He toured San Francisco Bay by boat.

He dropped in unexpectedly on the Longshoremen's Union.

He visited a plant where electronic equipment is made.

The highlight came when he stopped at the supermarket, and in the twinkling of a Sputnik turned the place into frenzy.

Hundreds tried to crowd in. Photographers cabinet up shelves of canned goods. Children screamed with excitement. One woman fell into the potato chips.

Through it all Khrushchev moved unperturbedly, shaking hands with startled clerks and housewives, looking over the dairy department, hefting the meat cuts in their plastic jackets.

"A fine organization," Khrushchev said, "a good operation."

Norman Gotelli, assistant manager of the store, looked unperturbed at the scattered debris after Khrushchev left.

"The damage is nothing to speak of, really," Gotelli said, "mostly just a few cans knocked off the shelves."

Khrushchev preached peace in every country he met, here he visited the big new plant of the International Business Machines Corporation.

Everything got off to a good start when Khrushchev — never one to shun a calorie—had a good lunch in the company cafeteria.

"You started by taking me to the dining room," the appreciative Khrushchev told Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM president. "You fed me so well—give even an animal food and even an animal becomes kinder.

"I had such a big meal—and all on credit."

Watson mentioned the material progress made by the Russians in the past. "Americans consider this a happy event," Watson said, "and not a challenge to them."

The dedicated Communist warmed to the capitalist system.

"Whenever we meet with businessmen," Khrushchev said, "we have no conflict. We understand each other. We do not try to interfere."

But, "Often when I meet with trade union officials or political figures things aren't the same between us."

At the impromptu meeting of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union — it was kicked out of the CIO because of its left-wing leanings—Khrushchev said:

"My visit to the United States and the conversations I have had with the American people, have given me the impression that the people and the leaders of this great country of yours are not for war. . . . The only enemy in the way of peace in the Soviet Union west peace. . . . And what is the main wish I want to convey? Peace! But peace is not enough. I want work and a good life."

While touring the San Francisco Bay area the coast guard cutter, Khrushchev said to Cmdr. R. Palmer Clark, in command of the cutter:

"I'll tell you a secret. The Soviet Navy is largely going to concentrate on submarines. We are scrapping 90 per cent of our cruisers. In modern times they are too expensive and of too little use."

On the way back from San Jose, Khrushchev paused at a housing development. A crowd of Knolls.

"What do you desire?" he asked Mrs. Louis Figone, a housewife.

"Peace and happiness in the whole world," she said.

"Good," Khrushchev said. "So do I." And he shook her hand vigorously.

It was pretty much like that all day.

Council Approves Five-Year Street Lighting Plan Here

City council last night gave committee approval for the Belleville Public Utilities Commission to proceed with a program of street lighting which would include installation of lights in the newly annexed area and also bring lights in the old section of the city more up to date.

The entire program would be done over a five year period with installation of lights on streets in the annexed area having top priority over improvements in the old section of the city.

Street lighting costs in the city are now $34,000 and when the proposed program is completed, the cost will be about $60,000 annually, including power costs, maintenance and amortization of the new lighting equipment.

Most of the residential streets in the annexed areas will be lighted with 136 watt, 7200 lumen, two-lamp fluorescent units.

PLAN MERCURY LAMPS

Heavy traffic and main highway routes will be lighted with 400 watt mercury vapor lamps spaced at every second pole. Lights will also be placed on the Second Concession Road, the units being 255 two-lamp fluorescent lamps.

Following completing of installation of lights in the annexed areas, the PUC has been subpoenaed to proceed with revision of lighting in the old section of the city. The street lighting program will be according to specifications prepared by E. L. Rutherham, assistant manager of the local utilities. The recommendations were also considered by Alderman Robert Temple, chairman of the traffic and light committee.

Work on the installation of the lights is expected to commence immediately but with the exception of additional power units costs will not exceed until next year and then only as the work progresses.

Increase Pay Of PUC Members

Inflation has caught up with the honorariums received by the members of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

Last night at city council, councillors in committee gave approval for a by-law authorizing pay for Utility Commission members to be increased to $600 and that of the chairman to $750. Present rates are $400 for commissioners and $500 for the chairman.

The increases are subject to the approval of the Ontario Hydro.

Mayor Hyde noted that, although the increases must be approved by city council, it was public utilities and not the city which paid the commissioners' salaries.

FAVOR AFFILIATION

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Union voted 3,709 to 1,719 Monday to affiliate with the AFL-CIO if it receives an expected offer. The AFL-CIO is expected to invite the ILA into its ranks at its convention now under way in San Francisco.

paper Daily Telegraph takes issue with the critics of Khrushchev's treatment and says they "can have no idea of the deep distaste which his visit has aroused."

It adds that they must also have forgotten that the Russians "were not always tactful either" to Prime Minister Macmillan during his Russian visit.

Among other papers joining in the criticism of Khrushchev's treatment, the News Chronicle, Liberal, says that "a section of American opinion has behaved like nuts in the president's official visitor" and asks: "What will their screams be like if the president is similarly treated in Russia?"

4 Fatalities In This Region

There were four highway fatalities in the No. 9 Ontario Provincial Police District during the month of August. The district includes the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

Police reported 141 "reportable" accidents in which 74 persons were injured.

In the same period a total of 4,669 highway checks were made, 1,461 warnings were issued and 20 charges laid, including 157 for speeding.

Varied Programs Will Be Given At Picton Fair

PICTON — One of the outstanding fairs in this part of the province is Prince Edward County Fair, being held at Picton Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24, 25, 26. Its display of exhibits rivals any fair in the province with many new ideas of display being used for more than seven thousand individual articles, housed in the arena on the grounds, and in other modern buildings on which $200,000 has been invested.

While the agricultural end of the fair is featured in keeping with the real purpose of fairs, Picton fair directors realize that many must be enticed by entertainment and then interested in the exhibits. With this view in mind, an outstanding program of entertainment awaits those visiting Picton Fair this weekend.

Thursday, Sept. 24, will see a giant parade followed by a pony show with over 75 ponies entered. During the afternoon, the New York State Midget Auto Racing Association will stage a program of races and stunts. The midget autos put on a thrilling show on the race track in front of the grandstand for two hours. In other rings, visible from the large covered grandstand, cattle, horses, Junior Farmer classes will be judged.

Thursday night, the Canadian Auto Daredevils are staging a thrilling program of precision driving and stunts, including ramp to ramp jumps, in front of the grandstand. These death defying acts always draw huge crowds and some new features are being added this year.

Friday afternoon sees horse races along with another midget car show, horse judging and other features. The Holstein black and white show is also being held that afternoon.

Friday night, two excellent programs featuring well-known TV artists are being presented in the arena. Gordie Tapp of Country Hoedown will be M.C. Friday night, while singing star Tommy Common will act in that capacity Saturday night. Other artists on the program include Mary Mac Demers, acrobatic dancer; Les Barker, comedian and cartoonist; Donna Miller, singing star. Friday night, the Rhythm Pals who have appeared on the Lawrence Welk show will also be featured. Saturday night, their place will be taken by the famed quartet, Silvertones. Before each show, special local entertainment is being given, including bands, baton twirlers, square dancing.

Havelock pipe band and highland dancers are appearing afternoon and evening on Saturday and other bands include 6 RD trumpet band of Trenton, Picton Odd Fellows' band, Picton girls' trumpet band.

RBY shows are being held Friday and Saturday afternoon with 120 babies already entered. Babies already entered. . . .

Picton fair runs three full days with all exhibits in place Thursday night.

One of the features of exhibits is Prince Edward School Fair, a fair within a fair, with nearly 2,000 exhibits. Other special attractions include a collection of several thousand buttons shown by Mrs. Frank Harris of Wellington; a home cooking display with 87 cakes and 90 pies included; a hobby displays by Women's Institutes; oil painting display by three art clubs.

During the three big days and nights, the Green Midway with many rides and shows will provide additional entertainment. With the best program in years, it is expected Picton Fair attendance this weekend will set new records.

Acting Treasurer Will Be Retired Bank Manager

The city's search for a new acting treasurer pending the outcome of the forthcoming judicial enquiry, is ended with the hiring of retired Picton bank manager, W. D. McArthur.

Mr. McArthur will take over the city treasurer's duties in a temporary capacity at a salary of $115 per week. He recently retired as manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Picton.

At last night's committee meeting of city council, Mayor Gerald Hyde noted that the search for an acting city treasurer has turned from a famine to a feast.

When enquiries were first made two weeks ago respecting an acting treasurer the mayor and council were unable to get any leads toward obtaining a suitable replacement for Mr. Gerrard Mitchell, who left his position September 15th to continue studies for his chartered accountancy. Then last week the names of five possible replacements turned up.

Mr. McArthur was chosen mainly because he was free to act as long as possible and also because he was prepared to step out as soon as a permanent man was secured.

RED SKELTON RESTS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Skelton went home Monday from a weekend of rest in a hospital and went to bed for more rest. The comedian, 46, was reported fatigued by a summer tour of night clubs, a two-week trip to Alaska and a return stand at Las Vegas, Nev., hotel. He returns to television Sept. 29.

DRYNESS, RAIN

With only a few early potatoes dug, growers are concerned about potato blight, which is prevalent.

In New Brunswick, an $8,-200,000 potato crop is shaping up, with production forecast at nearly 20 per cent below last year at an estimated 6,630,000 hundred-weight.

In Quebec the crops, after a dry July and wet August, are expected to bring returns slightly better than last year's $180,-783,000 value. Prospects for tomatoes have been slightly below average, but apples, blueberries and fodder corn are all reported good. The tobacco harvest is over and the crop excellent.

Harvesting of major crops is generally complete in Southern Ontario and well advanced in the north. The hot, dry summer caused no serious losses but late-summer wetness caused some delay, with some late-harvested grain crops sprouting and discoloring. Otherwise, crop quality is satisfactory. Heavy damage last winter to winter wheat cut that crop to half of last year's record. The tobacco crop had troubles, with 4,500,000 pounds lost to hail and wind damage before harvesting began a week earlier than normal. But the crop ranges from fair to excellent.

British Columbia, in contrast to other provinces, reports the weather has been generally good except in the Peace River area where drought has left grain prospects poor.

Couple Takes Young Son on Hunting Trip

CALGARY (CP) — Young son David often accompanies Mrs. Jim Penn and her husband when they go hunting small game.

But Mrs. Penn also hunts big game, and when she started the sport last year she brought back a 350 - pound black bear. She killed the animal with a rifle at 215 yards, in the Kananaskis district southeast of Calgary.

Outdoors sport is a year-round venture for the couple. Inthe summer, trapshooting and field hunts in the fall and rabbit-hunting in winter.

David was only four months old when Mrs. Penn first took him on an outdoors excursion. "But he was no trouble at all, and he has never been any trouble since," she said.

While not a taxidermist, Mrs. Penn admits that not every woman likes hunting. But she says she tackled a lot of upland game birds, ducks and rabbits before tracking for bear.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W.I.

The Quinte Women's Institute held its meeting at their Institute hall, No. 2 Highway, on September 8th.

Sept. 8th with an attendance of 31 members and two visitors.

The president, Mrs. Robert Aitkins, opened the meeting, welcomed every one present and thanked the lunch committee.

Mrs. Wannamaker of Foxboro had a large display of antiques.

Mrs. E. Aitkins and Mrs. W. Lazariuk were chosen as leaders to attend the South Hastings Training School for adults at Stirling on September 29th and 30th, and for the 4-H girls, Mrs. E. Jeffery and Mrs. C. Reid as leaders to be held later.

The flower committee was asked to send cards to the following: the Brickman family, Harriet Stevens (Mrs. John Hulg), Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. M. Reid.

Mrs. J. Parroff reported on "Accidents on the Farm," and while at Toronto fair she purchased some knives and tablespoons for the Institute.

The area convention was discussed and the delegates asked to attend. They are Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. Butterill. The Institute made a display for a bedroom to the recent Shannonville fair.

The historical research and current event conveners took charge of the meeting with Mrs. C. Woods giving a paper on the motto, "Old Things Have Charm." Mrs. Kingston favored with lovely music on her guitar and mouth organ, followed by all singing "Daisies" and "School Days."

Mrs. Sharpe gave a series of current events from October 7, 1908, to September 1, 1959, and Mrs. William Tufts gave an enlightening paper on "Historical Research" and the "Presidential History Book."

The president thanked the ladies for their readings and music and every one who helped with the meeting.

The president, Mrs. Atkins, closed the meeting.

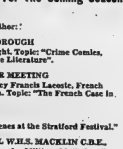
Refreshments were served by the hostess and her lunch committee, Mrs. Bedell, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Trumpour, Mrs. Bellamy and Mrs. Sharp. A social half hour was spent.

Teaching, Nursing, Clerical Work Still Woman's Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian women and their sisters in the United States still stick to the traditional women's professions—teaching, clerical work and nursing.

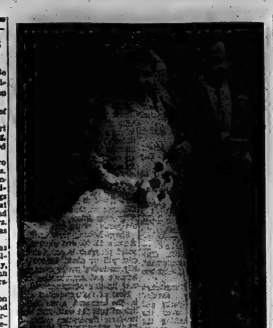
The women's bureau of the federal labor department has found that while Canadian women are gradually making a name for themselves in many professions once regarded as men's fields, the majority are doing work traditionally considered "suitable for women."

Now the U.S. labor department's women's bureau has published a report underlining the fact that women across the border are also still heading for the old standby occupations.*



MOSTLY TEACHERS

The U.S. survey is reported in the current issue of the Canadian labor department's monthly Labor Gazette. It found that most of the 58,000 women graduates from colleges and universities became teachers. The largest proportion became elementary school tachers, and about half as many went into high schools.



Nursing moved into second place "probably as a result of recent intensified efforts to increase the number of 'degree' nurses," the U. S. survey said. Secretaries and stenographers moved down to third place.

There was no evidence that more women were interesd in suitable training for work in the physical and biological sciences, journalism and engineering, although a few women entered these fields.

The Canadian bureau says the lesson to be read in the U.S. report is that there is a need to let more women know there are openings, opportunities in professions not traditionally thought of as women's fields.

VANDER SCHAAF — REKKER

On Saturday, September 5, at 1.30 p.m., a very pretty wedding was solemnized by the Reverend P. M. Jonker in the Christian Reformed Church, Brampton, Ontario, when Ann Rekker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rekker, of Foxboro R.R. 1, became the bride of Joseph Vander Schaaf, also of Brampton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vander Schaaf.

The organist, Mr. W. Hoekstra of Belleville provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her full-length bridal gown of lace over net and taffeta featuring a molded bodice accented with rhinestone trim. Her crown style headdress encrusted with seed pearls held her elbow-length veil of silk tulle illusion and carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white button poms and white stephanotis.

She was attended by Mrs. Alice Vander Meulen, of Streetsville, Ontario, as matron of honor, attired in a street-length gown of burnt orange lace over taffeta with satin cummerbund accented by a large back bow. She wore a white velvet headband type headdress. Her sister, Miss Jane Rekker, of Foxboro, R.R. 1, was bridesmaid, wearing light-blue lace, over taffeta fashioned in similar style to that of the matron of honor, with white velvet headband and white accessories. Both the matron of honor and the bridesmaid carried semi-cascades of light blue carnations and white button poms.

Mr. William Rekker of Brampton, attended the bridegroom. Ushers were John Vander Schaaf of Brampton and Samuel Rekker of Foxboro R.R. 1, brothers of the bridegroom and bride respectively, ushered the guests.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held in the Orange Hall, Brampton, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a street-length gown of light blue shantung, with white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white linen damask, and centred by a three-tier all-white wedding cake. Bouquets of red rosebuds and white baby mums added a lovely nuptial accent.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the cottage on Georgian Bay, the bride wore a light brown sheath with large white collar; white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The happy couple are residing at 32 Edgemont Drive, Brampton, Ontario.

Guests were present from Brampton, Streetsville, Foxboro, Stirling, Belleville, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Whitby, Acton and Weston.

New Trends In Women's Church Work

Holloway Street United Church W.A. convened for the first meeting of the fall season in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. Wilson, presiding.

A delicious dessert luncheon was enjoyed prior to the meeting. Mrs. Wilson welcomed all members and visitors and turned the worship period over to Mrs. Goodier, who gave a fine meditation on "Serving Christ." John 12:1-11. Martha served, Mary anointed the feet of Jesus; Lazarus loved the Bethany home and found there comfort and fellowship which he so desperately needed in that last week of his life on this earth. "Do people come to our homes for comfort? His friends were seeking to serve Him at the supper given six days before the Passover. Martha served. We all may follow her example in doing the common tasks but Mary made a personal sacrifice as an act of loving worship. We all may follow her example in loving acts of sacrifice in our work and our givings.

Do we in our daily lives show forth the power and grace of our blessed Saviour? Our duty is to serve; to worship; to witness. Do we?" Prayer closed this fine study.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Post received the offering, which was dedicated by Mrs. Wilson.

A solo and hymns were in keeping with this worship period.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Dobbs introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Rose, past president of Dominion Council, who chose as her subject, "The New Trend in the Work of the Women of the Church."

"As members of Christ's church we must be witnesses for Him. Demands are greater. We need more prayer—more devotion and worship. We must witness to His way of life in our homes, community and church. It isn't easy to always love one another. Each woman should have a chance to serve on a section of Christ's church. We must each prepare ourselves to this service. Give more time to Bible study and prayer. There are so many influences against the church today. We must witness that there is something in this Christianity of ours. Do we put Christ first in our lives or do we let our own desires and material possessions come first?"

"MY TIMES ARE IN THY HAND"

"A non-Christian said, 'We would like to have a Christ but we watch Christian women and we can't see Christ in them.' We must be careful of our influences and example to others. Visit—the—women outside the church. We must reach out. Many need someone to call and invite them to the church groups.

"We live in a changing world. We must change our program to meet the needs of our day, such as housing conditions, the liquor question, our senior citizens, read the United Church Observer. We must know what our church is doing. There are now 700 charges across Canada without a minister. Go to Five Oaks if you can. Let us all work together for our new organization that of our day by one putting Christ first in all our church work."

Mrs. Weisver thanked Mrs. Rose for this challenging and inspirational address.

Business consisted of minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, Mrs. Post, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Campbell; reports from group leaders, thank-you cards were read by Mrs. Cook. Members were asked to save coat hangers and old silk stockings for the Mission Band. Mrs. Wilson will be in the bazaar in October and asked all to be working for same. It was decided to get white satin cushions to be used at weddings.

CANADIAN SALESGIRLS ABROAD — Five Canadian girls in lavender and white gingham walk to work in London, England, their job was to answer inquiries at a Canadian display during a 16-day Do-It-Yourself Exhibition in London's Olympic hall this September. The five girls were picked from 40 Canadian applicants who answered an advertisment in a London newspaper. From the left are: Audrey Johnston, 22, Regina; Virginia Mackie, 18, Montreal; Anne Hodder, 23, Vancouver; Sally Hall, 23, Ottawa; Mary-Les Warhawski, 23, Vancouver. (CP Photo).

Canadian Girls Chosen To Work in Plywood Show

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Five Canadian girls in lavender and white gingham have just finished a 16-day stint selling birch plywood in Britain.

They worked five-hour shifts at a Canadian display in the "Do-It - Yourself" Exhibition at London's Olympia. The show closed on Saturday.

The girls were chosen among 40 Canadians who answered an advertisement in a London newspaper.

The five picked were Audrey Johnstone of Regina, Virginia Mackie of Montreal, Sally Hall of Ottawa and Mary-Les Warhawski and Anne Hodder of Vancouver.

PLYWOOD PANELS

Their job was to help sell a million pounds in panelling, in which plywood panels are fixed with a concealed tongue - and - groove device.

Miss Hall is a 23 - year - old blonde, a cartographer by profession. She told a reporter she took the job, "by way of a change."

Apart from answering timber queries, Sally said she received all kinds of invitations from people, "but I've only accepted one — to dinner."

A former debutante who was presented to the Queen last July, Sally came to Britain two years ago with a Canadian company to work on an airborne survey. After it was completed she did some modelling - and fashion drawing.

Now she is hoping to find another "well - paying" draught-man's job as she would like to stay in Britain for a few years.

NEEDED THE MONEY

Mary - Lee Warshawski, 23, came to Britain three months ago with her husband, who is studying post-graduate surgery.

"I took the job because I need the money," she said. "I hope to work in an American hospital as I'm really a lab technician."

Derek Little, the publicity officer who interviewed and employed the five girls, said 40 Canadians responded to his advertisement seeking helpers for the 16-day show.

"It seemed the natural thing to get Canadians to sell their own product," said Little. "They did a wonderful job."

The panelling display was prepared by a subsidiary company of International Panel Boards of Gatineau, Que.

Grace at Dinner

by Mary Moore

Would you like to know how to feed a multitude (of 120) on three fishes? Then come with me to the kitchen of Ottawa's Grace Hospital. Last Friday I saw them work a minor miracle there.

The kitchen is small and its facilities limited. But the busy workers manage to dodge each other and keep cheerful. The food buyer's budget is kept well within bounds. Yet every meal that is turned out is rich in nutrition. Best of all, every meal is appetizing to behold and delicious to eat.

This is a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital, an establishment the Army may well be proud of. Its happy atmosphere may be due partly to the fact that new babies are welcomed here every day. But the Superintendent, Brigadier Frouls Stickland, deserves credit too. She makes sure that good cheer spills over into every aspect of hospital life.

Noon dinner was well on its way when I visited the kitchen with the dietitian, Irene Norman, a cousin of mine. The menu included Vegetable Soup (or Anna, the German soup cook), Baked Halibut (more of it later), Relish White Sauce, Steamed Potatoes, Spinach, Stewed Tomatoes, Cole Slaw, Bread Pudding — and more of that later, too.

Anna's vegetable soup was delicious. Into the soup kettle go the carcas bones and raw bones, along with cleaned (rinsed) from such vegetables as celery, lettuce, onions and parsley. All this is simmered together until Anna has a broth rich enough to please her exacting taste. This is chilled; then the fat layer is skimmed off, and the broth is strained. To this broth, Anna had added — on the day of my visit, shredded carrots, macaroni alphabets and chopped onion and, of course, the necessary seasonings.

The piece de resistance, baked halibut, was prepared by Mrs. Jones, the hospital's head cook. Irene had ordered 40 lbs. (a whole cleaned halibut), to serve 130 people. The fish cost 42c a pound, with heads and tails off.

To cook them Mrs. Jones placed the fish on 2 greased oven pans. Then she smothered them with sliced onions (8 oz. them), chopped celery (1 bunch), and sliced bacon (2 pounds.) (Irene explains that these flavors cover up the "fishiness" which, as many fish-abominers object to). No salt was added. This because some of the maternity patients were on salt-free diets. The fish was baked at 375 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours (roughly). (Remember, Irene was very big fish. This would be too long for the amount of halibut you would cook for a family.)

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Baked Beef and Liver Loaf; Tomato Sauce; Baked Butter-ed Hubbard Squash Pieces; Green Peas; Apple Crumb with Rich Milk; Coffee.

Bread pudding (could its way on the menu because there were leftovers — cake, bran muffins, and a few cornmeal muffins. Plenty of eggs and milk were added, plus a little cinnamon, but no sugar, for the ingredients were sweet. It was a model bread pudding and I want to urge you to remember bread puddings in your menus. If you have stale cake or muffins left-over, crumble them. To each 2 cups of crumbs allow 2 eggs and 2 cups milk (you may want to use yellowlfied skim milk powder) and whatever spicy seasoning you prefer. Bake in a buttered baking dish at 300 deg. Fahr. until set and beginning to brown. Serve with pouring cream or milk. If your husband is of British descent, he will like it on. So will the rest of the family.

If it any wonder that Irene receives grateful little notes, scribbled on the paper napkins and tray cloths? And do you wonder that so many mothers in Ottawa and district choose to have their babies arrive in "Grace" — the hospital where there is such good food and good cheer?

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Barbara B. — Mother won't let us help do.

Mrs. L. B. — I want to be left alone.

Barbara B. — My sister and I are very much concerned about our mother who was widowed two years ago and can't seem to snap out of her grief.

The strange part of it is that when my father was alive they didn't get along well at all. My father gambled and made life miserable for all of us. Mother had to go to work and he didn't even appreciate what she did. Frankly, my sister and I could not feel any love for him and we haven't been able to mourn him.

Now our mother goes around crying half the time. She won't listen to reason, won't try to help herself. We would do anything, take her any place to help her get over this. She is making herself sick, but nothing we say, or do helps.

Mrs. L. B. — All I ask is to be left alone. Why do people think they have to keep giving you pep talks about "you must go on living" when you just don't feel living. I know well enough I have to go on, but I can't help feeling the way I do right now.

It's true my husband gave me a hard time, but in many ways he was a very good man. He was ashamed of himself about the gambling, but he just couldn't help it. He used to tell me to leave him as I could find a better man. I never wanted to because at that time I thought he needed me. Now I see I was the one who needed him.

The girls just can't understand what it's like.

The Council: We don't think anyone ought to try to talk another person out of grief. We can give mourners comfort, sympathy, the assurance of our company and our concern, but we have no right to dictate a formula for their mourning.

Grief is as personal as love or anger. We all react in different ways because multitudes of private associations go into the creation of the emotion.

The daughters in this case judge the situation from the outside, as seen through their biased eyes. Their parents fought, their father was at fault, they felt no love for him — therefore their mother should not mourn.

Yet the mother has realized how much she depended upon this man — with all his faults. Possibly she feels guilty at having given him a hard time and for having at times wished she didn't have such a difficult husband. Undoubtedly, she also feels guilty that she wasn't able to communicate her loving feelings so her daughters could have learned to love their father.

In her own mind, Mrs. L. B. may also feel the need to do some of the mourning for her daughters who are not capable of grief. In a sense, perhaps she wants to give them a belated lesson in the meaning of love.

We think these daughters should try to learn the lesson.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The September meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Lillian Anderson with Mrs. M. Burkholder as co-hostess. Owing to the extreme heat, these two ladies arranged to hold the meeting under the trees between the two homes.

Mrs. W. Barber, the president, presided and business was speedily dispensed. Delegates were appointed for the area convention to be held in Belleville; plans were made to hold a rummage sale in October; the new baby daughter of Mrs. D. Hall was presented with a baby spoon from the Institute; a card shower was arranged for Mrs. Vanzoren who is a patient in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The piece de resistance, baked halibut, was prepared by Mrs. Jones, the hospital's head cook. Irene had ordered 40 lbs. (a whole cleaned halibut), to serve 130 people. The fish cost 42c a pound, with heads and tails off.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

PROPER FOR RECENT WIDOW, BRIDE'S AUNT, TO GO TO WEDDING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband died three months ago. My niece, my sister's daughter, is to be married in October. The church ceremony to be followed by a reception in the bride's home. The bride-to-be is my goddaughter, and I am very devoted to her. She is urging me to come to her wedding, and I am so very sad at having to miss it — but, under my circumstances, I think it would not be at all proper for me to go. My sister suggested I write you to ask your opinion. Thank you, Mrs. Beeckman, for your advice. — Reader

My advice, dear lady, is that you go to the church wedding. It would not be at all improper for you to go to the wedding of this beloved niece and godchild of yours, and surely everyone who knows you would completely understand. (If you prefer not to sit with the other members and relatives of the bride's family, you may, if you wish, enter the church quite early, by a side door, and take a seat in a rear pew on that side. This is not necessary, but you may prefer it, as being most inconspicuous.)

I'm sure no one could or would possibly criticize you if you go to the home reception for a short time, particularly to greet your sister the hostess, first in the receiving-line, and to wish your niece, the bride, and her bridegroom every happiness.

WHITE WINE

Sauterne, one of the popular white table wines, is named after the village of Sauternes in France.

WHO NEEDS HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATIONS? . . .

Do they achieve anything? In a spirited argument two parents discuss this popular topic. You'll find their ideas make stimulating reading in this week's Star Weekly.

Rest assured

Once there was a beautiful mother who hardly slept a wink at night whenever she and the children were alone.

Now she sleeps peacefully all through the night, knowing the doctor, police, firemen and friends are only a reach away! Because, as you see, she had an extension telephone installed right beside her bed.

Thanks to that extra phone her daytime is more peaceful too! The extension saves many a step which she's doing housework . . . and when the TV is on, or the family is noisy, it's wonderful to slip into the bedroom for a quiet call. Private too when she has guests. Marvel, The family with extension phones lives happier ever after!

An Extension Phone costs only $1.35 a month—even less in some communities. The installation charge is only $2. To order, just call your Telephone Business Office, or ask the man in the green truck.

now you can protect ALL your possessions with ONE low premium with Acadia's new A+ PLAN

Chances are, many of your household possessions, your home, your car, are already protected by insurance. Then, you know the peace of mind this protection brings. But isn't it bothersome trying to budget for half-a-dozen-or-so premiums, falling due every so often—sometimes during awkward, financially-strained periods of your year? Of course it is! But now, at last, with the introduction of the all-new Acadia A-Plus Plan, you can do something about it!

ONE LOW PREMIUM PROTECTS ALL YOUR POSSESSIONS! First big plus of Acadia's revolutionary new A-Plus Plan. One premium guards your automobile, your home, your household effects and personal belongings against fire, theft and casualty. You simply name the items you wish insured; if you don't wish all your possessions covered, your Acadia man—the man with the revolutionary new A-Plus Plan—will be glad to tailor a coverage package to your individual requirements—you'll still have only one low premium to pay!

THREE EASY WAYS TO PAY! 1. Two-month portion of premium down, the balance in 10 monthly payments, 2. quarterly, 3. semi-annually. Simply choose the one which best suits your budget. All three are designed with your convenience in mind. The second big plus in the all-new Acadia A-Plus Plan!

SPECIAL MONEY-SAVING AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE CATEGORIES! Big plus number three in this great Plan of benefits. If you qualify for any one of several preferred classes of automobile drivers, under the A-Plus Plan you automatically become eligible for reduced rates. Your Acadia man will be happy to explain the special classifications to you when you see him for your automobile coverage.

BIGGEST PLUS OF ALL! ACADIA'S EXCLUSIVE "MORTGAGE PAYMENT PROTECTION"! This attractive bonus is yours and goes into effect the minute you enrol in the Plan, no matter what your coverage, complete or partial! Here's how it works: should you become totally disabled by accident, or suffer an accidental death, Acadia will pay off your mortgage. The cost? A surprise—this exclusive feature costs less than $10 a year for most householders.

"ON-THE-SPOT" CLAIMS SETTLEMENT! A mighty important plus—fifth big plus in Acadia's all-new A-Plus Plan. Once your Acadia man insures you under the Plan, you can be sure that if you ever have a claim, you'll get claim service second to none. Never an annoying delay when it comes to settling up—Acadia settles your claim on the spot! Any present Acadia policyholder will vouch for this.

ACADIA'S A-PLUS PLAN IS ALL-CANADIAN! This sixth big plus in Acadia's all-new A-Plus Plan is well worth remembering. Acadia knows the insurance needs of Canadians; has protected Canadian possessions since 1862.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The big boys of the typewriters and microphones who cover the baseball major leagues' battles all summer may have it easy at times, but occasionally and at least once a year they are faced with a poser. It is the request for votes for an all-star team of the standout performers of the season, requested by baseball's Baedeker, the Sporting News.

Arthur (New York Times) Daley, one of the more erudite of the baseball "observers" columns his version. Some will agree. Some will not.

Privateance Daley excludes the colorful Willie Mays, who has been off and on all season, playing in flashes, but not doing badly at the overall. The centre field spot drops into the lap of Al Kaline by a whisker from Vada Pinson of the Reds. The most solid of the left fielders, says Daley, is Joe Cunningham of the Cards.

The spot that's laced with irony is right field. There's Hank Aaron of the Braves, the probable National Leaguer batting champion, and Harvey Kuena, probable hit champ of the junior league. Both play right. A flip of the coin is in order but Daley gives the nod to Aaron.

At first base the almost superman feats of the Giant's Willie McCovey are enough to bedazzle any selector but Daley has no hesitation here. He leaps to the ballot of Orlando Cepeda, the best all-round operative of the position in the sport.

Second base has produced some surprising hitters in Pete Runnels of the Red Sox; Nellie Fox of the White Sox and Johnny Temple of the Reds. All did standout jobs, although Runnels was recently shifted to first base. However, the choice is Fox all the way.

Daley passes up Eddie Mathews of the Braves despite the fact he is having the best season of his career at the hot corner. He selects Ken Boyer of the Cardinals. For the past few years the experts have been saying Boyer has "arrived" to be the best third baseman since Pie Traynor. This season he has looked the part. Boyer is the pick.

The shortstop spot is a puzzler since it compels the measurement of two men whose talents are divergent, Luis Aparicio of the Venice and Ernie Banks of the Cubs. Aparicio, Daley says, is quick-silver, a disruptive offensive force with his 57 stolen bases. Banks is thunder with his forty-odd homers. Daley thinks the Venezuelan is the more gifted and it has got to be him for the spot.

The catcher? Daley picks a "dark horse" in this column's opinion. He thinks the All-Star game starters, Del Crandall of the Braves and Gus Triandos of the Orioles, have slipped previously. Crandall can hit but cannot catch, Daley says, it should be Sherm Lollar of the White Sox or Yogi Berra of the Yankees. But he picks a "sleeper," Sammy White of the Red Sox.

Two pitching plums appear in the ballot, but Daley says it isn't enough to build a pitching staff on—Lew Burdette and Sam Jones of the Giants, Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette of the Braves and Early Wynn of the White Sox. So his choice is Antonelli and Wynn.

"Most valuable players?" asks Daley. "Ecsay, mooey miny moe. How about trying on for size Aparicio in the American League and—this will slay you—Wally Moon of the Dodgers in the National loop. Comeback player of the year? Take your choice. Duke Snider or Gil Hodges in the National league and no one in the American circuit. Outstanding rookies are Bob Allison of the Senators and Jim McCoey of the Giants while Joe Manager-of-the-year is unquestionably Senor Alfonso Ramon Lopez of the White Sox."

And as an after thought, Daley adds, "and whatever happened to Mickey Mantle" After all what did happen to Mickey?

So there you have one baseball expert's selection of a major league's all-star team. We do not guess all the way with him, but a cat can look at a king, but not agree with him.

New Argo Coach Steve Owen Still Looking for Players

TORONTO (CP)—Steve Owen began his first full day as coach of the Toronto Argonauts today still looking for players to put some much-needed punch into the Big Four football club.

A potential quarterback was reported on the way in the person of Al Dorow from British Columbia Lions. But Dorow's availability was uncertain.

Owen, who moved up from assistant coach Monday when Jimmy Phyl was fired, spent Monday night with manager-director Dave Hayman telephoning National Football League clubs about the players being cut to the midnight deadline. There was no word of any immediate prospects.

The 60 - year - old coach, who as New York Giants of the NFL from 1930 to 1953, said he wanted to get Frank Tripucka from Ottawa Rough Riders to fill the Argos' gaping hole at quarter. Hayman called Ottawa but scouted there was little hope of deal to bring Tripucka here.

Dorow apparently got into the picture on his own hook. Hayman said he knew nothing about it except that Dorow had sent him a telegram saying he'd be in Toronto today.

The Vancouver report claimed that coach Robinson of the Lions would put Dorow on waivers today, opening the door to his move to Toronto.

Dorow was with Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL before coming to Canada last year. He started with Saskatchewan Roughriders and was traded to Lions late in the season.

His arrival in Vancouver gave Lions a spurt. They ended a 10 game losing streak by winning their last two starts. This season, however, Dorow lost out as first-string quarterback to import Randy Duncan.

Argos play the second - place Montreal Alouettes here Saturday.

Do Or Die For Dear Old Chi; Mathews Braves' Hero

Wynn Named to Pin Pennant In Crucial Game With Tribe; Milwaukee Shares Loop Lead

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Warren Spahn has won 20 again and Milwaukee has barrelled into a tie for the National League lead, thus the Braves' big guy is Ed Mathews.

It was the left-handed slugger, belting five home runs in the last four games for a share of the major league lead with 43, who got the job done. He drove in five runs Monday night with a pair of homers in the 9-8 decision over the Pirates at Pittsburgh that made Spahn a 20-game winner for the 10th time in a 15-year career.

The Braves, winning three in a row and 12 of their last 15, jumped into a tie with Los Angeles for a one-game hold over San Francisco Giants. Each of the contenders has five games to play.

The Braves are at Pittsburgh again tonight with lefty Juan Pizarro facing southpaw Harvey Haddix. The Dodgers open a two-game series at St. Louis with either Sandy Koufax or Danny McDevitt, both right-handers, against Larry Jackson. The Giants start a two-game set at Chicago this afternoon with right-hander Jack Sanford going against Dick Ellsworth.

HORRIE WINS 15TH

In Monday's only other game Chicago clobbered St. Louis 13-3 as Glen Hobbie scored his 15th with a seven-hitter. Hobbie's record is the busiest among the Cubs pitcher since Bob Rush won 17 in 1952.

Spahn, at 38 already tops among all-time lefthanders for 20-victory seasons. He has now made it for the fourth year in a row and tied Eppa Rixey as the winningest southpaw in league history with his 266th. Until the ninth inning of Monday night Spahn would take it in a breeze.

Mathews tied the Cubs' Ernie Banks with his 43rd homer, the Cards' Ken Boyer with 42 and Frank Robinson of the Reds with 41. Benale Daniels, Pittsburgh's fourth pitcher, But Spahn, 5-0 against the Bucs this year, was in trouble as the Bucs scored three runs before reliever Don McMahon fanned Don Hoak to end it.

BEGIN RALLY

Pinch-hitter Dick Schofield and Bob Skinner tagged Spahn for singles and Groat brought Schofield home with a double. Pittsburgh's 12th hit. McMahon then got a force at single by Bob Clemente and Smoky Burgess's sacrifice fly before getting Hoak.

Mathews, with 13 RBI in four games, cracked a 2-2 tie in the fifth with a three-run homer off loser Bob Friend. The ball bounced off the right field roof of Forbes Field, was last seen high and 300 feet from the plate and Mathews' 30th. Only five other hitters had done it in baseball.

The Cardinals, hammered for home runs by Banks, Tony Taylor and rookie George Altman, who hit two, also hit three. Altman, who he crashed into the left field wall chasing a second-inning drive by Banks, got his first double. Hobbie, probably lost for the season, needed 29 stitches to close a gash over his left eye.

SEEK POLICE AID

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific National Exhibition will ask for regular-duty police protection at all future B.C. Lions football games at Empire Stadium. The request follows an outbreak of vandalism at the close of the game Saturday night in which Lions defeated Winnipeg 17-6, about 400 youths stormed the field, ripped the crossbars from the goalposts, slashed goalpost padding and damaged the turf.

Six in Ring At One Time Friday Night

They should call out the Hardy Boys, or failing that, the United States Marines.

For they'll need one or the other or both here Friday when "Texas mayhem" takes place at Memorial Arena.

They're going to chuck six—count 'em—six guys in the ring, at once, folks. Three "good" and yell "Sic 'em."

Yassuh, it's going to be awful tough on somebody.

On one side will be the good guys, Whipper Billy Watson and Sam Steamboat. On the other, the "bad guys," Don Leo Jonathan and Hardbulled Hagerty.

Acting as a two-man judge and jury will be Pat Flanagan a good guy, and Bunny Dunlop, a no-good bomber.

And when the fun, feathers, fireworks, fury, fisticuffs and fangling start, whom do you think will line up with whom?

It's no tag-team affair. The bad guys and them will be in there looking for the chance to square off against the good.

So it could end up with Pat and Bunny fighting out the finals in the middle of the ring at CNR tracks. It could end up in anything.

Now it's well known fact the Whip and Pat are closer than a hamburg to its slice of tomato, so it's not unreasonable that the Whip and Bunny are as chummy as a pair of rattlesnakes tail-to-tail and slung over a fence.

"Hard-Bolled" hates everyone, including "Hard-Boiled." Don Leo is a nice enough guy but he's feral. He hates everything that is rough, tough and nasty. Bunny loves both of 'em.

So there you have it. And the Whip, Sam Steamboat, Tiny Mc Geoghan will battle the Mighty Ursus and Jack Laskin will warm up Fatso O'Flanagan.

7-Touchdown Outburst Puts Thelen on Top

TORONTO (CP)—Dave Thelen, 22 - year - old American who captured first place in the Big Four 18-hole golf tournament over the weekend, will be out to defend his title next year.

Thelen, a fair fullback with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian debut last year and with a promising start on touchdowns in the first five games this season, scored a record-tying four touchdowns in the Rough Riders' 43-7 trouncing of Montreal Alouettes Saturday. His four were scored against Toronto Argonauts, tying the mark set by Ron Howell, from the University of Miami in Oxford, Ohio.

FINAL SECOND

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show him with seven touchdowns for a 42-point total, six more than Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Canadian - born Ron Howell, Montreal Alouettes' probably the fastest man in the league, gathered in five touchdowns—two on punt returns—as the Ticats mauled Argonauts 38-7 Saturday.

Another six points behind is Ottawa's Bobby Simpson with 36. He scored two touchdowns against the Als Saturday, Gerry Mackoski with 30 on three and a three-way tie last week for fifth place, took over undisputed possession in the fourth spot with a touchdown against Argonauts. Jim Letcavits gave him a total of 30, one more than Toronto's Cookie Gilchrist, Montreal fullback, placement - kicking specialist with the Tiger-Cats.

Terry Meeuse, Hamilton and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, retained his position at the top of the scoring parade in Rugby Football Union scoring with 48 points.

Dutchies May Have Trouble Getting Necessary Players

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have been hit hard by losses in key teams as their Olympic Games draft choices Monday but they're going to have troubles picking up the 10 they finally decide upon.

The Dutchmen, who played in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A league last season, will represent Canada in the 1960 Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

To bolster the amateur club, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruled it can draft one player from each of 15 teams and sign up to five without a release before Nov. 15.

Two of those named were goaltender Marv Edwards of the North Bay Trappers and Bill Hrycluk, playing - coach of Kamloops, B.C., Elks. But neither will join Kitchener for the games.

CONTRACT SOLID

Pete Palangio, North Bay manager, said Monday that Edwards' contract has been sold to the Milwaukee Falcons, a new entry in the International Hockey League this season. Because of this, Edwards was not eligible for the draft.

Hrycluk said in Kamloops he is honored at being named a possible Olympic team player but he wouldn't consider leaving his home. His obligations are in Kamloops, he said.

Players named in the draft must agree in all personality and can't be forced to abide by it.

John Horeck, manager-coach of the Whitby Dunlops, said he was undecided whether to allow centre Mike Kin to join the Dutchmen. "I'd hate to lose a valuable player like Kilk," he said.

TRADE POSSIBLE

But if Kitchener was interested in Kin, defencemen Ralph Hosking, said Horeck, he might be willing to allow Kin to make the trip to Europe in hopes he'll be available to play in the Olympics.

Clubs in Peterborough, Waterloo and Vernon, B.C., showed more signs of willingness to give up players. Ron Boddell, president of the Waterloo Siskins—a junior B team — said he was pleased that forward Pat Adair was named in the draft.

"Any team would hate to lose its leading scorer," he said, "but I'm nationally-minded enough to want to see Canada win at the Olympics."

Doug Cochrane, president of the OHA junior A Peterborough Petes, mourned the possible loss of winger Wayne Connelly — the OHA's leading scorer last season — but said he would not interfere with the draft.

Connelly and flashy centre Cliff Pennington, 19, Kitchener choice from the Pin Flor, Man., Monarchs, were called Montreal Canadiens' roster after the NHL club made a number of cuts Monday.

In Vernon, B.C., coach George Agars of the Canadian squad his team would have to work out a replacement for Tom Sterzyk, senior defenceman also named by Kitchener.

He refused the choice of Sterzyk as an honor to the player, to the club and to the city.

Senior A league defenceman Terry Harper of the Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League said, "It would be a great experience for me."

But Pat Coach Frank Mario commented: "It surprises me that a senior club is forced to name players who are still eligible for junior competition, blind to you. Regina defenceman Terry Harper of the Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League said, "It would be a great experience for me."

MIKITA UNCERTAIN

Mikita play with the Kitchener Junior A St. Catharines TeePees said he would be pleased to have Mikita play with the club but doesn't know whether he will for the entire season."

However, he said, Mikita's immediate future would depend on whether he turned professional with Chicago Black Hawks this season. Mikita is working at the Hawks' National Hockey League training camp.

Pilous said last year he offered Mikita to the Belleville McFarlands for their trip to Europe for the world tourney but Belleville rejected the offer because it wanted him for the entire season or not at all.

Will Ask Pros Into 'Olympics Teams

TORONTO (CP)—Professional hockey clubs will be asked to supply their players for the playing roster of all future Canadian senior teams selected to represent this country in Olympic Games competition.

Officials of the Canadian amateur Hockey Association meeting here at the weekend, said that they are not concerned about teams going to the world tournaments for the first time in between each winter Olympics.

Addition of reinstated players makes the world tourney what is a lot easier for the club selected, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials said.

The CAHA executive, during their two-day session, discussed the situation of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, a junior club lose two or three of their best players to pro ranks, Most likely to go are centre Mike Kilk and winger Bill Saunders and defenceman Dick Mattiussi.

Both are said to prefer to remain with the Dutchmen this year because they want to play for Canada in the Games. They are attending the camp of the Toronto Leafs and have been playing very well, according to Leafs' officials.

Representations will be made to the Toronto organization to leave the two players with the Dutchmen for this season.

In addition, it was said, the CAHA would like to have it recognized that the goal of its senior Canadian Olympic selections would not be touched during their world tourneys.

Jukes said that it might be necessary to have one exception in the new pro-amateur agreement, which came into force this year, but that for the present he preferred to approach the matter tentatively.

The Dutchmen will leave for Squaw Valley, Calif., scene of the 1960 Games, on Sunday, Jan. 3. They complete their schedule the night previous. They will arrive in Squaw Valley on Jan. 11 but will play an exhibition tour across Canada.

Lucas, LeRoy Fight a Draw After Bout Stopped in 4th; 'Bite' Causes a Near-Riot

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A screaming, infuriated boxer, an ear streaming blood, nearly went berserk and almost caused a riot in Memorial Arena last night.

Joey LeRoy, of Hamilton, charged that his opponent, Jack "Rocky" Lucas of Belleville, had bitten him during the fourth round of the five-round main bout.

Dr. "Nig" Ross, who examined LeRoy at the request of Referee Bill Parry said LeRoy had suffered a torn cartilage. Lucas' second George Pelmastar said LeRoy "had an ear blow delivered by Lucas. The injured boxer's manager also claimed his boy had been bitten.

The bout was stopped and the decision given as a draw under regulations of the Amateur Athletic Association, since LeRoy was ahead on points at the time.

At this point the infuriated LeRoy tried to get at Lucas. He charged through officials, with fists swinging. Fans swarmed about ringside and one LeRoy supporter tried to swing a chair but was stopped before any damage was done.

The fight was billed as the highlight of an otherwise highly-enjoyable boxing card staged at the arena by the Belleville Boxing Club. Seven other bouts rounded out the evening's entertainment with the local fighters doing three and drawing one. Lucas and LeRoy staged a fast, hard-slugging bout with LeRoy's footwork and better boxing ability standing out. The first two rounds were about even and in the third LeRoy suddenly lashed out with a two-fisted attack. Snarling, he came in for the kill, flooring Lucas for an eight count.

The pair slugged it toe to toe in the fourth when suddenly LeRoy screamed and pointed to Lucas. Blood dripped from above an ear and referee Parry halted the fight and called for a doctor.

Barry Parsons, who took some severe punishment, eked out a split 3 - round decision over Fred Richardson of Oshawa. Parsons took the first round by a margin and the next two drew in the second. Both appeared almost out on their feet when the bell rang to end the bout.

Grant O'Reilly, clever boxer from Oshawa, took a unanimous decision over Johnny Bay of Hamilton. O'Reilly proved too clever a boxer for Bay and won the five-rounder by a large margin. Later, he was presented the Dow Kingsbeer Trophy for being selected the outstanding boxer on the card.

Howard "Mugsy" Dean proved he could "dish it out" as well as take and earned a fourth-round TKO decision over Art Robinson of Oshawa. Dean showed a willingness to slug it out at all times and had the Oshawan down for a no-count in the second round. Both landed heavily in the third and in the fourth Referee Parry stopped the fight when Robinson suffered a cut over an eye.

Doug Manaster, a game youngster, showed promise in his unanimous decision over Bill Hall of Oshawa in the opening preliminary. Bernie Guindron, Oshawa, punched out a decision over Hughie Langelle of Belleville, while Bob Cole lost the verdict to George Haggerty, also of Oshawa.

Tommy Cross defeated his stable-mate, Carl Mowers, by a TKO in the third round of their 130-pound preliminary.

Bob Temple acted as announcer in veteran fashion. The referees were Bill Parry and Bill Crawford. Judges were Crawford and Parry, when not in the ring, Harry Robinson and Eddie Schamerhorn. Timer was Bill Salter.

THREE ROUNDS

Doug Manaster, B.B.C. defeated Bill Watt, Oshawa (115) unanimous decision.

Bernie Guindron, Oshawa defeated Hughie Langelle (124) B.B.C. unanimous decision.

Bob Cole, B.B.C. lost to George Haggerty, Oshawa B.C. (150) unanimous decision.

Fred Richardson, Oshawa B.C. lost to Barry Parsons (150) split decision.

Tommy Cross, B.B.C. defeated Carl Mowers, B.B.C. by TKO third round.

FIVE ROUNDS

Grant O'Reilly, Oshawa defeated Johnny Bay, Hamilton (130) unanimous decision.

Howard "Mugsy" Dean, B.B.C. defeated Art Robinson, Oshawa (145) by TKO 42 seconds of fourth round.

MAIN BOUT

Jack "Rocky" Lucas drew with Joey LeRoy, Hamilton (145), bout stopped in fourth with LeRoy ahead on points.

West Wins Mann Cup Without Loss

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster Coquitlam Adanacs became the first team in history to sweep two consecutive best - of - seven Mann Cup finals without a loss when they humbled Peterborough Mercurys 13-4 before 1,834 lacrosse fans here Monday night.

It gave new Westminster a record 14th Mann Cup—the first 13 won under the name Salmonbellies. A month into this season the name was changed to Adanacs.

In 1958 the Salmonbellies ousted Welland-Crowland Switchmen in four games.

The western champions held leads of 3-1, 4-1 and 7-3 Monday before slamming in six goals in the final 15 minutes to one by Peterborough.

"I warned our boys before the series that if we didn't contain Rhoda we would have it," said Peterborough team manager Ed Redmond. "We didn't and we've had it."

RHONDA TOP PLAYER

Jack Rhonda — O'Keefes' burly right winger who scored a Canadian record 144 points in 24 league games to lead New Westminster into the Canadian final —was named the most valuable player of the series.

He scored 12 goals and nine assists and proved the difference between the two teams. Monday he arrived late for the game and managed only one goal.

Redmond singled out Rhonda, Jack Barclay, Cliff Sepka and rookie goalie Les Norman for special praise.

Aaron, Kuenn Still Tops In Batting

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Cunningham of St. Louis, batting for the last month in Sportsman's National League batting leader Hank Aaron, will be hard pressed to achieve his purpose in the final week of the regular season.

Trailing Aaron by nine points through Sunday's games, Cunningham will have to face some of the circuit's top pitchers as Los Angeles and San Francisco invade St. Louis for a pivotal games in the pennant race. Don Drysdale of the Dodgers and Sam Jones and Johnny Antonelli of the Giants likely will oppose the Cards.

Cunningham gained one point on Aaron in last week's games. Cunningham connected five hits in 14 at bats and his average remained at .348. The Milwaukee star had nine safeties in 27 trips and his mark dropped one point to .346. Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco is a distant third at .318.

In the American League, Detroit's Harvey Kuenn has virtually clinched the championship. He climbed six points to .356 with teammate Al Kaline, 18 second place, fell one to .322.

Tito Francona of Cleveland is hitting .364 after 390 official times at bat. He will, however, be ineligible for the title with fewer than 477 total appearances, including base on balls, sacrifices and hit by pitches.

PLAYED MAJOR LEAGUES

ERWIN, Texas, (CP) — Clarence W. (Willie) Walker, 70, an outfielder who played for Washington, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston of the American League, died Sunday night. He had a lifetime batting average of .281.

This Happens If National Ends in Tie!

NEW YORK (CP) — What happens if the National League pennant race ends in a triple tie?

There will be a round-robin playoff on a two-losses-and-out basis.

In the event of the three-way tie, lots will be drawn for the second - series Sunday night. It will work this way:

On Monday, Sept. 28, team A plays team B.

On Tuesday, team C plays team B.

On Wednesday, team A plays team C.

If one of the teams/ loses both its games, it is eliminated. The remaining two squads will play a deciding game.

But if after Wednesday all three teams have a win and a loss each, there will be another draw for a final series.

In that draw, team A and team B will meet Thursday. The winner of the game will play team C Friday to allow the world series to begin Saturday, Oct. 3.

And if it's a two-way tie? It calls for a two-out-of-three playoff with the contending teams agreeing on who gets the first game at home. The others will be played at the other team's park. In the event of disagreement, the league president will draw lots.

Rocket Richard Signs for 18th Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard signed Monday for his 18th season with Montreal Canadiens.

The terms were not disclosed but managing director Frank Selke said the new one-year contract "is the same as last season."

"There is no suggestion the Rocket won't be playing the full season, barring injuries, of course," said Selke.

The 38-year-old Rocket has been with the club since he turned pro for the 1942-43 season.

Defenceman Doug Harvey also talked with Selke but didn't sign. Harvey said emphatically he is not a holdout. He expects to see Selke again this week.

Meanwhile, the axe fell and Canadiens now have little more than half of the original camp squad of 34.

One of those cut loose was Claude Richard, younger brother of the Rocket and Henri (the Pocket Rocket). Claude, a left-winger, has been assigned to Hull-Ottawa of the new Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Four players with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League last season were returned to that club: Cec Hoekstra, Guy Rousseau, Reg Fleming and Claude Labrosse.

Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs last season jointly had the Americans as a farm club. Leafs have taken over Canadiens' interest, but Montreal-owned players will be returned to Rochester if not kept with Canadiens.

Newcomers assigned to Montreal Royals include defencemen Tom Thurlby from Peterborough Petes and Lou Kazowski from Fort William.

Rookies still with Canadiens are:

Billy Carter and Bill Hicke, Rochester; Bill Sutherland, Hershey; Al Johnson, Spokane; Wayne Connelly, Peterborough Juniors; J. C. Tremblay, Hull-Ottawa Juniors; Gilles Tremblay, Hull-Ottawa and Cliff Pennington, Winnipeg.

Eskimos Twist Lions' Tail, As Bombers Whip Stamps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers are in sole possession of first place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union today.

But coach Bud Grant's defending Grey Cup champions must share top billing on Monday night's performances with Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos.

Bombers went into Calgary and defeated Calgary Stampeders 15-10. Eskimos beat British Columbia Lions 39-7 with Parker kicking a league-record five field goals.

Eskimos moved into a second-place tie with Lions and have played one game fewer than the B.C. team. Bombers have 14 points, Lions and Eskimos 12 apiece, Calgary is fourth with eight and Saskatchewan Roughriders are winless in eight starts.

STILL ON LIMP

Parker, still limping from the ankle injury which sidelined him out of four games, matched the National Football League record set by Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles Rams in 1951.

In the Calgary game Ernie Pitts counted both touchdowns for Winnipeg on passes from quarterback Jim Van Pelt. Both were converted by Van Pelt, and Charlie Shepard kicked a single.

Earl Lunsford scored the Calgary touchdown on a five-yard plunge. Doug Brown converted and added a field goal. The bruising game was seen by 15,000 fans.

BUSY NIGHT

Before 18,000 in Edmonton, Parker counted a touchdown and two converts in addition to his five field goals.

Halfback Bob Smith also scored a touchdown for Edmonton on Bo Bayard pass-and-run play started by quarterback Don Getty.

B.C.'s points came from a touchdown by halfback Willie Fleming and a single by Harold Sparrow.

Hawks Send 3 To Stampeders

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Three players at the National Hockey League training camp of Chicago Black Hawks have been assigned to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Defenceman Bob Wilson Jr., defenceman Doug Barkley and forward Lou Jankowski, have been sent to the western team.

"I'm far from happy with the play of several members of the team Saturday against Toronto," said coach Rudy Pilous. The game finished in a 5-5 tie.

Although critical of some of the players, Pilous had words of praise for goaltender Roy Edwards.

"There's one fellow who played well both in Peterborough and in St. Catharines against a good Leafs," said Pilous. "I can't say the same for all the rest of the squad however."

Pilous said that Edwards would be in the nets for Buffalo Bisons here tonight when they meet the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League.

Cus D'Amato To Appear Or Else - - -

NEW YORK (AP) — The state athletic commission ordered Cus D'Amato to appear Sept. 29 in connection with its investigation of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson fight promotion, with the clear implication "or else."

D'Amato, Patterson's manager, currently is under suspension for failure to appear at an earlier hearing.

He is reported to be in Puerto Rico, where his nineteen middleweight, Jose Torres, meets Benny (Kid) Paret Saturday night.

D'Amato's lawyer, Edwin Schwelg, protested that inasmuch as his client will not fly, it would be impossible for him to remain for the fight and be back here at the stipulated time.

The commission took the attitude that D'Amato, a key witness in the investigation, had ample notification.

Nobody Got Killed, Slugged In June Allyson's New Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—June Allyson turned up on the home screens Monday night in the first of a dramatic series which, in this particular television season, is pretty unusual.

It was a half-hour show. Nobody got killed—nobody even got slugged. Everybody liked everybody else. Nobody was under analysis. And the whole thing was in autumn green.

The plot was neat and simple: The story of a young widow who, with her mother-in-law, tried to keep alive the memory of a beloved husband. Significantly, the names of the two women, played by Miss Allyson and Ann Harding, were Ruth and Naomi. Of course there was a suitor, and it all ended happily.

As Miss Allyson recently suggested, women are going to like this CBS entry—a veritable oasis in a desert of hour-long westerns and adventure stories. Women will enjoy it even though the plays are bound to resemble daytime serials.

Another newcomer was Love and Marriage, a situation comedy with a Tin Pan Alley theme. This one, on NBC, is based on the old idea that a grouch with a heart of pure gold is funny.

Though made this grouch a music publisher, thereby establishing an excuse to sing some good vintage songs.

In spite of dubbed-in laughter, the first show wasn't too amusing. William Demarest, who plays old curmudgeons with hearts of gold very well, is the star.

Busy Garry Moore is finding time to do a daily 10-minute radio show on CBS (starting Monday, 9.30-10:40 a.m.) for those who sorely miss his old daytime TV show.

Recommended tonight: Bronco, premiere, ABC, 7.30-8.30 — another new western, starring Ty Hardin, last season's Cheyenne; The Dennis O'Keefe Show, premiere, CBS, 9 — situation comedy, with O'Keefe aided by Hope Emerson; A Toast to Jerome Kern, special, NBC, 9.10-music show with Howard Keel, Patrice Munsel, Lisa Kirk, Carol Channing and lots of nostalgia.

Ray Robinson Fights Pender

BOSTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson signed a contract Monday to defend his version of the world middleweight title June 14 in Boston against Paul Pender, Boston boxer of Brookline, Mass., ranked ninth in the latest National Boxing Association's rating.

Robinson, stripped of his title by the NBA because of inactivity, is recognized as the world champion only in New York and Massachusetts.

Promoter Sam Silverman said Robinson signed for 45% per cent guarantee of the live gate at the Boston Garden, and 25 per cent of ancillary money, including television rights.

Robinson also signed for a 10 round non - title bout with unranked Willie Greaves, of Pittsburgh and Edmonton, in New York Nov. 13.

Gene Conley Signs With Phillies, Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — Towering Gene Conley, who figured he was on his way out as a major league pitcher a year ago, today holds signed baseball and basketball contracts calling for pay increases.

"It's wonderful to be wanted," the six - foot - eight righthander said Monday. Salary terms were not disclosed.

He had just come to terms with John Quinn, general manager of Philadelphia Phillies, and Walter Brown, owner of Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association.

Plagued by injury as a Milwaukee Braves hurler in the 1958 season, Conley spent the last two months in the bullpen and finished with an 0-6 record. Gene thought he was better than his statistics but was sure the Braves' front office didn't agree.

"I proved I was a big-league basketball player," Conley said. "Mr. Quinn took me from the Braves in a trade and gave me a chance with the Phillies. I showed I was a big league pitcher. I'm no longer the man nobody wants."

Conley, strong candidate for comeback of the year honors in the National League, posted a 12-7 record and a 3.00 earned run average before a hand injury forced him to the sidelines Aug. 19.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hitting—Ed Mathews, Milwaukee, drove in five runs with two homers during an 8-6 victory over Pittsburgh as the Braves tied for the National League lead.

Pitching — Glen Hobbie, Chicago, won his 16th, top total for Cub since Bob Rush won 17 in 1952, in a two-hitter 12-3 decision over St. Louis.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jim Trimble is an unthinking, nasty man. If you have any doubts about it, consult Hamp Pool of Frank Clair.

Big Jim, the mastermind behind Hamilton Tiger-Cats football club, also happens to be one of the shrewdest coaches in the business. He also happens to own two physically sound and better-than-average quarterbacks which, along with movie projectors, are commodities closest to a coach's heart.

This necessarily doesn't make Trimble a nasty individual, but he didn't go to the top of Pool's and Clair's list of friends last week when he decided to dress only one quarterback a game. The other would be kept on the Hamilton list with signs promisingly displayed saying he is not for sale, trade or transfer.

SMALL COMFORT

It may be comforting to other Big Four league coaches to know that only Bernie Faloney, the magic man from Maxville, will direct the Tiger-Cat attack while Tom Dublinski watches from the stands to make room for another import. But next season, when the Dubber takes out his Canadian citizenship papers, both will be in uniform to harass the other clubs.

Pool and Clair probably would give their eye teeth to latch on to Dublinski—now. Pool has been having quarterback trouble since he joined Toronto Argonauts as coach three years ago and Clair, coach of Ottawa Rough Riders, got the same miseries this year.

It's ironic that Trimble should be knee deep in signal-callers while the Toronto and Ottawa clubs are wailing about the lack of first-rate quarterbacks, among other pre-season troubles. But they asked for it.

Clair put the finger on Randy Duncan, an all-American from the University of Iowa, after the season but made a deal whereby he went to British Columbia Lions of the Western Canada Football Union. Hough Riders followed up by getting Sam Etcheverry, Roughrider quarter Frank Tripucka in a five-for-one trade and everybody knows that Tripucka hasn't lived up to his press notices.

RUNNER WAS COSTLY

Four years ago, before Pool reached Toronto, Argonauts signed Dublinski to a two-year, no-cut contract for $17,500 a season. Dublinski happened to be the property of Detroit Lions of the National Football League at the time and before the Toronto team finally gave up on Dublinski two years ago it cost them about $15,000 in salary and legal fees as Lions took the case to the courts.

The Dubber pitched Argonauts into the Big Four playoffs his first season in 1956. He hurt his knee in exhibition game in Vancouver the following August and Argos let him go after a few games. New York Giants gave him a tryout but let him go in 1958 and Trimble was surprised everybody by signing him for the 1959 season.

Argonauts could have had him back but they figured his knee wouldn't withstand the wear and too much of a gamble. Trimble proved Argonauts were wrong.

CHAMP TO FIGHT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore will meet Bobby Neill, featherweight kingpin of Britain, Oct. 26, Willie Ketchum, Moore's manager, said Monday the fighters will be overweight and no title will be at stake in the 10-rounder in England.

Gyrations of Strippers Still Find No Place in Film Art

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film industry may be loosening its moral code, but it will still brook no bumps and grinds.

No sir, the gyrations of strippers still find no place in the Hollywood film art. I discovered that while doing some academic research on a dance performed by Joan Collins in Seven Thieves. She plays a take-it-off girl, and her coach is Candy Barr, the accomplished dancer now appearing, aptly, on the Sunset Strip.

Miss Collins was about to go into her number when I asked her about the aesthetics of her coaching.

"It has been very interesting and informative, too," the English actress remarked. "For instance, Candy asked me how I take my shoulder straps off. I told her I just pushed them off the shoulder, one by one.

SHOWS HOW

"Wrong, she said. She showed me how to do them like this". Description: Shoulders bunch, arms come forward, thumbs dip under straps in one swift motion.

Miss Collins added that she is considerably more constrained in her interpretation than is Miss Barr; in fact, the movie censors decreed that her dance cannot be referred to as a strip-tease. The fact that she doffs her clothes is incidental.

Nor can she perform any bumps or grinds. But she said Miss Barr doesn't, either.

"She's a dancer and a good one," Miss Collins said. "Her act is so good she could work in Las Vegas or any place fully clothed. She does it without clothes to fit the current public taste."

Miss Collins admitted that she is not an appreciator of the peel and strip.

"I don't think it is really exciting," she commented. "What is more innocent than nudity? It is what is hidden that is seductive, not what is revealed. The stockinged leg is much more appealing than the bare one."

She conceded that this might be strictly a feminine viewpoint.

Tigers Rehire Jimmie Dykes

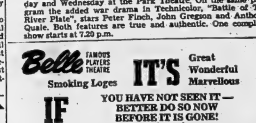
By DAVE DILEB

DETROIT (AP) — Pitcher Jim Bunning and outfielder Charlie Maxwell became the top attractions today as Jimmie Dykes began thinking about ways to improve Detroit Tigers in 1960.

Dykes was rehired Monday to manage the club he led out of the American League cellar into first-division respectability. The Tigers are in fourth place.

Dykes feels the American League club must start with some of its regulars and change its front line. A shakeup in the pitching department will be his first order of business when the 1960 season ends.

He left the door open for some possible changes in coaching, too. Billy Hitchcock, Willis Hudlin and Tommy Henrich now serve as Tiger coaches. It is known that Dykes would like to bring Luke Appling, the old Chicago White Sox shortstop who played under Dykes for many years.



"It's the manager's job to name the coaches," said general manager Rick Ferrell, who hired Dykes last May 2 after firing Bill Norman with the Tigers in last place with a record of two victories and 15 defeats. "He must live with them and, for that matter, die with them."

AT THE BELLE — Miss Gaynor and handsome Rossano Brazzi are co-starred with John Kerr, France Nuyen and Ray-Walston in De Luxe color version of "South Pacific", playing tonight and Wednesday, matinee daily at 2.00. You have never seen "South Pacific" until you've seen it on the giant screen.

AT THE PARK — Hardy Kruger, Europe's top male star appears as Frank Von Werra, German war ace, who the allies caught but couldn't keep in "The One That Got Away", showing today and Wednesday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the added attraction is drama in Technicolor, "Battle of The River Plate", stars Peter Finch, John Gregson and Anthony Quale. Both features are true and authentic. One complete show starts at 7.20 p.m.

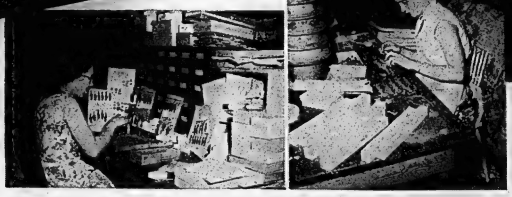
Gentlemen:

About 12 years ago,when I was with B.Greenwing Hire Co.,Ltd.,I had an opportunity to observe first hand the kind of work that your company does for its clients. I decided that some day,when I had my own business,I would have you do some work for me.

I called you in last December to help us out of our difficulties. Our sales had been holding steady at around $100,000 a year, but we were getting 75% of our business on jobbing lines with a 25% profit margin and only 25% on our own manufactured lines with a 50% profit margin. Your analysis, in an unbelievably short period of time,showed us how to correct that situation. Our business is now 50% jobbing and 50% manufacturing. As of September 1, we are giving up our jobbing lines entirely and going to 100% manufacturing. We have developed many new lures and flies.



By the persistent use of your methods,we have substantially reduced our past due accounts receivable...always dangerous in a highly seasonal business such as ours. You showed us how to be properly organized like a big company. You set up a system of records that will provide continuity of management for the younger men in our company. You enlarged our sales force and helped us develop a real sales program. You completely eliminated duplication of effort and "buck passing".

I must say that I am most pleased indeed with the excellent work that your company did for our little business. Our sales for this year will be about $110,000 and our net profit is up nearly 80%. Your work gave us many tangible and intangible benefits. It would be a great pleasure to recommend your services to anyone who inquires of me about them.

Very truly yours,

Nikita Showing Signs Off Wear But Still Beams

Was Almost Benign At Iowa Reception

DES MOINES (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev, showing definite signs of heavy fatigue, began another rugged round of activities today with a 75-mile automobile trip for a close look at Iowa's corn crops.

The Soviet premier, obviously happy at the friendly reception he received in the corn-belt, travelled to the farm of Roswell Garst near Coon Rapids for a look at American methods of raising corn and producing animal feedcr.

Several hundred people lined the circular ramp of a parking building across the street from Khrushchev's hotel.

For the Soviet leader the visit to the farm was a reunion of his acquaintance with his host, who has been Khrushchev's guest in the Soviet Union several times.

CROWD APPLAUDS

There was a sputtering of applause from the crowd as the premier, accompanied by Garst and Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, stepped from the hotel.

The Soviet leader had fortified himself with a substantial breakfast of fruit juice, poached trout, bintzches—a sort of pancake—with melba sauce, toast with honey, cereal, sliced cucumbers, whole petite tomatoes and bread.

The route to the farm took the Soviet premier over rolling, green low-lying countryside, rich with fields of tall, waving corn.

The route was guarded by state troopers, Iowa National Guardsmen and six National Guardsmen, most carrying rifles. The men were stationed at short intervals along both sides of the highway.

FLAG-DECKED HOMES

The small towns along the way, many homes were decked with American flags. The town of Perry, population 6,200, the first Khrushchev was to see outside the Moines, was decorated across the main highway bearing the word "welcome" in English and during the information, "a typical American town."

Near the farm, while clapboard Garst home outside Coon Rapids, swarms of newsmen and television people gathered with their jungle of equipment.

Rebel Warfare Steps up in Northern Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—Rebel warfare was reported stepped up today in northeastern Laos near the Communist North Viet Nam border as a United Nations fact-finding team planned to visit the front.

The information ministry of this little Indochina kingdom announced today that a government column had pierced through to the River Ma in the key fighting area of Sam Neua province, recouping the army outpost of Sophao.

But it said pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels were strengthening their positions on the western section of the river.

Direct news now is impossible from reporters in the area. The army Tuesday banned them from going the front because it said news reports were not being written "in a correct way."

In London, British sources today emphasized that Britain regards UN Security Council discussion of the report of its fact-finding subcommittee in Laos as the next practical step before any consideration of military intervention by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Britain also told the Soviet Union Tuesday night that Communists are responsible for the fighting in troubled Laos in a formal note the foreign office also accused the Russians of falsifying the Laotian situation.

Laos has charged that Communists from neighboring North Viet Nam have supported Red rebels in Laos with troops and supplies.

The Soviet Union last week accused the West of using the Security Council to cover up Western intervention in what it called an internal Laotian dispute.

Police Believe Woman Died in Freak Accident

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they believe a freak accident accounted for the death of Joan MacDougal, 34, found fully clothed in a bathtub full of water in her apartment Tuesday.

Police suggested Miss MacDougall was working in the kitchen of the apartment, which she had just rented, and not living there when she fell against a wall or cabinet, knocking the back of her head. She probably went to the bathroom, ran water in the tub, took a swim, then climbed into the tub. Then police think she fainted and drowned. The watchdog plugged the drain and the rising water drowned her.

"That's all it looks like but we haven't proved it yet," said Inspector Ross Hamilton.

An autopsy showed Miss MacDougall died of drowning and had suffered a brain hemorrhage. The hemorrhage could have caused by a fall or could have occurred naturally, causing the fall.

Police said Miss MacDougall came here from Monticello, Ind., and had been living in a West-ern Canada until a few weeks ago. Her purse containing $60 was found in the apartment.

CIVIL SERVANTS NOT LIKELY TO GET PAY RAISE

Frost Says Money Now Too Tight

TORONTO (CP) — A bid by the Civil Service Association of Ontario to get salary increases and overtime pay was stalled Tuesday by Premier Frost.

But the premier promised adoption of a streamlined grievance procedure, appointed Provincial Treasurer Allan as the minister responsible for the civil service and put new government-members on the Joint Advisory Council.

Mr. Frost told a five-man delegation from the association that the tight money situation made any general pay increases almost impossible at the moment.

He added—that there was too much difficulty in administering an overtime program.

DISAPPOINTED

Association delegates, who met with the premier for 1½ hours, said they were disappointed at the lack of progress on monetary issues.

President William Harper said salary demands will be taken up again with Mr. Allan and the Civil Service Commission. Last January, the association asked for an eight-to-40-per-cent increase in salaries. "Last month it demanded an interim flat increase of 15 per cent pending final salary settlements.

Mr. Harper said appointment of Mr. Allan was something the association has been seeking for some time.

The premier removed A. D. Stacey, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, from chairmanship of the advisory council and named James B. Metiler, deputy labor minister, as the new head. He added two new members to the council — Dr. Clifford Graham, deputy agriculture minister, and William Fulton, deputy highways minister.

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

The premier also assured the delegates they may go before the commission with minor grievances and said department councils could also take recommendations and grievances to the commission.

The commission would be given wider powers, he said, to make binding appointments to the Public Service Act.

Fish-Pond Drowning

Police said the child fell from a plank across the pond into 18 feet of water.

Prime Minister Heads Into Gaspe After Handshaking Township Tour

QUEBEC (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker headed into the rugged Gaspe region of Quebec today after making an estimated 1,500 hands in the Eastern Townships Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker are on an unofficial jaunt through Quebec that started last weekend and ends this Friday.

Although the trip is tagged as non-political, Quebec Progressive Conservative party organizer expressed pleasure at the greetings given the Diefenbakers everywhere they went.

"The unceremonious manner in which the trip has been held is worth 100 political rallies," he beamed.

Tuesday the Diefenbakers visited Thetford Mines, Drummondville, Victoriaville, Plessisville and smaller centres in the Eastern Townships, whose famous maple trees are just beginning to show a touch of autumn colors.

During a reception at Thetford Mines he said there is "one nests in our Canadianism" and said wherever he goes he finds a "togetherness in thought among Canadians."

New Highway Policy Needed To Meet Traffic Increase

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning that future traffic jams on Canada's highways could seriously interfere with the country's economy was made today by the retiring president of the Canadian Road Association.

Hon. J. T. Douglas, Saskatchewan highways minister, said realistic planning and budgetting for highways is necessary to save the country-from congested highways.

In a speech to the association's convention he suggested a national highway policy of assistance to the provinces in a manner similar to public health grants-in-aid.

The text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

He said in 50 years time "we shall still have to contend with the unending problem of more obsolescence."

On the basis of bureau of statistics reports and recent population estimates the approximately 3,000,000 motor vehicles now registered in Canada would increase to more than 10,000,000 by 1980.

A sizable portion of Canada's highways now were taxed to their limit and it took no stretch of the imagination to realize the tremendous job that must be done to bring their capacity to the point where they could handle increased traffic with increased safety and efficiency.

Behind The Iron Curtain

Plain Food the Rule In Russian Restaurants

By Raymond Canon

(ARTICLE TEN)

LENINGRAD—

As I have mentioned before, one has to have a good supply of patience if one wants to eat in Russian restaurants. There are not many restaurants to begin with, and when you do get in to one, service is apt to be rather slow.

The waiters don't seem to care just how fast they serve you; in fact they are usually in no hurry to give you even a menu. But once you do get it, let's have a look at what there is to eat.

First of all, the menu everywhere is always the same, and written in four languages including Chinese. If everything on the menu were to be had, the choice would not be so bad. However, such is not the case, and so our selection was sometimes rather limited.

To begin with, you can always start with soup. In my opinion the best of these by far is borscht, a rather heavy vegetable soup. In fact, most of the Russian soups are heavy. There is also solyanka, cucumber, or if you are not in the mood for soup, there is a very good tomato juice.

Speaking of tomatoes, we often see a rather good salad, consisting mainly of tomatoes and onions.

The main dish is about the same as in Canada, that is meat, potatoes (usually boiled), and vegetables. We found beefsteak on the menu, but half the time when we tried to order it we were told that it was "not available." When we did get it, it was pretty good. We also had good pork chops and beef stroganoff, a favorite of mine. For fish eaters, there was always a variety of fish to be had, but I never got around to sampling these too much.

ICE WATER A RARITY

My friend and I are great water drinkers, and we continually asked for cold water to go with our meals, in fact we asked for ice water. The only place we ever did get it was in Moscow and they made up for the shortage of ice in the other cities by giving us a liberal supply of it with the water.

There is quite a choice of dessert, but we concentrated on ice cream, since the Russian

They Should Have Named Him 'Jones'

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Citizens here have learned a lot about the Soviet premier during his United States visit.

But they're hazy about how to spell his name.

The Battle Creek Enquirer and News sent a reporter into the streets with 81 bills for those who could spell Khrushchev correctly. He returned with two of the bills he started out with.

Of 34 persons queried, only three passed the test, he said.

Believe Five Drown in Fraser

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—Police today began searching for four men and a woman missing and feared drowned in the Fraser River at Hatzic Prairie.

A truck-owned by one of the men was found in Yale, B.C., used by the group to cross the river has vanished.

Police identified the missing as Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman and Arthur Pat of Yale, and Aldo Bunato and Ed Pandare of Spuzzum, B.C.

The Chapmans have six children. Pandero is the father of five and his wife is expecting a sixth.

GOVT. MAY DROP REQUIREMENT FOR OLD AGE PENSION

Contributory Plan May Also Be Added

OTTAWA (CP) — The government may drop the requirement that to qualify for the universal old age pension an applicant must live at least six months of the year in Canada.

Informed sources said Tuesday that such a step may precede the addition of a contributory feature to the present pension plan. Expansion of the old age pension to include a contributory feature probably will be made before the end of 1962.

Considerable pressure has been exerted on the government to drop the six-months-in-Canada requirement. It is argued that over the 10 or more years that pension applicants have lived in Canada they have paid in taxes of one kind or another a reasonable share of the pension benefits they enjoy.

The present $55 a month for all over age 70 is conceded to be inadequate. But recipients unable to earn more or to get through living with relatives or children have to make do on that amount.

MIGHT LEAVE COUNTRY

A number of pensioners might well wish to join relatives in Britain, the United States or elsewhere. The six months' requirement to be in this country at least six months of the year is designed to prevent will head the words of Professor Robert M. Clark of the University of British Columbia when a government-sponsored study of the United States' contributory pension warned that it would be costly to the government if pensioners of the Canadian pension wholly to contributory plan.

But by tacking on a contributory feature is might be possible to give a British Columbia whose government-sponsored study of the United States' contributory pension warned that it would be costly to the government if pensioners of the Canadian pension wholly to a

Orval Gravelle Named Coach Junior B Team

Manager Mel Richards of the Belleville Lambert-Hollins Junior "B" hockey club announced this morning that Orval "Red" Gravelle has been appointed coach of the team for the 1959-60 season.

Gravelle replaces Eddie Plata who recently took the club that he would not be available for coaching duties this season.

The new coach has had considerable hockey experience and will probably best be remembered here as the top player on the Levis senior "A" team that played against the McFarlands for Allan Cup playdowns two years ago.

Gravelle is stationed at Trenton with the RCAF.

The Lambton Sellies will compete in a group with at least three other clubs, Kingston, Trenton and Peterborough. One or more other entries may also take part, depending on whether a lower classification is formed in the district.

Foreman Is Real Manager Of Business Members Told

"The foreman is the real manager of a business, and those at a higher level of authority are his helpers, counsellors, and advisers", Mr. A. M. Doyle, Toronto district manager of Canadian General Electric Company, told some 100 members of Quinte District Foremen's Club who resumed their monthly dinner meetings at the Club Canara last night, following a summer recess.

Mr. Doyle, an employee of C.G.E. for the past 31 years, explained from the viewpoint of administration, foremen are considered key members of management, and since management "is getting work done through other people", the foreman actually manages the business. He said members of "middle management" should not interfere but act in an advisory capacity to the foreman, to help him "achieve the company's objectives through his workers".

While noting the definition of management's main job of the company president as well as the foreman's job, Mr. Doyle said the difference between the two jobs are only in degree and time — not in the way they do their job or discharge their responsibilities.

As an illustration he said a foreman is a charge of a small group of people in one section of the building and he is primarily concerned with day to day operations and problems, while the president, who may be in charge of 5,000 people or more scattered from coast to coast, is more concerned with how business will be next year or 10 years from now.

Reporting on the views and experiences of C.E., he said it was found only a few foremen showed "real interest in the overall needs of the business."

The speaker said his company found the foreman was "so busy being a clerk, he did not have time to supervise his people" and thus his prestige "was diluted".

The foreman, he said, therefore were inclined to duck their rightful responsibilities. They lost out to staff in union skirmishes and staff personnel people in matters of relations with employees", he said.

To correct this situation G.E. has begun a course in what it calls "manager development."

All foremen and equivalent professional people as well as higher levels of management are participating in this program and of company designed meetings aimed at developing "a proper understanding of what the management process really is."

The results of this program are phenomenal," he said, noting a total of 17,000 have taken the course while the entire company nearly a million dollars.

A second series which deals primarily with self-development of the individual is just becoming available . . . and will be given to graduates of the first course," Mr. Doyle stated.

Stressing the importance of foremen education in improving business and industry, he said G.E. recognizes foremen as possible "successors" to plant executives.

Their training programs are therefore aimed at "widening the foreman's vision . . . to focus on the business as a whole".

"We urge them to weigh the consequences of their decisions in the light of conflicting interests of customers, shareowners, employees, suppliers and the general public," he explained. He said the G.E. management philosophy centres around "decentralization of authority for making decisions". In other words each successive layer of management has the responsibilities and authority of "running a particular segment of the company without interference from his boss, who acts only as an adviser.

Mr. Doyle was introduced by Len Taylor and thanked by Ken Brookworth who presented the speaker with a gift on behalf of the club.

A question-and-answer period followed during which several questions on foremen education courses were answered.

The head table before the new president, Doug McLean was installed in office.

NEW PRESIDENT WELCOMED

Following a brief address in which he commended last year's executive for their assistance to him and expressed confidence in the new president and executive, immediate past president Al Fewtrell officially turned over the gavel to incoming president Doug McLean.

Mr. McLean briefly outlined Mr. Fewtrell's career with the company and commended him for past accomplishments, particularly his interest in membership last year, and presented him with the past president's pin and a gift on behalf of the club.

The club has acquired approximately 35 to 30 new members, necessitating moving the meeting place from the Club Canara to Club Canara.

Mr. McLean introduced the head table which included members of the new executive, and a special welcome to members to the club.

A thought-provoking sermon was given by Father William McGee of St. Michael's Church. Entitled "Khrushchev professes nothing, but he lives up to it. We profess Christianity and don't live according to it."

In closing he urged club members to put Christianity into their working life, their leisure time and their family life.

Mr. Fewtrell introduced Jack Ireland gave a brief address congratulating past president Al for his work on behalf of the club, and wishing success to the new executive.

An outline of the year's program was given by Clarence Langdon, 1st vice-president (program). The October dinner meeting will feature a tour of Nichol's Chemical Company and will be held in Tweed.

Ken Grandame, representative to the National Council of Foremen Clubs, reported on the highlights of the conference held Saturday in Toronto.

William Sandford led the singsong with Roscoe Garrison as pianist. Grace was said by Rev. Ken Wilson.

NEW EXECUTIVE

The new executive is as follows: president, Doug. McLean; immediate past president, Al Fewtrell; 1st vice-president (program), Clarence Langshear; 2nd vice-president (membership), Alex Mouldhaut, public relations, George Norval; treasurer, Bob Tuck; secretary (and constitution and by-laws chairman), John Barkhuizen, who took over the position vacated by F. Cliffe Phillips; executive secretary D. G. Dimmendiber; and representative to National Council, Frank Grandame.

Committee chairmen are: John Morris, Lin Johnson, Thornton Pyrik, Nick Danaluk, Al Antrell, Al Simpson, Les Desaulniers, Stew Hill, Jim O'Brien, Wallace Bell, Hugh Jones, Abel Nightingale, Ron Isaacs, Miles Leggat, George Norval, William Sander, Forrest Gray, and George Graham.

JOSEPH EDWARD TAYLOR

In failing health for some years, Joseph Edward Taylor, well known painter and decorator of this city for many years, died at his home, 43 Moyers St., early this Wednesday morning. He was born in this city 63 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor and he has resided his whole life in this community.

For many years he conducted a painting and decorating business and enjoyed a wide clientele in the district. He was a member of the Anglican faith.

He is survived by one brother, Ernest Taylor of Stratford, and five sisters, Mrs. Samuel (Ellen) Taylor of this city, Mrs. J. (Gertrude) Taylor of Alderwood, Mrs. William (Esther) Bearg of Belleville, Mrs. William (Hilda) Mercer of Belleville and Mrs. Earl (Winnifred) McFee of Napanee.

Mr. Taylor never married.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Ave. the funeral arrangements are given elsewhere in this edition.

WILLIAM T. CANNING

The funeral of William T. Canning was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Belleville, day afternoon. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan conducted the service in the chapel and also the last prayers at the graveside at Belleville Cemetery. There was a large number in the chapel and numbered among the assembly were delegations from bodies with whom the late Mr. Canning was identified in various ways. The beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held in the community.

The bearers were Albert "Toots" Holway," Thomas Collen, Ivan Cadwell, Harold Cunningham, Wm. Atkinson and Claude D. Tice.

THOMAS A. GUTHRIE

The funeral of Thomas A. Guthrie took place from the late residence in Cobourg to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in that town on Tuesday afternoon. The funeral being under the direction of the Bush Funeral Home of this city. Rev. J. D. Ca... conducted the service in the church and also the committal rites at Belleville Cemetery. Mrs. Guthrie was a former resident of this city for many years.

The bearers were Earl Hamilton, Al Edwards, Theo Kovalchuk, Alex Mikelich, Gordie Seale and Arthur Leecard.

Picton Mayor Wants Option For Five Years

Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland wants a five-year option from him to renew his agreement with the city for the operation of the Belleville Bulls Junior "A" hockey team and for rental of the Belleville Arena.

The present agreement still unsigned by Mr. McFarland gives the city $150 per year plus the gross receipts, whichever is the greater, for the use of the Belleville Arena for the 1959-60 hockey season. The agreement, however, is for this year only.

Mr. McFarland objected to the one year clause and he has made a counter offer requesting the option of continuing the agreement for another three years for a four years. His offer would give the city $150 or 10 per cent for each home game this year with the minimum increased to $200 per game or 15 per cent if the option to continue the agreement was taken up.

The amended agreement, it is understood, will be presented to council on a take it or leave basis at next Monday evening's council meeting.

D. J. Stark New Y.F.U. Director

Greater Belleville Youth for Christ held its first rally of the season on Saturday night at the Masonic Temple. The former athletic director, D. G. Blackwood, of London, Ontario, officially introduced the new director, D. J. Stark, who is now directing the Belleville and area chartered rally.

Before an audience of approximately 350, other added features of the evening was the Youth for Christ choir under the direction of Monty Parks, with a special arrangement of "Amazing Grace."

The guest speaker of the evening was T. Texas Tyer, who gave his life story of combining one of the top country and western artists of all time and featured star on "Grand Ole Opry" and television during his 26 years in show business before a serious illness when he was an alcoholic. During this illness, Mr. Tyler came to trust in the Lord and is now using his musical talent as a testimony to others of the miracle of salvation in Christ.

Citizens' Assoc. Dissolved for Lack of Officers

Unwillingness on the part of the membership to assume active duties resulted in the end and the dissolving of the Belleville Citizens' Association.

The action was taken at a meeting of the Association held at Queen Alexandra School for the purpose of electing new officers and to name a tentative slate of candidates for the forthcoming municipal elections.

When insufficient members to fill their willingness to run for office were forthcoming, the motion to disband was carried and was followed by motion for the Association membership to join the East Belleville Ratepayers' Association.

West Hill Ratepayers also held a meeting last night at Prince Charles School and named a tentative slate of officials for the new year and also prospective candidates for the office of mayor, for aldermen, public and separate school boards and for public utilities.

Both the slate of officers and the list of prospective candidates for municipal office will be finalized at meetings of executive advisory committee and will be later announced. Acting president of the Association is Ex-Alderman Douglas Moxam.

David Smith Resource Leader Of Folk School

Hastings County Folk School is planning committee met at the home of the secretary, Miss Alma Moorcroft, to arrange for the annual Folk School to be held at Hastings Lodge, Eagle Lake, with host Mr. Bert Vanner.

The Folk School has been fortunate in obtaining Mr. David Smith, Director of Education, Mr. Smith is a consultant on conferences, workshops, recreation leadership and has recently returned from Thailand where he was working with UNESCO on adult education, and at training centre for community development. Prior to that he was director of adult education division, Department of Education, Saskatchewan.

"KNOW THYSELF"

The theme for this year's Folk School is "Getting to Know Ourselves". There will be group discussions on topics relating to the theme. The theme should be of particular interest to persons engaged in leadership in the Federation of Agriculture; 4-H Clubs; Women's Institutes, and various Church groups.

A typical Folk School program has a day filled with family devotions, working together at household chores, singing, discussion, lectures, films, recordings, public speaking, story telling, study, outdoor hikes, games.

RESULTS OBTAINED

Some of the results obtained are communities take on new tone under the guidance of inspired leaders, participants find joy fellowship of working and playing with others, gain self confidence, poise by having the opportunity to learn by doing, participants also gain new skills and develop culturally.

Members of this year's planning committee include: Ron Hagerman, Mrs. Hollinger, Doug Ketcheson, Mrs. Ann Rombough, Miss Alma Moorcroft and Miss J. Gay.

Behind Iron Curtain

product is easily the best in Europe. We could eat it plain or with fruit. We usually preserved it the latter way, and although most of the fruits were unknown to us, they were very delicious.

For those who are not food faddists, there is a choice of fruit or cake.

In our opinion the cake was rather heavy and sticky, and so we avoided this if we could help it.

We generally finished the meal off with coffee, which was better made than the tea. It after all this, we were still thirsty, we could always order some soft drinks, which differ from ours in that they are not carbonated.

For the majority of Russians the noon meal seems to be the main one. Judging from the size of their midday dinner and supper are such meals. Since Russians are rather stout, 30 - 30 pounds overweight. About every woman that you meet on the street has rather dumpy.

You have all probably heard of vodka and caviar, the two most famous Russian products of the country. Vodka tastes as strange as it may seem, is not liked by the bottle but by the 100 grams. Caviar is also rather expensive, and is often used to spread on a cracker, but as we eat jam. Bread, by the way, is made coarser than ours as it is cooked, but this is general throughout the continent.

Some of the restaurants where we ate were very elaborately furnished and equipped. Heavy drapes, ornate fixtures were the rule rather than the exception. All the tablecloths were made of linen, and there was always a vase of fresh flowers and a crystal, china and silverware. We were entertained while we ate by an orchestra, the best one being in the smallest place we visited in Latvia.

Eating in a restaurant is one thing, but shopping for it is another. There is a fair number of bakeries and grocery stores, but instead of having names, they have numbers, such as Grocery Store No. 21. There is little advertising, since why advertise? There is no competition. Thus, in this virtuosity in the stores, and outside of a few staples, prices are high. In fact, they are exorbitant. That is why the Russian diet is so simple. The people can't afford too much of a variety.

What you can't buy at one of the above stores, you can buy at GUM the large department store in the centre of Moscow. It is only two storeys high, is made up of a series of galleries, and is rather crowded to be almost a self-contained store. Here there is also very little variety. A store of low quality and high prices, but it is the only one there, and we discover that the clerk works out the amount on an abacus, the same as our waiter did in the restaurant. There just isn't enough money in circulation for cash registers in use. Some day I'm going to figure out just how work that machine.

IN MEMORIAM

BALTZ. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ella Baltz, who passed away September 23rd, 1942.

In the patient fight to see;
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But someday we'll meet again,
And clasp his hand once more,
And sing his hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by daughter, son-in-law and family.

KING. — In loving memory of a dear father, Everett King, who passed away September 23rd, 1956.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
As long as memory holds its seat,
In the dearest sorrow of one's heart.
—Sadly missed by wife Thelma, son-in-law Terry and grandchildren.

KING. — In loving memory of a dear father and Husband, Everett, who passed away September 23rd, 1956.

Each evening shades are falling,
When all is still and dark,
To our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could hear.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile;
But dear Dad, they little know
Our thoughts and the wishes are of you.
—Sadly missed by wife Marion and children.

KING. — In memory of our dear father, Everett King, who passed away September 23rd, 1956.

There you left us, dear Dad,
Dad was called to his eternal rest.
Taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much
To see you suffer and pass away
But we also know in heaven to meet
Dad in that land far away.
—Sadly missed by Ronald Everett, daughter-in-law June and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation for the kindness and consideration shown us by friends during the loss of our beloved son Daniel.

C.P.R. Trainmen From West Meet Board in City

A conciliation board headed by Judge J. C. Anderson, of Belleville, as chairman met in the city over the weekend in an attempt to bring the C.P.R., Western Lines and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen into agreement.

It was the first time that a railway conciliation board had met in the city and with the parties concerned failing to come to agreement the board will make its report later.

The contract between the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the C.P.R. ran out last year and with the parties failing to reach agreement appointment of the conciliation board was asked. The C.P.R. Eastern Lines have settled with the trainmen.

Sitting on the Board headed by Judge Anderson were Mr. Leslie Rae, Q.C., Rockcliffe, Q.C., as B. of R. T. nominee, and John W. Long, Q.C., as the CPR nominee. Judge Anderson conferred with representatives of the CPR in the morning and members on Friday and with CPR representatives on Saturday morning. Sittings continued day and night over Saturday, Sunday and Monday when agreement being reached.

Representing the different factions were:

A. M. Hand, Asst Manager Labor Relations, CPR; Joseph D. Benedetti, Personnel Dept.; Jack C. Anderson, Supervisor Personnel, Montreal; Gordon Bonnell, Belleville; Denis Cordi, Contract Analyst; Jack Hannaga, Labor Relations Assistant; Vic Hooley, Road Foreman of Engines, Vancouver, B.C.; Fred Firmin, Supervisor Personnel Atlantic Region.

Transient Held In Possession Of Stolen Car

A young transient who allegedly stole a 1949 model car from the Bayshore parking area apprehended by city police this morning in the Herchimer Ave. district and will be charged with the car theft.

Police said the car was stolen from Bancroft during the night and was located following a police alert from the Trenton centre.

To be charged with car theft is Wesley Ronald Hepper, no fixed address, who was in possession of the vehicle.

A car stolen from Elliott's Used Car lot on Monday night was found abandoned in the Brighton area.

Still another car was reported stolen last night, this one, a 1956 model Ford Green's Used Car Lot on the Redneersville Road beyond Rossmore.

Vacation Time Is Honeymoon Time For Teachers, Says School Board

Honeymooning school teachers will no longer be granted leave of absence by the Belleville Public School Board who have instituted a new policy. Leave plans by staff members should be finalized during the holiday period.

School board members, at their initial meeting of the fall term this week, voted that leave of absence will no longer be given to teachers for marriage during the school year. A board official indicated that "too often" in the past teachers contemplating marriage had made the request for leave from their duties to take wedding trips.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. G. W. Pages as board member and named Frank M. Clarke of Woodland Acres as his replacement on the board. Mr. Pagel, formerly employed with Melville Company here, has accepted a position with another firm and has moved to Long Island, N.Y.

And board members are a bit concerned about the possibility of breakage of windows in their new board room adjacent to the Belleville Public School playgrounds.

During the summer season the ball diamond backstop, formerly located in the southeast corner of the field was moved to the northwest corner and foul balls could conceivably crash into board room windows from the new location. A special committee has been named to determine whether the recreation committee should be asked to move the backstop back to its former location.

WILL REMOVE TREES

Also pertaining to the East Belleville Playground, the city parks superintendent will be asked to remove three large unsound trees from the grounds. The unsound trees are considered to be in a dangerous condition.

Public Schools Inspector John M. Cousins has been named member of the County Public Library Board, replacing Inspector Art Cummins, who has taken up residence in Burlington.

And the school board has decided it will have to pick up an $8,000 operational deficit from former S.S. No. 5 Thurlow which with annexation was taken over by the city. Schools concerned were Prince of Wales and Hillcrest where expenditure for fencing and repairs caused the bank overdraft.

Council Discusses Matter Of Possible Annexation

TRENTON — "Trenton of the Future" was discussed at the local council meeting Monday night when the matter of possible annexation of land was expected by Mr. W. Larry, town clerk.

Mr. Larry read a report from the sub-committee appointed to look into various aspects of annexation.

"From the success of Monday's discussion, and if progress continues at the present rate, it should seem that the town 'out' Trenton may have the much-needed additional building sites before they know it.

The need for more land has been felt in Trenton for some time. Real estate men and prospective home-owners have been complaining that there are not enough serviceable sites available for new homes. In view of this, council has felt that they have lost a lot of prospective Trenton residents to nearby towns.

With this in mind, they set about exploring the possibilities of annexing more land for the sole purpose of providing building sites.

Mr. Larry explained that the committee and some members of the council had toured the perimeter of the municipality to survey areas—of what might very well be Trenton of the future. The committee's report means the inclusion of all the areas bounded on the south by the east, Highway 401 on the north and the English Cemetery road on the west.

The committee recommended that it would take too long—at last until January, 1961—if they assessed the entire area, but that if action on a smaller portion was started right away they may have an answer by January, 1960. Council felt that need for adequate sites was so pressing that the latter plan would be more advantageous.

It was decided, however, that whatever land is annexed it should be large enough to accommodate 100 or 150 homes. After further discussion about which parcel of land would be most suitable, it was pointed out that land on the north side of the highway on the western outskirts of the town was already equipped with water. This would make it a logical area for the project.

It was further disclosed that the land in question was owned by one annexationist, Stanley Klemencic, who is willing to build at least 40 houses on the site. Since the land is large enough to accommodate 115 houses, it seemed a logical area for the town to decide to try to annex the area.

Conditions investigation and negotiations must be carried out with the annexationist willing before any definite action can take place, but it appears to Trenton council that they have covered a happy solution to their problem.

At least, if they are able to annex this area, the town will be in a good position to provide builders and home owners with sufficient land until the larger annexation can take place at a late[illegible] date.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A large audience of spectators and several deputations were present Monday to witness the regular meeting of Trenton Council, Monday night. Missing from their regular seats in the council chamber were Councillors Lounsbury, Pate and Vagn Lange. A full agenda was discussed in the two and a half hour sitting.

A delegation from the Tri-County Publications requested that a strip of land be now reserved for their establishment on Quinte Street. It was decided that there was more than just this area that needed room on Quinte Street, and Town Engineer Eric Aldersey was requested to look into the possibility of recovering the entire street.

Following the reading of a letter from the municipality of Barrie, it was decided that Trenton would go along with the plan of that town to help subsidize the railway line there by adding tree removal duties to the list. It was felt this would be worthwhile doing, as by doing the work was carried out under the supervision of the council all contact local members of parliament to request this action.

An offer from Lawrence High to purchase half of Lot 89 on the east side of McNichol Street was rejected by council. Engineer Eric Aldersey explained that he would be willing to sell the whole lot, but not a part of it. Mr. High will be contacted on the matter.

A delegation from Bain Memorial Park requested that the town assume the responsibility of upkeep for the park. Investigation into the matter will follow, but it was suggested that the Bain Parks Board be approached to take the park under their jurisdiction.

It was announced that Light Foot Construction Company had been granted the contract to install the new sanitary sewer on Elizabeth Street, their bid of $12,627 being the lowest tendered. Cost of this project which will run in the neighborhood of $15,000 including material and labor, will be paid by the home-owners concerned.

Some discussion ensued after a letter had been read from the Trenton PUC, requesting that the number of members be raised from five to seven. The matter was laid over to the next meeting.

A resolution was passed that council consider the present gasfired unit space heater a safe means of heating the Community Centre, and that Councillor Lounsbury before the Ontario Fuel Board with the Gardens management permission to use the system this winter.

Obituary

MRS. JOSEPH G. CAWTHORPE

TRENTON — Genevieve McAuley Cawthorpe, a native of Brighton Township, died suddenly on Tuesday in Winnipeg, Manitoba. She was in her 50th year.

Mrs. Cawthorpe had been a resident of Winnipeg for the past 25 years; prior to that she had resided in Toronto and Sudbury. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick L. McAuley and the wife of Joseph G. Cawthorpe of Winnipeg.

Mrs. Cawthorpe received her primary education at Separate School and later attended Trenton High School. She survived by her husband, now residing in Trenton, Other survivors include a second brother, Patrick, of Pittsburg, Penn., and two sisters, Mrs.' Michael (Eileen) Jenning, Oakville, Ont., and Mrs. John (Marion) Braisley of Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. Cawthorpe's body rested at the Park Memorial Chapel, Winnipeg, where funeral service was sung. The body was then entrained for Trenton to rest at the Tweed Funeral Home until time of interment on Monday.

Interment prayers were held Monday morning by Rev. J. Walsh of Wooler. Burial took place in Codrington Roman Catholic Cemetery. The bearers were Paul Jennings, Gerald Breault, Wayne Breault, Leo McAuley, Fred Parker and Gerold Low.

New Member Welcomed to Parks Board

TRENTON — The Board of Park Management held its regular meeting in the municipal office Tuesday night. Members were welcomed by the provincial who has been appointed to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Claude Smith.

It was decided that the lower Champlain Heights Park will be "redone" this fall. The small section set aside for parking at the King Street entrance will be sodded and the balance seeded. The entire park area was seeded this spring but the hot dry weather and lack of water installation resulted in very little grass and many weeds. The lawn in front of the Community Gardens will be reseeded and various small lawn patching jobs made necessary by the Public Utilities meter installations will be taken care of this fall, as well as the usual fall tulip planting.

The erection of a fence in the Bayshore ball diamond bearing the advertisement of a soft drink company, topped with the club name, met with some disfavor when board members, since the past year or two, the policy has been to eliminate advertising in parks and recreation areas. The diamond, while operated by the Recreation Committee, is under the jurisdiction of the Board of Park Management.

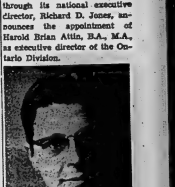
The summer season drawing to a close, the attendant at Hanna Park, Terence Abner, reported that the tourist area there had provided accommodation for vehicles during ninety-six camping days. The board commended Mr. Jones for his efforts in this regard and for the diligent records of vehicles using the park facilities.

The old overgrown flagpole from Gilmour Hill will not end up on the scrap heap after all, it was announced. Chairman R. M. Parker Jr., reported that the Police Department had requested that it be used at one of the entrances to the Rivercrest tennanent, so prominent in that department's child safety work.

Small Docket At Magistrate's Weekly Court

TRENTON — A very small docket was handled by Magistrate V. Ross Parker in Trenton court here yesterday afternoon, with only four cases being heard.

David Barry, who had appeared in court previously to answer charges resulting from an accident on the Dundas Street station earlier in the year, yesterday received a sentence of six days in jail for the damages incurred at that time. On a lesser charge, Mr. Barry also was sentenced to three weeks in jail, the time to run concurrently with the former. Mrs. Elvet Bennant, so prominent in that department's child safety work.



fully driving a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension. Hill was arrested August 9th near the Dundas Street entrance to Highway 401. His reason for driving the vehicle was that the owner of the car were intoxicated.

Because of the fact that Hill received a letter on June 1st from the Department of Transport saying he could again apply for his licence which he had not yet done. Magistrate Parker felt no sympathy on him and imposed a lesser penalty, explaining that he would probably hinder the chances of getting his licence now.

The fourth case to be heard by the Magistrate concerned a charge of driving while intoxicated against a former Belleville resident, now living in Trenton. After an hearing Tuesday, the case was dismissed and the accused acquitted.

Canadian Council of Christians And Jews Makes New Appointment

TORONTO — The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews through its national executive director, Richard D. Jones, announces the appointment of Harold Brian Aitlin, B.A., M.A., as executive director of the Ontario Division.

H. B. AITIN

Harold Brian Aitlin brings to his position experience in journalism and public relations. Born and educated in Toronto, he is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Columbia University. He spent several years in Paris, France, pursuing studies toward the doctorate in European history. He is also acquainted with the culture of the island is the pheasant hunting. The birds are raised by farmers in the area and 100 are kept in a pen and barn right on the island at all times.

When a hunter decides to hunt for them a number are turned loose. They are completely wild and very difficult to track down. Most hunters who go to the camp bring their own dogs to assist them out of hiding but dogs are available for those who do not own them.

A big advantage of hunting or fishing on the preserve is the fact all boats are controlled by Ogston or his assistant, Reg Windatt. It is mandatory by the Wildlife Division of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Because of the fact that Hill received a letter on June 1st from the Department of Transport saying he could again apply for his licence which he had not yet done. Magistrate Parker felt no sympathy on him and imposed a lesser penalty, explaining that he would probably hinder the chances of getting his licence now.

The fourth case to be heard by the Magistrate concerned a charge of driving while intoxicated against a former Belleville resident, now living in Trenton. After an hearing Tuesday, the case was dismissed and the accused acquitted.

Positive Polio Case Admitted

Authorities at the Belleville General Hospital have today confirmed that they have admitted a positive paralytic polio case. As yet the name of the patient has not been revealed. This is the first polio case in this area for several years.

New Hunting Preserve Opens Near Bloomfield

Eastern Ontario hunting and fishing enthusiasts have a new shooting preserve open in the area.

The Thunderbird Lodge, a few miles outside of Bloomfield, opened September 8.

Owned and operated by Mike Sheba and Bill Ogston, the preserve is on a 100 acre island and boasts a lodge big enough to sleep and feed 30 sportsmen.

The land is covered with a natural growth of weeds, red cedar and marsh. The marsh covers 40 acres on the east shore and is complete with blinds for duck hunters.

What Would Disarmament Bring?

When Nikita Khrushchev proposed complete disarmament in his speech to the United Nations Assembly last Friday, the first question which occurred to most of his listeners—and he had thousands, thanks to TV—was probably "Does he mean it?"

Further reflection suggested that this was not, perhaps, the only important question. Of equal significance was the question of whether the other powers would believe that he meant it. And, of similar rank were the other powers prepared to accept this solution, even if Khrushchev did mean it, even if they became convinced he meant it?

For, make no mistake about it, a totally disarmed world would present Mr. Khrushchev with certain sweeping advantages. It is certain that he is fully aware of this. Not so certain is that these advantages prompted his offer. He may have been chiefly moved by fright—he, almost alone, may have brought himself to completely believe what all know but most refuse to accept—that a war with nuclear weapons would not only destroy civilization but might doom mankind.

But that does not alter the fact that to a man like Khrushchev, who obviously believes in the superiority of Communism as an economic system, a world disarmed would guarantee that the future would be decided on the basis of economic efficiency.

It would, too, almost certainly result in the spread of Communism to other lands, before the battle of economic systems was fought to a decision. It would probably result in more, rather than less, strife in the years immediately ahead, but this would be localized fighting. Without tanks and planes, how could colonial powers possibly hope to check the tide of nationalism? Communists, experts at stirring up mobs, would have a field day. When there are no armies, navies or air forces, only police forces, and when these police forces are small enough to be overwhelmed, back to the peoples of the world the power of successful revolution. It would not be easy—but it would be possible.

This, though, might be a two-edged sword. What can happen in Africa and Asia can also happen in Europe. Another Hungarian revolution could not be crushed by Russian tanks. Would Khrushchev risk this? The answer need not necessarily be no—in a disarmed world, what would he have to fear from an independent Hungary—no new Horthy could arise to assist a new Hitler in invading Russia.

There is good reason here, though, for hesitation in accepting complete disarmament. Why did Khrushchev offer it? There are only two possible results—because he was trying to deceive, or because he believes that is the only method which will work. There are also a thousand and one difficulties in controlling limited armaments which vanish if there are no armaments to be controlled.

Yet the proposal to swallow the whole when it has been impossible to nibble off the smallest part is so ludicrous, at first glance, that it is small wonder there was skepticism. "The Messiah has come," said one UN diplomat, who, quite understandably, asked reporters not to identify him. Khrushchev, on his record, deserved this much more than President Woodrow Wilson deserved to be accused of "talking like Jesus Christ" when he came to Versailles after the First Great War, when Georges Clemenceau, the Tiger of France, declared that he was "worse" than God Almighty, since Wilson had fourteen points while "le bon Dieu" had only ten. There is just as great a gap between the two in note of cynicism. Was that to be the general reaction? It seemed likely. But now the accident of an election in Britain is changing the outlook. Prime Minister Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell have all, in different ways, declared that Khrushchev's proposals must be carefully examined. However skeptical they may be, in the face of the world-wide yearning for peace, they dare not speak otherwise. And the Sunday Express, which supports the Conservatives, has declared that "the really frightening thing is the cold prompt reaction of most Western officials."

There has been a cold reaction, too, from many members of the public and not alone because they distrust Khrushchev. Said Ray Stephens, 37, of Avenue Road, Toronto, of the total disarmament proposals: "It would be a shot in the arm for the Russians but the economic repercussions for us would be catastrophic. We could look forward to the greatest depression in history."

His fears are understandable—but to argue thus is to admit that our economic system is hopelessly unstable. A depression could be avoided if governments firmly rejected a clamor to reduce taxes immediately and instead used these taxes to provide other things but arms—roads and schools and libraries at home and trains and power plants and farm machinery for the have-not nations—until such a time as an orderly readjustment could be made and consumer demand could take up the slack.

No Monopoly of Champions

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

More and more in future years we are apt to see world sports championships well distributed around the globe. This is the trend in international athletics at a time when the United States and Russia are towering above all countries in competitive events, with no sign that either will relax its efforts to beat the other. But the handwriting is on the wall.

It must have jolted many U.S. observers the other day when Australia defeated a baseball team to represent the country at the Pan-American Games at Chicago. In the years to come, with distance shrinking, the U.S. traditional game is certain to become fully international, with Japan, for instance represented by one or more teams in the big leagues and with the "World Series" meaning literally just that. Already Australia has put in a bid for membership in the third major league.

The evidence is everywhere of the influence which countries other than the U.S. and Russia will exert in the sports sphere. Australia has taken the Davis Cup back to where they by this time the Australians almost think it rightfully belongs. Canada has surprised the world by the capturing from the U.S. the Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of speedboating supremacy. This country's golfers are becoming a force to be reckoned on the U.S. tournament fairways each year. The world's heavyweight boxing champion is from Sweden, even little Cuba seems to be producing all-round baseball style of contenders in the lighter categories. The list is a long one, and growing.

It used to be amusing to some U.S. sports writers to note that Britain, the home of soccer, had now lost its dominancy of the game; nor were touring English teams invincible at cricket. But an epoch is dawning when no country will be able to claim personal supremacy in any sport — which includes Canada's hockey as well.

Tennyson Born in 1809

Baltimore Sun

Just 50 years ago a fourth son was born to the rector of Somersby and Bag Enderby, George Clayton Tennyson, and his wife Elizabeth. It was this boy, Alfred of course, who was not only to become poet laureate but to make his name one of the most renowned of the Victorian Poet, occupying a place none can hold since.

Yet Tennyson's reputation has fluctuated strangely, as it did in the course of his own long lifetime. His early verse was savagely reviewed as "dismal drivel," and "the rhapsodies of insanity." In two years after the first was published in 1833 "Poems" were sold and Tennyson was famous, nearly a decade. Even after the immense success of "In Memoriam," with nine editions published in the first few months time, "Maud," appearing in 1855, was ridiculed as "prose run mad" and as exhibiting "rampant and rabid symptoms of soul." But that was followed in 1859 by the even 50 years ago — by the first "Idylls of the King", (10,000 copies were sold in the first week) "Enoch Arden," which stinkend an amazing 60,000 copies in all on. Today it is hard to conceive a time when a poet, a true poet, earned such large sums for his writings, when a magazine received 6,000 for any poem or just three stanzas from his hand and when he was offered (and refused) £10,000 for a reading tour of the United States.

Tennyson's greatest are lilies read any more; the essays on poetic drama are admittedly dull, but "In Memoriam" stands as one of the greatest elegiac poems; the "Idylls" as one of shorter poems, the spell of their exquisitely nuanced music. is as powerfully moving as ever. And if the vision of such a work as "Locksley Hall" seems blurred now, the mysterious, far deeper vision that lights the lyrical fragments of the long- and taste.

or poems remains wholly pure and splendid. Tennyson has outlived the vicissitudes of fame and he has the right to know that he is quite safe now for all time against the changes of fashion

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GREAT BENEFACTOR TIME

I have mentioned a recent book by Robert Updegraff which he named "All the Time You Need." It has been brought to my great deal about this book and its interesting contents. How true it is that we have all the time we need—and perhaps much more than we need in which to round out our life.

"All the Time You Need" is one of the best inspiring books I have come across in a long time. The author has devoted many years to the gathering of examples and time that give substance to the book itself. Why waste such a gift, however. If we took care to enrich our mind with but a fraction of the time that is ours for the profitable use of this time, we will have done well.

What would we do with ourselves were we not tied up to this great gift of time, and allowed to use it to be full of our desire? There is so much to life that we just do not pass up with no apparent misgiving. Yet, there it is for use in all its abundance. Take the figure of the old white haired gentleman, with which we are familiar, who is busily cultivating. He is well named "Father Time."

Is there a greater gift than this same character, made famous by the poets, artists and a multitude of worthy writers? When we are full of worthy designs, old Father Time thinks kindly of us, under the chin and says, "Get going, my friend; get going!"

A SONG

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Over the road to glory,
Over the hills to fame,
Telling life's little story,
Playing life's little game;
Some of us brave and cheerful,
Some of us worn and sad,
Some of us, O, so tearful!
Some of us, O, so glad!

Over the road to laughter,
Over the road to song,
Over the valley of parting after
Treading the hills of wrong.
Merry and sad we wander,
Grieving glad we go,
To the haven of peace, off yonder,

The calm of the after glow.

Then let us be brave in our treading,
And calm in our grieving, too;
And let us have done with dreading
As darkness we wander through.
For there is rest for the weary.
And joy for the sorrowing,
And there, though today be dreary,
Some time we shall gayly sing.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 22rd, 1939.

Statistics show that the revenue from Belleville Utilities Commission in electric collections alone, were down substantially during the period of daylight saving. Thus a saving of thousands of dollars was afforded the electric light consumers of this city during the summer months. This is the first time in recent years that Belleville has adopted the daylight saving period, as enjoyed by other large cities such as Toronto. However the satisfaction will now be dispelled by the fact that daylight saving will terminate this coming Saturday night at midnight. And it is also wrapped up with the announcement by the Commission that as of midnight September 30th, all electricity accounts will have added to them a levy of eight per cent under the Dominion War Revenue Sales Tax.

Results of military courses taken at summer camps this year include the granting of rank to Private Gordon Ault, Lieut. George Laughlin; Lieutenants' certificates to Second-Lieuts. J. R. Coulter and H. A. Frink; Sergeants' certificates to Corporals J. Stock and Cyril J. Gardiner, and Bombardier's certificates to Gunner R. Stewart. All are members of the 34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

Members of the old 15th Argyll Light Infantry, prior to its conversion to a Tank Unit, are quite concerned over the future of the disposal of the aircraft carrier H.M.S. Courageous recently. Tommy Dodsworth, who for some time was Sergt-Major in the old 15th before they left Belleville some ago when he was known to have been aboard the Courageous, is in touch with Tommy Dodsworth kept in communication with members of the local unit after he left Belleville some six years ago and later, Sergt-Major Percy Levy.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ALCOHOL AFFECTS THE BRAIN AND CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM . . .

Alcohol, as we said yesterday, is "both a drug and a food," alcohol is good high in calories and testing in everything else needed for nutrition.

Of all foods, it is absorbed into the system the most rapidly. Ninety per cent is absorbed in the stomach, and about a fifth (20 per cent, that is, in case anyone mistook my reference to a "fifth") is absorbed there. The rest is absorbed in the upper part of the intestine. Yet normal foods may require hours for complete absorption.

So what chance does a slice or more of bread, eaten afterward, have of helping to "soak up alcohol"? None.

The alcohol goes into the blood stream, and has its principal effect on the brain and central nervous system.

Dr. Seward E. Miller, formerly of the U.S. Public Health Service and now at the University of Michigan, who recently edited an excellent brochure on the health hazards of driving, quotes various authorities who basically agree that "the amount of alcohol in the blood, at .05 per cent (or less) is enough to affect your driving skill. This is called the "drunkometer" tests use .15 as the level of intoxication. But that's not the point here.

The body will throw off about .015 in an hour, principally, I believe, through the liver, is turned into carbohydrates (starches) and fats which are burned down into other substances including water and carbon dioxide. But it takes time, and there is little if anything that can be done to speed the process, once the alcohol has been absorbed.

Eating before drinking is another matter. If the stomach is full of solid foods, these can retard the speed with which the alcohol can move on to the intestine. Protein foods, in particular, such as cheese, eggs and meat, will retard the absorption of alcohol. Likewise oils and fats (olive oil, and cream) are effective, too. This is one of the curious bits of folklore about alcohol. Starches, however; do very little to retard its progress.

The Yale Centre of Alcohol Studies (from which I have taken other data) recommends that you drink on an empty stomach may have an immediate effect greater than three drinks taken with a meal.

But it is a matter of delayed, not changed, amount of alcohol and its effect. Slow up the absorption, and the body has more time to deal with the final disposal of the alcohol. That's all.

It is my suspicion that the idea of eating after drinking — and speaking for myself, it has been on the fact that once a martini-loaded sipper starts to eat, the stops (or slows down) the drinking. Instead of the alcohol level in the blood rising progressively higher, it levels off, then gradually begins to decline.

As to drinking black coffee: alcohol is a depressant, and caffein is a stimulant. The black coffee will counteract that element of the alcohol to some modest extent, but that's it with all.

Exercise, if brisk enough to speed up bodily processes, will to some very small extent speed the departure of alcohol, but in a practical way it is of very little use.

There just isn't anything except time that will remove the alcohol, once it has been drunk. If there are doubters, my suggestion is that they read the reports of the Yale Centre.

Small Cogs Important

Sudbury Star

In 1937 a young bookkeeper in the employ of the city of Ottawa decided that something was something that was not quite right in civic purchases of waste oil. When, in 1958, nothing had been done about it, the young bookkeeper again expressed his misgivings.

The long- and short of this story is that the man has now been convicted of a swindle in which the city paid over $20,000 for oil it never received. The magistrate condemned the city for permitting the practice to continue unchecked for two years.

What action the board of control or council will take, if any, against the young bookkeeper's superiors remains to be seen. The alertness of an employee calls for commendation; the laxity of his superiors calls for a satisfactory explanation.

In civic administration tasks the routine duties of the humblest employee can become of major importance in safeguarding the public interest. The Ottawa case proves that the small cogs in the civic machinery are as vital as the "big wheels."

THE PACKSACK

Do facial expressions faithfully convey the characters behind the millions of the wearers? A sulky person generally looks sulky, a happy person usually looks happy, but many wears you of the fact by unmistakable signals of eyes and mouth which he cannot conceal. Kindly souls look kindly on the outside. Soft-hearted people are helpless, as far as hiding their weakness from the world is concerned.

Which comes first? Are we born with a certain face, and in due time, it asserts itself physically on our faces? Or are we born with the potential for a face, and presently we adjust ourselves to suit? Or are we born with both at the same time, the character and the face to go with it.

And what does this do to the theory of free will? Are we born helpless against our fate? I have come to those years when I read the lines of the wearers? A sulky person generally looks sulky, a happy person usually looks happy, but many wears you of the fact by unmistakable signals of eyes and mouth which he cannot conceal. Seating of Red China in U.N. Would Be Victory for Soviet

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Russians are well aware that seating of Communist China in the United Nations would be a tremendous Red victory and a destructive blow to United States defence strategy in the Far East.

That strategy is based partly on the maintenance of a strong deterrent force on Formosa, an island of some 12,000,000 Nationalists, many of whom dream of retaking the mainland one day. UN membership for the Reds would weaken and demoralize this force and, in the view of some U.S. officials, might even sway some of the Nationalists to join the Communists, reducing the effectiveness of the Formosan bastion.

It would appear on this basis alone that the world will have to make tremendous strides toward an assured peace before the U.S. would change its China policy—a policy backed in the UN Tuesday when the General Assembly shelved for another year the question of seating the Reds.

But there are other factors the free countries also must consider. Some countries are split on how the UN should function. Some like India, believe the UN should be an open forum for all countries. Others, like the U.S., believe a country should not be admitted unless it shows signs of responsibility, of being able to behave itself.

The U.S. argument against Red China's admittance might have been weakened if, in fact, the Reds had shown serious intentions of living at peace with their neighbors. But this has not been the case.

Though Premier Khrushchev has delivered a strong bid to the UN for China's membership and his deputy foreign minister, Vasily V. Kuznetsov, has portrayed Red China as peace-loving, reports of mass slaughter in Tibet, skirmishes on the India - China border and uprisings in Laos tell a different story.

Even little Laos, which sat on the sidelines in last year's China tea some out strongly against the Communists, accusing them of masterminding the Laotian uprising.

In 1955, at the Bandung Asian-African conference, the Chinese appeared to have embarked on a new policy of sweetness and light, a sharp reversal of their actions in the Korean War. In recent years that soft policy has reverted to a tough one.

As a result, when Khrushchev goes to Peking next week to help the Reds celebrate their 10th anniversary he will be going with empty hands as far as the UN is concerned.

NIKITA SHOWING

Tired, but stubbornly beaming, the Soviet premier seems visibly to be slowing down.

His demeanor Tuesday night at a civic dinner in his honor and his facial expression reflected happiness at his Iowa reception, almost to the point of being benign.

But for the first time, Khrushchev did no off-the-cuff speaking. And for the first time, he did not even read his own speech. His interpreter did it for him, in English. And as Khrushchev stood by listening, his eyes closed occasionally as if from deep fatigue. He seemed pale.

VISITS FARM TODAY

As plans would forward to receive the Soviet leader at the Roswell Garst farm near Coon Rapids today, Khrushchev's aides were understood to be trying to dissuade him from trying to pack in too much activity.

A change in schedule had been suggested so that he could get out early and see more of the details of Iowa farm life before leaving later in the day for Iowa State University at Ames.

The speech delivered to the civic dinner was the mildest of Khrushchev pronouncements. The prepared text—from which he did not, for a change, depart—called upon Americans to enter into competition with Russians in agriculture, instead of in the manufacture of weapons of mass destruction.

Khrushchev assured his audience that his proposal for complete disarmament, placed before the United Nations General Assembly, was aimed solely at securing lasting world peace.

MILD CHIDING

His accusations against Americans were mild, without the familiar Khrushchev punch. There are some newspapers, he said, and some persons in the U.S. who consider the Soviet seven-year plan "as a kind of threat, a threat of Soviet economic offensive, a Soviet economic menace."

"But the question is, what kind of menace, and to whom, can be our desire to increase our agricultural production, for instance?

"What is wrong about our wanting to compete with you, for instance, in the production of corn, meat or milk? Hardly anyone would contend that the consumption of more milk, butter and meat would make the Soviet people aggressive."

The remarks brought spontaneous applause from the audience.

The speech went on:

"The competition is more useful than the race to stockpile hydrogen bombs . . . we would like fields to be furrowed by peaceful plows and not by rockets and tank tracks."

CONCERNED WITH CORN

Khrushchev obviously has considered Iowa one of the most important stops on his tour. He is passionately interested in its agriculture, particularly its corn. What he learns here might eventually solve some food production problems which have bedevilled the Soviet regime for years.

If Khrushchev was cuiet, considering his past performances, his manner was that of a guest who hardly could have been happier to be where he was at the moment.

When he smiled, it was a broad and amiable smile. At times he interrupted with good - natured comment which was taken in just that spirit by the audience. There was not a spark of menace in the picture he presented.

And when he walked away from the table to leave the hall, his step was slow.

PITTSBURGH TONIGHT

A tough schedule still lay ahead. Khrushchev, after hours at the Garst farm, was to go directly to Ames, then return to Des Moines and take off early in the evening for Pittsburgh and another tough schedule.

An estimated 25,000 persons saw him between the time he arrived at the Des Moines airport Thursday afternoon and his arrival in an open convertible at Hotel Fort Des Moines.

Subsequently he was to be treated to his first taste of that American delicacy, the hot dog. Security agents had checked the hot dog beforehand with a geiger counter.

Before entering the hotel the Soviet leader was bestarred by reporters and one of them asked: "Do you think leaders of countries like Russia and the United States should meet once a year?"

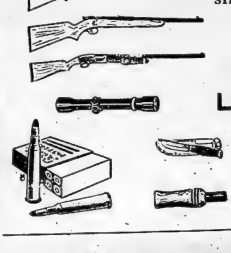
Khrushchev replied:

"I think it is always better to meet and talk and exchange messages and statements, even if they are not always friendly. That is why I think a meeting of two a year would be helpful."

Before the dinner he was taken on a tour of the Des Moines Packing Company and the John Deere farm implement factory, and it was at the packing plant that the hot dog incident occurred.

Lester Bookey, president of the packing company, offered frankfurters to Khrushchev and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Khrushchev unwrapped the paper around the mustard-covered hot dog, munched it slowly and after finishing it off remarked: "That's excellent. Don't change the formula." Then he asked:



"Where's the beer to go with this?"

UW Club Holds Friendship Afternoon Tea

Sunny skies on Saturday afternoon showed promise on the University Women's Club get acquainted tea held at the home of Mrs. W. L. Langlois, 201 Maple-Donald Avenue.

The many prospective as well as old members were welcomed at the door by the hostess, and the president, Mrs. J. E. McArthur. Here all were asked to sign the guest book in charge of Mrs. J. E. Nelles.

Mrs. F. G. Seibert and Mrs. A. S. Lewis invited the guests to the tea room which was a delightful setting for floral arrangements of assorted 'mums in tawny tones. The table was appointed with a lovely natural lace cloth, and two gleaming silver candelabra with yellow candles and a piece of yellow and bronze 'mums.

Presiding at the silver service were: Mrs. A. G. Gillespie; Mrs. J. H. Bateman and Miss H. Farley.

Serving the guests were: Mesdames M. Morton; W. Beasley; J. McDonald; H. W. Burns; V. L. Lewis and R. W. Cass.

The kitchen staff, who replenished the trays of tempting sandwiches and dainty cakes, accompanied by Mrs. Barrett; Mrs. R. Lipson; Mrs. F. B. Sheffield; Mrs. H. W. Hurley.

Membership renewals were attended to by the treasurer, Miss H. McLaren, while membership applications were received by Mrs. federation representative, Mrs. D. G. Burr.

Upon finishing their tea, many guests decided to enjoy a social hour in the living room, attractively decorated with pink and red blooms.

The conveners, Mrs. R. E. Barrett, and Mrs. S. Lipson, would like to thank all those who contributed to making this tea a success with special thanks to Mrs. W. L. Langlois, who so graciously opened her home for this event.

Wedding

LYNCH — AMYOTTE

MARMORA — St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church, Peterborough, was the setting on Saturday, September 7th, for the marriage of Eleanor Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Z. Amyotte of Peterborough, to Douglas John Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lynch, of Marmora. The Rev. John Vanston officiated before an altar decorated with white and yellow gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of imported white French lace and organza accented with a matching underskirt which was caught at the back with two large organza roses. Her bouffant fingertip veil fell from a rhinestone set crown and she carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Joanne Wannamaker was maid of honor, and Miss Shirley Latchford acted as bridesmaid. They were gowned in identical dresses of turquoise organza with headdresses of turquoise in crown style edged with seed pearls. They carried nosegays of pink roses and pink carnations.

Mr. Ralph Lynch, brother of the bridegroom was groomsman and the ushers were Messrs Keith Lynch and Ron White.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Empress Hotel, where the bride's mother received the guests gowned in powder-blue lace and matching duster with powder blue pedal hat and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a dark brown sheath dress with dusty rose accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For their wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose a chocolate brown cashmere suit with beige French tam, beige gloves, brown shoes, and beige bag and a corsage of white baby 'mums.

The young couple will reside at Blue Mountaine near Nephton, Ontario.

Guests were present from Vancouver; Toronto; Kingston; Petercborough; Havelock, and Marmora.

St. Margaret's Guild Holds Auction Sale

The Evening Guild of St. Margaret's On-The-Hill Church met Monday night in the church hall for their first fall meeting.

The president, Miss Georgina Mountford opened the meeting and extended a warm welcome to the members and visitors present. The Guild was reminded that the Christmas exhibition of Christmas cards will be available again this year under the convenorship of Mrs. R. N. Nurse.

A lively auction sale was the main attraction of the evening. Mrs. John Chipman and Mrs. Bruce Bishop proved capable auctioneers. Many and varied articles were enthusiastically bargained for. Mrs. Fred Platt acted as treasurer for the event.

A delightful evening was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments by the convener of the meeting, Mrs. Fredk Woodcock, and her group.

Marion Rumble Gives Talk at W.I. Meeting

REDNERSVILLE — The August meeting of the Redneraville W. I. was held a week late owing to the sudden death of Mrs. Townsend's little boy.

This meeting was held in Victoria Church with 23 present. The roll call, "Something New in Agriculture," was well answered.

Correspondence was read, including a letter from the Picton Fair Board requesting a display, which was decided upon; one from Picton Hospital Auxiliary asking for a donation, with $5 being given; a letter telling about Achievement Day which is to be held September 19 in Picton.

The president, Mrs. E. Young, then asked the agriculture convener, Mrs. R. Gilles, to take charge of the program. Donna Spencer played a piano solo; Mrs. H. Mountenay gave a talk on "Agriculture At Belleville Fair," and Margaret Montgomery sang a solo.

Mrs. Gilles introduced the guest speaker, Miss Marion Rumble, of Stayner, who had attended MacDonald Institute at Guelph for three years and will be going back for the final year. She gave the highlights of her years at the Institute where she enjoyed every minute.

A vote of thanks was tendered all who made the program a success.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Gideons to Dedicate 1000 Youth Testaments at Victoria Baptist

Each year at this time many children start back to school to begin their grade five studies and it is these children in particular who interest the Gideons.

Grade five is the level at which educators say that children can read well enough to use the New Testament, understanding it in a way, so The Gideons have laid down the policy of offering to give to every grade five, public school pupil in Canada a copy for his or her own personal use, from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

Besides these youth testaments, in which are bound together the New Testament, the Psalms and the Proverbs, complete Bibles are presented to the schools, one for each teacher's desk and one for each pupil's desk in grades five to eight for use in opening exercises and in the regular religious instruction periods.

"CAMP" AREAS

Each local Gideon group, calling upon a certain area in which is operates, the Belleville Camp being responsible for Prince Edward County as well as the district lying between Deseronto and Brighton on the south to a line just above Gilmour, on the north. Township by township, this is divided among the Camp members who travel from School to school in Bible distribution.

Gideons are Christian laymen drawn from every walk of life and who engage in these activities for the propagation of the Christian faith, in the knowledge that they are doing it on the basis of the democratic way of life. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week they will meet in a rally in Belleville, coming from points ranging from Toronto to Quebec City and they will meet for a time of fellowship and discussion as to the carrying out of the policies of the association. Services will be held in several of the local churches and an outstanding feature of the rally will be the dedication at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday at 3.00 p.m. of 1000 youth testaments to be distributed to grade five students in local schools.

Mr., Mrs. Walter Denyes Mark Silver Wedding Anniversary

The home of Mr. Fred Denyes, Belleville R.R. 3, was the scene of a gay festivities on the evening of September 19, 1959, marking the 25th wedding anniversary of his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denyes, nee Edna Wood. Approximately 50 friends and neighbors of the Trent Road and Wesley community joined with members of the immediate families of the happy couple to celebrate the auspicious occasion and extend congratulations.

The home was attractive with baskets of autumn flowers and a lovely floral centrepiece depicting the silver years gracing the dining room table. This was the gift of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Denyes.

Individual gifts received were also on display.

Mr. Denyes presented his bride with an emerald and amethyst ring, while he was the recipient of a silver tie clip and cuff links from Mrs. Denyes.

Mr. John Stewart was master of ceremonies. The bride and bridegroom of 25 years were given seats of honor and presented with corsages by Mrs. Kart Vanalstine and Mrs. Herold Wright.

An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Clarence Rolaon, after which the presentation of a cabinet of silver (service for 12) in the "Evening Star" pattern was presented, on behalf of the relatives, friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Denyes.

Both Walter and Edna made suitable replies.

The Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., minister of Wesley United Church, also made reference to the contribution made by the Denyes family to the church and extended congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Denyes from the Wesley United Church congregation.

Brief addresses were given by other members and friends.

An interesting feature of the evening was the cutting of two wedding cakes, one for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Denyes and Mr. and Mrs. L. Legace, by the honored couple.

Bountiful refreshments were served, with the cutting of "Slice Be the Tie That Binds" brought to a close a memorable evening.

Christ Church P.G. Opens Fall Session

Mrs. Charles Bishop was the hostess for the fall meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild held recently at her home. President, Mrs. J. H. Dawson, welcomed the large number of members present and thanked them for bring all their enthusiasm to every meeting.

Mrs. Earl Whitney gave the devotional, speaking on the heading, "Fall Activities" and touching on several of the most beautiful hymns in the hymn book.

Correspondence was read and Mrs. Dawson announced the treasury and various conveners were given. A letter from the church was read, telling of the coming week of Christ Church at present was read and it was decided that the Guild would donate the rebate of some of the memorial windows.

A rummage sale was planned, to be held this week. The purchase of a coffee-table is awaiting completion and readiness for delivery. Many members were commended for their help in this project. The Guild will hold a social meeting in October and members who enjoy sewing should turn in the birthday ball favors.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Watkin and Mrs. Reg. Bishop served delicious refreshments.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Bishop by the president for a most enjoyable afternoon.

Eggleton S.S. Observes Rally Day

MADOC JUNCTION — The special rally day program, "Round the World, Thy Children Sing", was observed by the Eggleton Sunday school on Sunday morning, with Mr. Murray Martin presiding.

The selected portions of Scripture were read by Mr. Paul Martin, and then a prayer was read by Miss Marilyn Reid.

A collection for Missions was gathered by Linda Frost and dedicated with a prayer from the Scripture Reading leaflet.

"Happy Birthday" was sung for Master Brian Kovach, as he dropped some coins in the birthday bank.

Mrs. C. Fitchett gave the story "With Your Eyes" taken from the Rally Day Supplement. Service closed with the hymn, "God of Mercy, God of Grace" and benediction by Mr. Martin.

Mannish Air Is Day Mood In Millinery

With costume-completion its aim, fall millinery presents two different looks, both feminine. For daytime, hats are casual, well-tailored, for evening they're romantic, elegant.

Men's hats — bowlers, derbys, fedoras — inspire the basic all-purpose of many daytime hats, but utter femininity is clearly evident.

High crowns are draped, bloused, prettily manipulated in a myriad ways. Wide brims arch and curve to frame the face. Soft detailing adds to the feminine look.

Tailored and larger is the trend for other hat shapes, too — among them, swaggers, cossack-high-crown clushes, tall pill-boxes. Bloused berets define their share in creating the casual, chic bel. feminine costume.

Trimmings while discreet contribute importantly to the ladylike air of mannishly tailored hats. There are jewel accents, face veils, satin banding, and a multitude of grosgrain ribbon bands in matching or contrasting colors.

Feathers, furs and fake-furs detail both daytime-casual and evening-opulent hats. As for fabrics, here are many deep piles, with long-napped suedes, for a sultry look. Beaver, velours and tweed felts give texture interest. Wool jersey is used both as a trim and for complete hats. Solelle appears in floral prints and new tricot cent colorings.

Veils are more hat, tailored yet feminine look complements fall's daytime fashions, so do colors. Muted, subtle hues predominate — somewhat lighter than other fashion colors, to provide a costume highlight.

Among the most-seen hues are taupe, coffee, beige, vivid blues, violet, turquoise, gray and bright red. Two or more colors often combine — harmonious and royal, for example, — while other hats have monotone effects such as shading of pink to red, violet to purple.

The romantic hat of evening seen in small, feminine shapes, in luxurious fabrics. Velvet, satin, surbana, jullpeau and many small, high shapes are created in textured silks, brocades, silk faille, satins, velvets.

Women's Institute

WELLINGTON W.I.

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of Wellington Women's Institute was held in the town hall on the evening of September 15th. About 30 members and some visitors were present. The president, Mrs. A. Tripp, opened the meeting with a welcome to all.

A letter of thanks was received from Mrs. C. Barber, secretary of the scholarship fund for the first donation to the fund. A letter from Mrs. Haggerty re handicraft sale and sale and selling of art pottery by Mr. Sowerbutts, of Toronto, was also received. A thank-you card from Mrs. Gordon Dalnard, Mrs. Geraldine Broad, Mrs. Alexander Wilson and Mrs. Pearsall were read. All outstanding bills were moved to be paid.

Miss Edith Ward and Mrs. J. Callow were chosen representatives to the area council, which will be held in Belleville on October 8th and 9th.

Mrs. Frank Harris announced that the Hospital Carousel was to be held in Picton on October 7th and asked the ladies to please donate cookies to this event. They can call Mrs. William Davern or Mrs. Harris who will pick up the cookies or leave them at their homes before the 7th.

A discussion on a bus trip to Algonquin Park in October took place. Plans will be given out later.

Mrs. William Adams and Miss Edith Ward replenished the birthday box for September. Mrs. Donald Smith of the W.I. sent something to little Miss Doris Miller, who had sustained a nasty injury in an automobile accident. Mrs. Stoneburg seconded this.

Mrs. Denard presented the following program: current events by Elizabeth Ward; poem of the month by Mrs. Delbert Boyle, "September"; Mrs. Frank Harris gave a splendid paper on historical research. A number of articles on "School Days"; Mrs. Harris told about the schools in this vicinity from the first one to the present, adjoined to the Catholic Church on the town line, to present consolidated school. She named different teachers who had taught in these schools and also read from the minutes of the school board of 1856.

An amusing application for a teacher's position was read from Brigadier Young's son, and the answer which was sent to the young man. Everyone enjoyed Mrs. Harris' talk.

Six members of the "Jumping Jills," the junior club, which is sponsored by the W.W.I., and their leader, Mrs. O. Scriggins, put on their vegetable demonstration, with carrots as the theme.

Miss Diana Dick, the president, gave an interesting paper on carrots, from the time they are planted until they are eaten. She also described the different ways carrots can be used.

Roll call by the W.W.I. president, thanked the girls for their display and presented each one with a "Queen's" souvenir spoon.

It was moved that the Institute invite three Institutes to the next meeting, which will be Thursday, Mountain View and Demorestville.

Mrs. Denard and her group served refreshments.

Mrs. S. Yeoff and Mrs. C. Broadbridge will be hostesses for October.

WELL COLLARED

Wide, wide and wider is the trend of collars in fashion. Some are convertible, others lie worn, wide-spread or wrapped high. Cowls double as hoods.

Christ Church C.C. Begins Fall Session

The Contact Club of Christ Church opened the new fall season with a luncheon meeting. The president, Mary Fletcher, was in the chair, and welcomed a good number of members and also a new member.

In October there will be a "husband and wife" party, taking the form of a pot-luck supper with entertainment after. Members were reminded of a corporate Communion to be held on October 18.

On September 21, the meeting was a social evening with Irene Weatherstone's group providing the entertainment. The members greatly enjoyed a take-off on the popular "I've Got A Secret" television show, which proved to be humorous and entertaining, with all members of the group having a secret which was written on a blackboard for the hostess to read and then a selected panel of different members tried to figure out the secret. Commentator for the game was Betty Morris, and the person marking secrets on the board was Mary Phillips.

The members were quite pleased to have as their guest Mrs. Mantah, wife of the new curate.

The president, Mary Fletcher, thanked all who made the evening such a success and announced that next week's meeting will be "The Study Group."

Refreshments were served by hostesses Judy Kerr, Marion Fletcher and Edith Pringle.

Hostesses for the first meeting of the season were Ilene Talbot, Dorothy Kelly and Barbara Cooke.

BPU Club Plans Future Activities

The first fall meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club was held in the banquet room of the Belleview Restaurant on Monday evening with Miss Mildred Hall presiding.

Resolutions to be presented at the annual provincial conference were discussed. The local club is also represented at the conference being held this year at the Empress Hotel in North Bay on October 16th, 17th, and 18th, Miss Mildred Hall, president, and Miss Ann Affleck delegate.

Business Women's Week is being observed from October 4th to 10th with Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson acting as convener. To celebrate the occasion, the club members have been invited to the home of Mrs. Marie Buckley, Victoria Avenue, for a dessert dinner on the evening of October 7th.

TALENT NIGHT

A talent night, in the form of a bazaar, will be held in November. Mrs. Ann Affleck and Mrs. Charlotte Sterritt-Meachan as convener. Members were requested to co-operate fully to make this event a success.

The honor guest of the evening, Miss Doris Lloyd, Belleville, enthusiastic photographer and seasoned traveller, showed a number of colored slides taken on several trips abroad. These included photographs of the Brussels Exposition, points of interest in Denmark, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Italy and France, including the French and Italian Riviaras; England and Wales.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown thanked the speaker and presented her with a token of appreciation.

Mrs. Rex Hoff Honored With Farewell Gift

WELLINGTON — A number of ladies of Maple Ave., gathered at the home of Mrs. Talbert Norle on Friday evening and served as a farewell party given in honor of Mrs. Rex Hoff. Mrs. Hoff and her family, is moving into their new home recently purchased in Belleville.

Two contests were enjoyed with the members receiving a pretty favor. Each lady had brought her sewing and spent all had a merry time making a cook book for Mrs. Hoff, hoping that when she is settled in her new home she would remember her old Wellington neighbors.

After the book was finished, Mrs. Boyle read an appropriate address to the guest of honor and Mrs. William Salisbury and Mrs. F. Archard presented her with a lovely table lamp and scatter rug. Mrs. Hoff thanked all her friends for the lovely gifts received and see her when she was settled in her new home.

The hostess assisted by several of the ladies, served refreshments.

Modern Adaptation

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's a modern version of the trench coat, made in the shorter length that has proved so popular with small car enthusiasts.

It is of fine white cotton poplin with a button-out blanket-fleece lining of north-country plaid. The belt tunnels through the back to tie in front, the pockets are outsized and placed 'way to the side, and the collar has interesting scope and dash.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

SHE OBSERVES HER FRIEND'S SERVING-PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We have a friend who is a really wonderful cook, and who at times very particular about the way she serves foods. I'm always interested in observing her cooking or serving techniques. For example, I've noticed that when she serves asparagus or broccoli or corn-on-the-cob she always serves them on a china platter with a folded napkin under them. Is this correct?

2. Sometimes on special occasions — for example, for Sunday midday dinner — she serves as a separate course before the roast course, one of these vegetables, asparagus or broccoli hot, with butter sauce or a superb mayonnaise dressing on a chilled or cold with a vinaigrette sauce. Is this considered a correct procedure? — Wondering

I heartily congratulate you on this so-special privilege you have to observe the excellent ways-with-foods of your knowing friend. She apparently has a fine respect for food and how it should be served.

2. In yesterday's households with fine service this type of vegetable — asparagus and broccoli particularly — was always served with a big sparkling-white napkin folded under them on a china platter or in a vegetable dish, the purpose being to absorb excess moisture. Some people still do this. It should be remembered that a vegetable which is to be served with a butter sauce or other sauce, should be thoroughly drained before the sauce is added.

2. Completely correct procedure, this . . . and I'm an enthusiast for it! This kind of service always has been, and still is, very popular in some European countries — for example, in France.

A BUSINESS ACQUAINTANCE OF BRIDE'S OR GROOM'S FATHER SENDS WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife and I have been invited to two large, formal weddings to take place late in October. In one case I am a business friend of the bride's father, and neither my wife nor I have met either the bride-to-be or the groom-to-be. In the other case I am a business friend of the groom's father, and neither my wife nor I have met either the prospective bride or groom. I consider it important for me to send quite a handsome wedding present to each couple. And about this I have two questions.

1. My wife thinks that, even though these presents concern business acquaintances of mine, whom she has never met, both our names should be included on the card enclosed with each gift. I would very much like to do this, if you say it is correct, if it is, please tell us how to sign this card.

2. To whom should these presents be sent, since we don't know the brides or grooms?

Thank you, very much, for your advice. — Reader

1. Your wife is right . . . even to these business circumstances. Do wedding presents should most definitely be sent in her name and yours. If you have "Mr. and Mrs. —" cards, the formal ones or the folded-over informals, you fussy correctly enclose one of these "as is." Or, if you are sending the presents from a business, you may use the plain white card they will provide, and just write on it "Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hill Reader." In these cases it wouldn't be necessary to write a message on the card, since the occasion for the present would be evident.

2. In each case it is most important that you send the presents addressed to the bride-to-be at her home address.

WHERE SHOULD ICED-TEA SPOON BE PLACED AT TABLE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to place the iced-tea spoon when I am setting the table? — R.

If the iced-tea glasses are to be placed on saucers or small plates — the best and most practical way is to place the long-handled spoon directly on the saucer or plate. If not, place the iced-tea spoon parallel to, and to the right of, the knives.

New Process Instant Powdered Skim Milk

by Mary Moore

With welcome enthusiasm I was able to tell you that I have tested and enjoyed for the first time a baking drink or milk made from reliquefied instant skim milk powder.

Food writers and folks interested in the Canadian dairy industry were invited to the opening of the new one million dollar Carnation plant in Alexandria in Eastern Ontario near Ottawa. We were given a delicious luncheon served by the ladies of a local church before our tour of the milkwhite plant. The milk which we drank at this luncheon was such a treat that I want to shout from the housetops "Try it!" For mothers who must keep an eye on the milk bill it is a blessing.

For dessert we had a choice of three pies. I sampled all of them, and instant skim milk was used as one of the baking ingredients in each, both in liquid and dry-whipped. This whipped feature is going to be a comfort to reducers and those on fat free diets to whom whipped cream is forbidden.

I am going to give you the recipes for two of them, in order of my preference. Other food writers got quite a kick out of Chiffon at the top of the list, and others the Chiffon Cheese Cake, but I gave the first prize mentally to

PEACH MELBA CHIFFON PIE:

2 tablespoons plain gelatine, 1-3 cup cold lemon juice, 1-2 cup orange juice, 1 cup water, 1-2 cup sugar, 2-4 cup diced fresh or drained canned peaches, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 1-3 cups whipped instant skim milk powder (see below), 1-2 teaspoon cream peppermint flavoring, 1-3 cup chopped maraschino cherries, 1 baked pie shell or crumb crust.

Soak gelatine in cold lemon juice. Heat orange juice, water and sugar until sugar melts, then stir into gelatine until it dissolves. Chill until syrupy; stir in peaches and lemon rind. Fold whipped instant skim milk powder into peach mixture and chill until mixture mounds from spoon. Meanwhile, combine raspberries and cornstarch, mixing well and cook, stirring constantly over low heat until thickened and clear. Cool. Pour half of peach mixture into pie shell and swirl with half of raspberry mixture. Repeat. Chill until set (2 to 3 hours).

TO WHIP INSTANT SKIM MILK POWDER:

Mix 1-3 cup instant skim milk powder with 1-3 cup water in a bowl. Whip until soft peaks form (3 to 4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3 to 4 minutes more).

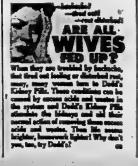
CHIFFON CHEESE CAKE:

1 cup graham cracker crumbs (about 16 graham cracker squares), 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon plain gelatine, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup reliquified instant skim milk powder, 2 eggs beaten, 3 cups cottage cheese, loosed to children at the church.

Women's Activities

TRINITY UNITED W.M.S.

MADOC — The September meeting of the Trinity United W.M.S. was held in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon.



The president, Mrs. A. Empey, in her opening remarks, passed closing greetings to members and visitors. Following routine business and roll call, Mrs. Empey gave a report on the W.M.S. executive meeting held at West Huntingdon recently and announced the fall rally which is to be held in Cooper United church on October 5th.

Mrs. O. B. Jackson read a paper on "Christian Citizenship." Mrs. R. Tanner was in charge of the worship service, the theme of which was "Follow Word With God." She was assisted by Mrs. W. McCoy who read the Bible, from 1st Corinthians, third chapter, with Mrs. Tanner giving the commentary. Mrs. O. B. Jackson followed with prayer.

Mrs. Empey was in charge of the program and gave some highlights of letters received for the annual report from Mrs. Stevenson, stationed at Indore, India, and Miss Cook, evangelistic missionary stationed in Japan. Several appropriate hymns were sung during the meeting.

Following a reading, "A Hymn of Praise," by Mrs. Jackson, and a closing prayer, a very worthwhile and informative meeting closed with the hostesses for the meeting serving refreshments.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Boiled Lamb Shoulder with Caper Sauce; Riced Potatoes; Mint-Buttered Potatoes; Sliced Tomatoes with Celery Seed Dressing; Assorted Fresh Fall Fruits: Bartlett Pears, Lombard Plums, Seedless Green Grapes; Camembert Cheese; Assorted Crackers; Coffee.

1-4 cup lemon juice, 1 1-3 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 1-3 cups whipped instant skim milk powder (see above).

Mix well together the graham cracker crumbs and butter. Spread 3-4 cup mixture over bottom of 8" pan (spring-form preferable). Mix sugar, salt and gelatine together in saucepan. Stir in reliquified instant milk powder and eggs. Stir over medium heat until mixture begins to boil (6 to 8 minutes). Chill until mixture thickens and mounds from spoon. Force cheese through sieve. Add cheese, lemon juice, lemon rind and vanilla to gelatine mixture. Mix well. Fold in whipped skim milk powder. Turn into pan over crumb mixture. Garnish top with remaining 2-4 cup crumb mixture. Chill until firm (3 to 3 hours). Unmould.

I will give you the recipe for the Pumpkin Chiffon Pie at a later date.

WEDDING CUSTOM

An old wedding custom in Denmark was for the bride to carry a piece of small-change in her shoe, loosed to children at the church.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mildred G. — I want romance.

Mrs. D. G. — She's gotten too casual and sophisticated about men.

Mildred G. — I am 25, single and have never been in love. I'm beginning to think I just have no love in me.

In spite of this I've always had plenty of dates. I enjoy the company of men and I love going out. And I would like to have a home, children and a normal life. So I'm beginning to think I ought to marry and learn to love later.

A very nice man wants to marry me now. My parents think he's just the greatest. He's nice looking, a gentleman—and I'm really fond of him in a way. Yet at times I think he's just too too nice. The truth is he bores me. Mother says I won't be bored after I'm married, but I hate to give up all hope for a real romance. After all, every girl wants that.

Mrs. D. G. — We're just about fed up with Millie. She's been dating since 15 — always lovely boys. Many of them are now happily married to friends of hers.

I feel that Millie has gotten too casual and sophisticated about men. She thinks she'll always be young and pretty and popular. She has this dream man in mind and doesn't bother to try to find anything for good old Tom, Dick or Harry.

It seems that Millie doesn't just let herself go and fall in love the way a lot of girls do. She never had crushes on football heroes, movie stars or singers. She used to think the other girls were nuts. Well now it's time she tried imitating them.

The Council: We can't recommend a girl's marrying a man who bores her, and we certainly would discourage a marriage made with the idea that "all hope for a real romance" was being given up.

But we think that Mrs. D. G. shows some understanding of her daughter's problem when she complains of her refusal to fix some emotion on a real live person.

The fact that Mildred goes out with men and they like her is a pretty sure sign that she has some genuine feeling for them. She does not choose to call this feeling "love" because she has a certain concept of love that is connected with her concept of the ideal man and the ideal romance. If she ever did find a man who seemed to fit the ideal picture, she would quickly become disillusioned because her concept is ideal, and real people are not.

Mildred expects love to come to her from the outside and refuses to recognize that it grows from within. It would grow from within naturally and gradually, developing from the pleasant associations she has with her most friends — if she did not obstruct this growth.

Boredom develops when a relationship doesn't grow. Mildred should realize that she, as much as the man, is responsible for her sense of boredom. She has not brought a certain vital spark to the relationship and she feels its lack. We think she ought to try to rid herself of her ideas about men and romance and give herself more fully to her actual relationships. She will then find that she does, after all, have love in her.

Modern Adaptation

Here's a modern version of the trench coat, made in the shorter length that has proved so popular with small car enthusiasts.

It is of fine white cotton poplin with a button-out blanket-fleece lining of north-country plaid. The belt tunnels through the back to tie in front, the pockets are outsized and placed 'way to the side, and the collar has interesting scope and dash.

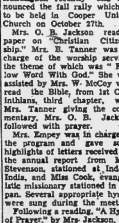
TRINITY UNITED W.M.S.



MADOC — The September meeting of the Trinity United W.M.S. was held in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. A. Empey, in her opening remarks, passed along greetings to members and visitors. Following routine business and roll call, Mrs. Empey gave a report on the W.M.S. executive meeting held at West Huntingdon recently and announced the fall rally which is to be held in Cooper United Church on October 5.

Mrs. O. B. Jackson read a paper on "Christian Citizenship." Mrs. B. Tanner was in charge of the worship service, the theme of which was "Following Word With God." She was assisted by Mrs. W. McCoy who read the Bible, from 1st Corinthians, third chapter, with Mrs. Tanner giving the complementary. Mrs. O. B. Jackson followed with prayer.

Mrs. Empey was in charge of the program and gave some highlights of letters received for the annual report. From Mrs. Stevenson, stationed at Indore, India, and Miss Cook, evangelistic missionary stationed in Japan. Several appropriate hymns were sung during the meeting.

Following a reading, "A Hymn of Prayer," by Mrs. Jackson, and a closing prayer, a very worthwhile and informative meeting ended with the hostesses for the meeting serving refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

SHE OBSERVES HER FRIEND'S SERVING-PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs.' Beeckman:

1. We have a friend who is a really wonderful cook, and who is also very particular about the way she serves foods. I'm always interested in observing her cooking or serving technique. For example, I've noticed that when she serves asparagus or broccoli or corn-on-the-cob she always serves them on a china platter with a folded napkin under them. Is this correct?

2. Sometimes on special occasions — for example, for Sunday midday dinner — she serves as a separate course before the roast course, one of these vegetable, asparagus or broccoli hot with butter sauce or a superb mayonnaise dressing — hot or cold with a vinagrette sauce. Is this considered a correct procedure? — Wondering

I heartily congratulate you on this perceptive privilege you have to observe the excellent ways with foods of your knowing friend. She apparently has a fine respect for food and how it should be served.

1. In yesterday's households with fine service this type of vegetable — asparagus and broccoli particularly — was always served with a big sparkling-white napkin folded under them on a china platter or in a vegetable dish, the napkin being to absorb excess moisture. Some people still do this. It should be remembered that a vegetable which is to be served with a butter sauce or other sauce, should be thoroughly drained before the sauce is added.

2. Completely correct procedure, this . . . and I'm an enthusiast for it! This kind of service always has been, and still is, very popular in some European countries — for example, in France.

A BUSINESS ACQUAINTANCE OF BRIDE'S OR GROOM'S FATHER SENDS WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

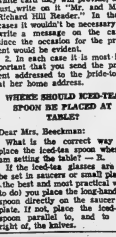
My wife and I have been invited to two large, formal weddings to take place late in October. In one case I am a business friend of the bride's father, and neither my wife nor I have ever met either the bride-to-be or the groom-to-be. In the other case I am a business friend of the groom's father, and neither my wife nor I have met either the prospective bride or groom. I consider it important for me to send quite a handsome wedding present to each couple. And about this I have two questions.

1. My wife thinks that, even though these presents concern business acquaintances of mine, whom she has never met, both our names should be included on the card enclosed with each gift. I would very much like to do this, if you say it is correct, it is, please tell us how to sign this card.

2. To whom should these presents be sent, since we don't know the brides or grooms?

Thank you, very much, for your advice. — Reader

1. Your wife is right . . . even in these business circumstances, the wedding presents should most definitely be sent in her name and yours. If you have "Mr. and Mrs." — cards, the formal ones or the folded-over informals, you may correctly enclose one of these "as is." Or, if you are sending a present from a store, you may use the plain white card they will provide, and just write on it "Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hill Reader." In these circumstances it wouldn't be necessary to write a message on the card, since the occasion for the present would be evident.



2. In each case it is most important that you send the present addressed to the bride-to-be at her home address.

WHERE SHOULD ICED-TEA SPOON BE PLACED AT TABLE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to place the iced-tea spoon when I am setting the table? — R.

If the iced-tea glasses are to be put in saucers or small plates the best and most practical way to do it is to place the long-handled spoon directly on the saucer or plate. If not, place the iced-tea spoon at the right, and to the right of, the knives.

New Process Instant Powdered Skim Milk

by Mary Moore

With welcome enthusiasm I am able to tell you that I have tested and enjoyed for the first time a long drink of cold milk made from reliquefied instant skim milk powder.

Food writers and folks interested in the Canadian dairy industry were invited to the opening of the new one million dollar Carnation plant in Alsonsedria in Eastern Ontario near Ottawa. We were given a delicious luncheon served by the ladies of a local church before our tour of the milkwhite plant. The milk which we drank at this luncheon was such a treat that I want to shout from the housetops "Try it!" For mothers who must keep an eye on the milk bill it is a blessing.

For dessert we had a choice of three pies. I sampled all of them, and instant skim milk was used as one of the basic ingredients in each, both in liquid form and whipped. This whipped feature is going to be a comfort to reducers and those on fat free diets to whom whipped cream is forbidden.

I am going to give you the recipes for two of them, in order of my preference. Other food writers put a Pumpkin Chiffon at the top of the list, and others the Chiffon Cheese Cake, but I gave the first prize mention.

PEACH MELBA CHIFFON PIE:

2 tablespoons plain gelatine, 1-2 cup cold lemon juice, 1-2 cup orange juice, 1 cup water, 1-2 cup sugar, 2-4 cup diced fresh or drained canned peaches, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 1-2 cups whipped instant skim milk powder (see below), 1 10-oz. package frozen raspberries thawed and crushed, 1-3 tablespoons cornstarch. One 9" baked pie shell or crumb crust.

Soak gelatine in cold lemon juice. Heat orange juice, water and sugar until sugar melts, then stir into gelatine until it dissolves. Chill until syrupy; stir in peaches and lemon rind. Fold whipped instant skim milk powder into peach mixture and chill until mixture mounds from spoon. Meanwhile, combine raspberries and cornstarch, mixing well and cook, stirring constantly over low heat until thickened and clear. Cool. Pour half of peach mixture into pie shell and swirl with half of raspberry mixture. Repeat. Chill until set (2 to 3 hours).

TO WHIP INSTANT SKIM MILK POWDER:

Mix 1-3 cup instant skim milk powder with 1-3 cup water in a bowl. Whip until soft peaks form (2 to 4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3 to 4 minutes more).

CHIFFON CHEESE CAKE:

1 cup graham cracker crumbs (about 16 graham crackers squares), 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon plain gelatine, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup reliquified instant skim milk powder, 2 eggs beaten, 2 cups cottage cheese, sieved to chiffon at the church.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Boiled Lamb Shoulder with Caper Sauce; Riced Carrots; Mint-Buttered Potatoes; Sliced Tomatoes with Celery Seed Dressing; Assorted Fresh Fall Fruits: Bartlett Pears, Lombard Plums, Seedless Green Grapes; Camembert Cheese; Assorted Crackers; Coffee.

1-4 cup lemon juice, 1 1-3 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 1-3 cups whipped instant skim milk powder (see above).

Mix well together the graham cracker crumbs and butter. Spread 3-4 cup mixture over bottom of 9" pan (spring-form preferable). Mix sugar, salt and gelatine together in saucepan. Stir in reliquified instant milk powder and eggs. Stir over medium heat until mixture begins to boil (5 to 6 minutes). Chill until mixture thickens and mounds from spoon. Force cheese through sieve. Add cheese, lemon juice, lemon rind and vanilla to gelatine mixture. Mix well. Fold in whipped skim milk powder. Turn into pan over crumb mixture. Garnish with remaining cup crumb mixture. Chill until firm (3 to 2 hours). Unmould.

I will give you the recipe for the Pumpkin Chiffon Pie at a later date.

Brown Shoes Lead Way In Fashion

Well-dressed women are replacing their summer tans with fashion's beautiful browns — from the toes up.

Brown, in a full range of tones, leathers and styles, is the season's most important shoe fashion news, according to Miss Billie Gould, fashion director of Leather Industries of America. As the accent for autumn dress and suit colors or as the base of an all-brown ensemble, new hues in shoes Tlister the feminine foot.

In smooth, grained, and brushed leathers — and leather combinations — brown shades range from golden through reddened and blackened browns. In smooth leathers, antiqued blackened brown appears as a dimension in depth, ridged as a surface color.

With the browns in the season's color parade are a host of subtle, smoky colors. Bright without brilliance, these shoe leathers include darkened hunter and olive greens, dark and graphited grays, subtly frayed tones like blueberry, and winy, almost mulberry reds.

Regal purple is ready to grace afternoon, and evening wear in shades from lilac and lavender to lush amethyst.

For dress, the pointed toe and the high, thin heel are still in command of the field. But fashion-conscious women are rounding — or rather, ovaling — out daytime and casual shoe wardrobes with a pair of rounded shoes. In softly brushed, lightly grained or waxy smooth American leathers, the closed toe oval silhouette preserves the popular long look.

The classic leather pump, still the all-hours favorite, has been restyled to lighten the foot flattery. Cut-outs, perforations and sling-backs contribute lightness, while dressmaker treatments add appeal with soft bows, little buttons and buckles.

Tailored pumps boast saddle stitching, thong lacing, buckles and rolled tongues. Straps have been stripped from pumps with only an occasional T-strap visible.

YOUNGSTERS can be genuinely helpful while they save spending money, if you assign them some of the small but time-pressed jobs you'd ordinarily have to do. For example: watering house plants, polishing silver, dry-shining metal switch plates—and that old standby, emptying waste baskets. One such responsibility per child is usually enough.

Feminine Fedora

By ALICE ARDEN

The fedora has been filched from the masculine head and it does well in its feminine incarnation, as shown by this pretty number. Of beige beaver felt, the hat has a high, diagonally-folded crown trimmed with a sickle quill and a tailored black grosgrain band. Nicely priced, it is a pretty complement to the new tailored clothes.

Princess Alice Paying Visit To Old Home

By CAROLYN WILLSTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The slim, silver-haired woman glanced around a pleasant sitting room at Government House.

"I find it quite difficult not to feel I'm entering here," Princess Alice, wife of a former governor-general, told a small cluster of reporters.

With a hearty, infectious laugh she added: "I'm feeling at home again."

It has been more than 13 years since Princess Alice and her late husband, the Earl of Athlone, made the stately greystone mansion their home.

The guest until Friday of Canada's newly-installed Governor-General Vanier and his wife, she finds the house somewhat modernized now, but otherwise unchanged.

The Earl of Athlone, who died two years ago, served as governor-general between 1940 and 1946, "when we could only travel to places where there were troops of war factories".

This time, on the Canadian end of a tour that started in Australia in February, Princess Alice is travelling by train to see the country and visit friends. She expects to be home Oct. 13.

Though a grand-mother, after a chat with long time friend Senator Cairine Wilson, 74, "she and I agreed that if we kept busy, we'd be all right."

Through Senator Wilson she keeps up with the Princess Alice Fund for youth leadership training, established from the farewell gift of money Canada's women made to her in 1946.

St. Andrew's Girls' Aux. Elects Officers

WELLINGTON — The first meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Anglican Church was held at the home of Mrs. S. Tripp on Wednesday evening. The meeting was opened by the leader, Mrs. S. Tripp.

Election of officers took place with the following elected: president, Joanne Herrington; vice-president, Nancy Guernsey; secretary, Nancy Lane; treasurer, Ann Springer.

A money raising plan was then discussed. Also handicrafts for the coming year were discussed.

COATS REVERSE

Two-coats-in-one look of the reversible — from fabric to fake-fur or from solid color to plaid, checks, stripes or tweeds is rater teen-junior popularity.

Fabrics Help A Woman Express Her "Selves"

Each woman is many women and fall fashion gives her all excellent opportunity to prove it, with a diversity of silhouettes and "looks." New fabrics collaborate, appearing in all sorts of weaves and knits calculated to interpret the varying moods of fashion, and women.

Classic and tailored, romantic and opulent define the two principal looks. Hence, when the light of day shines on fabrics in fashion, it is most likely to reveal elastic weaves and patterns — houndstooth and menswear checks, glen plaids, sedate plaids and discreet subtle solrings.

After-dark illumination shows luxurious fabrics on the scene. Elegant velvet gains new importance, and the ribbed weaves —notably, wincasa — fall festivities. Lustrous silks and satins, drapable chiffons, lace, brocade, metal laffeta appear in abundance. Metallics have a genuinely rich look.

To stress a woman's femininity are supple crepes and knits —many open and airy. For contrast, there are bulky knits to emphasize her slim and delicate air.

Of course, a woman knows fashion! Since mildly, smoky colors are an important part of fall fashion, many popular fabrics are blends of wool with rabbit or reindeer hair — addition of the animal hair helping to achieve the grayed-over, muted look of fall colors.

And certainly, a woman is practical. She welcomes fall's use of wool for dresses that can be casual or dressy, as the occasion requires.

Appealing to her practical side, too, are the synthetics, which have achieved new successes in copying the look of natural fibres, while retaining their easy-care attributes.

Tweeds and other attractive, durable textures appeal to practicality as well as fashion. Last fall's ultra-fluffy, shaggy fabrics appear in a more modified form, are flattened to prevent snagging and shedding.

Throughout, quality prevails. Even the most moderately priced fashions offer exceptional values in fabric quality.

PLEATS STITCHED

Stitched-to-the-hip pleats for skirts are an important feature of fall fashions in separates.

Lady Benn at 78 Decides To Make Tour of Canada

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Gwendolen, Lady Benn, the individualistic hostess to many Canadian troops during the Second World War, has decided that at 78 it's time to make the "grand tour" of Canada.

With her granddaughter, Elizabeth, she sails today from Liverpool and arrives in Quebec City Sept. 29.

After a lifetime of public service, ranging from duties as a county councillor to those of a juvenile court chairman, she found retirement dull.

"I've always been terribly restless," said her 23-year-old granddaughter, a women's magazine staff writer.

GETS HOPPISH

Lady Benn is at home and does nothing she gets awfully moplish.

"The grand tour all started when my grandmother said: 'Now that the St. Lawrence Seaway has been opened, I shall sail to Vancouver,'" Elizabeth said.

"So in order to stop her sailing over there and rocky mountains, I was detailed off to act as a travelling companion."

The travel arrangements for the cross-Canada tour were made by Lady Benn's son, Glanvill, head of a British publishing firm.

"She has been across to the United States several times," said Benn. "But this will be her first trip to Canada and she's tremendously thrilled about the prospect."

SHOT TO COAST

After a coast-to-coast rail tour across Canada, they plan to spend about 10 days on the West Coast seeing wartime friends, many of whom served in Britain with the Seaforth Highlanders. Then they fly to Washington to visit Lady Benn's eldest daughter, Mrs. Paul Shinkman.

The last time Ernest Benn and Lady Benn came to know many Canadians when they threw open the doors of their home in Oxted, Surrey, to troops billeted in the area during the war years.

Lady Benn gave up her many public posts three years ago at 75.

ACTRESS ILL

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Vicki Cummings, rushed to hospital after apparently taking an accidental overdose of sedatives, was reported in fair condition today. The 30-year-old actress was semi-conscious when taken to Bellevue Tuesday night. Later she was removed to a private sanitarium.

Ready For Rain

Ready for the rainy, stormy days of fall are such useful coats as this one, fashioned of water-repellent cotton poplin and lined in orlon pile. The pile, a taupe shade, also forms the facing of the puffy collar. A neat hood is provided by three tailored tabs with double leather button closings. There are adjustable tabs at the sleeves.

RULE FOR EVENING

Arms covered, neckline and throat bared is the rule for many of the newest evening fashions.

"YOUR BEST SHOPPING BUYS ARE IN BELLEVILLE"

Costume Is Favorite In Day Dresses

Fall's varied lot of daytime dresses show good sense, a refined manner and more natural lines. Moreover, an appealing feminine quality is evident in even the most man-tailored styles.

Highlighted is the widened shoulder effect achieved by lower necklines, big shoulder, cuffing collars, sleeves in buttertfly, ball or leg-o-mutton shapes. Sometimes color or V-shaped yokes are used to give a broader top line.

The costumed dressmaker look is news, featuring short-to-long jackets that accompany open-neck dresses. Midriffs are played up by belts, set-in or separate, with self-bows, flowers, embroidery and other details often creating bodice emphasis along with the natural waistline.

Curved contours, achieved by little backs, gathers, flares or pleats, give a hip fullness that contrasts the narrowed waist.

Dress jackets vary from loose, boxy types and little boleros to fitted styles and those that sweep in longer lengths. Many are lined.

Crepe, jersey, sheer wool and fur-blended materials adapt themselves beautifully to dresses designed for all-day elegance. Black crepe in sisters trailed with a large white collar or accented with this season's socially-climbing "spoon."

The "apron" appears as a result of stimulated front panels, sometimes pocketed, sometimes acting as a peplum overskirt or back detail. Dressy satins, it is meeting high favor.

Cottons bridge seasons in their more relaxed manner with the classic shirtwaist a strong favorite. Checks, ginghams and wovens. It features new fall treatment and renewed in-

Hospital Insurance Plan Put Into Effect Without Major Crisis in Accommodation

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hospital insurance has been put into effect in most provinces without bringing about a major crisis in hospital accommodation.

Some crowding is reported in a cross - Canada survey by the Canadian Press. But in the nine provinces that participate in the system of federal - provincial agreements, covering the cost of standard ward care and diagnostic services, bed shortages haven't been serious enough to call for emergency action.

Only Quebec remains outside the hospital - insurance agreements under which the federal government underwrites between 25 and 75 per cent of the cost of the hospital insurance plan, depending on local conditions.

SPACE BIG FACTOR

And the Quebec government seems to be warming up to the idea of joining the other nine. Where once it was openly opposed, Quebec now indicates it wants to be sure it has sufficient hospital space before entering the plan.

In general, hospitals have been crowded since the first provinces began participating but whether this is due to an increase in population, the inception of hospital insurance or a combination of both was impossible to determine.

Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Alberta reported greater crowding. Ontario and British Columbia also reported lack of accommodation, but this situation existed even before the plan went into effect.

Saskatchewan has had a hospital plan in effect for about 11 years and the demand for beds appears to have levelled off. Prince Edward Island expects a greater demand when its plan begins functioning next month.

PRINCIPLE ACCEPTED

Little or no opposition is apparent to the principle of insurance against the hospital bills that eat into savings and earnings in time of sickness.

What objection there is in connection with the hospital plan seems to centre on methods of financing which vary from special taxes to monthly premiums.

Retailers in Nova Scotia complain about collecting the special sales taxes levied by that province. In Manitoba, where a monthly premium is charged, 132 municipalities out of 147 interviewed said they receive few complaints about the premium method of payment and 105 said the method is efficient.

In Alberta, a few municipalities, including Edmonton, think the province should pay a greater share of the cost of hospital construction. In B.C. and New Brunswick methods of financing became issues in the legislatures.

Two provinces entered the plan with a fair amount of experience from existing provincial insurance plans.

BROADER COVERAGE

Saskatchewan began participating in the federal-provincial plan July 1, 1958, and it used that experience with its own plan. It now offers broader coverage than the other provinces.

British Columbia embarked on a provincial plan Jan. 1, 1949, that ran into early trouble with payroll collections. This system was dropped in 1954 and a three per-cent sales tax was increased to five per cent. Opponents of the Social Credit government have charged this extra two per cent isn't going toward the cost of the plan but to cover Premier Bennett's "mania" for debt reduction.

By the end of this year, about 11,500,000 persons of a total population of 17,500,000 will be covered by one or other of the federal-provincial plans.

This will cost the taxpayer and premium-payer about $350,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1960, exclusive of the cost of additional services not covered by the federal - provincial arrangements and special provincial-municipal measures.

FIRST TO JOIN

Newfoundland, the first province to sign up for the federal-provincial plan, made it effective July 1, 1958 along with Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia which signed agreements shortly after Newfoundland.

Ontario got its plan functioning last Jan. 1. New Brunswick followed on July 1 and Prince Edward Island is scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Two of the four Atlantic provinces favored the monthly premium—New Brunswick collecting $2.10 from single persons and $4.20 from head of families and P.E.I. planning to collect $2.00 and $4.00 respectively.

The first six months of operation for New Brunswick is expected to cost $7,500,000 with the federal government contributing a shade more than half. A total of 324,879 persons, about 90 per cent of the province's population, was registered under the scheme by the end of the first month of operation.

GRANT TO P.E.I.

The federal government is expected to pay about 55 per cent of the estimated $1,500,000 it will cost in the first year to operate the P.E.I. plan.

Nova Scotia and Newfoundland —where the plan covers all persons—adopted differing methods of financing.

To cover the $13,000,000 cost of its first year, Nova Scotia will get about $7,000,000 from the federal government and raise the remainder through a three-per cent sales tax on a wide range of consumer goods and a five-per-cent levy on sales of liquor, cigarets and other tobacco products.

Newfoundland will get about $3,300,000 from the federal treasury—72 per cent of the estimated $5,000,000 first - year cost—and cover the rest out of general revenues.

In Ontario, the first year of operation is expected to cost about $210,000,000 — by far the highest of any of the nine participating provinces — and the federal government will contribute about $75,000,000, or about 35 per cent of the total.

FINANCING SCHEME

Ontario is financing its plan partly from the provincial treasury and partly from monthly premiums of $2.10 for single persons and $4.20 for heads of families. Registration now covers 3,400,285 persons, about 92 per cent of the 3,700,000 population.

Manitoba also adopted the monthly premium system, levying $2.00 from single persons and $4.10 from heads of families, to help pay the province's $15,200,000 share of first-year cost. The federal contribution is $11,500,000.

However, the premium won't cover the full cost of Manitoba's share and an estimated $3,000,750 will come from the province's consolidated revenue fund. About 865,000 persons of 874,000 eligible are covered.

Saskatchewan's more elaborate plan includes basic standard ward and diagnostic services, emergency out - patient treatment, drugs, special drugs, operating-room costs and anaesthetics. In 1958, the cost was $27,822,000 and the federal government contributed about $11,000,000 or about 40 per cent.

To pay the shot, Saskatchewan earmarks one per cent of the provincial three-per-cent sales tax for the hospital plan and levies premiums of $2.00 a year for family coverage and $17.50 for individuals.

These personal taxes are down from the $45 for families and $20 for individuals originally expected but considerably above the $5 a head when the province got into the field of public welfare Jan. 1, 1947.

When the federal - provincial plan became effective in Alberta, hospital insurance inaugurated by the provincial government had been in effect three months. In 1959, the plan is expected to cost $34,000,000 of which the federal government contributes $17,000,000.

Additionally, Alberta pays out about $4 million for capital grants and arthritis patients, and — for seven days—cancer patients.

The province pays its portion out of consolidated revenue and payments for municipalities into the consolidated revenue fund equal 5¾ mills for 1959. This percent is to rise to four mills next year.

British Columbia expects its plan to cost $49,467,847 for the year ending March 31, 1960 with federal contributions making up $19,722,000 of that amount, or about 39 per cent. The province pays its share from general revenue except for $1 a day paid by each patient while in hospital. The plan covers the entire population of about 1,400,000.

In all provinces, members of the armed forces, the RCMP and prisoners in federal penitentiaries are excluded from the plan but are covered by the federal government.

COST of HOSPITAL CARE
(Per Patient Day)

INCREASING HOSPITAL COSTS — Public hospitals are becoming big business, and like most others in Canada their costs are soaring.

This graph, based on figures supplied by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, shows that operating costs of public hospitals more than doubled from 1948 to 1957.

It cost $7.04 a patient a day to operate a hospital in 1948 and $14.18 in 1957, latest year for which figures are available. (CP Newsmap.)

Seaward Eels Jam Turbines At Cornwall

KEMPTVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Engineers at a St. Lawrence River hydro station have pulled the "uncle" when the annual seaward migration of North American eels was handled into an "eeljam" in the turbine equipment.

After trying everything they could think of to remove the tangle of thousands of eels from the plant, Ontario Hydro Commission officials sent a distress call to the provincial lands and forests department.

Expert advice and a lot of effort eventually started the eels, but both parties agreed that maintenance work would have to halt until the migration was over.

The eels were discovered when one turbine was partially drained during maintenance operations in the Robert Saunders generating plant at Cornwall. One estimate put the number at 10,000 in a space several feet deep and more than 20 feet wide.

Engineers opened the gates to flush them out—but the eels reentered from the tailrace as soon as the upstream gate was closed again. Next the engineers tried lowering the water in the turbine chamber by flooding a sump beneath the dam, but the eels clogged the sump pump and the 12-inch sump outlet. Then the engineers called for help.

Fisheries experts who answered the appeal could not understand why the eels were entering the machinery from downstream of the dam, when they were supposed to be heading seaward. It was suggested that the eels had probably got confused as to direction in their rough passage through the dam.

To prevent future invasions the experts suggested hanging bright lights to scare away the nighttime eels and the erection of electric barriers.

The eels migrate every August from the St. Lawrence down to the Sargasso Sea, the weed-covered area in the Atlantic off the West Indies. After spawning, the eels—hatched females return up the river while the others remain at sea.

Labor Declares Nikita Worse Than Stalin

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AFL-CIO convention Monday unanimously adopted a resolution accusing Premier Khrushchev of being "more truculent and demanding in his aggression than Stalin."

Saying Khrushchev is trying to annex Berlin and then put all Germany behind the iron Curtain, the resolution continued:

"The present Kremlin course toward the problem of German reunification and Berlin is far tougher than the harshest Soviet proposals put forward under Stalin."

It said the threat of Soviet aggression and world-wide Communist subversion abhorrent scientists—"despite all the talk about Moscow's 'new look,' Khrushchev's 'peaceful coexistence' drive, and a 'thaw' in world tension resulting from recent developments in top level personal diplomacy."

George Meany, federation president, told the convention that, despite Khrushchev's smiling pleasantry on his current visit, "We cannot forget that only Saturday in Los Angeles he said, 'The rockets are ready; the launching pads are ready.'"

Meany added:

"A nuclear war is almost unthinkable, but we are dealing with people who perhaps could do it and have done the unthinkable, so let's measure them only by deeds and not by slogans."

NEW MEDICAL CONQUEST

MONTREAL (CP) — Development of a new anti-biotic drug that cures a stubborn genito-urinary disease was reported Monday to genito-urinary specialists from 13 countries. Dutchies' Boss Has Troubles, May Not Disturb Moe Benoit

KITCHENER (CP) — Manager Ernie Gorman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Tuesday denied a report that goalie Marv Edwards, not John his club under its Olympic hockey draft.

Gorman said he had been talking to the North Bay Trappers player as recently as last Sunday and expects him to attend the Dutchman training camp opening in Elmira Saturday.

Pete Palangio, North Bay manager, said Monday that Edwards' contract has been sold to the Milwaukee Falcons, a new entry this year in the International Hockey League. Because of this, he said, Edwards was not eligible for the draft.

The Senior A Dutchmen will represent Canada in the 1960 Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif. The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has ruled the club can draft one player from each of 15 teams and eligible 20 of these without a re- before Nov. 15. Draft choices were announced Monday.

DRAFT HAS PRECEDENCE

Gorman said the CAHA has said that the Olympic draft takes precedence over any other rule and if Edwards wants to play with Kitchener he is free to do so.

"Palangio is guilty of unethical conduct," the K-W coach added. "Although he has filed an entry in the NOHA, it is pretty well known that he has no intention of operating."

Senior OHA club operators meeting in Toronto last week said Palangio was taking advantage of a "ghost" entry in the northern league to peddle players to United States leagues.

"We don't want to disturb anyone more than we have to," said Gorman. "We appreciate the difficulties of operating a hockey team. But we also have a responsibility to the whole of Canadian hockey."

Gorman said he had put Mike Erik, a centre with Chatham Maroons, on the draft because he hadn't been able to come to any satisfactory terms with the Chatham coach John Horeck.

Horeck said he was undecided whether to allow Erik to join the Dutchmen. The draft rules, however, stipulate that a player isn't obliged to get the consent of his club.

WANTS TO STAY

"Erik has indicated he will be here," said Gorman. "He's an engineer in Hamilton and it's ridiculous to suggest he would consider commuting to Chatham to play in any case."

He said he didn't intend to disturb defenceman Glen Skov of the Windsor Bulldogs or Moe Benoit of Belleville McFarlands as the time although both have indicated they would like to play in the Olympics.

He said he had spoken to Stan Mikita of St. Catharine TeePees and Wayne Connelly of Peterborough Petes and both juniors have indicated they would like to play.

Lumley, Simmons Fight for Spot

BOSTON (CP) — The battle for Boston's top netminding job has narrowed to veterans Harry Lumley and Don Simmons and it appears likely that the Bruins will carry both at the start of the National Hockey League season.

Rookie goaltender Bruce Gamble, whom the Bruins drafted from New York Rangers in the spring, has worked with Boston's Providence farm club during training sessions here and it is believed he will start the 1950 season with the Reds in the American Hockey League.

Lumley will make his pre-season debut in exhibitions against the Reds in Providence this week-end. Simmons is on the injured list with a pulled muscle.

Both Boston and Providence squads are given the day off from training because of unseasonable heat.

Balding, Tucker Golfing Reps

MONTREAL (CP) — Al Balding and Murray Tucker will represent Canada at the 19th Mexico City national open golf tournament starting Nov. 3, it was announced today.

Tucker is pro at the Toronto Rosedale club and president of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. Balding, from Markham, Ont., has been a regular on the U.S. PGA tour.

Announcement was made by Gordon Baxter Taylor, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, that Canada will now adopt a new American rule. The result, to be given a trial in the U.S. in 1951, calls for a one-stroke penalty instead of two strokes in cases of a ball going out of bounds, becoming lost or unplayable.

'Song Ended But Melody Lingers On'

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The sign on the ball park read "Dodgers next game ev" . . . and below it a blank.

In the bright sunshine, Ebbets Field looked the same as always from the outside . . . they light towers . . . the ticket booths . . . the advertising signs.

But the Dodgers aren't in Brooklyn any more. They're in St. Louis today and if they play another home game this year it will be in a National League playoff or in the world series in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

No, there are no Dodgers in Brooklyn. In fact, there appears to be a very few Dodger supporters left in Flatbush.

Typical was the remark of Harry Reistar, a truck driver: "Sure I was a Dodger fan. But I rooted for Pittsburgh this year. Anyone winning but the Giants was okay with me. Safe it on O'Malley. He was making money and he pulled the team out. All my friends feel the same way. We hope they get beat."

For some reason, there is less indignation and hard feeling among Giant fans in Manhattan and even in Brooklyn, they were quick to come to the defense of Horace Stoneham, the Giants' president.

"It wasn't his fault they left," said Anthony Rubino, a cab driver. "He was losing money. O'Malley was making money. It's been a couple of years now and it's time to let it rest. Get them out of my blood."

A salesman, Harry Baker of Brooklyn, made these pointed comments.

"I want to see them win. So they sent to San Francisco. So what? It's the same as though they were still in the Polo Grounds. I'll be happy if they win the pennant. But if not, you know what they can do with Candlestick Park."

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Old Woodbine's autumn meeting will conclude Saturday with the running of a $10,000 race and two $7,500 races. The horses then will move immediately to New Woodbine for the opening of a 45-day meeting.

The $10,000 autumn stakes is scheduled at a distance of a mile and a quarter. Also carded is the Display Stakes, a test of one mile for two-year-olds. So many juveniles have been nominated for the Display that the race probably will be split into two divisions, each for $7,500.

Today, Wonder Where and Kitty Girl, Canada's two leading racing mares, will run as a two-horse entry in the $7,500 Nellie Stakes. They will be opposed by six rivals in the test of a mile and a sixteenth.

Wonder Where and Kitty Girl are owned by the partnership of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe of Toronto.

NEW YORK (AP)—The three turf stars pointing for the $100,000-added Woodward Stakes Saturday at Aqueduct came on the track early Tuesday but only Hillsdale had a stiff workout.

The Kerr Stable's Round Table, leading money winning thoroughbred of all time, and the Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer, the three - year - old champion, galloped around the oval.

Clarence W. Smith's Hillsdale, winner of seven straight races including the Aqueduct Handicap on opening day Sept. 4, worked the full 1¼-mile distance of the Woodward in 2:09 2-5.

Detroit Wings Whip Flyers

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League scored three goals in each of the last two periods Tuesday night to down Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League here in an exhibition game before 2,500 fans.

Leo Lunde paced the Wings with two goals. Singles went to Gerry Melnyk, Gary Aldcorn, Barry Cullen and Fred Goegan. Veteran Gordie Howe had three assists and received the only penalty of the game.

Jack McIntyre, Ed Dinchuk and Roger Delsey tallied for Flyers, who held a 1-0 lead at the

Gordon Leaves Injun Camp 'The Lip' May Be New Chief

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Gordon was out today as Cleveland manager with four games still left on the Indians' schedule, and general manager Frank Lane said he hoped to name the 1960 Cleveland pilot soon, perhaps before the week is over.

The leading candidate appears to be Lee Durocher, who quit a $65,000 job with the National Broadcasting Co. earlier this month to return to baseball where he piloted three National League pennant winners.

For the rest of this season Mel Harder, veteran pitching coach, will manage the Indians.

The four remaining games with Kansas City will be used to test the club's reactions. Tuesday night's 4-2 loss to Chicago mathematically eliminated the Indians, and the team has had second place sewed up for some time. The second-string nine's games mean nothing to the standings.

Gordon was resigned last week after a feud with Lane, was agreeable to serving out the season. But a half hour after Tuesday night's game Lane held a 15-minute conference with Gordon.

When they came out of the office, Gordon grabbed Harder and said: "You're it."

Someone asked Gordon where he would be while the Indians played their final four games, and his reply was:

"Upstairs with Lane second-guessing the new manager."

Harness Racing

NEW YORK (AP)—New York State's three-man harness racing commission ordered Charles Fitzpatrick Jr. Tuesday to forfeit the $25,000 first-place money his Speedy Pick won in the National Pacing Derby and also suspended the owner - trainer-driver for one year.

After the Roosevelt Raceway event, traces of a drug were found in samples taken from Speedy Pick. The commission said it had not established who gave the horse the drug but suspended Fitzpatrick under its code which holds that the owner and/or trainer is responsible.

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen three-year-old pacers were entered Tuesday in the $10,- Little Brown Jug, one of harness racing's richest events to be raced Thursday at Delaware County Fairgrounds.

The lucky field, which also provided the jug its largest purse, $16,582, was split into two divisions of nine horses each with the pre-race favorites, Adios Butler and a prize filly, Meadow Maid, drew into the second division. Clint Hidgings will handle Adios Butler and Del Miller will drive Meadow Maid.

Calhoun Fights Ellis Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., and young Rudy Ellis of South Haven, Mich., meet in a 10-round middleweight bout in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Ellis, a 25 - year - old who punched Bobby Boyd into retirement last month hopes to use Calhoun as a stepping stone. The fight will be televised.

Ellis, a native Chicagoan, has a 17-2 record and 10 of his victories have been by kayo.

Calhoun 23 later this month, turned pro five years ago and has compiled a 29-7-2 record.

Castro Cheers As Havana Wins Title

HAVANA (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro cheered along with 13,021 other Cuban fans Tuesday night as Havana Sugar Kings beat Richmond 1-0 and won the International League final baseball playoffs, four games to two.

Castro sat behind home plate and stayed until the finish.

The only run of the game came in the second inning on singles by Roy Shearer, Leo Cardenas and Enrique Izquierdo.

The victory put Havana into the little world series against the American Association playoff winner, either Minneapolis or Fort Worth, now tied 3-2 in their series. The little world series will be a history making event in Cuba as well as in Latin America.

Leafs Defeat Barons 5-3

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League defeated Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League 5-3 Tuesday night in an exhibition game before 1,000 fans.

Leafs, who used some players from Rochester, their AHL farm club, led all the way in the fast, clean game.

Rookies Cesare Maniago and Gerry Ehman planned the goal tending duties for the Leafs with Maniago allowing two goals. Gil Mayer played goal for the first half of the game for Cleveland and had four scored against him before Chuck Adamson, former Peterborough junior, took over.

Pat Hannigan, Bob Baun, Billy Harris, Frank Mahovlich and Jimmy Thomson scored for Leafs. Cleveland scorers were Ed Hoekstra, Bill Schultz and Fred Glover.

VINCE SCOTT DAY

HAMILTON (CP) — The Tiger-Cat Quarterback Club is setting aside a special day to honor all-star guard Vince Scott. Date for the fete of the 34-year-old Scott is Oct. 2, when the Ottawa Rough Riders play in Civic Stadium but the club is keeping mum on details.

Hawk Fails To Get Ducks Attacks Man

EDMONTON (CP) — Bill Moore, 65, didn't have any trouble shooting his duck— it was keeping them that was difficult.

Moore, on a hunting trip west of here, had to defend his bag against a large hawk.

He said he was walking back to the cabin when a hawk made several passes in an attempt to get the birds.

Failing that, the hawk clamped its talons into Mr. Moore's leg and belabored him with its wings.

Other members of the party rushed in and killed the bird with clubs.

Argos' Coach Takes Charge, Will Stress Team Morale

TORONTO (CP)—Steve Owen went through his first practice session as head coach of Toronto Argonauts Tuesday night and said afterwards that his drive to put the Big Four football club back in the win column will stress team morale.

"We must get them (the players) to believe in themselves," said the 60-year-old veteran, who did a 23-year stint as coach of New York Giants in the National Football League.

Owen moved up from assistant coach Monday when Hamp Pool was fired by managing director Lew Hayman. Tuesday he lost the services of assistant coach Joe Thomas who resigned over the Pool firing.

NIKED QUARTERBACK

Next to morale, Owen said, his most pressing problem is finding a quarterback to put some spark in the Argo offence.

"We've got to have an experienced quarterback. A fellow like Al Dorow . . . "

Dorow sat on the sidelines at the practice, waiting for the Argo front office to shake him loose from B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union who still hold his contract.

Dorow, 28, said on arrival here that coach Wayne Robinson of Hamilton planned to play him on waivers Tuesday. Under the rules Toronto would have first chance in the east to pick him up.

LIONS WANT LOOT

Owen later talked to Robinson by telephone and learned Lions would rather trade for Dorow than put him on waivers.

There were reports at first that Dorow had signed a contract and said Argos are interested in him only as a quarterback.

On coaching assistance, Owen said there was no immediate prospect of a change in the present situation.

"Besides, where could I get someone who knew enough about the league to be of much help at the moment!"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

— By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If J. P. "Bunny" Abearne, that silver-tongued Irisher with the Savile Rowe accent, European sports promoter extraordinary, and head of a British travel agency, expects to line his gold-crusted pockets with more good Canadian dollars in the future, may, at the inquisitive pooch discovered after sniffing at a wooden leg, be barking up the wrong tree.

For that august body, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which should have done it years ago, decided the other day that future tours of Europe by Canadian amateur hockey teams will be self-supporting, or they won't be permitted.

The CAHA reached this decision after reviewing the situation which led to recent cancellation of the proposed European tour by Wren Blair's Whitby Dunlops. Blair told this department recently in Toronto that the Dunnies would not make the trip because of the tight-fistedness of the overseas promoters.

"Why should I take a team over there, and fool around European centres playing just for the hellavit. There was nothing at stake. It was just an exhibition jaunt, something to line the pockets of the overseas promoters."

It seems the European promotion Johnnies, with, it is likely the estimable "Bunny"s handling the transportation duties, refused to pay the entire cost of the proposed Dunnies' trip, offering some Swiss francs (a trifle under $20,000) when actually the trip would cost the Canadians some 125,000 francs, Swiss.

The CAHA stamped down and nailed the idea to the floor. "The time is past when we should subsidize European hockey," said the CAHA president Gordon Jukes. "In the future these tours must be self-supporting or there won't be any. At one time these trips were in the nature of missionary excursions, but that is past. Hockey is now big business in Europe and there is no reason why some small Canadian community should have to raise funds to subsidize promoters in Europe who are making a killing out of Canadian visits."

Jukes, who accompanied the Kelowna Packers on a tour of Russia and Northern Europe last spring, said the B.C. team had to pay $10,000 out of its own pocket to make the trip. The figures we received were $15,000. Mayor Harold Ryan, the Packers' coach and others from the club and province raised over twice that sum to help send the McFarlands overseas.

"The Packers drew 37,000 in three games in Sweden," Jukes said. "In Russia they averaged 14,000 for five games."

During last year's world tournament, the overall take was a gross of a half-million. This is a direct quotation of Mr. Abearne given newspapermen at a press conference at Stockholm. He, perhaps was pressuring but strengthening the hand of Prague later on when 15,000 were on the inside and as many outside clamoring for tickets, the figure is understandable.

The month-long exhibition grind of the McFarlands which resulted in terrific physical punishment to members of the European promoters, not to mention the privy purse of Mr. Abearne. The Macs played to capacity crowds in 31 games, outside of the tournament itself. Yet Mr. Abearne would not permit the Macs to board the "Queen Elizabeth" for home until they had paid a bill of $1,000, which, he claimed was owing on excess baggage on European aircraft.

The first European tour of professional hockey teams last winter was a flop from every angle. Sanctioned and cut fair crowds, the rest of Europe was content in the main by playing tiddlywinks, ski-ing, sledding, ice-skating and manufacturing Sputniks.

After all, the Europeans are nobody's fools when it comes to sport. Czechoslovakia and Switzerland, at the moment, are the hottest hockey countries in the world. That is partly the reason for the proposed Canadian "exhibition tour" this winter. The promoters knew from past experience the arenas "would be jumping" if a Canadian amateur team was billed to play against the home brews. Especially after the tremendous popularity gained for Canada by the Dunlops and McFarlands and the dismal flop of the pros.

Abearne by his own statement last spring admitted the International Ice Federation (he's the president) would benefit financially from the current world tournament. He also made his now famous statement to this reporter, and others, "Why give 'em dollar hockey when you can fill the arenas with the ten-cent brand."

The CAHA has acted wisely, even if a little late. It should have moved in this direction the year we were beaten by Russia, when there was a terrific sparpreage in the calibre of European hockey, and in native interest. Fans over there were willing to pay and pay highly to see Canadian teams. They are still in that mood so far as world amateur tournaments are concerned.

McFarland fans in Prague paid between four and five dollars a ticket for tournament games and they had to take a block of eight to get one. Somebody made a profit. And it wasn't the visiting teams.

At 120,000 Swiss francs the Dunlops asked for something like $28,000, for a month's exhibition tour. Let's say 20 games at a minimum of 2,000 attendance. Nobody loses, even at 2 francs at ticket—and you wouldn't get them at that price by a long shot.

But Europe's loss is the OHA gain. The Dunnies will be around all winter to play out their 34-game schedule, while the Dutchies will have finished by January 31st, when they take off for the Olympics.

The White Sox did it.

They did it like champs, clinching long awaited American League pennant in their final meeting with the one club that could snatch it from them.

They did it with a 4-3 victory over the second-place Indians at Cleveland Tuesday night, hauling in Chicago's first AL flag since 1919. They did it not with their magic singles, but with power—a pair of scoring double by Luis Aparicio and Billy Goodman, and successive sixth - inning homeruns by Al Smith and Jim Rivera.

They did it with pitching and defence. Early Wynn, the old man the Indians didn't want, won his 21st, relief help from young Bob Shaw, the right-hander Detroit didn't want, and Gerry Staley, the reliever nobody wanted.

ONE PITCH ENDED IT

Staley, like Wynn a 39-year-old right - hander, wrapped it up, making his 56th trip from the bullpen this season in the ninth inning with one out and the bases loaded. With one pitch he was all over.

Vic Power swung at that first pitch of Staley's, Aparicio gobbled it up at short, stepped on second and threw to first for the Sox' fourth doubleplayer, the doubleplay that ended 40 years of waiting.

The end was so sudden the White Sox seemed startled. It took them a second to realize they had it, then they knew, and they swarmed all over each other with 54,293 mourners looking on in Cleveland's massive mortuary for dead Indians.

The victory gave the White Sox a 4½-game lead over the Indians, who have four games to play. The Sox have three left—before playing the opening game of the world series in Chicago's Comiskey Park a week from today.

DECISIVE EDGE

The White Sox, who had lost two in a row as their pennant push sputtered, whipped the Indians 15-7 for the season. This one climaxed a drive that began with a four-game sweep at Cleveland in late August. They won nine of the last games they played at the Indians' park.

Wynn, claiming his 270th career victory and Baltimore's 13th, Gaylord Perry of Kansas City 11th, Grimes for 15th place on the ultimate winners' list, made it to out of 11 against the Indians before he bundled him off to the White Sox with Smith two years ago for Minnie Minoso and Fred Hatfield.

The Sox gave Wynn a 2-0 lead against loser Jim Perry (12-10) in the third on Bubba Phillips' single and two-out doubles by Aparicio and Goodman. It was Jim Medvick Grant, another righthander, who gave up the clinching homers, Smith's 16th and Rivera's third.

In the other AL games, New York whipped Washington 5-3, Detroit beat Kansas City 6-4 and Boston defeated Baltimore 4-3.

LONDON (AP) — Reuben McCatty, 42, a Jamaican immigrant who works as a sterilization assistant in a London hospital, learned Tuesday that he had won £30,078 in a soccer pool.

McCatty hit the jackpot by paying two pence and correctly forecasting eight results in that day's football games. Of the 55 games printed on his entry form, only eight were tied.

Remember the last time the National League had a three-team penn..nt fight? It was 1950 and in the final week fourth-place St. Louis crashed Milwaukee out of it while the Dodgers stepped over seventh-place Pittsburgh to the pennant.

Five Men Arrested In FBI Coast-To-Coast Roundup

Frankie Carbo, Four Others Held on Extortion Counts Following Jordan Ring Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five men seized in a coast-to-coast FBI roundup are accused of trying to grab control of Don Jordan, world welterweight boxing champion.

A federal grand jury investigating underworld influences in boxing indicted them here Tuesday. They were arrested within a few hours here and in Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The indictments charged conspiracy to extort money from Jordan's manager, Don Neserth of Covina, Calif., and Jackie Leonard, former Hollywood Legion Stadium boxing promoter.

CARBO HELD

Under arrest are:

Paul John Carbo, known as Frankie Carbo, 55, of New York City. He is under indictment in New York for undercover management of fighters.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, 34, Philadelphia boxing manager.

Truman Gibson, Jr., 47, Chicago, president of National Boxing Enterprises Inc., and formerly a member of the International Boxing Club.

Joseph Sica, 48, Los Angeles, who has a record of arrests going back to 1928.

Louis Tom Dragna, 39, West Covina, Calif., manager of a Glendale pizza parlor described as having been involved in bookmaking.

THREATENED HARM

The indictment alleged that Palermo extorted $1,725 from Leonard through threats of harming him and Neserth.

Leonard had no interest in Jordan's management but said Palermo and Carbo made him an bowling go — between in their purported effort to muscle in on Neserth's contract with Jordan.

Leonard and Neserth testified before a California Athletic Commission hearing last June and before the grand jury.

Their testimony before the commission set off the investigation of gangster influence in boxing.

Leonard told the commission that Carbo threatened him, Neserth.

Leonard said Palermo tried to declare himself in for half of Jordan's receipts from a title fight with Virgil Akins, then champion, when negotiations for the bout began last September.

Leonard said he resisted.

LEONARD INJURED

Leonard was placed under police guard. The night of June 3 he left his home to get a shave. Minutes after his wife left him lying dazed in their back yard.

Leonard said three men came up behind him in the dark and beat him on the head.

After long investigation, police Chief William Parker said he had concluded that Leonard himself put out and hurt his head in a fall.

Several weeks ago a window in Leonard's home was ripped away and the curtains of a bedroom cut.

Leonard said he was pleased with the arrest of Frankie Carbo. Dragna and Palermo but was mystified about Gibson's connection with the case.

"Gibson never had any part in it," Leonard said.

The indictment contains 10 counts under the United States Anti-Racketeering Act and the federal extortion statutes. The laws carry penalties up to 20 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for each offence.

William Daly, a sports promoter and fight manager of Englewood, N.J., was named in the indictment as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant.

Ottawa's Brilliant Thelen Taking Spot From Tripucka

OTTAWA (CP) — As Dave Thelen moves into the limelight for the Ottawa Rough Riders, Frank Tripucka seems to be moving just as steadily into the shadows.

The two are the most talked of players on the Big Four Football Union club: halfback Thelen for his eight touchdowns in three games; Tripucka, once the best passing quarterback in the West, for his failure to shine in the East.

Thelen, a Miami of Ohio import, said Tuesday he would sooner go "through tacklers then around them" because he can concentrate on power and "I like it much better." He was comparing line smashes with end runs.

His eight touchdowns in three games are a record in the Big Four. The points gave him the league's scoring league. .

LINE PLAY BETTER

He said in an interview that Ottawa blocking had been opened up the holes for him in recent games.

Riders' coach Frank Clair has said good line rushing leaves the way open for a good passing quarterback.

Where does this leave Tripucka?

He has had 15 interceptions against him this year, and is burdened with the Ottawa stigma.

"Toronto impresarios are reported ready to pick him up if Ottawa puts him on waivers. But Clair apparently wants to see how Babe Parilli, late cut from Green Bay Packers, picked up Friday, figures in the Riders' plans before deciding.

Clair said the club has not been approached by Argos about a trade for Tripucka.

WILL STILL FIGHT

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Former world featherweight champion Jackie (Kid) Bassey said Tuesday he is staying in boxing for the present. The little Nigerian, who failed to win back the title in a bout with Davey Moore in Los Angeles last month, went with his manager George Biddles to see specialists at St. Paul's eye hospital here. Bassey's eye was badly cut in the fight with Moore and Biddle said he had advised him to quit boxing.

D'Amato Left U.S.A. Under Assumed Name

NEW YORK (AP)—The elusive Cus D'Amato, masquerading as "Carl Dudley," sailed from Newark for Puerto Rico Sept. 11 while the New York State Athletic Commission was seeking him for questioning.

Frank Marrone, detective assigned to the district attorney's office, testified to that effect Tuesday at the commission hearing on the promotional activity surrounding the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship fight June 30.

The commission was seeking to establish that D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was in the New York area when scuffled by let for Sept. 3 to appear at the Sept. 14 hearing.

D'Amato is under suspension for failure to appear. The commission notified his attorney, Edwin Schweig, to have his client appear Sept. 20, and the hearing was adjourned until that time.

SIGN 18-YEAR-OLD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nick Willhite, 18, right-handed pitcher from Denver, Colo., was signed by Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday for a bonus estimated at $50,000. He was 45 games and lost four in three years at South Denver High and in Junior Legion baseball. He pitched two no-hitters.

Senor Lopez and White Sox Get Early-Morn Reception

CHICAGO (AP) — The White Sox flew home in early-morning darkness today to find their city ready to greet Chicago's first American League pennant in 40 years.

Some 15,000 fans waited at the airport. Earlier, sirens blasted out the news that the White Sox had beaten Cleveland Indians 4-2 to get into the world series.

There were tears as club vice-president Chuck Comiskey and manager Al Lopez stepped from their plane. A band struck up.

Players got a hilarious greeting. The loudest cheers went to Luis Aparicio, the phenomenal little shortstop who started a game-ending double play, Al Smith who hit a three-run pinch-hitting throw and hit a homer, and veteran pitcher Early Wynn, who got credit for the big victory.

Who would start in the world series?

"You can make a good guess," Lopez said. He mentioned knowingly that somebody suggested Wynn or Bob Shaw, his two mound stalwarts.

Lopez will put coach Tony Cuccinello in the pilot's seat for New York Sox as they play out the season against the Tigers in a three game set in Detroit this weekend.

"I'll stay in Chicago and scout San Francisco against the Cubs today and either Los Angeles against the Cubs or Philadelphia at Milwaukee this weekend."

Lopez declined to say what he preferred to face in the world series, which begins in Comiskey Park here next Wednesday barring a National League playoff.

"All I'd have to do is name my particular team and it would come up in the series and clobber us," Lopez grinned.

Then, greeting room at Cleveland, the White Sox had poured beer over each other. They danced wildly and kissed each other.

Floyd, Ingy Fight Set For Philly?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The return heavyweight fight between world champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson will be staged in Municipal Stadium here next June 7 providing two conditions are met, The Associated Press learned Tuesday.

A reliable source close to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission said that "according to Vincent Vellela we'll get the fight." Vellela is a director of Rossenbach Enterprises Incorporated, associated in the promotion of last June's match when Johansson dethroned Patterson in New York.

The source, who asked that his name not be used, said Philadelphia will take the fight only if Vellela and his group come out clean in the current investigation by the New York State Athletic Commission on the promotional angles of last June's fight; and a subsequent investigation by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission turns out okay."

Stolen Signal, Rookie Homer May Hasten Giants' Dmeise

CHICAGO (AP) — A stolen sign by a veteran and a rookie's ninth-inning home run will haunt San Francisco Giants.

They were all but eliminated from the National League pennant race Tuesday when George Altman hit a two-run homer to give Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory over the once-hopeful Giants.

Altman was at the plate with a 3-1 count on him when Alvin Dark, who had led off with a double, spotted the Giant catcher's signal and flashed the fastball sign to Altman. Sam Jones delivered. It was fast. Altman swung. The ball travelled high and far into the center field bleachers and with it went San Francisco's pennant hopes.

Jones made a gesture of throwing his glove at Altman as the Cub outfielder rounded third. The Giant pitcher thought better, walked off the field slowly and gave first base a kick.

The Giants retain a methematical chance for the flag but they have to win their remaining four games and hope for the complete collapse of both Milwaukee Braves and Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Braves had, with a come-from-away ease over the Dodgers. The Giants are two back of the Braves.

Correspondent Says Report Gives Mistaken Impression

OTTAWA (CP) — Charles Lynch, Parliamentary Press Gallery correspondent for the Southam newspapers, said today in Ottawa an "incomplete" Canadian Press report gave a mistaken impression, and remarks he made about Defence Minister Pearkes.

CP, in a Sunday report from Atherton, quoted Mr. Lynch as saying to the annual conference of Ontario Young Progressive Conservatives that the minister is "mad" and that he "thinks like Colonel Blimp, he talks like him, he looks like him."

In a statement Monday Mr. Lynch said that, to the best of his recollection, what he said was "that every time I sat down to write a story about defence, it seemed to come out that General Pearkes was an ass."

"I said he had many things against him—externally, he appears to have the personality of Colonel Blimp, to think like Colonel Blimp, to talk like him, and look like him. In addition, he appears to be too old for the job.

"But there were other circumstances that led me to refrain from blasting all the "fatuous" ideas of our defence policy on Mr. Pearkes, who has a good mind, handles himself well in the House of Commons and in talking to the press who, despite his rather external evidence, is not in fact a Blimp at all."

Mr. Lynch said the only reporter present was a Toronto Globe and Mail correspondent and that his story "included some qualifying statements of mine which were not picked up by Canadian Press."

The Globe and Mail story said:

"Charles Lynch, Ottawa correspondent for Canada's newspapers, lifted up the 70-year-old minister with such phrases as 'I have come to the conclusion that this man is an ass,' and he has the personality of a Colonel Blimp. He talks like Colonel Blimp, he talks like him, he looks like him and he is 'too old for the job.'

"He said the minister asked the American people to have confidence 'you don't want to buy the farm at his price!' He cited this as a typical example of the minister's inability to sell. He said he was up to the American's ears and he is not forceful, but that is the worst thing I can say about him."

"Mr. Lynch and Clark Davey, Ottawa correspondent of The Globe and Mail, were extremely harsh with Mr. Pearkes.

"Mr. Lynch . . . softened the blow against Mr. Pearkes by saying that he was one of the most intelligent and capable men and a most gifted man in defending his department."

Labor Unions Will Arbitrate Their Quarrels

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The biggest labor union story in years was developing today—and it has nothing to do with the visiting Nikita Khrushchev.

It is an historic agreement among the top leaders of the biennial AFL-CIO convention to submit disputes between rival unions of whatever character to arbitration, putting any appeals up to the decision of an outside referee.

The pact, worked out by federation leaders, demonstrates a new solidarity among labor officials in the face of what they view as a mounting U.S. Government and business drive to weaken or exterminate labor organizations.

So convinced are the AFL-CIO leaders that they have found the solution to burying their conflicts and solidifying their forces that they plan to hold a special convention next year to implement the peace plan.

A closed meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council Monday night ratified a plan to solve inter-union strife that has plagued rival organizations for years and drained them of financial resources. There was no discussion.

Basically, the plan requires unions involved in any sort of dispute with a rival—over jurisdiction, raiding between two unions, boycotts of rival union products, or even organizing efforts—to let an outside "neutral" judge act to which one is subject.

Each dispute would be decided on its own merits, without setting a precedent.

It does not provide such a handy judicial terminal point for the constant squabbling that is the root of the trouble that drove labor organizations into rival AFL-CIO camps in 1935.

Peace plan is the result of the president and leader of the 1959 AFL-CIO merger. Leaders expect it to solidify labor as never before.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance which has the power of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctor examination.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinkage) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctor observation were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very large number of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 30 to 50 years' standing.

The secret, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind, is Bio-Dyne®—a new healing substance discovered by science.

Easily, Bio-Dyne is in the form best for healing is now available on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H® suppositories or Preparation H ointment with the Hemoroidal Applicator. It is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

About 500 Teachers Applied For 100 Positions Open in District Outpost of North

By DARYL L. SHARP
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — School bells again are ringing in northern Canada for a record enrolment of nearly 3,700 students.

To handle them, a 10-per-cent increase over the number of pupils last year, 284 teachers are prepared to work long hours. Classroom work doesn't finish with the children. The teachers know that adult education and other community tasks often are included.

Most distant of the far - flung outposts is Resolute Bay. The weather station on Cornwallis Island, 1,100 miles from Ottawa and about 700 miles from the North Pole.

But there must be attractions to teaching in the Far North. About 500 teachers applied for the vacancies this year, and there are no summer holidays. The two-month vacation is spent during special adult education courses.

FREE EDUCATION

School children in the Northwest Territories and northern Quebec receive free education and last year costing the federal government $2,018,000.

Mission parochial schools, for many years the sole fount of education in the north, have almost disappeared since the first government elementary school was opened at Yellowknife in 1947.

This year the department of northern affairs has hired 284 teachers for 39 day schools and five hospital classrooms to serve an area more than a third of Canada's total area.

The department reports few difficulties in replacing an annual one-sixth staff turn-over of around 25 per cent — an average lower than the more southern school force.

Teachers sign on for a 12-month period, and are allowed three weeks leave. Basic salary range is $3,240 to $6,000 depending on experience and qualifications. An isolation allowance, varying from $400 to $2,000 according to location of school and marital status of teacher, is also paid. Transportation costs are paid by the government.

EXTRA DUTIES

In many areas the teacher is the only government representative, and handling mail, family allowance cheques and minor medical cases are just part of the regular duties.

Most recent addition to teaching facilities is at Inuvek, the here.

Do Not Want Turkeys Used as 'Loss-Leaders'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian turkey producers want federal legislation making it illegal for chain stores to use turkeys as "loss-leaders."

At its annual convention here Monday, the Canadian Turkey Federation — made up of provincial organizations of turkey growers — passed such a resolution. It called on the government to force retail stores to sell turkeys at new profit of three to five per cent and under no circumstances to sell at less than the retail-merchant's cost.

The motion was opposed by Max Tiagen of Harrow who said the fact a chain store bought turkeys for, say 27 cents a pound and sold for 35 cents a pound, should not upset turkey producers because it increased turkey consumption.

There would be nothing to prevent store increasing beef or pork consumption in similar means if they were prohibited from using turkeys as "loss-leaders," he said.

CTF Secretary Ken Samis of St. Thomas said later that there was a 64-per-cent increase in turkey consumption for the first 7½ months this year compared with the same period in 1958. He said turkey production this year was expected to total 133,000,000 pounds, an increase of 16 per cent over last year.

Light Touch, Pretty Look Is Way to Slimmer Silhouette

It's a season of slim, natural, feminine figures, and foundations are ready to do the slimming with a light touch and a pretty look. The cinch is back, in new versions; brassieres shape a rounded bosom; girdles and pantie girdles curve the hipline and taper the thighs.

The new foundation garments have an air of lightness and luxury, with lace the favored fabric and silk appearing here and there.

Added to the basic white and black figure-fashioners this season is a third basic color, beige. It ranges from palest ivory to the deeper honey and champagne tones.

Brassieres depend upon cups constructed of either two or three sections to achieve gentle shaping. When contouring is part of a bra's design, it is likely to be airy polyurethane foam or a rubber lining of foam rubber.

Many new bandeaux have underwired cups to aid uplift. Others have special adjustment features to further precise fit: tabs for greater or lesser separation between cups or bands of mesh elastic encircling the cups.

Waist control is often built into a bra or a girdle. In bras, it may take the form of an inner band of elastic at the waist of a long-line style; in girdles, the cinch feature may be an inner band, a boned section riding to underbust height, or a cinch attached to the girdle in back and panels in front.

To narrow the hips, girdles are designed with double panels of elastic, or bias reinforcements strategically placed at front, back and sides.

Elastics, though sheer, are firm; boneless pull-on styles are almost as prevalent for fuller figures as for junior sizes.

Pantie girdles tend to long-legged styles. New back constructions offer a semi-contoured rather than a completely flat or obviously corseted look.

Corselets combine the best design ideas of separate girdles and brassieres — elastic-rimmed cups for bust definition, built-in controls for the waistline, reinforcing bands or panels of elastic to hold down the hips.

Jewelry Ready to Highlight Season's Leading Silhouettes

Necklaces to highlight open necklines, bracelets to accompany the important sleeve, pins to make many a fashion point on easily fitted fashions, earrings to co-ordinate with all — in every way, jewelry enters the autumn scene as a most important part of the feminine costume.

There are two principal categories in new jewelry fashions. One, exotic and colorful, takes its inspiration from the Far East and is intended to provide a striking contrast to basically-simple suits and dresses. The other, more classic in mood, blends with the muted colorings of fall fashions.

In both groups, bib-type necklaces are the chief newsmakers. They range from choker-like twists to thirty-inch-long multiple ropes.

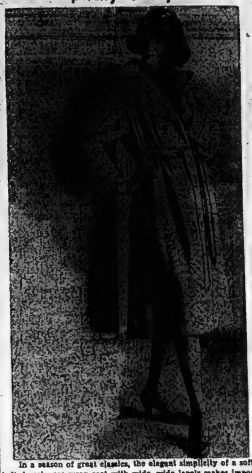
Reflecting the Far Eastern influence are bibs which combine the look of semi-precious stones with authentic-appearing "pearls" and "gold." And emerald, ruby, turquoise, carnelian and jet are present — either real or simulated.

Beads — opalescent, frosted, grayed over in new fall tones — unite with crystals to create bibs that blend with current fashions.

Bracelets, pins and earrings are made-to-match both in very colorful and the smoky-toned bibs.

Whatever the length of the necklace, the big, important clasp is an often-seen feature, for a jewelry view that's equally attractive front or back.

Gold makes a comeback, followed closely by silver. The popular metals play their part in pearl and bead necklaces — and co-ordinated pins, bracelets, earrings.



There's plentiful use of gold beads, mesh, chains and filigree, as well as many chunky-look gold or silver necklaces and bracelets. Especially effective are hinged cuff bracelets in three-dimensional textured gold, wrap-arounds, and Slavonic bangles to wear three on an arm.

Chain pendants, with heraldic emblems or medallions are a favorite accent for the tailored look.

SEEN IN SPORTSWEAR

Dark-tone multi-color 'pastel' floral print striped pattern, Scottish tartans in muted colors, plaids, tapestry and needlepoint looks, tweeds and checks all play a part in the sportswear fashion scene.

Simplicity Is Keynote

In a season of great classics, the elegant simplicity of a softly belted cashmere wrap coat with wide, wide lapels makes important news. Top interest, its belt theme many other fall fashions. Simple fabric used for this coat is Kinger's new 24K cashmere. Coat by Hubley-Barber.

Suits to Separates Set Off by Belts

To set off suits, dresses and coats and to fall separates come a wide variety of leather belts. They range from spaghetti-thin circlets to broad five-inch girdles of padded quilting and decorated leathers.

In colors, they emulate shoes and handbags — from the leading high-fashion' browns through deep greens, blues and wine-reds to gleaming metallic-toned leathers such as bronze and copper.)

Were high, with new pressshut fastenings, buckles and bows, this fall's midline flatterers are fashioned of smooth cowhide, tender calf, suede and reptile. The summerhand, with its sash-and-mess-jacket effect borrowed from the 'masculine wardrobe, is fashion news alight and day.

Suits Appear In Spotlight, Successfully

With the tailored look prominent in fall fashion, suits have a good chance to get in the spotlight, and they take it, most impressively.

Longer jackets — mid-hip or longer — are the suit newsmakers. While styles and fabrics may be mannish, the feminine influence clearly shows in the soft shaping of belted jackets and in face-flattering fur trims for unlined jackets. Elongated cutaway styles reflect the Continental look.

Be walking suit makes a return appearance, acquiring distinctive fall '59 airs through the increased use of fur trims, fur or pile jacket linings and ever-longer jacket lengths.

Chanel influence carries on, in easy, slightly-longer suit jackets and new fur or braid trims, brass buttons.

Demi-fitted suits, briefly jacketed, appear in significant numbers. This is a silhouette and jacket length that's most becoming to a great many women who will choose it, wisely, in preference to the longer-jacketed fall suits.

Wide collars and lapels, open necklines, yoke detailing, widened shoulders and sometimes a hint of leg-o-mutton'ing for the jacket sleeves reflect fashion's trend to top of the silhouette interest. Many suits come with their own blouses, matched to jacket linings.

Dominant line for suit skirts is still slim, but there's a greater abundance of pleats and flares, usually combined with the more-fitted jacket.

Discreet textures, meanwear worsteds and flannels and lightweight tweeds are favored suit fabric choices. Checks and subtle plaids lead in pattern popularity. Colors are in the fall mood — muted, misty, smoky.

SHIRTWAISTS CHANGE

Shirtwaists are really going places with broader ruffled fronts, pleats, button-trimmed sleeves, notched collars and embroidery accents.

Classic shoe combines fashion with ease. Buttoned cuff, wide, vamp strap and buckle, square toe stitching and one-inch stacked heels tell the story. By Naturalizer.

Shirts Reflect New Trends

Business shirts have a dressier look this fall and sports shirts are brighter, bolder and more colorful.

Two fashion influence business shirts — the dressier sophisticated Continental style and the increasingly popular soft and pinned collars worn by the Ivy Leas. The over-all effect is a neater, more attractive appearance at the neckline.

Among the most part, collars on Continental-type shirts are of the spread variety — moderate spreads and more pronounced spreads. In many instances wardrobes on the Continental model shirts are higher, but there are many that utilize the popular low sloping neckband as well.

The casual button-down collar remains the favorite of Ivy fans. However, many men who lean toward natural shoulder suits are wearing more British tab collars, pin-tab collars and pinned round collars with their classic model suits.

Sports shirts, too, are divided into the Ivy and Continental with Ivy using the same collars preferred by dress shirts and the Continentals using a low cut bandless spread collar.

Colorful prints in paisleys, heraldic designs, motif prints, even plaids, checks and stripes are popular in all sports shirts. There are cottons, man-made fibres, wools, wool blends, cotton flannelettes and soft fabrics that combine man-made and natural fibres.

Autumn Neckwear More Imaginative

Men this fall will be wearing neckwear that has plenty of color and imaginative design without being garish. Even the most conservative dressers are going for a bit of color at the neckline as a means of achieving harmony and brightening up their darker suits.

Woven patterns, some in interesting motifs and others in orderly geometric effects, are complemented by printed designs that range from abstracts to sporting scenes and kingfisted paisleys. Silvery backgrounds are among the most popular Continental-type ties while olive greens, turkey reds, rich blues and golden hues set the pace for the Ivy crowd.

Fur Trenchcoat

Fashion's love, the trenchcoat, is interpreted here in lightweight black-dyed Southwest African Persian lamb, deeply pocketed and cinched at the waist with satin and velvet.

Flattery Is Trend Noted For Subteen

America's classic theme joins hands with the more dressy lady in subteen fashions, where a strong feminine influence is felt everywhere.

Designed for the home, school, party and play world of the fast-growing-up girl are fashions which reflect the Victorian trend, the Western pioneer influence, the tailored costume look and the importance of separates.

Styling takes account of the subteen's developing figure, as well as current fashion trends. Larger or trimmed collars for shoulder width, "bosom" sleeves in modified mutton or lantern shapes and small waistline effects appear as figure-flattering features.

Cummerbunds, sashes, midriffs and contrasting or novelty belts are favored waist accents.

Classic and ladylike are Victorian looks, with open neck-lines — many framed by big white collars — full blown sleeves, fitted bodices, full skirts.

Western theme is reflected by white bodice inserts, calico prints, bright colors, rickrack and braid trims, and accent emphatic sleeves.

Suits and costumes, including many created from separates, favor the short jacket over a slim-lined skirt or dress.

Whatever the style influences, there are lots of ancient prints, plaids and colorings in a variety of fabrics.

FLANKED FUR WARMTH

Little boys can take cold weather in elegant stride, wearing new snowsuits trimmed with fur-like, dyed-to-match deep pile.

FUR AND MORE FUR

Perhaps the most luxurious of fall fashion trends is the predilection for lavish helpings of fur on everything from sportswear to evening clothes.

Informality, Opulenc Their Peak in New F

Informality and opulence, the two trends featured in fall fashion, reach their peak in new furs.

Informality is interpreted, not necessarily in severe men's tailoring, but rather a relaxed softness of the fit. Opulence is achieved through the deft manipulation of luxurious pelitry, often lavished with contrasting fur trim.

New themes run the full gamut. Significant among them are: necklines, widened by mammoth collars and-or lapels, or collar-less, often with an optional and removable collar in another fur; belted waists; longer jackets with greater variety in their shaping; deep armholes — though definitely not dolman — usually coupled with wider sleeves.

Noteworthy, too, is the almost unlimited variety of furs. Mink is present, of course, in all its color variations, and there are many other familiar favorites — among them, chinchilla, otter, Southwest African Persian lamb, sable, Russian or American, baffinland, beaver, Alaska f u r seal.

The furs — every species and color, including silver, Norwegian blue and, revived for fall, red — take an important place.

Fashion gains are scored by such furs as opossum, spotted cat, wolverine, leopard, lynx, stone marten, fitch, white moles, ponies, badgers, French rabbits and other novelty furs expand the possibilities of moderately-priced furs.

Jackets range from waist to fingertip length, with every degree of fit represented. Capes are seen, newly interpreted in various lengths, primarily close hugging and falling in regal lines.

Coats take on many shapes, are often belted, often loose and full in the feeling of a cape. The straight overcoat with notched revers, sometimes with contrasting fur, is significant.

There are many reversible coats, amazingly light in weight whether done in fabric and fur or fur versus fur.

TO CHANGE KITCHEN

For more flexibility in kitchen decoration, a new dishwasher is designed with front panel in a choice of twenty-four colors. To change kitchen decor at any time, homemakers can order a dishwasher front panel in a new color from the dealer.

Change Is Role Of Reversible

Wardrobe variety is the reason, and many reversibles and convertibles are the result, of an appealing new trend in fashion.

Coats and suit jackets perform the quick change from solid colors on one side to checks, stripes, tweeds or plaids on the other. All-weather coats in smooth or textured fabrics turn inside out to show deep, furry synthetic pile.

Festive dresses switch from full to slim with the removal of overskirts or apron panels. Then there are bouffant sleeves which, when removed, reveal a sleeveless shoulder line.

ADD APRONS

Aprons come out of the kitchen and into opulence, as attached additions to fall afternoon and evening dresses.

Afternoon pump of soft vanilla kidex slashed leather bed, smooth leather piping. By D'Aniello.

Practicality Goes With Lavish Look

Practicality goes hand in hand with luxury in today's opulently decorated homes.

Use of vivid colors and elaborately quilted, stitched or trimmed home fabrics is in many ways a result of the growing popularity of man-made fibres, with all their ease-of-care advantages.

And, in the American spirit of competition, the expansion of the "wonder" fibres has stimulated the creation of interesting, and practical, new textures and uses for natural-fibre fabrics in home decoration.

Muted, Misty Colors Paint Sophisticated Fashion Scene

Subtly, fall paints a more sophisticated view of color in fashion. "Misty," "smoky," "muted" are favorite words to describe the new palette, and favorite colors are softly-lustrous grays, golds, purples, wine reds, blues, browns, greens.

Breathy-bright hues are absent. True, for late day and evening wear colors take on more clarity and brilliance, but a certain mellow richness and depth characterizes even the most vivid hues, and bright red — as much a fashion standby that it's considered one of the basics — has, this season, a freshness and verve that's very harsh.

Accompanying the many colors are, of course, the neutrals. Fashion wouldn't be fashion without plenty of black, but fall has lots of new ideas, too.

One of the most important is the fashionable group of browns, which starts by leading a hint-of-a-hue to oatmeal white and then goes on through the whole range of beiges and tans to deep, deep brown.

While some truly neutral greys are present, the smoky greys are more popular, and most have a blue or purple cast.

FOR HOMEMAKING EASE

Trend in housewares for fall is to cautious to add greater ease, more pleasure to homemaking, offsetting the disappearing supply of household help. Manufacturers combine utilitarian value with beauty of design and color.

Created to Complete the Costume

Elegance, Sportswear Trends Inspire Fall's New Lingerie

Variety Is Key to New Fall Styles

Fashion endorses a shapely sportswear silhouette which begins with classic lines, but has its own refreshing fall "in" view. It's the variety of imaginative treatments, the sophisticated — often muted — colors and quality fabrics that distinguish this season's styling.

"Classic, mannishly tailored, Continental" are typical terms describing the current look. Actually, even more severe styles reveal the touch of femininity. Natural shaping, natural waistlines tell the story.

Newest looking jackets are longer, sometimes with moderately dropped shoulder lines. For those who like the young look of the shorter jacket, there are plenty of fresh interpretations in every length from bolero to hipbone.

Car coats continue popular, and often lend their special styling influences to full-length all weather and storm coats.

Fur, the number one fall trim, dressed ultra-elegant sports wear. It appears on sports coats and jackets, as do fur-look and pile trims on linings.

Chevrons on skirts as well as shirts and jack is figure in the flair for fine tailoring. Hand-stitched detailing provides a finished touch. Big patch pockets and gently belted hip-length jackets give a basic effect.

Seems the line of blazers and Chanel's look of boxy jacket, shirt and skirt are here to stay, and so are jumpers and shirt-waists.

Co-ordination is the key word, with matching or extending jewelry and accessories. It's a merry mix of skirts, blouses, vests, jackets, ponchos, bermuda shorts, tapering pants, weskits — even matching coats, hats and capes.

Further extending sportswear's traditional variety are the many reversibles — sports coats, jackets, skirts.

Gold, brown and the gamut of grayed greens (variously known as heather, black olive, avocado) are highly favored. Black, gray and beige are well-represented neutrals. But watch the eye in every collection and there's still a good bit of blue, with shades of purple lending an especially artistic air.

Following outerwear fashion trends, fall's lingerie and lounge wear places new stress on the top of the silhouette. Big sleeves and collars, capelets and ponchos, softly molded bodices and beautifully detailed yokes appear everywhere.

Two major style influences are reflected — the sportswear look, and the look of classic elegance, its mood most often derived from the 20's. Oriental styling, authentic or Americanized, is another important factor when it comes to pajamas and lounge wear.

Almost always, the silhouette is natural, figure-following.

Revealing the sportswear influence are shirtwaist effects for pajamas and gowns (long, short of the new ankle length), jump suits for lounging or sleeping, and poncho logs — squares or circles which slip over the head to serve as bed jackets, short robes or pajama tops, with lee-wards or other bottoms.

Blazers, cardigans and vests as pajama components and top-per length robes or nightgowns that double as robes are further evidence of the sportswear-styling trend.

Thirties influences is seen in boxers pajamas, culottes, tea gowns and bias cut gowns, and also in lingerie's preference for elegant detail, understated colors — gray and beige are new — and silk or silk-look fabrics.

Cape collars and big sleeves — flounced, puffed, belled — dramatize robes and pajamas.

Baby doll pajamas look particularly new and sophisticated with top interest effects, bikini-cut pants.

Slips like the look of the gently molded bodice, outlined with lace and embroidery, and cut to complement wider neck-lines. Petticoats take account of the popularity of bell skirts.

"Waiting" Wear Offers Season's Favored Fashions

Flattery and fashion, comfort and practicality are what mothers-to-be expect of their "waiting" clothes — and what they will find in the new fall selections of maternity wear.

Since comfort and practicality are musts, and there can be no question of sacrificing either for the sake of looking fashionable, designers of maternity clothes have become particularly adept at interpreting current styles, in terms of the mother-to-be's needs.

Fall emphasis on neckline and shoulder interest is, of course, a natural, and maternity dresses and separates blossom with the important sleeves of the season — leg-o-mutton, lantern, bell, pouf, to name a few — as well as wide collars.

Ponchos, fashion favorites with definite figure-concealing characteristics, appear as sports-wear tops or as jackets for maternity suits. Tunics, combining a bit of fit with fullness where it's needed, are popular components of suits and two - piece dresses.

Generally, the trend in maternity suits is toward the longer or walking-length jacket. Chanel look is seen not only in boxy jackets, but also in braid trims for suits, dresses or separates.

Much in demand is the one-piece maternity dress, and it is now available in styles from sheath to bell-waisted, cleverly cut and detailed to retain a slimmer look for even the most advanced of the stork set.

Bags Tailored To Carry Out Style Trends

Smooth glowing leathers and fine detailing highlight elegantly tailored fall handbags that take their cue from the tailored look in apparel and leather shoe styles.

Most of the new handbags depend upon the texture and color of the leather itself for their beauty. Ornamentation is almost non-existent, except for small gold or brass closings, corner studs or buckles, used sparingly on some bags.

Sleek leathers and silky suedes are favored for dressy bags, while grained leathers are seen extensively in large totes, drawstring pouches and other casual bags.

Horizontal box bags, satchels and puff pouches are plentiful. The shoulder bag comes back to town in soft brushed, smooth or grained leathers, with a more ladylike look — flatter, with smaller, trimmer closings.

Generally, bags are medium in size — roomy, yet small enough to suit the new season's elegance. Exceptions to the trend to smaller bags are travel bags and cocktail clutches. The travel bag, often in a pouchy, soft, unlined leather, doubles as a pocketbook and a weekender.

Cocktail clutches in pastel suedes and fine gold or silver kids are growing larger. They hold more, and are more strik-ing as costume complements.

Uncluttered design, sharpened by a parade of bone buttons, distinguishes this pile-lined corduroy coat in walking-or-motoring length. The convertible collar, to wear as-you-like-it, is lavishly-ed with pile, too, and doubles as a hood. Suggested as partner for either slacks or skirts, the coat is water-repellent, to greet rain or shine fashionably. Fabric is Cone Thick'N'Thin corduroy; the coat by Brand and Purtle.

In urban street scenes and country landscapes, American women are fashionably feminine this fall in figure - fitted leather coats. New leather garments have an ultra-soft drape that makes them cling flatteringly or flow gracefully, depending on how they are worn.

A favorite lightweight is the three-quarter-length coat in either smooth or suede leather. Tailored and belted modes are more in evidence than in past years and detailing — on collars, belts and pockets — is kept simple.

Always-smart suede "in all lengths is having its biggest season in several years. Softly supple and featherweight suede cardigans for teens and college girls, with school crests or other colorful emblem on the pocket, appear in tan, sand, beige, gray, tawny brown and other autumn hues.

There are handsomely tailored suede vests for wear over a blouse, and sleeveless suede pullovers.

Wrap coats, seen chiefly in fine cabrettas and kidskin last spring, are now also widely available in velvety suedes. Larger collars and broader self-leather belts frame a neat figure.

Tunic suits, ideal for autumn weather, feature slightly longer overjackets this year. Tailored leather packets and blazers have been teamed with soft cashmere and rough tweeds in casual ensembles.

Both smooth and suede leathers are adapted to all-weather use, frequently lined in alpaca, fur or sueded pile. Leather coats are becoming more important in evening fashions, too —usually in lustre and pearlised leathers.

Brown, a leading fashion color, is available in a wide range of tones. Black and white, either alone or in combination, enhance every wardrobe. Other fashion colors in leather garments this season include deep cranberry red, teal blue and jade green.

Boys and girls, too, get their share of the leather fashion news, in practical jackets, blazers and jerkins that emulate the styles Mother and Dad are wearing.

Glassware Is Right Accent

Effective decor demands accessories and accessories carefully chosen to harmonize in mood with the decorating scheme, to fit the general room plan and to make sense in use.

Meeting all these requirements are sparkling pieces of American handcrafted glass. As accessory items, they offer vibrant colorings and completely flexibility, being readily moveable and designed for a variety of practical uses as well as decorative appearance.

Mantels are usually the most prominent spot in a living room, and an ideal place to use interestingly - shaped, hand-somely colored glass accents.

Bookcases and wall shelf units benefit from the color and contrast provided by glass items. Arranged among books, hand-made glass objects can create a personal atmosphere and add a softening touch to the wall area.

Since room dividers are usually placed in a spot where they get eye attention, accessories arranged on this type of unit should be particularly decorative, both in shape and color. Handwrought glass used on a room divided will give an almost stained glass effect when sunlight or electric lights play on the pieces.

Homemakers, Designers, All Agree on Elegance, With Rich Color Liked

Luxurious decor in the home, as exemplified by new fall fashions in furniture and furnishings, wins a stronger than ever endorsement from manufacturers, designers, decorators and — most important — the American homemaker.

Said one authority when asked whether elegant home fashions were continuing as a major trend, "Elegant? They're opulent!"

With the assistance of rich colors, ornamental details and imaginative designs, fashions for the home have indeed transcended the merely elegant and entered the realm of the opulent — bringing along good taste and practicality.

Continuing in popularity, too, is the idea that attractive decor frequently stems from the mixing of furniture styles and periods. Sensibly, manufacturers and retailers realize that the homemaker is not going to throw out last year's early American sofa because this year Oriental is "the thing" — or vice versa — and so they offer a varied selection of home fashions, both the long-time favorites and the important new ideas.

From these can be chosen either additions to the present decor of the home or furniture for a complete home furnishing or refurnishing project.

AMONG STYLE LEADERS

Oriental and Early American designs, currently high in popularity have a basic simplicity that blends well with almost any other type of furniture and also allows for the development of opulence through color and ornamentation.

Fall's modern furniture will be a beautiful revelation to those who think of "modern" as cold and austere, for it has now definitely embraced opulence, showing great emphasis of richness of color and fabric.

Detailing used on fine modern furniture ranges from spindlques and trapunto quilted designs to delicate carving and brass-finished ornaments.

Favorites with a more traditional flavor include French and Italian Provincial, eighteenth century and neo-classic early nineteenth century and Louis XVI designs, impressive looking and elaborately decorated.

COLOR EVERYWHERE

Color is everywhere in home fashion — on walls and floors, in draperies, upholstery, accessories, even on tables chairs and chests.

The latter, however, are intended for sparing use as room accents. In such hues as mandarin red, robin's egg blue, green and yellow, the accent pieces are effective when used along with wood and wood-trimmed furniture which stresses the natural wood grain and color.

Gold is important, not only as a color for home fabrics, but also in such uses as an antique gold lacquered finish for wrought iron or gold-brushed piping for furniture bases.

It's seen, too, with other colors in wallpaper, carpets — plain or patterned — flecked patterns for vinyl or rubber flooring or wall tiles

Then there are luxurious jewel tones — amethyst, sapphire turquoise — as well as countless other variations of yellow, blue, purple, green, orange and red.

BLOUSED, BELTED

Bloused through the bodice, belted at the waist is the shape of many fall dresses.

Composing a tunic suit for fall are taupe suede jacket, matching cashmere skirt, worn with silk blouse in the same color tone. Suit by Leather-mode; Palizzio shoes, bag.

FEATURE TWO LOOKS

Classic look for daytime, opulent look for evening are featured in fall fashions. Feminine shaping, fabrics, furs soften classic styles, while evening clothes often contrast rich fabrics, severe tailoring.

Gloves Blend With Clothes

Applied to gloves and fashion the old phrase, "hand in glove," takes on fresh meaning this fall for new gloves are certainly hand in glove with fashion.

They're designed to co-ordinate with clothes that reflect the cozy style trends — tailored by day, softly romantic from twilight onward.

Classic tailored influence is reflected in shorties-to-eight button gloves, simply styled and with trims mainly confined to the cuffs. Bows, cording, gathers, trapunto detailing, and tiny buttons are some popular cuff accents.

Saddle stitching and self-lacing help to create the tailored effect for other gloves. Gracefully simple are leather gloves shirred or gathered for a softer look.

Discreet styling allows for more interesting combinations of textures — wool knit with leather and kid with suede, for example.

Warmth is on hand in the many capeskin and kid gloves lined with wool, nylon or other synthetics, and so skillfully designed that they're scarcely bulkier than unlined gloves.

Colors are color-coordinated, too and include the range of grays-over all notable for fall.

In the evening, shoulder-length twenty-two button Launder-Leather gloves spell glamor as well as the convenience of washability. While is predominant, but many are color-linked to formal wear. For dinner parties, the twelve-button, or elbow, length is favored, while theatre suits take wrist-length gloves with pearl button closures.

Sequins, seed pearls (often combined with gold or silver), embroidery and, again, shirring and gathers develop the romantic look.

High-crowned, beaded cloche, satin-banded and fur-trimmed, is fashion news for late day, evening. An invisible fashion note, Yardley Red Roses spray mist. Hat by Sally Victor.

Girls Taking Pretty Way Into Autumn

Little girls are a happy sight, smiling and demurely bedecked in this season's varied fashions. Noticeable is a very distinctive grown-up look that is altogether fitting and proper—designed for little ladies. There is scarcely a tom-boy in the lot.

A model ten-year old will be wearing fall's favorite jumper and blouse. Plaids combine with solids—some in two-piece sets with contrasting sleeves, yokes, collars.

Collars make big news sprouting in all sizes and trim. Large white ones are neatly feminine. There are also many on-shoulder lowered epaulette styles some matching with collar at neckline.

PLAIDS ON PARADE

Passing on parade are the ancient tartan plaids in bold giant patterns or small clan style. Appliques in bag-pipe tam or money purse motif are placed to show most favorably.

Receiving high praise is the casual shirtwaist, with new touches to belting, highlights of embroidery and smart full coloring such as grayed green.

The Victorian Lady trend is caught in doubled sleeves, taut bodices with fuller than full skirts. Lots of velvet ribbons, jet buttons and self-pleating add fashion flavor. There's strong sleeve interest with many contrasting knitted ones, others set off by bolero jackets.

GO WESTERN

Then there's the Western pioneer influence with calico prints, bright primitive colors, black rickrack and braid trim, dirndl skirts, white bodice insets and breeze-blown sleeves sweeping into fall.

Among dyed-to-match separates are cotton knit co-ordinates, using solids with tri-color patterns. Black pale beige and red are good basic backgrounds. Red, white and navy are featured for school wear. Gray flannel holds its own; so do popular checks and tartan plaids.

Teen Hearts Fall For Casual Shoes

Teenage hearts have been captured by a casual shoe this fall — the leather boot. The long, high silhouette co-ordinates with high-hemmed slim jims, skirts and bermudas.

The new styles are marked by pointed toes, high vamps and backs, rising above the ankles. In brushed and smooth leathers. Queen of campus casuals is the suede leather boot, pointed at the toe and back, with a centre-line seam, flat or squashed heel and slim, flexible leather sole.

Casual flats in all-leather textures feature squared-off and oval toes as variations on the tapered toe. One-to-five-eyelet ties with tassel-tipped laces and ghillie ties are the favored cosying for flats and oxfords.

Spectator and saddle treatments supply a fresh, seasonal look in contrasting leathers and color combinations.

For a more formal occasion, the teenage girl wears a pump —often with a bow. A short T-strap and low instep strap are seen in smooth, grained and patent leathers. Festive, too, is a black suede boot-like pump with a plain or high slit vamp.

COTTONING TO KNITS

Cotton knits make their appearance among the many dyed-to-match subteen separates.

Casually elegant look is expressed by tweed coat and matching skirt, the coat warmly and beautifully lined with synthetic pile. Ultra-wide shawl collar can be worn off the face or cuffed high. Smartly tailored outfit is by White Stag; lining, Eastman's Verel modacrylic fibre.

Fashion Finds Boys and Girls Getting a Boot Out of Fall

Newest juvenile favorites are desert boot styles natural combinations of functional and fashionable pastimes in brushed, autumn ankle-high boots of lightweight weather. The boots move easily suede, smooth and grained on flexible lightweight leather leathers, according to Miss Billie Gould, fashion director of soles that give protection without weight. They are kept in Leather Industries of America. shape, inside and out, by leather welts and linings.

Girls, delighted with the new high risers that resemble Mother's high style daytime boots, are attracted to turned-over cuffs and fancy ties, as well as a wide selection of bright hues and two-toned effects.

Boys find the chukka and desert boot styles natural companions in brushed, autumn weather. The boots move easily on flexible lightweight leather soles that give protection without weight. They are kept in shape, inside and out, by leather welts and linings.

When the school bell rings, laced oxfords in a variety of leather treatments and many colors remain basic classroom footwear. Girls swing toward saddle shoes in combinations of white with black, brown, red and tartan plaids.

Boys favor black or brown, in smooth and grained leather. A moc-front with interesting inset vamps of contrasting leather or horizontal "quilting" stitching are popular styles for the young male and double for school and party wear.

The party-going man looks dainty in a leather pump with a modified tapered toe. Traditional patent leather Mary Janes are joined by deep red patent and strapped pumps interpreted in a variety of leathers for dress wear. The new crack-proof patent leather adds practicality to this traditional party shoe.

The swivel strap is worn more often than T-straps or instep straps. A host of bows and knotted effects add fashion emphasis. Bright red, black raspberry, bronze and chestnut are high fashion colors this year.

SUBTEENERS' CHOICE

Fashions offers a wide selection of subteens' fall-winter coats — including long, big-length jackets, short reefers, sporty motor types, tailored Chesterfields, fitted princess lines and casual wrap-arounds.

Gala Garb Making Dramatic Entrance For Festive Season

Gala ultra-feminine dresses, coats and suits make a dramatic entrance for la'e-day and after-dark occasions, in luxurious fabrics. Among the favorites are velvet, moire, lace, brocade and satin and silk in many textures, often ribbed.

Big sleeves, cowl and scooped necklines are abundant. The covered-up and the decollete looks often combine, with necklines swooping deeply and sleeves extending to three-quarter or full length.

Hautfant skirts and harem hemlines are plentiful, and the full-length, figure-flattering evening sheath makes a notable appearance. It is frequently animated with easing skirt panels, appealing overskirts and tunics.

Accompanying the dresses are, in many cases, opulent evening coats, full and flowing. Theatre suits, smartly tailored in rich fabrics and with their own tuck-in or overblouses, form another important category.

Classic, Opulent Looks Lead; Top Interest, Fur Trims Are '59 Features

Trending figures return to the fashion scene this fall. Since the trend to shapely case and lady-like flattery is just what has always been preferred fashion with the majority of women and since most men like what those all-new, SHORT JACKETS PROVIDED

There are, however, fewer long-jacket styles than early fall-fashion forecasts prophesied. Apparently designers have been influenced by the preference for brief jackets among younger age groups, short and short-waisted women.

Bolero-to-biphone lengths get a full share of the spotlight and take new-for-fall treatments with special emphasis on collars and sleeves.

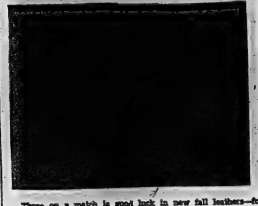
everywhere, the look of the complete costume gain importance in a diversity of styles. For both dress-costumes and suits, the high-length tailored jacket and longer tunic jacket look particularly new.

Classic, man - tailored styles lead for day, while the evening theme is one of great opulence. That is not to say, however, that there is no overlapping, for the most chichic of the day looks is softened by fabric, color and detail, while many evening suits are severely tailored, the better to show off their lustrous fabrics.

What's new? Excludes: lavish helpings of fur, trimming everything from sportswear to formal ballgowns; top of the silhouette attention, expressed by open necklines, widened shoulders, cutaway collars, generous sleeves; and a new approach to color.

The recent risk of bold and bright hues gives way to muted tones. Whatever the color, it is usually likely to have been "grayed over" thereby acquiring this season distinction.

While the slim look continues to lead, there are many more gracefully-full and bouffant skirts than in previous seasons — a good choice for women who like the new, the different, the trend-setting.



"LITTLE WOOLS" ARE VERSATILE

Couture designers especially concentrate on bias-cut dresses, shapely and fluid. "Little wools" in this mood compete with crepes in their ability to be at home anywhere, on any occasion.

With shapelines in view, fitted and fitted-and-belled silhouettes come to the fore. Perhaps' Old most favored is the roomy fitted dress, suit or coat that defines the figure, allows for a flattering flow of fabric and is fashion-completed by a "bath-robe tie" belt.

This silhouette owes its inspiration to the California wrap coat, leading fashion in its own right.

The dress plus jacket and,

Three on a match is good luck in new fall leathers—for example, this handbag, belt and gloves in matching rich red, lightly grained leather.

All have the well-tailored look by discreet ornamentation—for the bag, a gold buckle on self-leather tab; for the belt, a heraldic emblem; for the gloves, lighter red leather foldover at cuff.

Bag by Jana, belt by Dune, Lavender Leather gloves by Fownes.

Split-Raglan Topcoats Slated For Style Prominence This Fall

Tops in wool topcoats for the fall and winter months ahead is the "split-raglan," according to the Wool Bureau, which terms it the one coat correct for wear in both town and country.

The "split-raglan" sports a dressy set-in sleeve in front with a raglan back. Sturdy wool herringbone, as well as rugged - looking Scottish - like wool tweeds make it a desirable coat for colder days. Extra special is the wool plaid liner that is sewn into the coat. This provides extra protection when temperatures drop below the freezing mark.

2811 another topper-making news this season, is the famous "Continental." Originating in Italy, the worsted "Continental" suit is now accepted over here as the most important suit style in many years. And now the "Continental" topper has reached our shores.

In soft wool hopsacking and in dark colors the Continental topcoat is just right for town. With its peaked lapels it is the big fashion coat of the year. Look for it in lustrous black. A shaped and closely-fitted coat, the authentic "Continental" is a two-button coat with slanted, welt pockets.

A third coat expected to sell like hot cakes is the smart, double-breasted wool topper, in the new shorter length which ends at the knee. You'll find this shorter length prevalent in most coat styles this fall.

LEOTARDS LIKED

Call them tights, call them leotards — by any name, they're a fashion favorite for fall with girls of all ages.

Arctic Char, Centuries-Old Staple of Eskimo Diet, Will Soon Join Seafood Family

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — Arctic char, a centuries old staple of the Eskimo diet, is about to join the family of sea-food delicacies.

The char is a fish found only in icy northern waters. Many Canadians haven't heard of it, and few have tasted it.

Those who have will tell you it is delicious. Except for limitations on supply, it might rank with its cousin trout and salmon in popularity.

The first fresh-frozen Arctic char was marketed in Southern Canada last year and now is available only in certain quality restaurants of Central Canada.

FEDERAL PROJECT

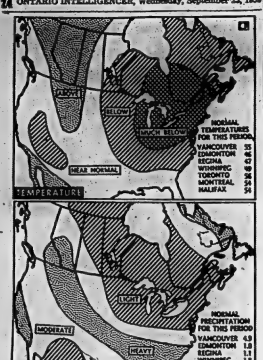
They are caught and handled by Eskimos under a northern affairs department project to provide the Arctic natives with a new source of cash income. They are available on the wholesale market through a Montreal broker at $1 a pound.

Char has been marketed before in Canada and elsewhere in a salted state. Preserved this way, the delicate flavor of its soft flaky meat was hidden and it was tough.

This is the first time it has been marketed in a quick-frozen state, however, and it arrives on the table as if straight out of the water.

Within two or three years it should be available to consumers at fish markets, but it must always remain a delicacy. The northern affairs department estimates that the eventual maximum annual production of char may reach 500,000 pounds, a small amount compared to the millions of pounds of salmon, cod and other common fish caught annually.

The project began with establishment of an experimental fishery by the department last summer at this major Eskimo centre on Baffin Island, 200 miles below the Arctic Circle. The fishery was opened after exhaustive biological study to determine its commercial potential.



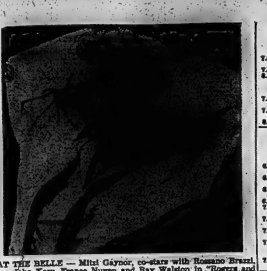
SHORT SEASON

In the first season 12,000 pounds were hauled in. Char are caught in quantity only in the few weeks of late July and early August during which they move down rivers from their fresh-water wintering grounds to their salt-water summer habitat.

They hit the market with a boom. A firm in the United States asked to be supplied with all it could get.

This year two more char fisheries were set up—operating at Eskimo point on the west coast of Hudson Bay, perhaps next year.

Char average three to four pounds, but run as high as 15 pounds. They live to be 20 years old. Their flesh, under greyish-black scaleless skin, ranges from white to red. The reddest flesh is considered the best eating, but medium pink is the most usual color.



FALL WEATHER COMING — Fall weather, with temperatures below normal for the season, is predicted for a large part of Canada from the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border eastward in the 30-day forecast of the United States weather office.

Map also shows light precipitation forecast for roughly the same region. Table at right gives normal readings for various centres during the period. (CP Newsmap.)

AT THE PARK — Partisan attention begins Easton when Jerry with Tom Ragavin in "Doctor at Sea", the Technicolor comedy opens at the Park Theatre Thursday. In Visitation and Technicolor, the film also stars Brigitte Bardot, Dirk Bogarde and Michael Craig.

AT THE BELLE — Mitzi Gaynor, co-stars with Rossano Brazzi, John Kerr, France Nuyen and Ray Walston in "Rogers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific", in Color, and the wonder of Stereophonic Sound. "South Pacific", is holding over three more days at the Belle Theatre. The engagement positively ends on Saturday. Doors open 1.30 and 7.30, "South Pacific" at 2.00 and 8.15.

'Toast to Jerome Kern' Was Excellent TV Fare

By CYNTHI LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — What can only be called a special-special brightened the television channels Tuesday night as NBC presented a Toast to Jerome Kern.

Patrice Munsel, Howard Keel, Lisa Kirk, Robert Cummings and others had unbeatable material to work with: Kern's great music.

And they handled affectionately and effectively those great songs. All the Things You Are, Bill, The Last Time I Saw Paris, and many more.

Only Louis Prima and Keely Smith took liberties with the composer's work, and their modern idiom did not, somehow, improve the music.

Although transmission difficulties ruined the opening of the show, the singers soon started singing. Carol Channing closed, Bambi Lynn danced and it was a fine 90 minutes.

BRONCO'S DEBUT

Earlier, ABC presented its first Bronco. This, in case you are confused, is really a continuation of last season's Cheyenne with Ty Hardin starring as the cowboy. Cheyenne is still around with Clint Walker in the title role.

At the same time, The Dennis O'Keefe Show made its first appearance on CBS.

This is a good-humored, pedestrian addition to the roster of situation comedies. O'Keefe plays an ineredibly unsophisticated columnist shoved into what the producers hope are funny situations.

Reliable and incisive Hope Emerson turns up as a regular in this one—too briefly to help much with the first show—as the sharp-tongued housekeeper.

It's nothing to get excited about but a split shriek of canned laughter on the sound track—but it is the only alternative to westerns early on Tuesday evenings.

Recommended tonight: Wagon Train, NBC 8-9 EDT—repeat of the especially good episode; the Dave King show, NBC 9—windup of a particularly bright summer replacement; Hours before Dawn CBS 10—one of the Steel Hour series with Teresa Wright; fights, ABC 10 — middleweights Rudy Ellis and Rory Calhoun, 10 rounds.

Film Stars Curious to See Mr. K., Got Plenty of Action

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's visit to Hollywood has come and gone, but the memory will linger a long, long time.

Never have so many stars appeared for a single event. "Curiosity," was Glenn Ford's explanation for the turnout.

Yes, the film famous were curious to see the No. 1 Communist in action, and they saw plenty of action. This was due to the needling of host Spyros Skouras, whose extolling of capitalism prompted Khrushchev to heated reply. Said David Niven of K's speech: "He had some of the greatest fred lines in history."

Some criticized the film boss's rambling speech, but Bob Hope pointed out: "He had a right to make it; he was picking up the tab for the lunch."

Khrushchev often interrupted Skouras' speech with pointed comments. Skouras also interrupted the Russian, but it wasn't the same. The filmsters finally shouted "sit down" to Skouras. They wanted the star to have the full stage.

Khrushchev held it for 45 minutes. Thus he committed the unpardonable sin of show business: Staying on too long. "He should have quit when he was ahead," observed Frank Sinatra. But then, who is there to tell Mr. K. when to end his speech?

The Russian chief noted that intellectuals are esteemed in his country.

Commented one producer-director: "How can we compete for the minds of men when 'intellectual' is considered a dirty word among large segments of this country?"

BULBAR POLIO VICTIM

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—James Robert, 7, who died last Friday, was the third victim here of bulbar polio, the Erie County health department announced Monday. William E. Mosher, health commissioner, said the boy had received three Salk injections.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, September 24, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A.M. is fine for completing shopping or calls, and for talks with important people. After lunch the time is best spent being of service to family ties and getting things in order. Strive for harmony. P.M. retire early.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — During A.M. you are inspired concerning embellishment of your surroundings as well as getting in better financial condition. Later you can come to better understanding with friends. Be kind. P.M. relax at favorite hobby.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Daytime hours fine for showing others how capable and creative you are in own affairs and so be a good example to them. P.M. new outlets for greater abundance are open to you. Study them well and advance quickly. Be adroit.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Contact that adviser who will assist you with any problematical affairs that are bothering you right now. Late afternoon and tonight are then excellent for enjoying yourself. Be generous and dynamic. Smile.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23) — There is an opportunity now to meet a new friend who will be of great comfort and joy to you in the future. Make it a point to get together quietly with a group of friends so that you can work out some plan that will be mutually successful.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 22) — Morning finds rather unusual things cropping up with regard to some affair out of the home. Show how adept you are at civic matters. P.M. follow your inclinations and prosper. Have a delightful time socially, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Fine inspiring thoughts and plans are yours in A.M. so that you hardly know which to start working out first. Dwell on the most important first. Later, confer with influential person, get backing you need.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Handle all money matters in a.m., and be sure to keep promise made to loved one. Then the latter part of the day and evening are fine for dashing about meeting interesting people, doing research work, paying bills, etc.

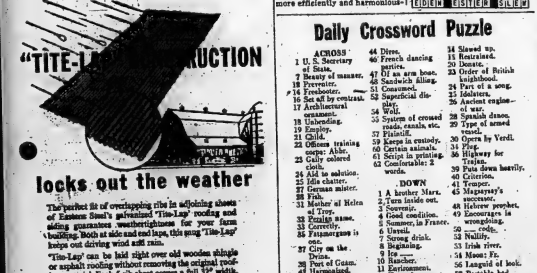
Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Every opportunity is yours now to improve on clever associate with your loyalty by supporting him, or her, in any constructive idea presented. P.M. do the work necessary to bring about success in this matter.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Be sure to do the work that is required of you right now whether at abode or in place of business. Get it out of the way fast. After lunch, you must be with associate working out new angles and deals. Have a happy day.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Tasks under treatments are necessary in A.M. that will make you more healthy and charming. Then it will be easy to work far more efficiently and harmoniously with others, and have greater success in joint ventures.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Fine morning for putting fundamental affairs in finest order. Then you can have the nicest and happiest day you have had in a long time. Be with those you like the best and doing the things that most please you. Be kind.

If your child is born today ... The lovely child born today will be a great favorite with everyone because besides beauty there is real intelligence in this chart. Plan to give the most thorough education possible since your poetry has a great potential and can accomplish marvelous things in adult life. A fine business career can be combined here with a very successful public life. But teach spirituality first.



RELICS STOLEN

WARSAW (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, appealed Sunday to Polish Catholics to keep an eye on church property and guard against theft and profanation caused by the "ridiculing tone" of the Communist press. In a pastoral letter he said a gold and silver reliquary containing relics of St. Ladyslaw, patron saint of Warsaw, was stolen more than a month ago from the Church of St. Anne.

Eastern Steel manufactures several distinct types of metal roofing and siding—each designed with a different application in mind. To help you choose the right covering, write today for your free copy of Bulletin 140, showing the best roofing, siding and accessories for the covering job you have in mind.

Remember, when applying Eastern Steel roofing or siding be sure to use "Pressco" spiral shank Lead-Head nails—the roofing nails with the lead seal underneath the head which plugs the nailhole with rustproof, weathertight lead.

Indians Could Blockade Road To Int. Bridge

OTTAWA (CP) — Indians of the St. Regis reservation could prevent building or operating a road to blockade a road through their lands to the busy Cornwall - Massena International Bridge, an official of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority said Tuesday.

The Indians—members of the Mohawk band of the Iroquois tribe of the Six Nations Confederacy—are demanding an annual rental of $15,000 over a three-year period for use of the road by the Cornwall International Bridge Company. They decided Monday night at a meeting at St. Regis, Que., that if the authority does not meet their demand the road will be closed.

The seaway authority describes the demand as excessive and has offered to pay a rental of about $3,000 a year, or $9,000 for the three years instead of $45,000.

The seaway official said the Indians have the right to block-ade the road as it runs through reservation land. A previous agreement under which the Indians received an annual rental of about $1,000 expired last November and has not been renewed.

He said, if the Indians refuse to sign an agreement at a more reasonable rental and blockade the road, the authority has the power to expropriate the land.

It was hoped that a meeting on the reservation next Tuesday would be attended by members of the bridge company, a subsidiary of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation of the United States.

The official said no proposals have been made to expropriate the land.

The Indians are demanding the annual rental of $15,000 for a 1½-mile road running from the north channel span of the old bridge at Cornwall to the Canadian customs and immigration office on Cornwall Island.

The authority plans to use the road only until 1962 when a new span will be built over the north channel of the St. Lawrence River. Land for a road across the reservation which would link the two spans already has been expropriated.

Ralph Whiteman, chief of the St. Regis council, told the St. Regis meeting Monday night: "The road is ours, we can do with it what we please."

Rapidly-Spreading Practice Of Issuing Gift Coupons for Food Brings Rising Storm

— By DON SCANDRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A storm is raging in Ontario and Quebec over the rapidly-spreading practice of issuing small gift coupons with the housewife's purchases at supermarkets and other stores.

The coupons, one of which is issued for every purchase worth 20 cents, may be redeemed for a premium gift worth roughly two per cent of the value of goods purchased.

The scheme, adopted by more than 2,000 businesses, is under fire from women's organizations and retail associations which claim that besides increasing food prices, the coupons - popularly known as trading stamps - contravene sections of the Criminal Code.

OPPOSES SCHEME

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, a strong opponent of the scheme says the stamps are, in fact, used for trading in currency and as such violate a trading - stamp clause of the Criminal Code.

The premium companies which issue the coupons say this is not so and there is nothing illegal about the operation.

At a recent meeting in Ottawa, Justice Minister Fulton and Attorney - General Roberts of Ontario agreed the coupons are legal as long as they do not infringe on the federal government's exclusive powers of issuing currency.

Later a delegation representing the 30,000-strong RMAC met Mr. Fulton and demanded prosecution of gift-coupon issuers.

OPPOSES SCHEME

The minister is understood to have told the delegation that responsibility for enforcing the code rests with the provinces and if there was a provincial test case over the coupon's validity the federal government would be in a position to determine whether existing laws were effective.

IN TWO PROVINCES

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that no other provinces but Ontario and Quebec are affected on the same scale by the stamps, worth on an average about one-fifth of a cent.

The idea is that when the housewife has enough coupons to fill a small book given her by the supermarket or gas station or whatever business is using them, she has the choice of a number of gifts.

It takes some time to collect enough coupons. Some samples:

In Toronto, 35,000 Pinky stamps, or 20 books, can be exchanged for a bicycle or something of similar value. Each book has spaces for 1,500 stamps representing purchases worth $150.

In Montreal, a customer must buy $150 worth of groceries to get one book. For two books she can collect the lowest gift, valued $6.49.

In Ottawa, 7 2-3 books are worth an electric frying pan which retails at about $25.

In effect the coupons are a two-per - cent discount on the price paid for goods.

The main premium companies issuing the stamps:

TPF Premiums Limited issue Statoherb , Sup e rmarkets with Pinky premiums; BC Premium Company offers Lady Green stamps issued by Loblaws; Power Supermarkets offer Gold Bond stamps; IGA Food Stores offer a cash-register tape plan.

A number of independent grocers and small merchants also use stamps issued by the premium companies.

According to the companies the stamps are legal when the value of each stamp is stated on the stamp. They must be redeemed for cash at any time at the place where they are issued and the address of the place of issue is on the stamp.

MANITOBA RULING

In Manitoba, gift coupons were ruled illegal in 1958. In a test case Henry Leon Carriere of St. Boniface, Man., was fined $25 and costs for disposing of trading stamps.

Police said for every 10 - cent purchase the storekeeper gave one stamp. When a customer had 100 they were affixed to a certificate and the customer was entitled to a gift.

Government officials, however, say the Criminal Code sections are open to a variety of interpretations. Elliott Pepper, assistant director for public prosecutions for Ontario, said they are shot full of loopholes and unclear.

At the Ottawa meeting, Mr. Fulton told Mr. Roberts he expects the royal commission on consumer credit will deal with the question of trading stamps this year. Information on which to base an opinion might then be available.

The Criminal Code prohibitions against trading stamp uses were framed about 1905 to protect the federal government's power to issue currency.

SECONDARY CURRENCY?

General Manager F.A.B. Rands of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada's National Foods Retail Division said in Toronto: "In our view the buying public is being adversely affected by the unrestricted use of stamps which are, in fact, being used as a secondary type of currency."

President C. R. McFadden of BC Premium Company said in Toronto:

"Opposition stamp suppliers started going after the small merchant so we have no choice."

"It doesn't matter what you or I think about stamps. Women love them and they've shown they're going to have them. Nothing can stop them now."

Organizations in opposition to the schemes, however, say firms using them — have recorded an upsurge in prices since their introduction.

Mrs. H. E. S. Piper, Quebec president of the Canadian Association of Consumers:

"We are against them and are convinced other women will be too when they learn how the stamps actually affect their pocketbooks.

"In spite of what retailers say, the stamps raise the cost of food and the worst thing about them is the shopper has no say whether she will accept them or not."

The organization is making representations to Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard of Quebec to ban the stamps on the grounds their use violates the Criminal Code.

President Miss Feldman of Syndicats St. Henri, a Montreal clothing department store which uses stamps, said if the customer didn't help pay for the stamps he would be helping to pay for some other type of promotion.

"It's just a matter of one type of promotion against another. What type of gimmicks are you going to use to lure the consumer."

QUEENS' COURT CASE

Gold Star Stamp Company was in court several years ago in Quebec because it issued stamps through small merchants and customers claimed their gifts at the main premium store.

This was held illegal by a court but judgment was reserved, by which time the firm had closed its premium store and was distributing premiums through merchants. The firm was fined $1.

About a quarter of Quebec city's retail businesses use the schemes. They range from the corner grocery store to automobile businesses.

In Ottawa some 128 supermarkets and service stations issue the stamps.

URGES PROSECUTION

The Ottawa branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers which has been urging the crown attorney to prosecute gift-coupon issuers has the support of such organizations as the Ottawa University Women's Club, the local Council of Women and church groups.

In Newfoundland the stamps are used by a handful of merchants. The local board of trade, however, frowns on the practice, stating it is better to spend money on improving quality.

New Brunswick is the only other Atlantic province that uses the stamps. There, however, the use has been very limited and applies only to small novelty and gift shops.

No such coupons are in use in British Columbia, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

Great To Speak As Disarmament Pressure Grows

Pearson's Views on UN Held Too Pessimistic

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The UN is ourselves. If there's anything wrong with the UN we all must take the blame.

So says V. K. Krishna Menon, defence minister of India and delegation chief to the United Nations, in which he has been prominent since its early days.

He commented Wednesday night on statements by "my very special friend," Lester B. Pearson of Canada, another veteran diplomat and former president of the UN assembly, who said in a recent Vancouver speech that he is worried about the world body's future.

Menon, among the UN's most colorful personalities, said in an interview that some of Pearson's views coincide with those of India. But he differed on a few points.

GREEN REACTION

Reaction among other UN diplomats was similar in corridor conversations since the current session opened Tuesday. Among Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green had just a brief comment:

"I think Mr. Pearson is too pessimistic."

Peter Hope, spokesman for the Canadian delegation, added: "The UN is sometimes disappointing, but not disillusioning. What can be alleging into the category of debating societies? Then something comes along like the fighting in Laos, the UN takes a strong stand, and we have hope again."

Pearson knows this from his role in the Suez crisis."

Pearson, former external affairs minister and former leader of the Liberal Opposition, said in his speech to the United Nations Association:

"While I believe there's nothing more important than to work out international problems through the UN, I have serious misgivings about its future as an effective instrument for peace."

REFLECTS SITUATION

The UN reflected the international picture rather than being a forum for bettering it, and there were "two frightened blocks of nations" in the UN like a battleground for political propaganda instead of a place to seek solutions."

"We've been saying that for the last 10 years, Menon.

"I certainly agree that the United Nations as it now is impeded by the cold war. We, in all modesty, think that the attitude of non-alignment we have taken is correct in this respect."

Owed $400,000 After Loan Of $150,000

TORONTO (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario was told Wednesday a farmer who borrowed $150,000 found later he owed $400,000 to back the loan.

Aberdeen Cameron Douglas, who farms in Welland County, applied to the court Wednesday to have three separate actions under the Unconscionable Transactions Act tried all at once.

Mr. Payton told the court the first mortgage Mr. Douglas obtained on the farm he planned to subdivide was with Leon E. Weinstein and Samuel Shopsowitz for $117,000.

It had a term of, 181 days and an effective interest rate of 144.2 per cent per annum. The transaction, not involved in the present court case, cost Mr. Douglas $36,500.

Mr. Payton said his client got a $32,000 mortgage over a 35-day term from L. Jack Walker, but he never got the money.

Another mortgage was taken out with Julius, Jack and Melvin Adies, Max Elsen, David Elsen and Celia Newman for $15,000. It was still outstanding at 15 per cent plus seven per cent overdue interest.

Still another mortgage for $7,500 over a period of 67 days was taken out with Harold Lawson, Norton Pentum and Frederick J. McDwyer, Jr. from him a total of $23,000, making the effective interest rate 1,252.8 per cent.

Another mortgage from Sam Swartz for $27,000 over 268 days cost Mr. Douglas $12,000, Mr. Payton said.

His next mortgage was with Melvyn Paul Rubinoff, Daniel Stein and A. O. Rittiche for $75,000 over 300 over 300 days. Interest on this loan was $22,733.

A $53-day mortgage with A. O. Ritchie and Company for $2,800 cost him $2,230, said Mr. Payton. Another with Rubinoff, Stein and Ritchie was for $149,281 at a cost of $39,750, or $3.3 per cent. It is still outstanding.

GRAIN ELEVATOR ANNEX CRUMBLES AT PORT ARTHUR

2,000,000 Bushels Slither Into Lake

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—More than 2,000,000 bushels of grain slithered into Lake Superior Wednesday night when an annex of the 7,500,000-bushel elevator in Port Arthur's east end collapsed.

The combination of the grain and tons of concrete pounding into the lake created a 12-foot wave which flooded a nearby pumping station, swept on to shore a 150-foot section of tracks mile out in the water, and dislodged a rail - borne freight car. Several planes moored nearby. Pulp log rafts also were washed ashore.

There were no reports of injuries. Earlier in the day nine men were working in the elevator, owned by United Grain Growers Limited.

Witnesses said there was little doubt most of the 2,300,000 bushels of wheat, oats, barley and flaxseed went into the lake or were ruined in the collapse. Even at the conservative estimate of a $1 a bushel, grain damage would be $2,500,00.

$10 MILLION LOSS

Police placed total damage at about $10,000,000. They said one-quarter of the elevator was destroyed in the collapse, cause for which is not yet known.

Bob Gathrum, foreman in the three-part elevator at the time, said he felt a "quiver" and walked toward the sound. The annex fell away in front of him.

A 150 - foot high warehouse section of the elevator, is flanked on the north and south by annexes. It was the south annex, completed 64 tanks or bins, each 96 feet deep, that collapsed. The 150-foot, like several in the

Many Americans Say Khrushchev's Visit Should Improve Relations

NEW YORK (AP) — An Associated Press sampling of man-in-the-street opinion across the United States indicates that many Americans think Nikita Khrushchev's visit should produce better relations between the U.S. and Russia.

But the opinion is far from unanimous. Many say no good will come of the celebrated cross-country jaunt.

Still others feel it's too early to tell.

There was little disagreement on the theme of Khrushchev's visit. Most of those questioned sized up the Soviet Premier's mission as one in which he is interested only in what is good for his side. A few considered it a publicity stunt.

The responses were to questions asked by AP reporters in cities across the country.

John Milton Ward, chairman of the music department at Harvard University, said "I think his visit is a good thing because . . . it will help their cast's fall to give him a feeling of the size of the U.S. and the spirit of its people."

But in Dallas, Tex., exporter Edmond P., Gue said he did not foresee improved international relations "because guys are not going to change Khrushchev—he's a pretty smart cookie."

Kenneth J. McCumber, manager of an Atlanta shipping concern, disagreed. He said he believed improved relations would help international relations, even though Khrushchev's visit should be primarily a publicity stunt.

Khrushchev is a tough, shrewd politician. You don't stay alive in the Soviet Union if you're not. He made a fool of the Los Angeles mayor."

In Atlanta, Ga., T. L. Griffin, a store owner, saw nothing to be gained from the visit.

Kenneth J. McCumber, manager of an Atlanta shipping concern, disagreed. He said he believed improved relations would help

PC Who Beat McNaughton Hangs Himself in Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Garfield Case, who dubbed himself the Mighty Atom after an upset victory in one of Canada's most celebrated political battles, was found dead Tuesday in a closet of a Toronto hospital.

The five-foot-one former Progressive Conservative MP for Grey North was committed to Sunnybrook Military Hospital here last July for psychiatric treatment.

Police said he hanged himself by his belt from a shelf which is a closet near the hospital chapel. He would have been 62 Wednesday.

Mr. Case's explosive campaigning on the issue of conscription defeated Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Liberal defence minister, by a 1945 byelection. His entry into Parliament surprised practically everyone but himself.

Gen. McNaughton had been appointed defence minister a few weeks earlier at the height of a conscription crisis, and the Prime Minister Mackenzie King picked Grey North as a safe seat through which to bring a new minister into Parliament.

The PCs were about to concede the seat but Mr. Case told them he would win it and said if he didn't Conservatives back him. He would run under another banner. They agreed, at first reluctantly, then pulled out all the stops when they realized there was a chance of piling up at least a sizable vote.

Mr. Case set up headquarters in an Owen Sound hotel and rummaged daily press conferences at which he gave colorful, table-thumping full-dress rehearsals of the speeches he planned to deliver each night at political rallies. He knew nothing of the correspondent would not yen-

Behind The Iron Curtain

Mutual Distrust Must Be Eliminated Between Russia and Ourselves

By Raymond Canon
(ARTICLE II)

ST. GALL, SWITZERLAND—

My trip to Russia is now over, and I am glad to be able to spend a few days resting at my old home in St. Gall. All in all it is nice to be able to talk English again.

In the railway station at Vienna I had my last taste of the Russia which took the usual long time to serve. We had some meal vouchers left over, which unfortunately we were unable to redeem in town, so had to be content with buying some vodka, caviar and chocolate at very favorable prices. I chose this parting meal as an appropriate time to get rid of the last time out to recover in the car while I hustled off to the State Bank to cash up our currency control.

CURRENCY DIFFICULTIES

Here again it was a case of the left hand not knowing what the right is doing. In Moscow I had been told we could get the same currency as the one we had changed on entering Russia. Since I use mainly Swiss money there, I expected to get the remainder of my Russian money in Swiss francs. But such was not the case.

They were even rather curt in the way they had treated a mistake. With that I treated all the bank employees with the most courteous Finns to a rather colorful description of what I thought of the banking system. Not every place you went you heard a different story. I then went sightseeing guides, and told her what had happened. The upshot of all this was that she was able to get some American money for me, but it was not until she went with me to the bank did they attempt to do anything for me. The last 30 miles we were without a guide, since we said good-bye to ours in Vibourg. However

WHYTEHAVEN UNDER CLOSURE NOTICE BY GOVT.

Sixteen Children Now Registered

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte's children's home near Whytehaven has ordered again under a government warning that it must be registered properly or it will be closed.

Government officials removed 107 children from the home early last month following outbreaks of influenza and hepatitis. A court later ruled the children had been neglected at the unlicensed home which Mrs. Whyte calls Whytehaven. Sixteen children now are staying at the home that for the last four years has been a bustling refuge.

Any home having five unrelated children must be registered under the Ontario Children's Protection Act, which Mrs. Whyte consistently refused to register and Wednesday the Ontario Department of Welfare warned her to do so.

W. H. Bury, director of the child welfare division, said unless Mrs. Whyte registers immediately action will be filed with the attorney-general's department in her small district.

A warning was also issued to parents of the children now in the home telling them that, under an amendment to legislation in 1958, they are liable to a fine for permitting children to be placed in an unregistered home.

Sharon Rogerson, chief supervisor of welfare services for Whyte's absence on a money-raising tour of Western Canada, said the home is operating as every child also is staying at Mrs. Whyte's home in Belleville in age from nine months to 13 years.

She said Mrs. Whyte is not expected home until the end of October. Mrs. Whyte is expected back this weekend.

Mrs. Whyte is trying to raise the $10,000 down payment on a farm near the home. She plans to turn it into a children's home.

The children seized in last month's raid have been returned to Mrs. Whyte, Children's Aid Society.

Burns Dynamite, Sixteen Injured

NEW YORK (AP)—A professional blaster was destroying four left-over stacks of dynamite by burning them, set off an explosion Wednesday that injured 16 persons, one severely.

The blast occurred during a six-foot-deep excavation a blasting crew's foreman for the Consolidated Edison Company was supervising.

The blaster, Giuseppe Mignacco, 52, was taken up into a crane to direct the burning.

Police said a glass silver which punctured her lung was 16-year-old Elizabeth Lopez, a baby-sitter for one of the affected apartment buildings.

Nina Khrushchev Looks Over Iowa's Corn With Knowing Eye

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—When Mrs. Nina Khrushchev looked over Iowa's corn, it was with a knowing eye.

That's the word from her hosts, Mrs. Roswell Garst, and Mrs. Dale Khrushchev "knows a great deal about agriculture."

Mrs. Garst showed the wife of one of Iowa's big corn growers, Mrs. Khrushchev understands the problems and is interested in growing hybrid seed corn.

Mrs. Khrushchev turned aside invitations to take a look at a Coon Rapids elementary school and left with her soviet premier husband Wednesday to continue their tour of the U.S. and several farmyards and fields.

In a black suit and wearing black shoes, she walked, she pushed her way through to peer into a special hog-raising barn. Charlois bulls Khrushchev was inspecting.

She didn't have enough time to settle down and have a good look," Mrs. Garst lamented, for "any time for serious, comfortable discussion."

And the fast-paced visit didn't give Mrs. Garst a chance to bring before Khrushchev their

Pittsburgh Gives Soviet Premier Mixed 'Welcome'

Security Guards Jumpy But Cheers Drown Boos

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev is winding up his cross-country tour with reminders that there are people in the United States with a strong distaste for him.

The Soviet premier, mellowed in San Francisco and feted in the Iowa corn country, bumped into boos and anti-Khrushchev signs on his arrival in this industrial city Wednesday night. But there were cheers, too, and in the end they drowned out the boos.

Today he was due to visit an industrial plant, tour points of interest in a city avowed by its steel strike, and speak at a civic luncheon at the University of Pittsburgh.

ON TO WASHINGTON

Later this afternoon his plane is scheduled to leave for Washington and serious business.

Talks with President Eisenhower on what can be done to ease East-West tensions.

Late Friday the Russian premier and the American president will fly to Camp David, a secluded spot in the Maryland mountains.

The carnival, the fun, the wild dash from coast to coast will be over.

Then the two leaders, both of whom have threatened war, will sit thy want it peace, will try to find some way out of the situation that both have said could lead to disaster.

Khrushchev again appeared tired Wednesday night as he flew to Pittsburgh from Des Moines, Iowa, for a few hours of rest.

What he saw here probably didn't put him up any.

MANY SIGNS SHOWN

This city has residents of Hungarian, Polish or Slovak origin. Even before Khrushchev arrived demonstrations were carried on by signs that carried such legends as:

"Butcher of Budapest," "Killer of American pilots" and "Remember 1956 Hungary with Nikita Khrushchev."

One recalled the words Khrushchev has used so often in his speeches here. Two grinning Reds said they were "friends of friendship and peace."

Security officials became downright jumpy. Plans to have Khrushchev ride in an open car were abandoned, and the route he was to follow was changed.

Police said they had 1,000 men from the airport. And they stood with their backs to the crowd, their eyes peeled for potential trouble on any of the surrounding hills.

Khrushchev was taken up the narrow, winding road to the top of Mount Washington for a sweeping view of Pittsburgh. From there he could see the huge steel plants—many of them lit up for the occasion—of downtown Pittsburgh.

A crowd of 5,000 or more was jammed around the Civic Arena downtown. Hotel awaiting Khrushchev, even though he didn't arrive until just after midnight.

Here were more signs.

One said: "God bless America. God free Ukraine."

Another: "Red atrocities in WASHINGTON (CP)—The colorful Khrushchev caravan will be sweet from public view Friday behind the oak and hickory trees of a mountain top retreat where once plans were made for war.

In a closely-guarded rustic retreat in the Catoctin mountains, President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev will meet at Camp David, Md., at a critical point in their personal diplomacy, their personal quest for peace.

There will be no crowded streets, no television cameras, no question and no hecklers. It will be a two-man conference, an informal summit meeting, with only their closest advisers by their side, brought in by helicopter from the capital 60 miles to the southeast.

The mood will range during the weekend, from Friday evening until Sunday noon. Advance speculation as to the outcome is gloomy, but Khrushchev has predicted a successful visit, blowing hot and cold. Anything can happen.

Indications of gloom result from the cross-country tour. Khrushchev has had his fill of hot dogs, but instead of seeing, he came to tell and scold.

He has been critically of his guest for peace, of his plan for total disarmament, of the repeated old and rejected Red, plan to turn Berlin into a free city, to freeze East Germany into a permanent Communist state.

He argued belligerently in favor of communism, but when the chips are down and he in turn were heckled, he balled up, threatened to pack up and go home.

This is the Khrushchev that goes to the quietness of Camp David's presidential hideaway, built by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt as a place to escape the dark days of the Second World War. Security from that major guest here was Britain's wartime prime minister, Sir Winston Churchill, there with the map-spread shadows of the campaigns that licked the war.

State Secretary Christian A. Herter has a theory about Eisenhower and he his extreme earnestness in man-to-man talks. With Khrushchev, the president was will undergo critical tests.

26 COUNTY COUNCIL MEMBERS VISIT HYDRO DEVELOPMENT

Twenty-six members of Hastings county council visited the Otterwell area Wednesday where they were taken on a conducted tour of the big St. Lawrence Hydro development.

Also visited were the canal locks and water control dam at Iroquois and the re-located towns of the St. Lawrence Development area. The party left Belleville at nine o'clock, had lunch at the Cornwallis Hotel and were met by Hydro officials who took them on the conducted tour.

The trip was arranged by Reeve Wilmott Rose of Frankford, chairman of the county council's publicity committee. Transportation was by Wannamaker's bus.

BELLEVILLE RINK WINS AT DESERONTO

A full draw enjoyed the mixed doubles tournament held in Deseronto on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price made the journey and brought home the prize for the two-game high. Ed. Dennison with his partner from Kingston was the winner of the three-game high score while W. Runnells and Ida Sills from the Deseronto Club won the one-game high.

As usual the women of the club prepared a most delicious supper that was served between the second and third games. The greens were in excellent condition and the hospitality of the host club superb.

Early Registration Advised For 1959-60 Night Classes

The Bay of Quinte District High School Board and its Advisory Vocational Committee will sponsor evening classes in both Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School and Moira Secondary School during the 1959-60 season.

Classes at B.C.I.V.S. will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Provided there is sufficient registration, classes will be formed in art, elementary auto mechanics, bricklaying, electricity, millinery, advanced sewing, Pitman shorthand, elementary typewriting, advanced typewriting, V.L.A. home construction, welding and woodworking. Third-year subjects in the advanced technical course will also be offered.

Students wishing to enrol in these classes will register at the school on September 29, between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Early registration is advised so that all students, may receive full benefit from their courses. In some classes, too, registration is limited and those who do not register early cannot be accommodated. Classes which are open to all persons and attending day students will begin on October 5th. E. A. Orr, principal of B.C.I.V.S., is in charge of the classes at this school.

Classes in advanced auto mechanics, bookkeeping, carpentry, drafting and blue-print reading, elementary electronics, advanced electronics, English for New Canadians and typewriting, shorthand, sewing and elementary typewriting will be offered on Monday and Wednesday evenings at the new Moira Secondary School which is located at the corner of Farley and Victoria Avenues in the east end of the city. Registration will take place at Moira Secondary School, September 30, between 7 and 9 p.m. Early classes will be held October 5th. Since some of the shops in the new school are not fully ready for occupancy, arrangements are being made to accommodate the classes in auto mechanics, machine shop and carpentry temporarily at B.C.I.V.S. However, registration for these classes should be made at Moira School. J. E. Musgrove, Principal of Moira Secondary School is in charge of these classes.

Since several inquiries have already been received concerning the possibility of classes in other subjects, the principals wish to announce that the board is quite prepared to organize classes in any academic or vocational subject for which there is a sufficient demand. Classes in mathematics, science, public speaking, foreign languages, or indeed any subject on the school curriculum can be included. Requisitions of the Department of Education require, however, that at least fifteen students must register before a class can be approved. Persons wishing instruction in any subject not listed in the proposed program are invited to discuss the matter with the principal concerned on registration night. If fifteen persons register for any subject on any given level every effort will be made to establish a class.

Classes begin during the first week of October and continue to the end of March. All are under the supervision of well qualified teachers.

Students who attend at least 60 per cent of the classes during the six months period and whose progress is satisfactory to the instructor and principal are awarded a certificate of proficiency by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Fees for the courses, which must be paid at time of registration, are $14.00 for welding, $3.00 for basic English for New Canadians and $3.00 for all other subjects.

Minister To Tour District

The Hon. W. J. Spooner, Minister of Lands and Forests for the Province of Ontario will pay an official visit to the Quinte district on Monday, September 28th.

The provincial cabinet minister will make his tour by aircraft (weather permitting) and will land at the Outlet Provincial Park for an inspection of the recently developed area before going on to District Headquarter at Tweed.

Mr. J. Taylor, district forester at Tweed, noted that Mr. Spooner is making his tour to gain first hand knowledge of the operation of his department.

Two Factories Main Factors In Pollution Says Report

Industrial wastes discharged into the River by the Canadian Canners canning factory and the Foxboro Cheese Factory was the main factor in the Moira River pollution early this month which killed thousands of fish in the area between Foxboro and the Corbyville dam.

This was stated in a pollution report from the Ontario Water Resources Commission which was read Wednesday at a full meeting of the Moira River Conservation Authority at Tweed. The report was read by Mr. George Whart, chairman of the Authority water control committee.

Contributing factors in the fish deaths were said to have been low rainfall, low river level and high temperatures.

Mr. Wishart said "tens of thousands" of fish died in the river, but noted it was not a question of how many fish died but how many remained.

The pollution report, under the direction of Dr. A. E. Berry, stated that the pollution of the river must terminate as quickly as the investigation of conditions could be made. Dr. Berry indicated that the Commission's research would have to find ways of disposing of the industrial wastes without the river as an outlet. He indicated that appropriate action would be taken by the commission to ensure that these requirements would be met.

The report indicated that the wastes dumped into the river at Foxboro resulted in oxygen depletion of the water and this, coupled with low rainfall, low river level and high temperatures over extensive periods caused the fish death.

WILL BE REMEDIED

The report recommended plans for the installation of a dairy irrigation system at the Canadian Canners to be completed as soon as possible with installation to be completed before next summer.

If this was found impossible the report said provision should be made for adequate treatment of wastes or prevention of wastes being discharged into the river.

Wastes from the cheese factory should either be excluded from the river or adequately treated before discharge into the river.

It was noted that the irrigation has been employed successfully to combat this problem at similar factories.

The request for the inspection for the pollution in the Moira was made by the Moira River Conservation Authority early in September when a considerable number of dead fish were found lying in the weeds and shallows of the river between Foxboro and Corbyville.

Pollution, experts from the Water Resources Commission inspected the river and took water samples.

The report noted that there was no evidence of pollution in the river above Foxboro.

Control Dam Benefits Would Outweigh Costs by 3.8 to One

Benefits of the proposed for control dam north of College Street, planned as a means of alleviating spring flood conditions in the city would outweigh the estimated costs by 3.8 to one.

This is indicated in the long awaited flood control and conservation measures brief on the proposed dam prepared by the Moira River Conservation Authority for presentation to the Federal government in support of a request for financial assistance to construct the dam.

The brief outlining the advantages of the proposed dam as compared with its estimated cost of $440,000, was approved yesterday at a meeting of the Authority at Tweed with members moving its presentation to Hon. W. M. Nickle, Minister of Planning and Development, when the cost with the province also paying 37 1-3 percent, leaving 25 percent or $110,000 for the Authority.

Of the Authority's share of $110,000, it is proposed that the City of Belleville, as the benefiting municipality, would pay 98 percent or $107,800. The balance of the cost would be distributed among the other municipalities making up the Authority.

Estimated cost of the proposed dam for construction at Corbyville, as stated in the brief with operating costs over a 50-year life period of the dam being $182,500, for a total of $456,500.

Benefits to control dam at College Street was recommended in the original survey report made prior to the setting up of the Eyers Authority.

Research undertaken at the University of Toronto in 1954 indicated the proposed dam would prevent ice from reaching the lower part of the river where ice jams up at the mouth causing a flood hazard.

The dam would also create a pool of water upstream which would provide admirable summering ground opportunities.

The Moira Authority is requesting that the Federal government pay 37 1-3 percent of the cost with the province also paying 37 1-3 percent, leaving 25 percent or $110,000 for the Authority.

Of the Authority's share of $110,000, it is proposed that the City of Belleville, as the benefiting municipality, would "pay 98 percent or $107,800. The balance of the cost would be distributed among the other municipalities making up the Authority.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Banks and steels continued their advance as industrials led the stock market ahead today in moderate morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 648,000 shares, compared with Wednesday's 387,000 at the same hour.

Canadian Celanese added 1¼ at 23 but few other changes were more than a point. Algoma Steel and Interprovincial Pipe were up ½.

Noranda led senior base metals, ahead ⅛ at 44. Consumer Uranium was up ⅛ at 11¼.

Banks and steels paced industrials Wednesday.

Index changes: Industrials up 12.23 to 504.68; golds off .10 to 84.81; base metals up 2.18 to 159.37; western oils up .88 to 102.66.

The final volume was 2,602,000 shares, compared with Tuesday's 2,987,000.

- All five most active industrials were up, with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines the leader, ahead 2 at 28½.
- All six banks added at least ⅛ points with Royal the leader, ahead 4 points at 82. Steel Company of Canada added 3¼ at 79¾ while Dominion Foundries and Steel was up 3⅛ at 45¾. Ford led keen, off 5¾ at 180.
- International Nickel, Noranda, Consolidated Mining and Labrador were up ⅛.
- In golds, Bellinger added ⅛ at 28¾ but Kerr-Addison dipped ⅛ at 19¼.
- Pacific Pete added ¼ at 11¼ to lead western oils. Bailey Selburn was up 25 cents but Calgary and Edmonton was down ⅛ at 29⅝. Home B and Hudson's Bay were off ⅛.

New York Police Arrest Youths With Nine Bombs

NEW YORK (AP) — Police rounded up 25 youths in two well-armed gangs Wednesday night, probably preventing more killing in the tense Bronx area where the 16-year-old John Guzman was slain Monday.

One group of six youths, three of them over 21, were trapped by police on a rooftop with a pair of nine "Molotov cocktail" gasoline bombs, a shotgun with 24 shells, two hunting knives and a box of 22-calibre bullets.

A short time later three cars loads of youths were spotted about four blocks away and caught after a five-block chase.

This netted another 21 boys, a zip gun with two barrels on a swivel, and a switchblade knife. Some of the boys who tried to flee from the cars were seen dropping several objects into a sewer—presumably more weapons.

MARKED FOR DEATH

Deputy Chief Inspector James J. Walsh, after questioning some of the youths, commented:

"If this one had not been stopped there would have been a couple dead tonight for sure."

Both groups of boys were arrested on anonymous telephone tips to police.

The shotgun ambush and the auto caravan apparently were the outgrowth of a planned "rumble" between the gang to which Guzman had belonged and the gang identified with his killers.

SEVEN CHARGED

Edward Brees, 16, and six other teen-agers have been charged with homicide in the shooting of Guzman on the steps of a Bronx church.

As police reconstructed it, the battle was to have been fought on a playground Wednesday night, and the three carloads of youths were bound for the playground.

The six on the rooftop allegedly told police they had feared they would be outnumbered by the other group, and had decided to ambush them from the roof with their "Molotov" fire bombs.

THANKS WARTIME FOES

BONN, West Germany (Reuter)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer 83, Sunday night officially marked his 10 years in office by thanking Germany's wartime enemies for helping in his country's recovery. He referred in a broadcast to the assistance "in a way never before given by the victor to the vanquished after a dreadfully and wantonly precipitated war."

Safe Robbers Got Little For Efforts

Would-be safe robbers left night forced their way into the office of the Rawson Bus Lines and after completely rifling filing cabinets, desk drawers and even employees' lockers, got only about $4 in petty cash for their efforts.

"They simply went through everything and got practically nothing for their efforts, an official of the bus company reported this morning. "All they got was slightly over $4 in an envelope in the petty cash drawer.

No money is kept at the Rawson office since the last safe job several months ago when the offices afe was carted away and dumped on a sidroad east of the city.

Records and drawer contents were found scattered on the floor, the locks were forced or filing cabinets and even employees' lockers in the garage were forced.

The intruders were apparently looking only for money as cheque books, radio, typewriters and other office equipment..was left untouched.

22 Silver Stars Leave Trenton For French Base

TRENTON — Somewhere over the Atlantic Ocean a group of jet trainers from No. 6 Repair Depot in Trenton are now winging their way toward Marville, France.

The largest jet ferry operation yet attempted by 129 Acceptance Group Ferry Flight, got underway at Trenton Tuesday morning when a total of 22 T33 Silver Stars took to the air. The operation, designated as "Western Wear," is the fourth overseas assignment for 6RD-based pilots in as many months. More than 30 aircraft have been flown across the Atlantic to support the RCAF's 1 Air Division, or for delivery to NATO air forces under a mutual aid plan. This week's complement contains aircraft for both purposes, six going to fighter wings and the remainder to NATO air forces in France, Portugal and Greece.

Operation Western Wear is under the direction of S/L J. Cuthill, DSO, DFC. CO, the recently appointed Officer Commanding 129 A & TF. S/L Cuthill, a native of Arnprior, Ont., has recently returned from London, England, where he was on exchange duties with the RAF. Capt. D. C. Montgomery of Temiskaming, Que., serving as flight commander, is in charge of leading the flock of "birds" from Trenton to Goose Bay, Labrador; Sondrestrom, Greenland; Keflavik, Iceland; Prestwick, Scotland, and then directly to No. 1 Fighter Wing, Marville, France.

FIGHT TO SCATTER

Upon arrival at 1 Fighter Wing, five of the T-Birds will be despatched to the Fighter Base at Chateaudun. In the early part of October, thirteen aircraft will be delivered, these being the last of almost 100 aircraft, including 60 Harvard trainers and 19 Expeditors, given by Canada to France under mutual aid.

A further flight of five jets to be sent from Marville will be delivered through Decimomannu, Sardinia, to the Greek Air Force Base at Elesulis. This flight will be led by F/L W. M. Milchell of Ottawa and Montreal.

The last flight of Silver Stars will be flown under the direction of F/L Bill Clarke, of Belleville, from Marville to Lisbon for delivery to the Portuguese Air Force. Permission has been granted by the government of Spain allowing the Canadian pilots to ferry the jets over Spanish territory to their destination.

Recent deliveries of T33 aircraft to recipient NATO countries have reached fifty, valued in excess of $11,000,000. The programs has aided Turkey, Greece, Portugal and France.

CAREFULLY PLANNED

In operations of this nature, due to the limited range of the jets, careful planning is necessary to ensure optimum safety of both personnel and aircraft. The route is broken into legs from which alternate airfields are always within reach in case of weather deterioration or destination, or technical difficulties developing in flight.

Rescue operations over land in Canada are handled by the RCAF. All aircraft enroute over water will have rescue services provided by the RCAF and USAF. In this phase of the operation the "Duckbutt" is constantly available. These "duckbutts" are aircraft provided by the Air Rescue Service which circle around a specific area over the ocean supplying homing signals as a navigation aid as well as providing rescue service, if required.

Trenton Men Are Given Key Legion Posts

TRENTON — The Trenton Branch of the Canadian Legion is assured of an active role in district activities during the next two years. At a meeting of all Zone Commanders in District F, held at the Legion hall in Port Hope Sunday, three members of Branch 110 were elected to head various committees.

The meeting was held in order to organize the district and to appoint chairmen of committees for the next two years. District Commander Frank Hills of Port Hope, was in the chair. Zone Commander Eli Donaldson and district secretary W. J. S. McLaren, both of Trenton, were in attendance.

Trenton Legion members appointed to various offices were: James Patterson, chairman of Branch 110 Service Bureau, as District Service Bureau Chairman; Louis Knack, well known for his work in Boy Scouts, baseball and hockey, as chairman of Operation Star Shooter, the Legion's youth training plan and Ross A. Grier, first vice-president of Branch 110, as chairman of the resolutions and laws committee.

In addition to the above Zone Commander Donaldson is a past president of Branch 110 and district secretary McLaren is the branch treasurer.

LAST AUDIENCE

CASTEL CANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope John Wednesday held his last general audience the season at his summer residence in this hill town 15 miles south of Rome. More than 13,000 persons attended the sunset audience.

Two Minor Mishaps

TRENTON — An estimated $75 damage was caused yesterday when a car, driven by Donald R. Graves, 114 King Street, Trenton, struck a light standard in the parking lot at the Loblaw store on the outskirts of town.

Mr. Graves was turning into the parking lot when the car brakes failed, causing him to run up against the cement pole. The grille, radiator and hood were damaged in the impact.

Fifteen-year-old Glenn McLeod, 14 Richard Street, received a bruised left hip early this morning when he lost control of his bicycle and struck a passing car. The car was driven by, P. F. Carswell, 60 Hester St. The accident happened at the CPR tracks on Dundas Street East.

The Food Front

While local interest is centred on trading stamps and Mr. K's visit to the United States it appears that in India literally millions of people are rioting in an anti-famine agitation which is sweeping across that nation, fanned by the activity of Communist agents and rabble-rousers. The situation, altogether aside from the interest of the Communists, is quite serious and should point out to us who live in a land of plenty that elsewhere in this world of ours people are just barely existing.

India, a land teeming with some 390 million people, managed to produce over 73 million tons of food last year, a record year. This, however, was not sufficient food and the price of food in some areas was apparently more than the Indian consumer could afford. The Communists are making quite a feast out of this situation, feeding, as Communism must feed, upon the miseries of the people to provide political fodder.

Apart from the obvious and active interest of the Communists, whose demonstrations have created utter chaos in such places as Karachi, a city of four million population; it would seem to us that we, the haves, should do something for the Indians, the have-nots. Canada has previously, under the Colombo Plan, arranged for sale of wheat to India at a low price. This apparently has not proved to be a complete cure-all however.

Perhaps The Telegram of Toronto has come up with the right approach - - sending food ships to countries where famine is close at hand. The raising of the monies for such an endeavor through public subscription is admirable, and those who have contributed are indeed to be commended.

Some might say that "charity begins at home." But many feel that the world has grown too small for the have-nots to be concerned over the have-nots, no matter where they may be.

With our own government supporting farm prices through the purchase of various commodities, many of which will stand in storage for some time before they will be sold, surely this money can be used for the same purpose at home but have the surplus commodities shipped abroad to countries and people where some benefit will be derived from our gift of plenty.

There is no reason why the problems of today have to be settled with affairs such as in Laos or Korea, where living conditions for the common man are such that the next meal can sometimes be a major problem. If these peoples had food things would be much better.

To be a bit more blunt, which would we rather send to these countries to try and preserve peace—armed forces or ample food? We feel the latter to be much more humane and economic by comparison.

Just as any war has its various theatres of operation, so the cold war has many fronts. We feel Canadians can do their best on the food front.

Cheap Power Here

The 1958 annual report of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario contains page after page of figures.

Did you know that only three municipalities in Southern Ontario paid less per kilowatt, actual rate, than Belleville? Belleville's cost was $32, while Brockville's was $31.34, Kingston's $31.99 and Oshawa's $31.72. Every other municipality paid more—in many cases $10 or more above the Belleville rate.

This cheaper cost of power is reflected in the Belleville rates. Domestic consumers here got electricity at an average cost per kilowatt hour of 78 cents. None of the forty major municipal electrical utilities had a lower cost, though Ottawa and Fort William tied us.

By the way, Belleville stood 29th in the list of 40, in total consumption. Just above us was Trenton. Domestic consumers in our neighboring town paid 80 cents per kilowatt hour, but Trenton had the distinction of the lowest average cost per kilowatt hour for power consumers, 65 cents. Sarnia's 68 cents, Hamilton's 71 cents and Merriton's 75 cents followed, with Belleville tied for fifth place with New Toronto and Barrie, at 78 cents. Only in Fort William and Port Arthur did commercial consumers pay less than Trenton's $1.10 per kilowatt hour and Belleville's $1.15.

THE CURE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

When you can't get her out of your head, young man,
And you hate what you have to do,
And you shirk every task that you find you can,
And the others you hurry through;
When all you can see is the time to quit
(I know how each symptom goes)
There's only one way to get over it:
The next time you see her—propose.

When you think when you're called to the telephone
That hers is the voice you'll hear,
And because it isn't you sigh and groan;
When you find that your brain's not clear
And you can't add figures or write a line,
Then the columns are all awhirl;
There's only one way to get over it,
And that is to marry the girl.

Improve Lot Of Egyptians

By Ira Campbell
in the London Tribune

What is so rarely realized in the West is that the fundamental in the condition and outlook of the population in an underdeveloped country is not something that can come after economic progress; it is the very least, to hand in hand with it.

If the most important factor in a development project — the labour force — is undernourished, ill-housed and illiterate, the best-planned schemes will fail.

This fact is fully appreciated by the young economists, scientists, technicians and other specialists now engaged in the process of making Egypt's industrial and social revolution.

The government has three main priorities in its social spending: education, housing and health. New schools are springing up all over the place — in fact the travelling by train through the villages one cannot help seeing the brand new school buildings standing out in start contrast to the dilapidated mud houses.

Housing and clinics are going forward in the towns but progress here has been much slower. One rarely sees children in the towns with the once endemic eye disease (yes it exists but in the countryside this is still widespread).

Blocks of working-class flats are going up in Cairo, Tanta, and other industrial towns. Most spectular progress is in Port Said: more than half of the slum quarter was flattened by British guns and bombs in 1956.

Port Said whole area is covered with brand new, single and three-roomed flats. Eden has named one Port Said Hitler did for so many parts of East London.

Railroading Crisis Looms

Sarnia Canadian Observer

Railroad unions, alarmed at the inroads automation and diesalization are making on jobs, and railway executives increasingly concerned over competition from trucking, business and union demands taking toll of profits, may be heading for a showdown.

Fortune magazine predicts that railroad labor, already bulging up, could erupt next year in a general railroad strike. The automation is talking of things in the U.S. But there is no question that the trouble could spill over into Canada where the situation has been touchy for years. Recent ways attempted to do something about it, including riding cabooses with nothing to do.

Another proof of the railways is the "feather bedding" which has been an admitted load on railway operation ever since the carriers adopted labor — saving devices to keep their financial heads above water.

Average profit of the U.S. railways last year was 3.7 per cent of net worth, the lowest of any major industry. Compared to the astronomical profits made by some of the other industries, that is peanuts.

Unions are not likely to look with favor upon proposed solutions which will cut further into a membership which has already been reduced by 2,000 in the postwar years by automation and diesalization.

The situations, as Fortune sees it, is building up to "a showdown" that will be especially serious. Railway managements want to get rid of diminishing and feather-bedding, and unions fighting for jobs to retain men are likely to be in a militant when the carriers and brotherhood leaders meet in Chicago this fall to discuss pay raises.

Unless someone gives in and there is no indication that either side believes it can afford to, the railroads will probably add to a long series of trail-less conferences, cooling-off periods and, if agreement cannot be reached, a strike.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TREE LEAVES TALK

This summer I sat and watched the fanning of great tree tops against a group of great maple trees. Being a visitor to Nova Scotia in Canada for so many years, I studied the maple leaf as never before. What a magnificent creation! No wonder Canada took it as a symbol of beauty and character.

It was so cool and delightful at that small island retreat, and I seemed to be ever interviewing the small group of maples with the big, beautiful leaves. For an hour or so I talked with those leaves and learned things about them that I never knew before.

The Great Artist created these beautiful maple leaves. Each one a perfect design of the others. Take that maple leaf, after its days of summer have passed, and note the delicacy of construction. A work of art! Then take those pine needles from the Hemlocks, Spruce trees, White Birches, and Red Pines. All of them created with the same skillment. I love them all. I like to walk over a bed of pine needles that have been made soft, like rare tapestries.

Yes, I believe trees talk. They talk to me, anyway! I am a newspaper man, and all trees and all nature are welcomed by me. Walking in the forest is always like meeting the same old friends. Each time I revisit the forest I am interviewed anew by the trees. What would the world be like if trees would have to be invented anew.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 24th, 1939

Despite constant outpouring of men by other stations the personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force at the Trenton base shows little change to that of the period before war was declared, an official report from the station revealed today. The fact that recruits have been added daily to the roster in numbers commensurate with those being transferred to other bases, is responsible for the non-change in station strength. Tenders for another hangar will soon be called, it was learned.

Bernard J. Trumbull, Belleville Constable and Chief of Police of Point Anne for the past eight years has been accepted in the Royal Canadian Air Force and will don the "blues" today. He will enter the "Aircrew Operators' branch of the service as has three years of service with the United States Army in the Panama Canal zone in this type of work.

In unanimous agreement that the striking should take part in the war-work of the Red Cross Society, leaders of Bridge Street United Church, at congregations this week organized the "Bridge and Work" Circle as a unit "Factory of the Red Cross". The Rev. Dr. Semple in charge of the gathering, told leaders that in the present situation, everybody was conscripted, and that everyone must be willing to do his or her part.

Recruiting of the Canadian Active Service Force will not be permitted to strip Canadian industry, agriculture and economic life of skilled or key men, according to a statement issued by Defence Minister Rogers.

Wholesome Miss America

Hamilton Spectator

Our heart goes out to 20-year-old Miss Lynda Lee Mead, of Natchez, Miss., who has been crowned Miss America for 1960. After the pageant in Atlantic City she was obliged to say something about feeling it her duty to educate herself and to make herself "as wholesome as possible so as to set an example for the women of the United States."

According to the story, Miss Lynda Lee Mead, aged 20, she followed a moment alone with any man but her father in the next year, during which time she will also barred from appearing in public in a bathing suit.

Our complaint is that the word "wholesome" applied to women nowadays is very slowing. It implies cheeks; an annoyingly hearty and unlikely manner; good sensible meals served by a successful and well-tailored husband, and a patiful of noisy, healthy children.

Again we say there's nothing the matter with such a display of wholesomeness (nothing we can put our finger on) except that the prospect of it setting an example to the women of America is frightening because it doesn't seem to allow for any particularly original - contribution based on the exercise of original talent.

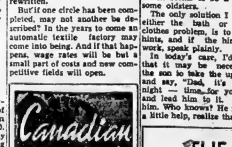
In saying this, we don't mean to belittle Miss Mead's own talents. We have no reason to suppose that, as she wears her bathing suit wholesomely and in private.

Lancashire Mills Close

Hamilton Spectator

For centuries the weavers of eastern India were famous for their muslin. Woven from gossamer-like threads of cotton grown in it was a unique fabric as much esteemed by the harem ladies of the Mongul emperors as it was by the elegant courtiers of Europe. Even as late as 1800 society portrait painters in England delighted in depicting feminine subjects draped in gracefully decorated with diaphanous, breeze-blown Indian muslin. It was so romantic and ethereal.

Then came the Manchester steam loom. Almost overnight the Indian cottage weavers were out of work. Hands could not compete with machines.



For more than a century the white cotton long cloth that made the dhotis and the chadders the Indian menfolk wear were made in the crowded mill towns of Lancashire. In the course of time, pay rates rose in Lancashire mills, it became possible to use even lower-grade English-made cotton cloth to the poorly-paid Indian peasants, and the economics compelled the opening of mills in India where huge wage rates would enable cotton cloth to be manufactured at a price within the means of the Indian masses.

If this did not sound the death knell of the Lancashire cotton textile industry, it began the process of reducing it greatly continued to the present day. As the Indian textile industry grew on a vaster scale than ever before, it was able to seize traditional British markets in Asia and Africa and to penetrate others, especially those of Canada, British and perhaps to a lesser extent, of the U.S.A. Complete circle had been described. Production had returned home, but with the machine this time.

This fall, almost half the Lancashire cotton industry has been voluntarily agreed to go out of business. Under a government recognized scheme, the industry provides compensation for redundancy, some 12,000,000 mule spindles, 90,000 looms and 463,000 doubling spindles will be discarded.

Also to come about 10,000,000 spindles and 70,000 looms were in the pipe line. And it has been accepted with a fair degree of philosophy. Some crafts will die out completely. Among the folk-lore of by books that described Lancashire as the world's greatest textile concentration will have to be rewritten.

But if one circle has been completed, one has another to be described? In the years to come an automatic textile factory may come into being. And if that happens, wage rates will be but a small part of costs and new competitive fields will open.

NEWFOUNDLAND

The tenth and last province to join confederation, Newfoundland and Labrador, was John Cabot in 1497. He settled on the simple description New Found Land as being the first point touched in the western world and with common usage the three words eventually ran together to form the present designation. It served as a British colony in British North America from the days of Queen Elizabeth Humphrey Gilbert in 1583. The capital is St. John's.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

BODILY CLEANLINESS CAN BE PROBLEM-PEOPLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have a problem with my father-in-law. He is aged 76, and his gas made his home with us for 18 years. Some years ago he read in a health column that it is detrimental to older folk to take a bath more than once a week. Since then he has been faced with a cleanliness problem, as he uses very little water in a small basin. I wish you could write about this. — Mrs. D. M. F."

Well, it goes to show that you can learn new things after you aren't young any more — even if what you learn is wrong.

Psychologically it has been shown that the ability to learn does not reach its peak until middle life, along in the 40's, and it declines only gradually for a long time after that.

Anyway, in this case, Grampa showed no idea, apparently, though the notion is without foundation, he accepted it. At 83, he can learn the truth. It is true, of course, that oldsters do perspire as freely as the younger years. It is also true that excessive perspiration will move the skin oils which are no longer as plentiful as they were. But a daily bath didn't do that, that normal bathing will be helpful.

In old age, the skin still has secretions which should be cleaned away regularly. These secretions can cause body odor. They also can disrupt personal hygiene.

This second point is significant. Here is a delicate subject to irritation and indigestion because it has just the former vigor. Hence routine bathing to remove ordinary dirt and body secretions is essential.

Many older folk dislike showers for fear of slipping. Others object to tub baths for the same reason.

Fear of the shower can be overcome by providing an old fashioned metal chair or stool in the shower stall. Grab-rail installation institutes teach precisely how to safeguard people.

Or, for the tub, mental hand rails, steps and the like are available through surgical supply houses, and probably in a few beyond, who are meticulous about the cleanliness and proper change of sheets, which seems to be a failing of hospitals.

The only solution I know, for either the bath or the clean clothes problem, is to use your wits, and if the hints don't work, speak plainly.

In today's care, I'd suggest that it may be necessary for the son to take the upper hand and say, "Dad, it's Saturday night (or what have you) and lead him to it. And help him. Who knows? He may, with a little help, realize that he likes the refreshing experience. It will certainly do him good.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it necessary to have an X-ray to find out if one has arthritis? What might one take for the pain if aspirin causes stomach distress? — H. T. — No necessarily. But it's a very useful way of making sure that some other cause isn't guilty.

Buffered aspirin may help. Another method is to take aspirin after meals instead of before. You still get the same amount of aspirin, but it absorbs more slowly, and more gently.

Mrs. H. S.: Vincent's Disease (or "trench mouth") seems to be caused by — or anyway associated with — at least four entirely different types of germs including strep. Please by all means assure your husband that there is absolutely no reason to suspect that any case is caused also that the quickest case is by immoral conduct. Tell him, rather, that more chance there is of curing it.

Dear Doctor: — constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by following the diet in my booklet "To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to me in care of The P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope,- and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Passenger Must Report

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Here's something worth knowing. When the driver of a car involved in an accident is so seriously injured that he cannot personally make a report, the responsibility of complying with the law in this respect falls upon others who may be in the car.

A St. Catharines man made this discovery only last week when, as a passenger, he was caught in Niagara Falls court with the failing charge. An accident, in which a friend, the driver of the car, was knocked unconscious as the vehicle crashed into a highway guardrail. A fine of $10 and costs against a fine of $23.50 including costs, on the St. Kitts man.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For several years past, the Canadian National Exhibition has been trying to pass the three million mark in its annual attendance. This year, during the closing days of the fair, it set itself moves as well as some of the city officials of Toronto went to considerable lengths at inducing and energetic exhortation to lift the CNE over the exhibition over the three million mark; once and for all.

What is this fury for size? Why must everything increase? A fair is a good thing, why is it not left alone? Apparently the very essence of life is that one grows and age, is that nothing is a success unless it grows bigger. This we see in business, of course, the description aiming desperately at an increase over last year. The fear of being in the mob.

Vanderwater Conservation Area Praised by Engineer; Lingham Dam Valuable Asset

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority yesterday saw at first hand the work which has been accomplished at the Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area east of Thomasburg as they visited the area prior to a full meeting of the Authority held later at Tweed.

Mr. A. L. Richardson, chief conservation engineer for the Department of Planning and Development, was among the inspection party and later at the Authority meeting at Tweed, complimented members on the work which was being done.

He said he was pleased to see the well-rounded-out program being carried out by the Moira Authority. "No phase of conservation work is being missed," he said.

The Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area, named after the late Col. Vanderwater of Foxboro, who was one of the prime movers in getting the Moira Authority organized.

The Vanderwater Conservation Area is comprised of a 400-acre tract of land on the south side of the Moira immediately east of Thomasburg. Already the entrance to the area is completed and a road has been bulldozed well into the property. Remaining to be done is completion of the roadway, clearing of the area for recreational facilities, and provision of picnic tables, fireplaces and other facilities. Eventually demonstration woodlots will be planted while other features of conservation work including a demonstration farm pond will also be provided.

FORMS NATURAL LAKE

The area taken in is secluded and particularly lovely section of the Moira with a rock barrier running across the river at the southend of the property forming a natural lake upstream. This will be developed for swimming facilities.

Much work remains to be done and the facilities are not expected to be open to the public until some time next summer.

Reports or the various Authority chairmen were given at the Tweed meeting including the financial report by field officer Michael Chaffey and report by George Wishart, water advisory committee chairman, and V. T. Graham, reforestation committee chairman.

The meeting approved of an executive recommendation that $1,000 be transferred from the reforestation budget to the general budget to compensate for a foreseeable deficit caused by the purchase of land at the site of the Lingham Lake Dam.

Mr. Wishart noted that the department had declined to make an 80 per cent grant for the purchase of land at the Lingham Lake dam site, with Mr. Richardson later noting his department had not cared to establish a precedent in this matter. He said the normal grant for this purpose was 50 per cent and he expected this would be forthcoming following application.

The meeting voted to apply for the 50 per cent land purchase grant.

Mr. Wishart said that the Lingham Lake dam was one of the more valuable assets in the watershed in that it provided a big water storage for use in facilitating summer flow.

MUST PURCHASE LAND

The dam was built by the Ontario Department of Public Works and was recently turned over to the Moira Authority for maintenance. Title of the dam will be transferred to the property when land on which it is situated is purchased.

The Authority members also approved of an executive recommendation empowering the water advisory board to engage a consultant engineer to investigate and report on the feasibility, design and cost of temporary control dams at the outlets of Stoco Lake.

As reforestation chairman T. C. Graham of Tweed reported that little work in this line had been done this year pending a decision being made on whether contributions to river authorities by the department were to be considered as grants or loans.

Cecil Ketcheson noted that amounts paid to authorities by the department were referred to a grants in earlier agreements, while in later authority agreements the word "loan" was used. The word "grant" had been used in the Moira Agreement but Mr. Ketcheson said the minister had guaranteed that the agreement would be honored, while further studies would be made in an effort to come up with legislation under which all payments to authorities would be considered as grants.

Also speaking briefly to the meeting were J. M. Taylor, district forester at Tweed, who outlined the work of his department in relation to conservation work, and Dennis Tieman, timber forester at Tweed.

CARELESS CAMPERS BLAMED

A report over the name of District Forester Taylor noted that 20 forest fires had occurred this year in the Moira watershed. There had been little reduction in the number of fires reported but the burned over area had been reduced to a minimum, this being an average of less than five acres per fire. 13 were said caused by careless campers and smokers, while two were the result of grass fires which got out of control.

It was pointed out that good fire protection was a basic part of good conservation, this being particularly the case in the Moira watershed.

The report noted that the Moira Authority had a total of 6,458 forest acres under agreement with the Department of Lands and Forests while 94,700 Norway, White Spruce and White Pine had been planted last spring on three properties in Thurlow, Hungerford, and in Madoc and Elzevir.

A future work program based on a survey completed during the summer will see replanting done on all lots which are not yet fully stocked with trees. About 100,000 trees will be planted in this manner. Also 100,000 seedlings are allocated for planting on new properties.

The demonstration value of county forests was emphasized, it being noted that large signs will be erected on all properties which border travelled roads. Exploitation of the demonstration value of Authority plantations would encourage local planting on private land, it was stated.

Authority chairman Bruce Smith presided over the meeting.

Thieves Leave Behind Stolen Frankford Car

Would-be thieves who smashed a window at the Ab Wannamaker and Son service station in Wellington were scared away early today after near neighbors heard the sound of breaking glass and notified police.

The two men left behind a 1954 model car which had been stolen earlier at the Montgomery used car lot at Frankford.

Police Chief Earl Marvin of Wellington said that Don Morden and Henry Wannamaker, neighbors living near the Wannamaker service station, heard the smashing of glass about 2.15 this morning. They called Chief Marvin but the two men made good their escape before police could arrive.

Provincial police from Picton joined in the search but the men made good their getaway.

Earlier at Frankford the men had broken into the office at the Montgomery used car lot at the main intersection of Frankford and stole the keys to a 1954 model car which was taken. It was the same vehicle which was abandoned at Wellington.

L.A. EUCHRE

The weekly euchre of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion was held last evening in the Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street, with eight tables in play.

Favors went to: ladies, Mrs. E. Woodcock, Sadie Kellar, Mrs. Myrtle Pearce; men, W. Bannister, T. Hall and Mac Nevery.

Wedding

LEWARS — MONTGOMERY

St. Peter's Anglican church, North Augusta, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding recently when Rev. Fred Payne, Prescott, united in marriage Dario Anne Montgomery, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Montgomery, R.R. 3, Spencerville, and James Arthur Lewars, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewars, North Augusta.

Mrs. John Ralph provided music for the ceremony, which took place Saturday afternoon, July 18 at 2.30 p.m. The church was decorated with gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor length gown of nylon net over bridal satin, with a fitted bodice and Sabrina neckline. Her waist-length veil was gathered on a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

A sister of the bride, Miss Ruth Montgomery, was maid-of-honour, wearing an ice-blue taffeta street length dress. She carried a crescent bouquet of blue gladioli and maidenhair fern.

The Misses Mae and Jean Montgomery, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids, and wore yellow and mauve taffeta dresses respectively. The gowns were street-length. They carried crescent bouquets of yellow and mauve gladioli respectively.

Groomsman was Mrs. Donald Jones, Brockville, and ushers were Messrs. Arthur McMullen, North Augusta, and John Lewars, Belleville.

At the reception held at the Masonic hall, North Augusta, the bride's mother, wearing an ice-blue taffeta dress, with a corsage of pink roses, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother, wearing a dress of gray and silver satin, assisted.

Following the wedding dinner the couple left by car for a trip to North Bay, Huntsville, and Algonquin Park. For travelling the bride chose a blue sheath dress with matching duster and a white accessories.

Since their return, they have taken up residence in North Augusta, the bridegroom being employed by the Phillips Electric Co., and the bride at Automatic Electric.

Those present were from Islington; London; Toronto; Belleville.

Mitzi Gaynor Same Sensible Movie Star

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mitzi Gaynor is a rare breed—a sensible movie star.

Possessor of one of the best figures in town, pretty, a triple-threat talent and a household name, Mitzi is still the same sensible girl she was when she started making movies in 1950.

This, incidentally, is not one man's opinion.

How has Mitzi managed to keep her feet on the ground in a town where even dogs have their own psychiatrists?

"I'm never satisfied with myself, maybe that's why," Mitzi explained. "When I accomplish something, I immediately set another goal and work toward that."

After scoring in South Pacific, she turned down other musical offers. Her goal was a straight part for a change of pace. She got it with David Niven in Happy Anniversary, the movie version of the Broadway show, Anniversary Waltz.

That finished, Mitzi decided to learn to swim. She enrolled in a swimming class in which she and a girl friend were the only grown-ups. Their instructor, under-water named some of Mrs. Jack Bean and got an instructor who hadn't been a coach in years.

"Now, Mrs. Bean," he told her. "I'm going to make an Esther Williams out of you." She's been Esther ever since at the pool.

Her next project is Frank Sinatra's TV spectacular. She will be the only girl with Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Dean Martin.

"I may not be so sensible after those three get through with me," she said, laughing. Another reason why she keeps her wits about her:

"My husband would never let me get the big head. He could deflate a dirigible."

Friends Hold Party for Newly Weds

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Ron Sheppard, Codrington, were tendered a presentation party in Carmel Jubilee Hall on Wednesday evening. The bride is the former Dorothy Johnston of Carmel.

Mr. Harry Brown was master of ceremonies and Mr. Douglas Prear led the sing-song of sentimental selections. Appropriate readings were given by Miss Sharon Grills and Miss Joyce Harry. Mrs. Harry Brown played several selections on her piano accordion, and also played a piano solo.

Miss Jean Grills read an address of appreciation, and the newly weds were presented with a space-saver on behalf of friends of the community.

Ross and Dorothy expressed their thanks for the party and gift and invited the group to visit them in their home at Codrington.

The ladies served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Problems Faced by Hospitals Theme of Talks at Meetings

The annual meetings of Regional Hospital Council No. 8 and of the Women's Auxiliary section of the Ontario Hospitals Association were held last week in the Students' Union, Queen's University during an all-day conference with the theme "A Look at the Future." Attending the conference were about 60 delegates from hospitals in the region which includes Kingston, Belleville, Brockville, Trenton and Campbellford.

Guest speaker, Dr. R. C. Burr, director of the Kingston branch of the Ontario Cancer Foundation, spoke on the history and development of the Cancer Foundation and the establishment of its first all-inclusive clinic in Kingston. Dr. Burr was introduced by C. Wilson, administrator of Brockville General Hospital and thanked by Mother MacPherson, former administrator of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The main speakers for the morning session were Dr. R. B. Peat of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission who spoke on "Unsolved Problems Faced by the Hospitals and the Commission," and Mrs. W. P. Telford, Owen Sound, presidential elect of the Hospitals' Auxiliaries section, Dr. Peat described the main problems facing hospitals and the Commission as encouraging community groups to provide adequate hospital facilities; establishing the necessary relationships between the medical profession, the Commission and hospital administration; and co-ordinating the use of community facilities and resources to supplement hospital care; and removing custodial cases from hospitals.

Mrs. Telford spoke on "The Future Role of Volunteer Hospital Workers" and gave an impressive list of the services now provided by volunteers. She suggested an increased use of volunteer help in providing social contacts and small comforts for patients, and also in public relations and liaison between hospitals and the community.

Hospital Association, Toronto, gave the main address of the afternoon on "Hospital Personnel Relations." He stated that over 35,000 people are employed in Ontario hospitals not including student nurses and that 70 per cent of hospital operating costs go toward personnel salaries. At the conclusion of Mr. Mcelcheny's talk, the conference divided into four groups to consider the statement on personnel policy issued by the American Hospital Association and its application to the Canadian situation.

The annual meeting of Regional Council No. 8 was conducted by W. F. O. Daschel, vice-chairman in the absence of chairman George Carson. At the same time, the Women's Hospital Auxiliary section met under the chairmanship of Mrs. Reeby of Belleville with Mrs. D. McDonald as secretary. Reports were heard from Belleville General Hospital, Brockville General, Brockville St. Vincent de Paul, Campbellford memorial, Ontario Hospital of Kingston, Kingston General, Hotel Dieu, St. Mary's On The Lake and Ongwanada Sanitorium, all of Kingston.

HALLOWAY W.A. - W.M.S.

The Halloway W.A. and W.M.S. September meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth McMullen.

An inspiring worship service was led by Mary Huffman with the assistance of Hazel Tufts and Irene Wallman. The music was played by Zella Dickson.

Mrs. Huffman dedicated the offering and closed the worship service with prayer.

The flowers brought for roll call were sent to an ill member.

The W.A. business was conducted by Irene Wallman. Executive plans were made for the night at Hoard's Stations.

A lengthy discussion on the campaign for new members ended with the appointment of three members to be in charge.

Many of the ladies paid their 25¢ replacement dues.

The evening ended with a delicious lunch served by the hostess and assistants.

Friends Fete October Bride-to-Be

STIRLING — Mrs. Lindsay Pollock entertained approximately 20 friends last Wednesday evening to a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Ruth Mumby, an October bride-to-be.

The co-hostesses were Mrs. Patricia Merrill, Mrs. C. Bigford, and Misses Elsie Martin and Marilyn Reid.

The group enjoyed games and contests and the gifts were deposited in a "wishing well".

Ruth thanked her friends for the large array of lovely gifts and the hostesses served dainty refreshments.

Ancient Craft of Handmade Jewelry Revived by Swiss

By JOHN MATTERS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The ancient craft of handmade jewelry has been revived in a tiny corner of an office building here by Toni Cavalli, 32-year-old Swiss - born expert.

Canadian material is used wherever possible by Mr. Cavalli to produce custom-made jewelry ranging from exquisite fancy jack-knives, His emphasis on original designs and stones has resulted in a steady clientele which includes office girls and Chicago industrialists.

"I have to sit down with a customer and often pay him or her special visits before I can reach a happy medium between their needs and wants," he said in an interview.

PRIZED PIECE

But some of his work hasn't been for regular customers. A 2900 diamond ring which won for him first prize in an international jewelry design competition in New York four years ago wound up in some burglar's collection.

Canadian stones have the smallest representation among his materials. Customers still prefer precious or semi - precious stones in their jewelry, and the few specimens of these that Canada produces are poor in quality, he says.

But there are probably many good, marketable precious stones in Canada awaiting discovery, he said.

"Today almost every girl wears

He came to Canada in 1954, heading straight for the west coast, and before opening his own shop he worked for a small jewelry manufacturer.

Most of his customers are women, but a man drops in now and then.

"A pretty woman is the easiest for whom to design jewelry," he says, "because then you have a guarantee that the article will always be well-presented.

"One of the hardest jobs is to tell a woman that the jewelry she would like doesn't really suit her."

Hungarian-Born Artist Will Represent Canada

By OLI DAUM

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Irene Dobler, a Hungarian-born artist who wrote the words and music for the song she sang at the Miss Maple Leaf of Canada contest Wednesday night, will represent Canada at the Miss World competition in London this November.

Miss Dobler, 21-year-old blonde with green eyes makes her home in Toronto. She's an artistic jack-of-all-trades, working as a freelance window dresser, model, painter, singer and dress designer.

Fourteen young women entered the Miss Maple Leaf contest in hopes of being chosen to represent Canada at the Miss World competition.

Runner - up was Huguette Demers, 21 - year - old Montreal model. Sandy Scoville, an suburn-haired jazz singer from Sudbury, placed third.

FIVE YEARS IN CANADA

Miss Dobler, who came to Canada five years ago, won a $1,000 scholarship plus a two-week holiday in Paris. Miss Demers won $300 and Miss Scoville, $200. There were nine other contestants.

Miss Dobler, a shapely 35-22-37, designed the 10 costumes she wore throughout the three - day contest here. Before she leaves for London, she will get her private pilot's license and upon her return she will have her first painting exhibition in Toronto.

Miss Scoville, 20, a secretary who moved to Toronto from Sudbury 18 months ago, took third place with a medley of jazz songs. A trim 37-25-37, she said she is an ardent blues fan with a collection of jazz records too numerous to count.

The contestants were judged on beauty, figure and talent.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lucy T. — We would feel more secure engaged.

Patrick R. — Why does everyone have to know?

Lucy T. — I am 17 and I have been going with a boy a year older for the past two years. We want to get married in three years when he is a senior at college.

The problem is whether or not to get formally engaged. My parents think we should get engaged or break up. They feel I should have some assurance that I'm not wasting my time with him. One difficulty is that he'll go quite far away to college and won't be able to come home more than twice a year.

My parents like me but they think I'm too young to "tie him down." They don't understand that he wants to be tied down. We both would feel more secure if we were engaged. But he doesn't want to go against his parents in this thing.

Patrick R. — I feel that, after all, my parents are putting me through college and I owe it to them to follow their advice.

I have sworn to Lucy that I won't date other girls while I'm away. My word is good. I really have no desire to go out with others. She is the only girl for me. I certainly don't want to break up our relationship. I don't see why we can't consider our engagement a secret.

I am a little disappointed in Lucy's not being satisfied with my word of honor. If we are to be married she should have faith in me. I trust Lucy implicitly. Does the world have to know about our limitations and plans? What difference does it make to anyone but us?

* * *

The Council: We don't think secret engagements make much sense. Publicity is the point of an engagement. It is an announcement to the world of intention to marry. If the parties are not prepared to make this announcement they should keep their feelings for one another fairly private. It means that there is a measure of uncertainty in their relationship.

Torn between his parents' pressure and Lucy's, Pat is trying to keep both of them satisfied without going through all the trouble of knowing what his own thoughts and feelings are. He should try to find out.

It is natural for a young couple dating steadily to want to feel some security in their relationship. It is also natural for them to feel at times burdened by their commitment to one another — especially if this entails social isolation for a prolonged period. There is little question that Lucy and Pat will both feel tempted by the possibility of some extra-curricular enjoyment during their long separation. Lucy is asking for firm insurance against this temptation, overlooking the fact that sometimes engagements are broken, and broken by the partner who has made the commitment.

A three-year engagement is awfully long in anyone's book. Older individuals who know their own minds are better able to sustain them, but young ones often desire them simply because they don't know their own minds and want protection against finding out. It isn't a very good basis for planning a marriage. We think it would be wiser to let their feelings stand the risk of time and further experience.

Capital Entertainment

by Mary Moore

At the Canadian Women's Press convention in Ottawa, we were entertained at so many sumptuous meals that I am hard pressed to choose which to describe.

On the last night of the convention we were entertained by the Forest Industries of the Ottawa Valley at Aylmer. We had Habitant pea soup, baked beans, beef stew with dumplings, blueberry pie with Camembert and Cheddar cheese. We were told the committee considered serving us planked beaver tail and moose's noses — detached from the moose — for it is considered a delicacy. Turtle soup was mentioned too but since you have to catch the turtles first and since there were 165 delegates the lumbermen may have found the hunt too lame for their broad sizes.

We were entertained at tea at the French Embassy but since Gladys Arnold is sending me with Madame Lacoste's permission, the recipe for the tarts and tarts served to us, you will have the details later—probably next week.

The dinner at the Country Club was a full dress affair for our Prime Minister spoke to us and issued a challenge for press women: combat the influence of Communism in the non-committed Asian countries with the media at your disposal.

The girls eagerly picked up this noble challenge, for in the ensuing two days a three-woman committee was set up to examine the problem of supplying to non-committed countries literature in English for Asian readers, and of bringing an Asian woman journalist to Canada for one year to learn our ways.

Already our past president Madeleine Leveson has donated $300 as a starter for this work and a half-dozen press-clubbers have offered this potential visitor the hospitality of their homes. As this colossal project takes shape I will keep you posted.

The dinner at which the Prime Minister spoke was hosted by the three Ottawa newspapers and was a lavish buffet with lobster, turkey, ham, beef, salmon, escalloped potatoes, potato salad, tossed salads, jellied salads, (rolls, cranberries, maple syrup cake, ice cream, with strawberries or maple syrup and other numerous minor delicacies.

We were looking forward to hearing Mr. Diefenbaker speak and to watching his devoted wife listening ever so attentively.

The girls were enchanted by the rapporte between these two and said so, much to the delight of "Mr. D."

Very soon I am going to give you the details of the preparation of Mrs. Diefenbaker's tea menu. With her permission Miss Dawn Cuggy, of the Prime Minister's staff, is sending them to me.

So you can look forward in the near future to two tea menus — from Government House and the French Embassy — as served Ottawa style.

Club Activities

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

CENTENARY — The September meeting of the Centenary Fellowship Club was held in the church hall with an attendance of 22. Bernard and Agatha May opened the meeting with the devotional period.

After the singing of a hymn, Bernard read the Scripture lesson. Agatha gave a reading, "Enduring Temptations".

The president, Keith Johnston presided over the business part of the meeting, after which Roscoe Cummings showed many interesting slides of local scenes and gatherings.

The slides were enjoyed also bounteous lunch of hamburgs, watermelon, canteloupe, and coffee served by the group in charge.

P. I. Timmins Address W.I. Family Supper

CARMEL — One of the highlights of the Carmel Women's Institute meetings this year was the "Family Supper" meeting, held in the church hall on Thursday evening.

Mr. P. I. Timmins, field secretary for the National Institute for the Blind, and Mrs. Timmins of Kingston, were supper guests.

After a short business period, and a sing-song led by Ruth Brintnell, the guest speaker, Mr. Timmins, was introduced by Mrs. Jack Clarke, program convener and told of the work that is carried out by the Institute and the help given to each blind person, especially the young children and those with failing eye sight. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the meeting.

HISTORIC CHAMBER

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ABOUT GLOVES AND BOUQUETS IN THE RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am the mother of the bride. Should the bridegroom's mother and I wear our gloves while we are receiving the guests in the receiving line?

2. Also my daughter would like to know if she should hold her bridal bouquet in her hand all during the "receiving?" And should the bridesmaids hold their bouquets? — Mother

1. Yes . . . you should both wear gloves until after all the guests have been received.

2. Customarily the bride does not hold her bouquet in her hand while she is receiving . . . she's much too busy to attempt to do this. She usually puts her bouquet in a safe place on a nearby table, so that she can quickly pick it up before she and the bridegroom begin to lead the romantic procession toward the bridal table.

However, usually the honor attendant and the bridesmaids hold their bouquets in their left hands during the receiving, because their flowers are an important part of the color-scheme of their costumes.

EXTREMELY RUDE TO SAY I'VE HEARD THAT ONE BEFORE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a person tells a story you've heard before (perhaps several times), do you think it's rude to say you've heard it before? My wife insists it's "terribly rude," but I don't think it's rude at all. — Bob

I agree completely with your wife . . . that it's "terribly rude," and mighty mean, too, to spoil the other person's delight in telling the story. I can't think it's asking too much to be polite and tactful and listen attentively to the story. This bit of self-control won't hurt anyone. And let's face it, sir: after all, you don't know . . . do you, now? . . . how often people may have been polite in listening with gracious attention to your telling a story they may have heard many times!

ANNOUNCING BABY'S BIRTH AND THEIR NEW ADDRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Have you a suggestion as to what kind of birth-announcements we could send which would also give our new address? Our baby is to arrive within the next few weeks. Three months ago we moved into our new home, and many people I have on my birth-announcement list do not know our new address. We are planning to send a considerable number of these cards, as we both have many relatives and friends who live quite nearby, some who live in various parts of this country and Canada, and also quite a few abroad. So I would really like a good-looking and dignified card for this double-announcement idea — new baby, new address. Thank you for any suggestions.

— Mother-to-be

A proper and practical suggestion for these "double-duty" cards is for you to have lithographs made (white, good-size, no panel), with Mr. and Mrs. Jones (then Brown (for example) engraved in the centre of the first page, and your new address, in smaller lettering, in the lower right corner. Or, less expensive of course, buy plain white invitation notes announcing the baby's birth, or simply have your new baby . . . and on the inside pages, write friendly little notes announcing the baby's name and the birth-date, first page, the address of our new home. We're all well and flourishing! Devoted greetings to you all, and every good wish."

Or you might write something like this: "Here's the name of our baby . . . and on the

Bata Shoe Firm Holds Sales Drive

FRANKFORD — A sales conference of the Instock Division of the Bata Shoe Company commenced at Batawa on September 21st.

Manager of the Trenton division who made the arrangements for the event is W. H. Ansley.

The visitors were welcomed to the meeting by the Canadian vice-president and managing director of the company, Dr. C. K. Hers, who reported that the volume of business being done in the Trenton area is good. He expressed the hope that this condition would continue so that employment might be maintained at peak level throughout the winter season, which is a slack one in many firms.

The head of the firm, Thomas J. Bata, has been here for sometime and has been making plans for the production scheduling for the coming months.

He has been enjoying the summer period at a cottage at Oak Lake, and, with Mrs. Bata and members of his family, left by air on Friday night from Toronto for their home in London, England.

It is from the London headquarters of the company that Mr. Bata now directs the operations of the organization that sells more shoes than any comparable company in the world. In addition it has an extensive engineering division with substantial contracts throughout the world.

While here, Mr. Bata reviewed the local operations and the business being done by the company in its outlets throughout Canada. He was reported more than satisfied with the results of this survey and regards the Canadian company as one of the major aspects of the overall operations.

U.S. Air Force Scraps Plans To Build Interceptor Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force Wednesday scrapped plans to build a new super-interceptor plane, the F-108. It was a major step toward the day when guided missiles instead of manned aircraft will provide the country's air defence.

Cancellation of a contract with North American Aviation Incorporated for development of the F-108 leaves in production only two other U.S. jet fighters, the F-106 and F-101B.

The F-108 was designed to fly 1,800 miles out in half an hour to intercept enemy bombers. It was to fly at three times the speed of sound, to climb more than 60,000 feet high and carry target - seeking missiles with atomic warheads.

NOT TOTAL LOSS

However, the air force said the F-108 program won't be a total loss. Another North American contract, for the B70 long-range high-speed bomber — using the same engines and many F-108 parts—is being continued.

Various reasons, announced and apparent, were behind the cancellation of the F-108 project, among them:

1. High cost. Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy said last June, when the fate of the interceptor first became in doubt, that even a few squadrons of F-108s (about 25 planes to the squadron) would cost between $3,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000. About $150,000,000 has been invested in the F-108 program, but some of that investment can be applied to the B-70 bomber project.

2. Requirements for other weapons systems. The ballistic missile and anti-aircraft missile systems are making heavy demands on the air force budget.

OTHER NEEDS

Wednesday's announcement also noted requirements for "combat readiness and improved early warning." The former refers to the airborne alert system for the long-range bombers of the Strategic Air Command. The latter refers to such things as the ballistic missile early warning system.

The air force Bomarc missile and, to a lesser degree, the army's Nike - Hercules anti-aircraft weapon are moving into the field long dominated by manned fighter planes.

NORTHERN SEAPORT — Modern wheat elevators dominate the skyline at Churchill, Man., the seaport on Hudson Bay which hopes to become the first major industrial centre for the Canadian North. The town's harbor and docks are the best on Canada's northern shoreline and major improvements are planned. Two white whales lie on the shore in the foreground. (CP Photo).

Churchill Aiming to Become First Major Industrial Centre of Canadian North

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—This seaport on the west shore of Hudson Bay aims to become the first major industrial centre of the Canadian North.

There are some solid factors in favor of the dream of the town fathers of the community 610 miles north of Winnipeg, which has a population of 3,000 plus some 2,000 Canadian army personnel at nearby Fort Churchill.

Churchill's harbor and docks for instance are easily the best on Canada's northern shorelins, and they're in for major improvements. It has the best airport facilities north of Winnipeg and Edmonton, but these are still under military operation.

And it is the "silly harbor on the mainland's north shore which has a railway connection to Canada's transcontinental lines.

BUSY SUPPORTERS

Civic authorities tell visitors that Churchill is bound to become the industrial centre of the North, if it isn't that already. They are backed by a tireless organization of Manitoba and Saskatchewan businessmen, the Hudson Bay Route Association whose sole purpose is promotion of Churchill as a transportation hub.

Transport Minister Hees, here recently to inspect harbor and grain elevator facilities, was caught up by the enthusiasm.

"I'm convinced expansion of harbor facilities here is necessary", he told reporters after a swing through docks and elevators. He left two hours behind schedule for the next stop of his inspection tour of the North because "we should see everything here."

He said he expects a report on proposed port expansion from the national harbors board by late fall.

He also said that his department plans shortly to develop a civil aviation area at the airport, located at Fort Churchill, opening Churchill is commerical air transportation.

LARGE DOCK

The present dock is 1,835 feet long and can accommodate three ocean-going ships and two coastal vessels. Because of the short three - month shipping season, from mid-July to mid - October, dock facilities must be used to the maximum. To eliminate delays, the dock must be extended.

The harbors board is expected to recommend that it be lengthened 600 feet to provide a fourth grain-loading berth and a lay-up berth for ships not ready to sail.

The harbor turning basin would be widened to 800 feet from its present 610 to allow use by bigger ships.

The whole job would cost some $4,000,000 and take three years to complete.

Churchill from the air looks like an industrial town. It blankets a spit of land that reaches into Hudson Bay at the mouth of the Churchill River.

Trees are sparse. The Barrens begin just about here. In summer its unpaved streets are dusty.

HARBOR WHALES

Smoke rises from a shoreside whaling station where 800 of the 12 - foot - long white mammals turned right in Churchill harbor are caught each year. Native fishermen get $1 a foot for catching them. Each whale produces 30 gallons of oil, used in candles, margarine and soap, and a few ounces of ambergris, used in perfume.

Inshore two miles is Fort Churchill, with its fields of barracks and long airstrips. Upcoast 12 miles is the cold-weather test site for United States Air Force rockets.

Most imposing structure is the 200-foot-high grain elevator near the docks which can hold 3,000,000 bushels, and which poured 19,700,000 bushels into ships sailing last year. A record 23,000,000 bushels is expected to be counted for 1959.

But Churchill's best immediate prospect for new industry may be in mineral processing. Nickel concentrate from North Rankin, 600 miles upcoast, now is carried down the Hudson Bay railroad and transferred to Fort Saskatchewan near Edmonton for smelting. The town is looking to the day when such potential industry will no longer bypass it.

Issues Between Unions Will Be Arbitrated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AFL-CIO convention Wednesday approved its leaders' plan to end internal strife by submitting disputes between unions to arbitration.

The convention also:

Elected George Meany to a third straight two-year term as president of the 12,500,000-member federation.

Re-elected William Schnitzler as secretary-treasurer, and 27 vice-presidents — all without opposition.

And refused to set a six-month deadline for two railway unions to remove provisions of their constitutions limiting membership to white people.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the Auto Workers Union, said the arbitration plan will make all unions grow and put labor on the offensive against common foes.

Details of the arbitration plan remain to be worked out and approved at a special AFL-CIO convention.

The International Typographical Union refused to vote for the plan because of traditional ITU opposition to arbitration.

Meany said that in the last 20 years the number of unions barring Negro members has dwindled from more than 20 to only three. He said they are the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Airline Pilots Association.

Signs Khrushchev's Slips Of Temper Were Deliberate

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Premier Khrushchev's special brand of diplomacy — saying in public what no other world leader would even consider saying — has rarely been used as adroitly by the Russian leader as during his U.S. visit.

He has used the technique for years and, by throwing out political bombshells at cocktail parties and other informal meetings, has succeeded in keeping the Western world wondering what comes next.

But, by making a great show of temper in the face of what he considers improper questions during his present tour, he has forced the U.S. government for the moment into the position of pretending that many of the specific points of Western opposition and criticism at communism are better left alone and ignored.

RESTRAIN QUESTIONS

By threatening to cut short his tour and return to the Kremlin, Khrushchev manoeuvred the state department and the White House into calling on people meeting the Russian premier to restrain their overzealous questioners.

Agitated by the thought that a Khrushchev walkout in a huff might erase any hope of a fruitful meeting this weekend with President Eisenhower, the White House branded as "discourteous" questions about such things as Hungary, censorship, Communist expansion and domination of the satellite countries.

These and other points of East-West tension undoubtedly will be raised and raised strongly by Eisenhower during his private weekend meeting with Khrushchev. But the government's call for politeness meanwhile comes as a distinct switch in a country where little in politics is private and nothing sacred.

There are signs that Khrushchev's slips of temper were deliberate. He has proved many times that he is as adept as the next politician when he wants to be at turning aside or slipping past awkward questions.

He could easily have done so on each of the occasions during his trip when he instead replied with a show of temper.

WELL-TIMED ACTING?

Some observers following him have suggested that all his outbursts are well-timed pieces of acting designed to get headlines throughout the world—as they have indeed done.

It could be a way of displaying him to the rest of the world as a man wanting peace and seeking friendship, but being rebuffed by hostile Americans who don't know how to act properly.

Although Khrushchev has been subjected to some tough heckling and loaded questioning by his audiences, it is doubtful if he has been given a tougher time than Prime Minister Macmillan and Vice-President Nixon during their visits to Russia.

Khrushchev himself delivered a strong attack on the West while Macmillan was in Russia, and then at the last minute cancelled a trip he was supposed to take with Macmillan — hardly polite treatment of a guest.

Nixon was met with a steady barrage of questions from hecklers about U.S. foreign and military policies.

But both these Western politicians at least managed to keep a smile on their faces. And neither threatened to fly home.

Model School For Nurses Will Be Built

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Wednesday a $1,000,000 model school for nurses' training will be built in Toronto by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

The school will pioneer a two-year course for registered nurses and start a complete revamping of such training in Ontario, he said.

The two-year course "will remove a great deal of what might be termed repetition which acts as a detriment in obtaining recruits," Mr. Frost said. "This will reduce the cost of nurse training both from a student and community standpoint."

U.S. Steel Corp. Head Stabbed In Abdomen

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Munford, president of the strikebound United States Steel Corporation, is in Cape Cod Hospital with a knife wound in the abdomen.

He was taken to the hospital Wednesday in serious condition, but by this morning was reported responding satisfactorily to surgery and treatment.

The circumstances of the stabbing remained a mystery pending sufficient improvement in his condition to permit questioning.

District Attorney Edmund Dinis said his aides hoped to question the 59 - year - old steel executive some time today.

Dinis refused to answer reporters' questions about Munford's injury other than it was inflicted with a kitchen knife.

Authorities impounded a five-inch knife they found in the Welsh Munford summer home, and Dinis ordered an investigation to determine if the wound was "self-inflicted or otherwise."

Dr. Robert B. O'Connor, the state's medical director, called for an ambulance Wednesday morning. A moment later, Dr. Robert E. Harned of Chatham, Mass., placed a similar call from another part of that town.

Both O'Connor and Harned said they have been treating Munford for an undisclosed ailment for two weeks.

First word that Munford had been stabbed came nine hours after he was admitted to the hospital.

Munford has been president of U.S. Steel since last May 5. At the same time he was named a director and chairman of the executive committee.

He began his steel career as an open-hearth worker in 1923.

May Cut Defence Spending By $65,000,000 Despite New Jet Plane for Air Force

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department likely will be able to reduce defence spending again in the next fiscal year despite purchase of a new jet plane for the RCAF air division in Europe, officials estimated Wednesday.

The cut may amount to roughly $65,000,000. In the current fiscal year the reduction was about $72,000,000—to $1,895,000,000 from a 1958-59 defence budget of $1,967,000,000. The next fiscal year starts April 1, 1960.

To the consternation of the armed forces, the reduction next year likely will be made, as it was this year, through a smaller procurement program for weapons and equipment.

However, this is mainly because some major equipment programs now are coming to an end.

CANCEL ORDERS

The Arrow jet interceptor program was cancelled this year, and production of the CF-100 and CF-104 jet trainer, and the CC-100 medium transport have ended.

Nearly at an end are production of the navy's Tracker antisubmarine plane, the RCAF's Argus "maritime reconnaissance plane and the CC-106 long-range transport.

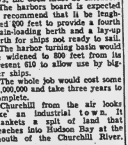
New planes on order are the American Lockheed Starfighter for the RCAF air division in Europe and the American Grumman Albatross for RCAF search and rescue. The former will cost about $57,000,000 in the next fiscal year—by 1964 it will have cost some $420,000,000—and the latter some $14,000,000.

This leaves expenditures on the anti-aircraft missile system to be built in Canada at a total cost of $375,000,000 of which Canada's share will be $125,000,000; the U.S. share is the remainder.

Altogether, spending on these major equipment programs this will be reduced roughly to $137,000,000 from $204,000,000. Outlays for construction, shipbuilding and ammunition are expected to be about the same next year.

New Rebellion By 50,000 Seen in Tibet

DARJEELING, India (AP)—Tibetan sources Wednesday said 50,000 guerrillas are fighting Communist China in a new surge of rebellion in east, north and west Tibet.



This report, unconfirmed in other quarters, came from supporters of the exiled Dalai Lama, who has appealed for UN help. He charges that China is trying to exterminate his people.

Accounts reaching this Indian border town say Chinese atrocities have become so widespread that Tibetans feel their only choice is death in battle or in concentration camps.

Tibetan raiders recently attacked a large Chinese airfield at Dam Shung and damaged seven planes, Tibetan informants said. Dam Shung is about 50 miles northwest of Lhasa, the capital.

The guerrilla operations were reported to have led the Chinese high command to send in special troop detachments trained in mountain warfare.

Behind The Iron Curtain

ve and instructions to follow u bus to the border. There the cus ficial officials appeared more in terested in the serial number of my engine than they did in us. We also filled out a rather old-fashioned customs declaration card, which asked us, among oth er things, whether we were taking out any opium or machine guns. I assured the rather friendly of ficial that I only had the odd box of rifles, nothing to worry about. He laughed a bit, and waved us on.

But we were not out yet. The customs house was about a mile from the border. First we passed by a high wall-over, then we were picked up by a motorcyclist who conducted us to the border. On both sides of the road were high board fences — so that we could not see under or over them. At the border itself there was a guard with fixed bayonet. Up went the barrier and we were over. What did we find on the Finnish side? It was quite a paradox, one border guard with a revolver!

WARMLY WELCOMED

To tell the truth, we were glad to be out. Not that we were afraid in Russia of anything happening but just that we were rather tired of Communist propa ganda, and of their rather heavy way of life. Added to that the Finnish customs official, a very handsome and husky fellow, had just come back from a stay in Canada, and welcomed us with open arms. The neat and tidy houses and farms which we saw in Finland, the stores with something to buy of good quality and reasonable prices, and the well-equipped hotel room which we got in Kotka — our first stop — all this made us feel almost as if we were in some wonder land after the darkness of Russia.

But now some last impressions of Russia. The last Saturday we were in Leningrad we went around to the various stores, including the large department store (not large when compared to Eaton's or Simpson's). We didn't spend much, but some of the prices will interest you. I have changed them into dollars at the official rate at 4 roubles to the dollar. This is not a good comparison, but it is hard to decide just what basis to go on, since the Russian currency is obviously overvalued. Here it is anyway: Butter $3.00 a lb.; milk $1.10 a quart; chocolate bars $1.50; lemons, a piece, 80c; bananas, 1 lb. $1.30; tea $11.25 a lb.; coffee $1.00; steak $1.00 a lb.; hamburg $1.00 a lb.; nylons $8-$8 a pair; one meter average material (39 inches) $25; ready-made dress $10-$18; raincoat $80; men's winter overcoat $350 and suit $250. A car about the size of Chevrolet or Ford costs $10,000.

OVERVALUED CURRENCY

I could go on with more prices, but even if you take into consideration the overvalued currency, and the fact that the general wages in Russia are not as high as in Canada, it will give you some idea what the average Russian is up against. For the privileged few, i.e. government officials, professors, technicians, engineers, miners, steel workers, and a few others, wages are higher than ours, and so these groups of people live quite comfortably. But they are in the minority. The Russians will have to pay much more attention to consumer goods than they have in the past, if the standard is to be raised to any great extent.

Another impression which remains with me is that behind all the glory and glitter of seven year plans, quotas, etc., there is a darker side. I will give you an example. We heard a great deal about how much housing is being built for the Russians, but nowhere do you read how many apartment houses fall apart. That is exactly what some of them do, after a very few years. The methods of construction often leave a great deal to be desired. Pieces of wood are used where only bricks should be employed. Mortar is often of poor quality. In order to meet quotas, buildings are literally thrown up with the result that after a very short time, cracks appear in the walls, holes in the partition, and doors are hung at an angle. Steps are often of uneven heights and the plumbing often is inadequate. But once a building goes up, it is part of a quota which has been achieved. It always amazes me how the Russians can do such an excellent job at some things and such a horrible job at others.

PEOPLE, NOT BLIND

All this brings me around to a story which a Russian himself told me last week which indicates among other things that all the people are not blind to the imperfections of the regime.

The story concerns a school inspector who comes around to test the students on Communism. His first question is "What is the greatest state in the world?" Of course all hands go up and the student chosen replies, "The Soviet Union with its sputnik, seven-year plan, people's republic and social welfare programs."

"Good," says the inspector, "and what is the worst state in the world?"

Up go the hands again, and a student replies, "The United States, with its Negro problem, Wall Street capitalists, economic depressions, slum areas and exploitation of the working classes."

"Excellent," says the inspector. "And what is the goal of our next seven-year plan?"

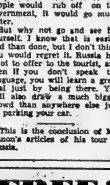
Again every hand goes up, and a student replies, "To catch up with the United States."

We heard several others which were also quite good, but I think one is sufficient to give you some idea of the humour of the Russian people.

EAGER FOR NEWS

One thing of which I am sure is that a good proportion of the people would like to know much more about us, and would probably prefer to hear it from us rather than from their own government. Just look at the interest shown in the American exhibition in Moscow. Since it is much harder for the Russian people to come to us than it is for us to go to them, I think that as many people as possible should go to Russia and let the people there see for themselves what we are like. If you can speak Russian so much the better. As one Russian said to me, "I'm glad to see that Americans are quite human after all, and not as bad as they are sometimes made out to be."

I think the only solution lies in us getting to know each other by seeing as much as we can of each other. Trade is here to stay, whether we like it or not, and all our wishful thinking will not change their type of government one bit. We are however much more inclined to trust them than they are us, and their mistrust of us must be broken down somehow. It will take above all, a great deal of patience. As I have said before, if the friendliness of the people would rub off on the government, it would go much faster.



But why not go and see for yourself. I know that is easier said than done, but I don't think you would regret it. Russia has a lot to offer to the tourist, and even if you don't speak the language, you will learn a great deal just by being there. You will also drink a much bigger crowd than anywhere else just by parking your car.

This is the conclusion of Mr. Canon's articles of his tour to Russia.

Argonauts Swap 2 Players For BC Lions' Quarterback

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Al Dorow worked out with Toronto Argonauts Wednesday night a few hours after the Big Four football club priced him loose from a British Columbia Lions' contract.

Argos, desperate for an efficient field general, had to promise the Western Interprovincial Football Union Lions two players who are as yet unnamed.

The deal, which Argo coach Steve Owen hopes will land him in the Big Four playoffs, was made after a long-distance hassle between Lew Hayman, managing director of Argos, and Herb Capozzi, general manager for Lions.

Capozzi had held out against letting Dorow come east on a straight waiver basis. First he wanted end Ron Stover but Hayman wouldn't even think about it. Finally Capozzi named several players and left it up to Hayman to decide which one it would be. In addition, B.C. gets the negotiation rights now held by Argos on an import B.C. wants to look at.

Hayman will decide which player to send west after waiving Capozzi's nominees to make out in Argos' game here Saturday against Montreal Alouettes.

Dorow, 28, is unlikely to see action in that game as he has to learn the Argo plays. He performed with Washington - Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League then with Saskatchewan Roughriders and B.C. in the WIFU.

This season Dorow lost the first-string quarter job to Randy Duncan, all-American from Iowa.

Says Carbo Main Source Of Boxing Evil

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing promoter Jackie Leonard says the government is getting at the main source of evil in prizefighting by indicting Frankie Carbo.

Carbo is one of five men charged with trying to muscle in on the earnings of world welterweight champion Don Jordan.

"It's a tough proposition to clean up the 'boxing game,'" Leonard told a reporter, "for 30 or 25 years you could hardly put on a championship fight without 'taking care' of Carbo first."

Leonard said he was assaulted a month ago by a hoodlum who called him a "stool pigeon." Leonard is one of the principal witnesses against Carbo. Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Chicago attorney Truman Gibson and Los Angeles gambling figures Joe Sica and Louis Dragna.

Leonard said the man who attacked him is a friend of Sica and Dragna. He did not identify him.

Although Leonard insists he was beaten last June by two men in his yard, Los Angeles police believe he blacked out and hurt himself in a fall.

Larks Try Out New Imports

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes will try out two new imports against Toronto Argonauts this Saturday.

One is Gilbert Ane, a big lineman who'll be the second Hawaiian to play Canadian football. The first was Tom Hugo, longtime all-star centre for the Alouettes.

Ane, although he weighs 230 pounds, is described as a fast-moving guard and a real find. He was cut recently by Chicago Bears of the National Football League and came up to take a fling at the Big Four.

Montreal will also use Georges Dixon at halfback. Dixon was recently cut by Green Bay Packers.

Hal Patterson will be out for at least two more weeks with a knee injury. Hugo, sidelined recently by injuries, is expected to be ready for action.

'Up front is where I need protection' Says Dick Shatto.

The versatile Argonaut backfielder was talking about winter protection for his car. "Prestone" brand is the only anti-freeze that gives me complete protection up front in the cooling system of my car. Sure it protects against frost, foaming and clogging—but that's not all—not by a long shot, that's the Big Four star. "Prestone" Anti-Freeze with magnetic film stops rust and corrosion, too.

Dick has been well drilled in the signals to call when he asks for anti-freeze. Only with "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze does he get magnetic film which coats every rubber and metal surface in a car's cooling system. That's why he insists on "Prestone" Anti-Freeze. You do the same—and make sure that's what you get by looking for the distinctive Green Tag which will be attached to your radiator.

Solly Just One Short Of Fine Record

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Solly Hemus, last one shy of the record for the number of ejections from ball games in one season, was fined $150 Wednesday for his eighth such run-in with the umpires.

Warren Giles, the National League boss, notified the fiery little manager of the St. Louis Cardinals the fine was for his remarks to umpire Al Barlick Tuesday night. Giles also cited Hemus' "failure to leave the vicinity of your club's bench after being ejected."

Barlick thumbed out Hemus in the first inning against Los Angeles Tuesday night when he heatedly disagreed with a called fourth ball to Duke Snider.

The unofficial record of nine ejections is held by Leo Durocher.

District Teams Reject Int. A Favor Junior C

PORT HOPE (CP) — Substantial local interest in formation of a junior C hockey league in the central - lakeshore area was shown at a meeting of area hockey enthusiasts here Wednesday night, but they were almost unanimous in rejecting a suggested Intermediate A league.

Port Hope and Napanee were the only towns whose representatives showed any interest in intermediate hockey.

The meeting was called by the Eastern Ontario intermediate A hockey group and was presided over by Matt Leyden of Oshawa. Object of the meeting was to get both intermediate A and junior C leagues started for the season.

Hockey supporters from Orono, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Napanee and Port Hope were present, but Lindsay, Minden, Lakefield and Bobcaygeon did not respond to their invitations.

ENTRY POSSIBLE

Port Hope representatives indicated there was a possibility that a Lakefield-Port Hope combine might enter an intermediate A league if one were formed; and Napanee showed considerable enthusiasm provided a league was available.

All representatives said the difficulty of getting players and the costs and inconvenience of travelling long distances to games were the most serious problems involved in intermediate hockey.

Bob Watt of Bowmanville said Bowmanville wanted a geographically compact league and expected to find it in the junior C class. He criticized the OHA for not forcing local groups into compact organizations.

A suggestion that a junior C league be formed with Port Hope, Cobourg, Bowmanville and Brooklin met with support, and it was suggested that the Oshawa juvenile A team might play in it as well.

Mr. Leyden said formation of an intermediate A league would be left in abeyance but expressed the hope one could still be formed for the 1959-60 season.

New Shows Pallid Carbon Copies of Series Last Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Autumn has arrived in television's entertainment world, but television's fall-winter season is still wide open. So far the parade of shows, old or new, hasn't given much to cheer about.

The roll call to date includes 20 shows from last year that resumed with "season premiere," and 17 newcomers to the home screen.

Most of the new entries have been pallid carbon copies of things that were popular last year. The westernl, for example, are so much like identical twins that this reviewer can't tell one cowpoke or one story line from another. All the detective-adventure shows seem to follow a gory path of sadistic violence.

In fact, the new season has been so dreary that a smooth, unpretentious half-hour dramatic show starring June Allyson seems like a tour-de-force, and a pleasant evening of Norman Rockwell music like a love letter from NBC.

And there's more—much more—of the same to come.

Martin Stone, who is producing a world series specials for NBC next Tuesday night, is a worried man. Not only is his competition, ABC's Bing Crosby special, with Frank Sinatra and a raft of other stars, but now he's not even sure his program will turn up, as planned, on the eve of the series. What with the National League race so close, a tie could push the series starting date back a few days.

George Gobel's regular aide, will include his old colleague John Scott Trotter as musical director and Harry von Zell, late of the Burns and Allen show where he doubled as straight man and commercials splieler, Gobel's show will alternate with Jack Benny Sunday nights at 10 starting Oct. 11.

Recommended tonight: Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz show, CBS, 9-30 EDT—season premiere, in a new time spot, for old favorites — this one with the I Love Lucy regulars and Milton Berle, Von Dutch and Ed Sullivan, NBC, 10—Groucho's back with an old game and new results for the contestants.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A pleasant reed-mirred throwback to the good old senior "B" days and the Belleville Mcnues is Tony Parisi. Tony is now in the city establishing a business enterprise with a partner or two, but has not given up his first sports love, hockey.

TONY PARISI

Tony has put on a pound or so (removable), here and there, but it is nothing to be worried about. After all what do you expect of a guy after a season or two in sunny Italia where the zigzeras and zigzeritas are all culinary experts, and give you ravioli and spaghetti as a couple of pre-dinner appetizers.

Results during his overseas junket the past three or four years this peak-stopping Maroc Polo has seen more countries than a travel agent's brochure case.

Besides during his overseas junket the past three or four years this peak-stopping Marco Polo has seen more countries than a travel agent's brochure case.

Tony spent two seasons with Italian teams, the Milano and the Autenzo squads. You didn't have to join the Italian army to do the work. He only had to grab yourself a hockey stick, learn the game, earn a spot on a national club and you were in.

"They had no organized leagues in Italy in those years," said the pleasant-faced, 26-year-old Italo-Canadian. "But they picked up exhibitions games all over Europe and the British Isles and we were on our way."

With those short European hops, it was nothing for Tony's team to play two games in two countries in two days. He had two extensive tours of Czechoslovakia, visiting Bratislava, Prague, Brno, Ostrava, Pisen and other smaller centres where hockey was played.

It was in Pisen that Tony and his Italian puck mates visited the world-famous Pilsener brewery, with its massive miles of refrigeration pipes system and a brew that would make a suds-stepping gourmet go green with envy.

The original Pilsener as brewed in Czechslovakia, so Karl the interpreter assigned to the press party during our world tournament junket proudly stated, is the best in the world, and would make John Bull's jolly old ale taste like cabbage water.

"In fact," said Karl in his broken English, "you take one part silvervile and three parts Pisner and you have what you call, carpenter cocktail."

He was right. After the Czech hockey team defeated the United States in the world tourney he must have taken a couple of those brumildes. He was nailed to the floor.

Tony played on that beautiful open-air rink—cops—arena in Zurich, Switzerland, where the Maes played their final exhibition game to the accompaniment of tinkling music-boxes, yodels and the smiles of pretty Swiss misses.

He played in Austria where bankrupt baronesses and countesses stroll the plats, and are not averse to taking an aperitif with a well-dressed Canadian. He toiled in Sweden where a "flicka's" smile is free and plentiful and also in Finland, the home of snowballs with hard centres for guys like Johnny McLellan.

He has heard guttural German "hochs" from rinkside in the former fatherland of Fritz and during his two-year sojourn with the Brighton Tigers travelled the length and breadth of the British Isles playing for and against expatriate Canadians.

Now he is back in Canada—and has established himself in business with a couple of partners. With Tony are Sam LaRosa and Nick Yeakis, two former buddies from Niagara Falls. The trio has a blacktop driveway business, a paving concern and recently opened a branch in Belleville.

"Things look pretty good at the moment." Tony said. "We have got away to a good start and hope to improve as time goes by." The Belleville Blacktop Driveway Company is located at 264 Dundas St. East.

As was said he hasn't given up hockey. He expects to play this season and at present is considering an "offer from Toledo.

Married? Not yet. There's plenty of time for that says Tony. "Besides," he added, "I haven't made that first million yet."

Tony played with the Belleville Maroos in the 1954-55 season before "Red" Doran started to expand his waistline; the Jones boys, Davy and Peter, had not taken up golf; the Duncan twins were putting goals unconsciously; Hub Macy was playing left-handed sneaker; Jake Wade and Arnie Dugan were reunited; Ted DeGray, "Nobbet" Day and Bob Wilson had learned to shave, and Keith MacDonald and Vern Gayer were front-line buddies.

BIG MIXUP

If you like tossed salads (live) don't forget the meatball special at Memorial Arena tomorrow night when Hardboiled Haggerty and Don Jonathan mix it up with Whipper Billy Watson and Sam Steamboat. They will be garnished with Bunny Dunlop and Pat Flanagan. All six will be tossed in the bowl—then the fun starts. Rafter seats are still available.

Braves, Dodgers Neck-And-Neck In Home Stretch

'Bums' Shut Out Cardinals As Pirates Edge Milwaukee; Giants Cling to Dim Spark

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers have crashed through again for a first place tie in the National League pennant scramble, and their ace in the race is Roger Craig, a once forgotten, ruddy-faced righthander.

It was Craig, pulled back from the minors in mid-June, who got the Dodgers started on their jump to the top by beating San Francisco 4-1 in the opener of that day - night doubleheader sweep over the Giants last Saturday.

Wednesday night he pushed them back into a tie with Milwaukee, blanking St. Louis on five hits for a 3-0 victory after the Braves had stumbled for a 5-4 loss at Pittsburgh.

That Milwaukee loss, ending the Braves' streak at four games, also fanned a spark of life into third place Giants, who trail by two games after a 9-4 loss in 10 innings to the Chicago Cubs—their fifth straight setback.

THREE GAMES LEFT

Each of the contenders has three games remaining. The Braves, however, play at home, meeting last-place Philadelphia Friday night, Saturday and Sunday. The Dodgers finish at Chicago against the clubbing Cubs while the Giants, more dead than alive, finish at St. Louis. They all get a day off today.

The Dodgers, winning five of their last six, have put away all of their last five games, and Craig, leading the NL with a 2.12 earned run average, is 4-0 in that spurt.

Craig, who made his first trip to the majors in mid-1955 and perked up Dodger pitching through a pennant and world championship, nailed his fourth shutout and his 10th victory in 15 decisions since his recall three months ago.

The Dodgers scored in the first inning against Bob Miller (4-3) on Charlie Neal's double and a two-out single by Duke Snider. But the right-handed rookie then blanked them on two singles until the eighth.

DISASTER DOUBLES

Neal opened the eighth with a single. After two walks loaded the bases, Don Demeter cracked a two-run single.

The Braves, handed only their fourth defeat in 17 games, were tumbled after Ed Mathews' 44th home run, with a man on, had bounced them in a 4-all tie in the eighth. The Pirates then beat reliever Joey Jay (6-11) on consecutive singles by Bill Virdon, pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson and Bob Skinner in their eighth.

Ron Kline (11-13) was the winner—for a 2-15 career record against the Braves. Elroy Face got away the save in the ninth.

GIANTS KILLED TWICE

The Giants were beaten by Cal Neeman's home run, his third, with two on in the 10th. Reliever Ed Fisher (3-6) seventh Giant pitcher, was the loser. Don Elston (10-8) won it in relief.

The Cubs walloped four of the seven home runs in the game, with Ernie Banks matching Orlando Cepeda's two-run, first-inning homer. It was Banks' 44th, tying Mathews for the major league lead, and came off John Buzhardt, who, in relief, was the fourth loser.

The only other games in the majors were in the American League, where the pennant-winning White Sox were idle. New York beat Washington 5-4, Kansas City defeated Detroit 7-6 and Boston topped Baltimore 4-0 on Jerry Casale's nine-hitter.

Lopez Speaking

Says Chisox in Fine Shape, Wynn Is Sure Bet to Start

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Al Lopez of Chicago White Sox is mum on his world series pitching plans but there probably isn't a betting man who would wager against the choice of Early Wynn as the starter in the opener.

Lopez, who spelt his first day after winning the American League pennant scouting San Francisco against Chicago Cubs, said he feels his club "has a great chance in the world series."

His pitching rotation for the three-game, season-ending series at Detroit is all set, Billy Pierce will pitch the first game, Dick Donovan the second and Wynn and Bob Shaw will split Sunday's assignment. Star relievers Gerry Staley and Turk Lown and young Barry Latman are expected to see activity to keep in sharp.

ALL PLAYERS READY

One thing Lopez isn't worried about is his team's physical condition.

Centre fielder Jim Landis, who had a leg injury, returned to action against Cleveland Tuesday.

"We'll be ready for the first series," said Lopez, "and we're going to use the kind of ball that helped us win the pennant. We'll be running if we get the opportunity."

Lopez will not be with the team at Detroit. He'll be scouting either Los Angeles at Chicago or Milwaukee Braves who finish at home against Philadelphia.

Tony Cucchecllo will manage the team and has authority to play every game to the hilt since Detroit is involved in a three-way fight for third place with New York and Baltimore.

Gordon Back in Big Teepee, Rehired as Chief by Lane After Peace Pipe Palaver

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Gordon, the old and new field manager of the Cleveland Indians; his boss, Frank Lane, and practically all the team's front here agreed today: "Peace—it's wonderful."

Differences between Gordon and the general manager were big enough six days ago to cause Joe to announce formally he wouldn't work for Lane another year.

Then came a long talk Wednesday between the two. The differences were reconciled.

And now Gordon has signed to work another two years as Cleveland's field pilot and at a salary unofficially reported to include a $10,000-a-year raise to $40,000.

The two-year term was Lane's idea, Gordon said, adding: "He must think I'm a better manager than he sometimes says I am."

THE BEST MAN

Lane told startled newsmen: "After summing everything up, I decided that the best man to succeed Joe Gordon was Joe Gordon."

He added:

"The thing snowballed out of proportion. Joe's the gambling type of manager and I'm a percentage man. I'd naturally we didn't think alike."

"I expressed my opinion and it sort of trickled into the press box and got in the papers. I felt I had a right to express my opinion and I still do.

"Then I heard that Joe withdrew himself from consideration for next season, and I was shocked," continued Lane. "I had never dismissed him as a possibility for 1960.

TALKED TO OTHERS

"I thought perhaps Joe had made a commitment elsewhere, so I talked with other people, including Leo Durocher. I just couldn't sit there with egg on my face."

Gordon called to an aside, "Bring in Leo now." But it was Gordon who came in, the same man who had been relieved Tuesday night after the Indians were eliminated mathematically from the pennant race.

"We were just two ballheads in a pennant race," Gordon told the reporters.

TO EVICT SOCCER

TORONTO (CP) — Board of control Wednesday told a delegation of homeowners that Fred Hamilton Park, home of the National Soccer League, would be expropriated before the next soccer season starts. Stone owners demanded expropriation following a recent soccer-fan riot.

Clair Won't Change Lineup

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Frank Clair is getting his first real close look at four new imports in the Ottawa Rough Riders camp, but said Wednesday he plans no changes in the lineup for Saturday's game here against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The lineup will be the same that scored impressive victories by lop-sided scores over Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes after dropping five straight games, one of them a 34-10 drubbing in Hamilton.

The new imports are quarterback Babe Parilli, veteran cut by Green Bay Packers last week, import halves Joe Kelly from Los Angeles Rams and Joe Driscoll from Chicago Cardinals, and tackle-defensive end Tom Redmond from the Cardinals.

Clair said "Parilli appears to move pretty well with the ball. Passes well too.

"I want to take a good look at him, though, before thinking of moving him into action."

Riders, meanwhile, released import tackle Joe Zmerich.

Ottawa is expected to be without defensive end Lou Rhone, out with a twisted knee. But injured corner-linebacker Bill Sowalski and end Bobby Simpson are expected to play.

ulcerative duty description."

But some signs were favorable. "A baby is born," one read. And another proclaimed: "We salute the peace efforts of President Eisenhower — welcome Khrushchev."

Khrushchev stood for a moment facing the crowd. He waved his hat, and then went into hiding.

Wednesday was another rough and worrying day on the trip that sometimes seems as if it were designed to wear down the premier's resistance — or at least the resistance of the reporters and photographers tagging after him.

VISIT TO IOWA

Khrushchev finally got a chance to see Iowa's rich farm lands, its pigs, its cows, its corn, its towering blue sky, its sunshine and the huge, complex machinery that enables farmers to harvest such bountiful crops efficiently.

Most of his time was spent in Coon Rapids, but he also dropped around for a brief stop at Iowa State University in Ames.

There he was presented with a plastic hog as a souvenir.

And he agreed smilingly when an escort said: "The more I see of Soviet humans the better I like the pigs."

Pretty co-eds waved at him, and the premier kept waving back.

Khrushchev, an atheist who mentions religion occasionally, crammed up his Iowa visit by saying through his interpreter: "God has helped you a lot." And then he added:

"You must not think God is helping only you. He's helping us too . . . we are developing quicker and therefore God is on our side. He helps the intelligent."

ARGUES AMIABLY

At the Roswell Garst farm at Coon Rapids, Khrushchev argued amiably with his host, farmer Garst, about corn-growing techniques, and even criticized one variety Garst, allowing that if he didn't "you might have his ears up too high in the air."

He was pursued throughout the day by hordes of reporters and photographers, and jokingly tried to shoo them away by threatening in Russian to "turn the bulls loose" on them.

He passed away an enormous farm-style lowa lunch, under a huge, brown tent beside the swimming pool of the Garst farmhouse.

SLAVERY COMMENT

Smiling broadly, Khrushchev hoisted off a series of pithy comments on communism and capitalism. One of these was directed to the 1960-2000 Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson, also a luncheon guest at the Garst farm. Said the translator:

"Now I've seen how the slaves of capitalism live. They live well. So do the slaves of communism. I think they can live in peace together."

Khrushchev has been annoyed in the past by the suggestion that people in Communist nations are enslaved.

Stevenson commented that Khrushchev likely would leave the U.S. with "a more profound conviction of America's hunger for peace."

to have been damaged previously.

The United Grain Growers board of directors was on a train at the time of the collapse, headed here for a dinner today honoring employees with 25 years' service. A company spokesman said it's doubtful the dinner will be held now.

NO EXPLOSION

First reports which said an explosion had occurred were denied by fire department officials.

Three explosions have occurred at lakeside elevators since 1943. Twenty-three persons were killed and about the same number injured on May 3, 1945, in a morning explosion at Saskatchewan pool No. 3.

At 8:30 a.m. 1952, blast killed six at the same terminal, two of them crushed by falling debris while they stood outside the elevator.

Four persons were injured in an explosion at Manitoba Pool Elevator No. 6 Oct. 8, 1956.

PC WHO BEAT

ture out into the February cold to hear him speak, in a large rural constituency.

GOOD CONTRAST

He was flamboyant, loud and jovial and not adverse to sitting up late at night to share drinks with newspaper men and friends. His opponent was almost the exact opposite—aloof, cautious and abstemious.

Party supporters said later that the byelection was won not by two army officers just back from overseas who said in several speeches on behalf of Mr. Case that the Canadian Army was desperately short of rein-forcements. They attacked Gen. McNaughton and the government for refusing to take drastic action to raise them.

One of the officers was Major George Hees, now federal transport minister.

Mr. Case, a York County farm boy, was educated in Aurora and at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. He left the land to go into business.

IN FLYING CORPS

After being rejected three times as medically unfit in the First World War he finally was accepted by the Royal Flying Corps and served two years before his discharge in 1919 with a 30-percent pension.

For three years he was in charge of the Independent Grain Growers Association co-operative at Imperial, Sask. He moved to Owen Sound and became branch manager of an insurance company. He was mayor there from 1942 to 1945 and served on his municipal council and many public boards.

He was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate in the Dufferin riding of Dufferin-Simcoe in 1930 and brought the Liberal nomination in Grey North in 1940.

But when he reached Ottawa in 1945 as a PC he received a celebrity. In his maiden speech he said he had a direct mandate from the people to hold the government responsible for its acts of power politics. He was returned by acclamation in the general election later that year.

Gen. McNaughton, on the other hand, lost as a CCFer in Saskatchewan and subsequently resigned his portfolio.

NATIONAL AMBITIONS

Mr. Case offered himself for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party when John Bracken retired in 1942 but withdrew before the convention. He chose George Drew, then Ontario premier.

In 1949, Mr. Case was defeated in Grey North by Liberal Colin Emmers and moved to a farm near Clarksburg. He contested the riding again in 1953 without success.

Five years ago he moved to Collingwood. He operated a real estate business in both Collingwood and Clarksburg.

Deputy reeve of Collingwood in 1957-58, he was beaten by a close friend, Julian Ferguson, former

'Undercurrent of Anxiety' Shapes up in Trade Talks

By DAVID OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth trade and finance ministers Wednesday had "candid, frank and extremely useful" talks on trading blocs now shaping up in Europe, but failed to reach any agreement on possible action to deal with them.

Conference sources said there was an "undercurrent of anxiety" as the ministers from Commonwealth countries and British colonies studied reports on the British and French - led groupings.

The topic proved to be the most contentious of the final session of the Commonwealth Economic Consultative Council.

Major concerns were that a trade war would break out between the two groups, wrecking hopes of freer world exchanges of goods, and that the proposed MP for Simcoe North, for the mayoralty last December.

McNAUGHTON "SORRY"

In Ottawa Wednesday, Gen. McNaughton, now Canadian co-chairman of the International Joint Commission, said he was "indeed sorry" to hear of his old opponent's death and extended deepest sympathy to his family.

Survivors include his wife, the former Eda Bowman, and three daughters, Mrs. William Benson, Toronto; Mrs. J. A. Langwell, Oshawa, and Mrs. A. Gardhouse, Sault Ste. Marie.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the Thompson Funeral Home at Aurora with burial in Aurora Cemetery.

Pearson Calls For Consideration Of Soviet Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson has called for serious consideration by the Western powers of Premier Joseph Khrushchev's disarmament proposal.

The Liberal leader discussed the plan, as outlined before the United Nations, in an address to the Women's Canadian Club Tuesday.

The text of Mr. Pearson's speech, issued to the press in advance, quoted him as saying Premier Khrushchev's proposal is "more double talk. . . ."

Later his office said that due to a typing error the text had made this remark read as an assertion when it should have been a question.

What he said:

"Is it merely double talk, out of double think, based on a double standard, tone for Communist and one for non-Communist? Or is it a double bluff?

"There are passages and proposals in the speech that would justify these conclusions and its dismissal as mere propaganda — rather but unscrupulous — aimed particularly at the Asians and Africans."

But, he said, it would be stupid and dangerous for the West simply to dismiss the disarmament plan as "hypocritical nonsense and deceitful propaganda." Such a course would play into Soviet hands.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, September 25, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Be sure in A.M. to get early start on sales and deliveries, after you have everything adjusted harmoniously at home. P.M. go to some new and inspiring place for a delightful evening of fun and frolic. Be gay.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Greater efficiency is possible in all labors, travelling, etc., in A.M., but it is imperative you use every caution, too. Choose your words well, too. P.M. is excellent for visiting with good pals, whether close by or at a distance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Money and real estate affairs should be considered and handled properly during A.M. See where you can increase income and cut down on expenditures. P.M. be off to some favorite hobby that most pleases you. Have a fine time.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21)—While you are desirous of having others follow your ideas today, you realize that it will be a pretty expensive business. Await a better time. P.M. is then ideal for being out socially with whomever you enjoy the most.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Here is a day when you are feeling so constricted and unhappy you want to break up existing conditions at all cost. Think twice before taking any action, then follow through with decisions made. P.M. fine for quiet relaxation.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Don't permit that overly excited person or that other egotistical one to disturb your tranquility today. Sidestep them and go about your own affairs vigorously. P.M. have a very good time with closest comrades. Be cheerful.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Gambling on anything that might jeopardize your security or good name is unwise right now. P.M. there is chance to be with powerful person who will give you the backing you need.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—A little trip to a pleasant site for a gathering with clan or friends can only be successful if you put your heart and soul into it. Much information can then be gleaned that will help you start an upswing in your affairs.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Be certain you do not make commitments that are beyond your power to fulfill. Be very adroit and high-principled, too. P.M. is fine for any business affairs that are important and later for romantic leanings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Associates may be so concerned with their own ideas and interests that it is necessary you speak up, though with tact, right now or you will lose out on just benefits. P.M. is good for discussions, owing to better understanding.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—You appear to be completely swamped with your work, in a hopeless morass, but you work diligently and efficiently today, you realize it is not half so bad as you think. Work with method. P.M. be of service to others.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Morning finds you unable to make improvements you desire, or plan for the future as you would like, but before nightfall, all is ameliorated and you can make up for lost time. P.M. go out for a pleasurable time. Smile.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will have so much energy for doing things, as well as so much love in his, or her, nature, that everyone will be kept pretty busy with this little bundle of energy. Her's is a fine heart for the trouble shooter, the psychologist or psychiatrist. The later life then is one of great ease, philosophy, charm and inspiration to younger element.

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mrs. Fred Edmondson has returned home from hospital after undergoing surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray spent Saturday in Peterborough visiting Mrs. Ray's brother, Mr. R. Wallman, who has been ill.

Mrs. Edgar Ray, Mrs. Fred Aikens, Mrs. R. Hart and Mrs. R. Edmondson attended the Woman's Association Rally at Trenton on Wednesday.

Rally day and promotion Sunday were observed at Centenary Church on Sunday with a good attendance.

Mr. Fred Aikens and Mr. Frank Aikens, Belleville, are enjoying a six weeks' fishing trip to Chalk River.

Sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Knetsier in the passing of her husband, on Sunday.

Millions of Britons Sit By Radios Each Week to Get Football Games Results

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Every Saturday evening from August to April, millions of Britons sit by their radio, with pencils poised to copy the day's football results.

Some of them have never been near a soccer field. Their interest in the outcome of the league championship is strictly incidental to making money.

They are the faithful customers of a thriving British industry—the football pools—hardly assessing their chances of coming up with a winning line on their weekly coupon.

MAMMOTH BUSINESS

Last season they contributed nearly £30,000,000 to the pool companies, which paid out 30 per cent of the take in taxes, kept 20 per cent for themselves and distributed the rest in cash prizes.

The big money goes to the winners of the eight-match, treble-chance pool, in which the customer tries to forecast which of the 64 Saturday games in the English and Scottish Leagues will result in draws.

The only things necessary are a pool coupon containing a list of 55 scheduled matches, a pencil and a money order for the desired stake money. Knowledge of the form of the teams isn't vital. It may be helpful or it may just confuse the issue.

Stakes vary, but the largest pool promoters set a penny minimum for the points pool and twopence for the treble chance. The average stake is about five shillings, but there is no limit to the amount that may be wagered.

In the treble - chance pool the customer fills in circles opposite the eight matches he chooses—he can make as many forecasts as his stake money allows—and mails the coupon, keeping a copy for himself. Then he sits back to await developments.

When the Saturday scores come through, he gives himself three points for every chosen match that ends in a tie. If the visiting side wins, he gets two points. For a home victory, he gets 1½.

TOP SCORE IS 34

A perfect score of 34 points for eight draws guarantees him his share of the first-prize money, to be split with any other centres matching his total. Lesser prizes go to the four next-best scorers.

Occasionally the results can be spectacular. Last season a Belfast man won more than £300,000 when he was the only contestant to achieve a top score.

The customer can also go after lesser prizes for correctly predicting the outcome of six selected matches, for picking three draws, four victories by visiting teams or a variety of other specifications including matches in which the teams are tied at half-time as well as at the final whistle.

The biggest pool company employs a staff of 10,000 to check its coupons in four halls the size of aircraft hangars. It takes the company until the following Wednesday to determine the winning entries and compute their share of the prize money.

An estimated 18,000,000 Britons try their luck in the pools at least once a season, of whom 10,000,000 are regulars. The only legal restriction is a ban on contestants under 21, a regulation that doesn't prevent thousands of minors from submitting entries in the name of a parent or an adult friend.

Radio Program Irked Aussies

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto freelance writer provoked a storm of angry telephone calls Tuesday night when she appeared on a CBC radio program and said she "loathed every minute" of a trip to Australia.

Mrs. Margaret Teel of Toronto had barely left the air when the CBC switchboard was swamped with 100 calls, mostly from Australians living here.

Mrs. Teel was interviewed on the program Assignment about the adventures of herself and her husband in Australia. They toured a kangaroo on a 1,000-mile, 10-month expedition.

She said her main objection to Australia was its "lack of civilization" and the attitude of the people toward civilization. Mrs. Teel described conditions in rural areas as "ghastly—I mean they just live like natives."

Gore

GORE — Rally Day in connection with the Sunday schools of the charge was observed on Sunday with the Rev. H. Kippen bringing the message for the day. Al Victoria, the junior choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, and the teacher, Mrs. Adams, was especially enjoyed.

Mrs. A. Porter spent an afternoon with Mrs. Harry Porter at Chapman's, recently.

Liberal Leader Says K's Visit Is Dangerous

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—John Wintermeyer, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, said Tuesday that Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States is dangerous to the free world because it gives the Soviet leader the best propaganda platform he could ask for.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the real issue in the cold war is being clouded. The visit was playing up the material advance of the Soviet Union and the moral differences between communism and democracy was being ignored.

The Soviet premier was putting forward the argument that Russia could outdistance the West in production. Naturally a controlled state could produce more. People were getting the wrong idea of the difference between communism and the free enterprise system.

Prime Minister Of Ceylon Shot, Critically Injured

State of Emergency Declared in Country

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike was shot and critically wounded today by a gunman attired in the yellow robes of a Buddhist priest.

A state of emergency was proclaimed.

Doctors removed three bullets from the 60-year-old prime minister's body. A medical source said the shots penetrated his liver and lungs. Four pints of blood were given him. Ceylon radio broadcast appeals for additional blood.

The assassin, shot in the knee by a security guard, escaped. His case, also was in hospital. They was no hint as to his motive.

Bandaranaike forgave him and appealed "to all to show compassion for this fallen brother."

Bandaranaike was converted to Buddhism from Christianity. A Buddhist priest who rose to power in the 1956 elections after campaigning on a nationalist platform, he had been ruling with only a shaky one-vote majority in parliament since May, when his leftist coalition broke up.

CONFIDENT SECRETARY

In a broadcast, Governor-General Sir Oliver Goonetilke reported that the prime minister had been on the operating table five hours, that his condition was "extremely grave" but "satisfactory," but that he could not be interviewed. He appointed Mr. Bassain gave his name as Talduwe Somarama Thero, 43, and said he had been ordained at the government hospital in Colombo for Eastern-style medicine.

In the wild confusion that followed the shooting outside the premier's residence, the assailant was stabbed and severely assaulted by a crowd of people. He was arrested and whisked off to police headquarters.

Police said that between 9:30 a.m. and 9:45 a.m., two men left the robes of Buddhist priests called at the prime minister's home and asked to see him.

Bandaranaike greeted them. After they had talked, the prime minister took leave of them by bowing. As he was about to bid farewell to the priests, they whipped a .45-calibre revolver from under his robes and fired point blank.

Two bullets hit the prime minister's head and neck.

Rushed to the hospital, Bandaranaike asked for his wife, appeared to be calm, and said he forgave his assailant.

Bandaranaike had been due to leave for New York Monday to address the United Nations General Assembly. He planned later visits to London, Paris and Rome.

Bandaranaike came to power in April 1956 a year after Ceylon got its independence as a member of the Commonwealth. He headed a coalition that broke from the far left to middle-of-the-road politicians.

After he became prime minister, Britain gave up her air and naval bases and left him with the Ceylonese leader's campaign promises.

The coalition fell apart last April when Bandaranaike moved out of the cabinet, Bandaranaike retained power, although—supported by left and right—he was a minority of elected members.

Ceylon's cabinet ministers are appointed by the government gave him a one-vote margin over the 59 opposition members.

ALL-JET TRAINING MAY BE IN CARDS FOR RCAF PILOTS

No Piston Engines Would Be Used

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF again is giving serious consideration to the introduction of all-jet training.

The air force last some interest in this matter when the government early this year cancelled the Arrow supersonic jet interceptor program.

But since then the administration has decided on manufacture in Canada of the American Lockheed Starfighter, a supersonic jet to be employed as a strike and reconnaissance plane in the RCAF air division in Europe.

Under the present training system, pilots do their first flying on the light Chipmunk, then graduate on to piston-engine Harvard before going on to the CF-100 jet trainer.

All-jet training would mean that a pilot would make his first flights in a jet trainer—something simpler than the T-33—and so all his flying in jets from command on join.

An RCAF spokesman said the air force is interested in the Canadair CL-41 jet trainer as well as other trainer aircraft available but that no decision has been reached on the most suitable aircraft.

The RCAF has given close consideration to the RAF's experiences in all-jet training.

The RAF has found, for instance, that a pupil's limitations are detected earlier when he flies a jet trainer, that a higher standard of flying is reached in less time and that pilots are better fitted to "unlearn" piston techniques when they finally start flying jets.

Nikita And Ike Ready To Stage Fateful Debate

After Circus of Tour Comes Quiet Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev prepared to leave the capital today for a quiet mountain retreat for a fateful weekend debate. Each will try to persuade the other to change his government's policy in the interest of peace.

Khrushchev, after a remarkable and hectic tour of the United States, indicates he has not retreated an inch from his blunt accusation that American policy created and preserved the cold war.

President Eisenhower is pictured as hopeful that the tour had some impact upon the Soviet leader which might induce him to listen more receptively to U.S. and Communist arguments.

PRIVATE LOCALE

The two get down to man-to-man talks this weekend in the privacy of the presidential retreat, Camp David retreat in the Catoctin Mountains, 60 miles southwest of Washington. The two will talk until Sunday about disarmament, divided Germany, nuclear weapons and other issues that keeping the world's nerves on edge.

Khrushchev ended his east-to-west tour with the same note of persistent challenge he sounded at the outset. He called Communism the proof of good intentions is upon the U.S.

This was his theme at a dinner in Washington attended by a group of leading businessmen Thursday night. The dinner, given by Eric Kidder, publisher of the New York Journal of Commerce, was private, but those present quoted Khrushchev as saying:

"If the United States really means disarmament, one would doubt its sincerity. It would put its money to work."

WANTS TO BUY

This, for Khrushchev, is one of his favorite problems. At other, he made plain, will be American military bases in the U.S.S.R., anything or everything, regardless of any item's possible value for building a war machine. Informants said he put it this way:

"I don't want to live in peace with you. We want to trade with you. We want to buy from you. It is a litmus paper (chemical test) to indicate whether you want to live with us."

Khrushchev, in contrast to his performances in some others of his stops across the country, was to have remained reserved and unruffled throughout the dinner, attended by two dozen Soviet and American executives. At least some of the guests came away deeply impressed.

ONE-WAY DEAL

"He's interested in peace at no price, on his terms," commented Maj.-Gen. David Sarnoff, board chairman of Radio Corporation of America. He said he had noted no fundamental change in Khrushchev's attitude since his arrival 10 days ago.

"He wants a trade, but on his terms," said Charles H. Percy, president of Bell and Howell Company. "To me, it's completely a one-way street."

Khrushchev's weekend plans for a visit this morning to the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md. His only other scheduled activity today is a luncheon as a guest of State Secretary Christian Herter.

Khrushchev hurtailed his U.S. visit by a pilot late Thursday from Pittsburgh, still a study in human energy, ready to take on

Labor Outpointing Conservatives In Use of TV in Electioneering

LONDON (CP) — A jury of mixed political views agreed today that the opposition Labor party is outpointing the Conservatives in its use of television as a vote-catcher for the Oct. 8 general election.

Labor party campaign broadcasts have won praise from newspapers as "slick and effective" for smoothness, timeliness and general technical excellence.

Opinions vary as to the extent of the probable effect on the voting. Most of the experts still predict that Prime Minister Macmillan will be returned to power with a comfortable majority. But there are signs of restlessness among some of his supporters.

Two reasons are generally advanced for labor's broadcasting superiority: The availability of experienced TV talent to direct their activities, and a vigorous, hard-hitting approach.

Labor's TV strategists have spent 18 months in planning their organization which is geared to give alternations in a program up to five minutes before broadcast time.

The Conservatives have been unable to match labor in talent or flexibility. They are handicapped by the inevitable overall strategy of running on their record, with emphasis on prosperity and general contentment.

Critics argue that a campaign of this kind may make political broadcasts doesn't produce appealing TV programs.

'Shoe' Shrieked In Gull Talk Causes Big Flap

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—The seagull United States Navy ridding itself of seagulls by telling them to "get the hell out of here" in their own language.

That is the exact translation offered by a navy spokesman after he heard a shrieking tape - recorded gull call, designed to drive the birds away from the supply depot here.

The translation may be more navy than sea gull—but it apparently works.

Two amateur bird chasers by the names of H. Palmer Starner and Barnard Stocking showed up Thursday with their tape recorder.

They hooked it up to a public address system and an earshattering "SQUAWK" resounded around the base.

While all this was going on an admiral stood on an eight-story building, and reported that the birds were "gone there," according to a public information officer.

The plan was without guile for two white hours. Then, perhaps a little bewildered, they flew back. The navy expected them.

Apparently, the noise was to be repeated every few hours to keep the gulls away.

Price of Milk Likely to Rise Cent a Quart

TORONTO (CP)—The price of a quart of milk in Ontario will likely be increased by one cent in the latter part of October.

Ontario Dairy Commissioner Owen Biggs said today that's when milk distributors will begin paying farmers an added 19 cents a hundredweight for fluid milk.

He said distributors have an agreement with producers which is based on an economic formula that takes into account the general wholesale price index, labor costs commodities and services used by farmers, and the price of chemical-condensed milk and butterfat.

The last increase in the price of milk was in October of 1957. The present price of a quart of milk delivered in the Toronto area is 24 cents.

Believed 16 Killed in Crash On Aleutian Isle

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A commercial airliner with 16 persons aboard crashed on an island in the Aleutian Island Thursday night. A search pilot reported no sign of life at the wreckage.

The plane, a DC-4 of the Reeves Aleutian Airlines, crashed at the 2,000-foot level of a mountain on Great Sitkin Island.

A navy pilot located the wreckage and reported the plane appeared to have been badly battered. The coast guard sent a tug with a ground party to the isolated island.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Pleasant sunny weather prevails over most of Ontario although a considerable high cloudiness is in evidence over southwestern Ontario. This high cloud marks the eastern edge of an extensive area of weather which has brought rain and showers to the American midwest. The rain area is expected to move into the Lake Superior area tonight while some light precipitation may effect the more southerly parts of Ontario.

Hardrock Miners Work Around Clock to Dig Pit for Titan

VANDENBERG BASE, Calif. (AP)—You'd think they were digging a hole to hell—but it's really a search for space.

There will be times when the hole is a veritable inferno.

Smoke and dust and ear-splitting thunder will roll forth, then unsuspecting observers.

Its mission may be the destruction of an entire city. Or it may seek only to scour the skies in quest of new knowledge for man.

The digging really starts. It is called Titan, because of its size. And hardrock miners, toiling around the clock at this west coast missile base, are digging a hole for the ocean-spanning missile:

Forty feet across and 150 feet deep, the hole will be ready for occupancy by the end of January.

The hole, called a silo because it is used for storage of the 90-foot missile, is the key part of the $8,000,000 pit. Three big smaller holes have been dug nearby, for storage of the fuel, the oxygen and control instruments.

When finished, this will be the United States' first underground missile launching site—"the missile, which has a record of four successes in five firings from Cape Canaveral on Cape Canaveral, Fla., is expected to be operational here in mid-1962.

Titan sites are buried underground to protect them from attack.

Working 24 hours a day in three shifts of at least 11 men each, miners dug the first concrete pour of four holes and connecting tunnels with hand tools. Increased use of machinery on the second complete cut the number of men on each shift to 14, but work still goes on around the clock.

PLANE CRASHES NEAR BORDEAUX, 53 ARE KILLED

12 Thrown Clear But Terribly Burned

BORDEAUX, France (AP)—A French airliner bound for Africa crashed and exploded within minutes of takeoff Thursday night, killing 53 of the 65 persons aboard.

It was the worst tragedy ever in the history of French airline.

Three children were among the 12 survivors thrown clear before the four-engined DC-7 burst into flames in a pine woods. Most were badly injured.

The plane made a scheduled two-hour stopover in Bordeaux after a flight from Paris on a regular trip to the French Sudan and the Ivory Coast.

Officials of the privately owned Air Transport Ayrtes Interoceantenti airline, operators of the aircraft, said several prominent African politicians were aboard.

Among the survivors was Sekou Toure, health minister of the French Cameroons. Most of the passengers were French. Airline officials said a few Britons were aboard but there was no immediate indication of whether any other nationalities were on the flight.

The plane plunged into the forest two miles from Bordeaux-Merignac airport just before midnight after a shaky takeoff.

The pilot appeared to have difficulty gaining altitude.

"I could hear the engines coughing," said a spectator at the airport. "The pilot seemed to be fighting for control. He made several attempts to get the plane's nose up but the plane just wobbled. It hooked the tops of trees and then plowed into the forest."

There was a tremendous roar when the plane blew up. We could see two immense balls of fire."

Premier Opens 60,000 H.P. Station on Kaministikwia R.

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Premier Frost pushed a button at a new Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission generating station today to send 60,000 horsepower surging through northern lines.

The $16,500,000 Silver Falls station on the Kaministikwia River, 30 miles northwest of here, took 27½ years to build. It raises Ontario Hydro power in the northwestern region to 220,000 horsepower.

More than 400 men worked on the project, which included boring a two-mile tunnel through a granite ridge separating the lake and little dog lake.

Hydro Chairman James S. Duncan, speaking at the opening ceremonies, called it "an engineering project of unusual complexity."

The Silver Falls station was the ninth new source of power brought into commission in the area since 1945.

He listed seven new hydraulic sites now under investigation by Ontario Hydro, which would add another 200,000 kilowatts of power.

In addition, a thermal station is being constructed at Thunder Bay with an ultimate capacity of 1,000,000 kilowatts.

He said it was likely that future requirements would be provided by additional thermal plants, "some of which will no doubt be powered by nuclear energy."

The Silver Falls station will be operated by remote control. An operator at the Port Arthur transformer station 30 miles away can start up the generator, bring it up to power and put it on the line by simply pressing a button.

Engineers used a new Swedish-developed excavation technique to sink shafts deep into the earth during construction.

Canada Wants Small, Middle Powers to Have Say in Disarmament Issue in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada has stepped out in the United Nations to demand that the middle and smaller powers have a say in disarmament, the crucial issue in the 14th General Assembly.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green made this clear in his major policy speech Thursday when he stressed that Canada, as a member of a new 10 - power disarmament committee, will use its influence to keep the committee "in touch with the rest at all times."

Disarmament was swept into the diplomatic stratosphere by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal last week that the whole world abolish armaments holus-bolus by the end of four years.

Norway, Cuba and Ghana joined Canada in saying that smaller countries must be consulted and informed of big-power decisions through the UN or other channels.

"Clearly the middle and smaller powers must have an opportunity of being heard for disarmament is of the deepest concern to all mankind," said Green.

Mr. Green also called for a worldwide study of radiation. He said Canada would present a proposal it was hoped would encourage the worldwide collection of more accurate data on radiation.

On another subject, Green said Canada, as a special contributor to the World Refugee Year, will lay down migration laws and submit a "sunstantial sum" of money to governments and their families from European camps.

Queried about this later he said:

"We'll certainly take 100 families and perhaps more."

In his speech Green said:

"This group will be brought to Canada and treated in sanatoria at Canadian expense. Furthermore, a family unable to support itself while a member is under treatment will receive maintenance payments. It is my hope that this first refugees effected will reach Canada by the end of this year."

Green, in discussing disarmament, recognized that it was felt the 10-power negotiating committee—which has parity between East and West—has less connection with the UN than some countries would wish. It was the creation of the United States, Britain, France and Russia, with the UN disarmament commission "coming in" its creation.

Green said Canada is willing to play a role of assisting in any disarmament moves, while insisting that the committee be linked closely with the UN.

The activities of the committee are intended not to replace but to supplement the responsibilities of the UN in the field of disarmament," he said.

Canadian experts were working on proposals, and the ministry hoped to have some definite plan for presentation at the current UN session — but in any case before the next meeting at Geneva early in 1960.

Green said Canada agrees in principle with Khrushchev's expressed ideal of total disarmament, but sees more immediate hope in the proposals of Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, which link disarmament, control and inspection.

Questioned at a press conference after his speech, Green declined comment.

"The essence of control is the right of inspection," he said.

"If they don't, they can find many ways to block it."

Green's disarmament remarks seemed to stress as much attention on observing other UN ambassadors as other features of his speech, in which he called on the assembly to establish a world-wide system of collecting information on radiation from fallout from nuclear tests.

In another small - power development, Ireland sounded out UN members Thursday on their support for a demand during the General Assembly brand Red China violator of human rights in Tibet.

Kingston Freman Suspended for Insubordination

KINGSTON (CP) — John H. McKinnon, 37, a fireman for eight years and president of the Kingston Firemen's Association, was suspended indefinitely Thursday for "insubordination."

Aldermen G. M. Leach said the action was taken after a statement was issued by Mr. McKinnon which he objected to council's decision to discontinue the city's five alarm call box system.

Mr. McKinnon termed the move "a step backward" and disregard for the life and property." He said he issued his statement with the full endorsement of the labor council executive. The executive immediately called an emergency meeting to discuss the suspension.

Council said it is suspending the call box service because less than two per cent of the fire calls received through the boxes. It costs the city an average $1,000 a call.
